A. S. Lambdin, an instructor at Connecticut college lodged complaint with the police late this afternoon because of the reckless operation of an automobile on Mohegan avenue that threatened the safety of pedestrians. The car, a Hudson, and bearing Connecticut registration, X-1[illegible], was driven back and forth through the avenue at a rate of speed estimated at between 45 and 50 miles an hour. Mr. Lambdin desired the arrest of the driver of the car and furnished Dr. Frank Morris, connecti[illegible] the college, as a witness of the alleged reckless driving.

Clyde R. Getchell of 613 Williams street was found later to have been the driver of the car [illegible] recklessly through the street and he was arrested and will be [illegible] court tomorrow. The [illegible] him is said [illegible] nature.

The bicycle store of James H. Ames on Bank street, has been robbed more than a score of times, probably or at least it has been broken into at night and on Sundays that many times. It was robbed last night and several boys who are guilty of theft will be in the juvenile court Friday. That day will not be a very "good" Friday for them, as the evidence against them is positive. A couple of air rifles such as were stolen from the Ames store were found in their possession. This evening Lieut. Beebe, of the police force had the boys closeted with him and he made an effort to ascertain whether they had companions in their thieving. The boys were last night turned over to Probation Officer Mansfield, that they may be cared for properly till they are presented in court Friday. A police officer who has been at work on this case, and on others declared that the boys were inspired by motion pictures, that they saw acts on the screen and became possessed of an idea that they could do the stunts they had there seen enacted.

The police and the naval authorities at the submarine base are looking for a couple of sailors who, this afternoon, committed thefts near the base. Herbert Cook, a sailor on submarine S-3 complained that when he parked his Ford car 271-716, Massachusetts registration, at the base today two sailors stole a wheel and spare tire from the car and placing them in an old delapidated car they had at hand made off with the stolen property. They also took the number plate of the Cook car, that they might travel with it as their own.

At the First Baptist church this evening there was a Masonic observance which does not occur every year and indeed has not been celebrated in this city in the past, it is said. The feats of the Paschal Lamb, is being observed under the direction of Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix and all the Royal Arch Masons of this district are in attendance. The visitors came from Norwich soon after 7 o'clock and here they were joined by members of that rank of Masonry. It is incumbent upon all members to attend this service unless unable because of serious illness. The ceremony is after the form of the communion service of the Christian church. Members of the Royal Arch had the privilege of inviting guests to the church was well filled. The ceremony is a beautiful one and was very impressive.

It is regarded as among the certain things that the city council will make a move next fall to secure the permanent improvement of many of the streets of the city, the fact having become apparent that to make [illegible] on the highways as has been [illegible] in the past is a waste of [illegible]. The talk now is that a fund be set aside or taken from a fund already in hand for the permanent improvement of a section or sections of the city way every year instead of patching streets, as is, now the custom. It is pointed out that the pavements are maintained almost without any repair. Water street and Main street, Broad and Methodist streets are cited as examples of the economy of permanently improved streets. At present there are spots in the Belgian pavement on Bank street where the blocks have sunk and they are being put in place again but that is the only repair the pavement has had in years except in such places as the paving has been taken up for the laying of water or gas mains, and where the blocks were not properly replaced.

There is a good deal of talk as to what the city is to do to provide additional school accommodation for children. The board of school visitors represented to the citizens that the school buildings were not adequate to accommodate the children, notwithstanding that representation the citizens went to the polls and voted down an appropriation for a junior high school. If there was congested condition in the school buildings then it has not since been relieved. It is believed that agitation for more school buildings is coming and that it will have its origin in the board of school visitors. There has been no move[illegible] made in that direction so far as the general public is aware, but it is understood to be in the making.

The stores of the city will be closed very generally Friday, in observance of the proclamation issued by the governor. Many of the stores will be open for business in the forenoon, but the afternoon will find them generally closed.

Two young bank clerks are said to have lost their positions because of their laxity in accepting notes that were offered at the bank without proper investigation as to the responsibility of the maker. Conditions have become such now in the banks that more than usual caution is taken to see that credit paper is such as can be made use of without any question.

An automobile owned and operated by Peter Sleakowski, 115 Huntington street, struck, Helen Wachecky, 8, of 28 North Bank street, late this afternoon when the machine was operated through the latter street. The child was standing on the walk and just before the car passed she jumped to the highway and was hurled to the macadam. Patrolman Braxton Hill caused the child to be assisted to her home, where an examination of her body revealed injuries no more serious than severe scratches and bruises.

MYSTIC

Due to the fact that raising flags in all conditions of wind and weather results in their wearing out quickly, also due to the amount of time consumed in attending to this matter, the custodians of the flags used in the liberty pole in East Main street have decided to confine the raising of the flag to holidays and special occasions, doing away with the custom that has prevailed for some time of raising the flag at half mast on the day of burial of residents of the village. The new flags recently purchased for use on the flag pole consist of a large flag and a small one, the latter being used as a storm flag. The first time the new storm flag was used happened to be a very windy day and several inches were torn from it so that it had to be mended; therefore it is deemed advisable to make the change in regard to raising the flag so frequently. It is planned to use the new large flag for the first time Memorial Day.

There are undoubtedly those who wish to see the flag raised for all occasions and who consider the flag and flag pole community property, to be used for the benefit of all alike, but the work of raising and lowering the flag takes time and those who attend to this work do it gratuitously, therefore too much should not be expected of them, also the maintaining of the flagpole and the purchase of flags is due to the interest and generosity of a limited number of people and to the various patriotic organizations of the village. If it is the desire of the community that the flag be raised every day and for all occasions there should be a permanent fund established for this purpose, of sufficient amount to provide compensation for the work of attending to this matter and for the maintenance of the flags and flag pole in proper condition at all times.

Waist and Hips Reduced Quickly with New Kind of Girdle

The moment you put on this new kind of girdle your waist and hips look inches thinner—and you get this while looking this, for this new invention produces the same results as an expert masseur. Makes fat vanish with surprising rapidity while you walk, play, work or sleep, yet does it so gently that you hardly know it is there. No more heart-straining exercises—no more dangerous starving diets—no more harmful medicines—no more bitter self-denials.

At last! A wonderful new scientific girdle that improves your appearance immediately and reduces your waist and hips almost "while you wait!" The instant you put on the new girdle the bulky fat on the waist and hips seems to vanish, the waist-line lengthens, and your body becomes erect, graceful, youthfully slender! And then—with every step you make, with every breath you take, with every little motion, this new kind of girdle gently massages away the disfiguring useless fat—and you look and feel many years younger!

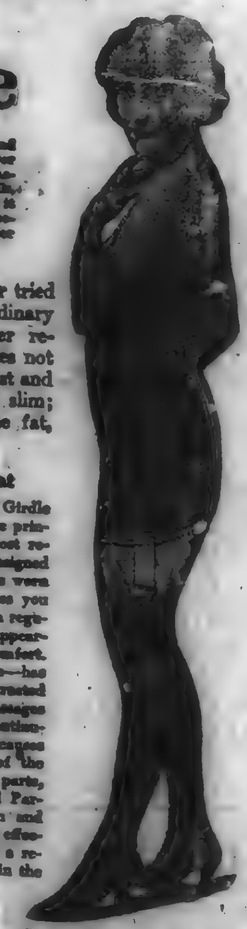
Look More Slender At Once!

Think of it—no more protruding abdomen—no more heavy bulging hips. By means of this new invention, known as the Madame X Reducing Girdle, you can look more slender immediately! You don't have to wait until the fat is gone in order to appear slim and youthful! You actually look thin while getting thin! It ends forever the need for stiff corsets and gives you with comfort Fashion's straight boyish lines!

The Madame X Reducing Girdle is different from anything else you've seen or tried—far different from ordinary special corsets or other reducing methods. It does not merely draw in your waist and make you appear more slim; it actually takes off the fat, gently but surely!

Actually Reduces Fat

The Madame X Reducing Girdle is built upon scientific massage principles. It is made of the most resilient rubber—especially designed for reducing purposes—and is worn over the undergarment. Gives you the same slim appearance as a regular corset without the stiff appearance and without any discomfort. Fits as snugly as a kid glove—has garters attached—and so constructed that it touches and gently massages every portion of the surface continually! The constant massage causes a more vigorous circulation of the blood, not only through these parts, but throughout the entire body! Particularly around the abdomen and hips, this gentle massage is so effective that it often brings about a remarkable reduction in weight in the first few days.



The Madame X Reducing Girdle takes the place of stiff corsets and gives you with comfort Fashion's straight boyish lines. Makes you look and feel years younger.

These who have worn it say you feel like a new person when you put on the Madame X Reducing Girdle. You'll look better and feel better.

You'll be surprised how quickly you'll be able to walk, dance, climb, indulge in outdoor sports.

Come In And See The Madame X Reducing Girdle

You can't appreciate how marvelous the Madame X Reducing Girdle really is until you actually see and examine it. And this you can easily do. We invite you to call at our corset shop today and learn all about this easy and pleasant way of becoming fashionably slender.

EGGS LOSING THEIR PLACE AS A STANDBY

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

"Bayseville, Ky., April 1— Eggs have become so cheap in this section that farmers have quit taking time from their planting to gather them, according to reports today. When the quotation dropped to 10 cents a dozen farmers began giving them to produce truck drivers, if they would gather them." Dispatch in New York daily paper.

That same day New York city people who wanted fresh eggs paid from 43 to 50 cents a dozen for them,—an average of 46 cents.

That is, they paid ten cents a dozen for eggs and thirty-six cents a dozen for having them handed to them; ten cents for the omelette and thirty-six cents for "tip" to the waiter.

If that isn't putting the cart before the horse and standing an egg on its little end, what would be?

Yet the poor mutts who make up the consuming public of New York city hug themselves with their own arms and pat themselves on the back with their own hands and smugly assure an amused but somewhat incredulous universe that they are the very select first-born of "Progress,"—with a big "P," please,—and the nearest to all right of anything on this imperfect sphere!

It is by such details that the philosophic mind is able to get a bearing on what passes for "business acumen" with the big-city mob.

It apparently means the deliberate befogging and complicating of as simple a proceeding as the buying of a dozen eggs; the bemiring it in such a wallow of interferences and hindrances: the pursuing it up so many back alleys and down so many blind passages that the eggs grow stale and both buyer and seller get tired out and are willing to let "business acumen" collect to its own profit thirty-six cents out of every forty-six spent.

This, of course, seems very fine to the apostles of Big Business. It is quite in accord with their Golden Rule, which reads, "Do the other fellow before he can do you." It is in strict obedience to their Decalogue, which boils all ten commandments down into one: "Get money; honestly if you can, but—get money."

It would be explicable, at any rate, if it would be comprehensible, if this were an imposition loaded by an all-powerful majority on the shoulders of an impotent minority. But the facts are just the other way. It is the majority, overwhelming in numbers, in wealth and in lawful power, which supinely accepts the dictation of a pitiful minority. It is a hundred and ten million producers and consumers who daily and hourly come to heel behind two or three million dog-drivers of the markets, and take with canine servility, as full payment for everything, the few morsels which their 'contemptuous' masters, finding too tough for their own teeth or too insipid for their own tastes, carelessly fling to them.

Why?

Oh, dearest, don't ask such questions, and expect them to be answered! Content yourself with comparatively simple inquiries, such as concern the whyness of which or the applicability of Einstein's theory to the movements of the potato-bugs. But, in the name of common fairness, don't expect anything short of a past-master archangel to explain the meanderings of human idiocy!

It is, perhaps, possible to find out why a moth keeps himping into the candle-flame till at last his wings burn off. It may, sometime, be discovered why no dead elephant has ever yet been found in African jungle or Asian rukh. It may even be ascertained why the man in the moon wanted to know the way to Norwich. —But all these and many similar problems will have to be settled before any audacious investigator presumes to tackle the question why human nature is so persistently thick-headed and wrong-hearted.

One thing in this egg matter stands out with what seems to me self-evident plainness. That is the fact that a dozen eggs, if they are worth only ten cents to the egg producer, are not worth forty-six cents to the egg consumer. Or, on the other hand, if they are worth forty-six cents to the consumer, then they're worth a good deal more than ten cents to the producer.

You may talk till the cows come home, you'll never be able to persuade the man up a tree or the man down a well that it's really worth three and half times the value of an egg just to bring it from Kentucky to New York.

I believe some controversialist once "proved" that Napoleon Bonaparte never existed,—was just a myth. And Bishop Berkely once "proved" that there is no such thing as matter. Nevertheless Waterloo is still yielding bullets to the ploughman, and the man who stubs his toe against the bureau on a dark night is fairly convident that said bureau is harder than a mere spiritual concept.

There isn't a man on earth so stupid but knows that the real value of his breakfast bacon and eggs lies in the bacon and eggs, themselves, and not in any frills of service.

Yet he buys ten cent eggs for forty-six cents! Or sells forty-six cent eggs for ten cents!

And still persists in thinking that he's a reasoning, at least an intelligent being!

I don't wonder that the Kentucky farmers, whose spring is earlier than ours, and who are naturally busy in their fields, feel they can't afford to waste time gathering eggs for ten cents a dozen.

I can imagine an old farmer, plowing away at a big field half a mile from the house, being stopped about mid-afternoon by a sleek egg-speculator. "Got any eggs to sell?" he shouts. "Dun-no," answered Mr. Farmer. "What 're they worth?" "Oh, 'bout ten cents," calls back Mr. Speculator. Having imagined that conversation, I can easily imagine a little further, and see Mr. Farmer gather up his reins and give the whip to his mules and hear him answer, "No, I hav'n't got no eggs at that price and wouldn't have if the barn was full of 'em."

But to hear him respond, "Well, yes, I guess there's twenty or thirty dozen in the hen-house but I can't afford to go git 'em for you at that price. If you want 'em enough to pick 'em up go back and take all you can find;"—to hear him make any such utterly imbecile response is quite beyond the powers of a normal imagination. At least it was till that dispatch told how farmers around Baysville, Ky., were doing that very thing.

Can you beat it?

Because the exactions of a wickedly extravagant system of transportation, and the cravings of a never-satisfied profiteering gluttony combine to deprive him of a price for his eggs equal to the cost of their production, this astonishing Kentucky farmer gives 'em to the first representative of his spoilers,—for nothing! He actually gives them in charity to the rapacious hand whose one object and purpose is to beat him out of his fair dues.—That, I own up, is a little too stiff for even my imagination.

I could fancy him, after the chores were done and his pipe lighted, taking those eggs and throwing them, one by one, against the barn door for the fun of hearing them squish and seeing the yellow yoke spatter. I could imagine him taking them out to the garden and digging a shallow trench and spading them in, as fertilizer for a cucumber row. I could even imagine him letting the eggs get odoriferously ripe and then stationing his flock of tow-headed boys along the roadside to bombard the speculator's flivver therewith, on his next trip.

But to give them for nothing to the man who represented in his person the front rank of egg-banditry, in order to still further increase that banditry's ill-gotten gains,—good Lord, what next?

I'd as soon think of a fish deliberately jumping out on a gravel-bank when the water of his pool get too low to suit his taste. Or of a martyr at the stake pouring kerosene on the fire in which he was being roasted. Or of a man obligingly offering his own butcher-knife to the Apache torturer who was skinning him alive.

As a rule, in the past, eggs and butter have been the two products of the farms which have brought farmers somewhere in sight of the prices city consumers paid. It is evident, however, that they are tending to an equality of injustice with other farm prices.

"Better half a loaf than no bread," is on the lips of a good many people. Perhaps so. But I question whether it is conducive to fatness for any farmer to make a practice of living on the crusts which some strong arm, having first robbed him of his full loaf, contemptuously tosses back to him to quiet his whimpering.

For years canny farmers have stopped selling eggs when the price dropped below production costs, and have put the surplus down in waterglass. The recent discovery by the 40,000,000-egg farmers of Petaluma, Cal., that quick immersion of fresh eggs in hot paraffine gives them a coating which permits their being shipped quite around the world, is going to have some influence in keeping down egg prices during the non-laying season.

There will, doubtless, always be experts and favorites of luck who will do well with eggs. But it begins to look as if they were liable to fall as side-issue with the average farmer. They're losing their place as a standby to fall back on for a little ready money when major crops peter out.

Considering what the farmer has to pay for lumber and grit and ground bone to keep his flock producing, even the New York city retail price of eggs is unfairly low. He ought to get, at the farm, more money per dozen, in order to assure himself any real profit.

Yet the tendency,—I don't mean of just this particular season, but of several years past,—has been towards a steady lowering in his returns. He pays out more and takes in less.

THE FARMER.

CLEAN-UP SEASON HAS ARRIVED FOR CITIES

The clean-up season is here, says the weekly bulletin of the state department of health.

Nature makes a supreme effort to clean up by providing torrential rains and powerful sunlight.

Man should take the hint and finish the job.

Rain storms wash the surface and carry away much dirt and filth—but accumulations of the winter still hide in the corners.

It should be the duty of every individual to—Clean up his yard. Burn up his rubbish. Mend and paint his fences. Remove unsightly equipment. Protect his well from contamination. Put his privy into sanitary condition. Collect his garbage in a tightly covered pail. Remove his fly breeding manure pile.

Sunlight dries the surface and destroys the disease germs. A bonfire removes everything no longer useful. Man should use these material aids to cleanliness.

Elected Treasurer.

Mrs. Lucille P. Barry, a former Norwich girl, was elected to office in Hartford branch of the newly formed Ladies' Auxiliary of the Disabled Veterans at its recent meeting. Mrs. Barry before her marriage was Lucille Penfield. She was elected treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Adriance of Poughkeepsie and New York, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Allen Adriance to Stefano Gudici Caracciole, Prince Di Leporano. The ceremony was performed at Capri, Italy on Palm Sunday.

WAUREGAN

Wauregan has again been called upon to give up two of its oldest residents, Louis Kerouack and Miss LaPierre. Mr. Kerouck has been a resident for about forty years, employed by the company here. Always faithful to his task and loyal to his employers, one of the best of fathers and husbands, his loss will be keenly felt by all. As a neighbor he was always willing to lend a helping hand. He leaves besides his wife, five children, also several brothers and sisters.

Miss Lefevre has been a resident for a great many years, being employed by the Wauregan company for a number of years, until a few years ago when she was called upon to take up the home duties for the family. Many friends have extended to the family sincere regret and sympathy. Both were buried in Sacred Heart cemetery here.

The mill resumed work Monday morning after a shut-down of one week.

Mrs. Annie Kerouack, who was operated on for appendicitis at Day Kimball hospital, Putnam, a short time ago, is gaining in health, friends are glad to learn.

Many good catches of trout are reported being displayed by local fishermen.

Members of the Congregational Sunday school are rehearsing a program, to be given in the church next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Allen Monitt has been entertaining for a number of days with guests.

WILSONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George Brightman of Auburn, Mass., called on friends here Sunday.

Mrs. E. H. Murdock of Boston, has been spending a week or two with her mother.

Thomas Paine, who has been spending the winter in Malden, Mass., with his daughter, has returned to his home for the summer.

Harry Haggerty has returned from the hospital, where he went for treatment.

Kellogg's Bran delights father by bringing health to children

Poor little kids—they needed bran badly. But they wouldn't eat ordinary bran. They didn't like them. Most folks don't. Then their father tried Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. What a difference! He tells the story in his letter:

"Dear Sirs:

I wish to express my appreciation of your krumbled bran, which I have used for my children this summer. We had a great deal of trouble with them through constipation, and bran had been the most satisfactory remedy but they could not be induced to take the old varieties . . . because they disliked them so. They enjoy the krumbled bran and consider it an essential ingredient of their porridge. No one whose children have not been troubled in this way can appreciate the relief there is in having their bowels move regularly."

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It should not be neglected. But do not try halfway measures in seeking relief. Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. And it takes ALL bran to be 100% effective. Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief, if eaten regularly, in the most chronic cases. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. The flavor is delicious. Sprinkle it on other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes on every package. It will bring you health. Begin eating it to-day. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

"... but her carelessness will be revealed by her hands..."

A Story No Woman Can Hide

THERE'S many a story a woman can hide—and many a one she does. But the story of her indifference as a housewife will be only too plainly reflected in her personal appearance. If she uses a poor household soap, her red, rough and coarse looking hands will reveal her carelessness.

Careful, intelligent housewives know this and are as particular about the kind of household soap they use as they are about their toilet soap. Such women always insist upon Kirkman's Soap. They know that Kirkman's is as harmless to their hands and to delicate fabrics as the most exquisite toilet soap.

• • •

AS your grocer can tell you, Kirkman's Soap is not only free from irritating lye, but is made of the purest and finest materials. This pure soap gives a thorough washing energy for every household and laundry purpose.

For the sake of your hands insist upon Kirkman's.

Red Seal Records

| | | Number | DOUBLE-FACED List Price |
|---|---|---|---|
| Minuet (in D) (Mozart) Violin Solo / Widmung (Dedication) (Schumann-Auer) Violin Solo | Jascha Heifetz / Jascha Heifetz | 997 | $1.50 |

Violin and piano. A Mozart minuet, at first simple, then intricate; and a superb arrangement of Schumann's impassioned song. Played with consummate art, and recorded with that perfection which makes Victor Records famous.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Santa Lucia In Italian / Marechiare (When the Moon Rises Over Mergellina) (Tosti) Neapolitan | Titta Ruffo / Titta Ruffo | 995 | 1.50 |

Two of the magnificent Neapolitan songs that today every one knows. This great baritone sings them in a voice of immense beauty and power. Numbers that should be in every record library.

Melodious Instrumental

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rustle of Spring (Sinding) / The Improvisator—Overture (d'Albert) | Rudolph Ganz and St. Louis Symphony Orch. | 45389 | 1.00 |

Sinding's familiar number set for the full symphony orchestra; and a brilliant, modern overture with half a dozen themes but a tarantelle-rhythm prevailing. A record that is worth many hearings.

Light Vocal Selections

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Amorevole Waltz (Francis-Bacon) / Printemps (Gertz) (Bem) | Lucy Isabelle Marsh / Lucy Isabelle Marsh | 45390 | 1.00 |

Beautiful waltz songs, for the purest and most flexible type of soprano voice. Well-known numbers that you will recognize with delight—and cherish on these records.

| | | | |
| Oh! Susanna (Featured in "The Ground Wages") / Gwine to Run All Night | Wendell Hall and Shannon Quartet | 19290 | .75 |

Two of Stephen Foster's songs—wholesome, good-natured old-time favorites with life in them. Presented by a new combination of artists that will strike the fancy of Victor Record audiences.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| House in Pasadena / What Does the Pussy-Cat Mean When She Says "Me-Ow"? | Billy Murray–Ed Smalle / Billy Murray–Ed Smalle | 19293 | .75 |

Nove hits. The first is fast-trottish, with some double-time effects calling for nimble vocalization. The Pussy-Cat number, with Steve Porter meowing, is cleverly done.

Dance Records

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Whose Izzy is He—Fox Trot / Science Grinder Joe—Fox Trot | The Virginians / The Virginians | 19292 | .75 |

Musicians records for the "Collegiate" and new steps. Bits of Jewish melodies on one, and the shrill wheel of the grinder in new effects on the other. There's good dancing ahead for those who buy this record.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Take a Little One-Step—Medley Fox Trot (From "Lollipop") / There's Nobody Else But You—Fox Trot | International Novelty Orchestra / Jos Raymond and His Orchestra | 19294 | .75 |

Fox-trots both—in spite of the title of the first number. It is a beautifully refined piece of cooing, and the other is a good composition.

WESTERLY

Just as the Westerly town clock was striking 11, Thursday morning, the telephone central operator ran in a series of 23's for an out-of-the-district grass and brush fire. This time Chief Egger, Engineer McKenzie and a force of men had to go over the town line a short way into Hopkinton. A large grass and brush fire was raging back of the Fred Crandall place, on Oak street, Potter Hill, to the eastward and south of the Charles Eccleston place on the Bradford road. Firemen armed with shovels from the hose wagon of the R. I. No. 1, a large force under Fire Warden Fred Collins and many men from the Potter Hill and Bethel mills, armed with water pails and brooms, kept the flames on the side hill back of the Crandall place from jumping the stone walls and restricted it to the swamp to the southeast, where they died out for want of material. Many of the neighbors joined the fire fighting until nearly a hundred were battling the fire. The Westerly department returned at 12.30, as the firemen were returning home smoke from at least three different brush fires could be seen in the towns of Stonington and North Stonington.

One of the Stonington fires burned along the Wequetequock road and up to the railroad tracks. The Stonington town fire warden sent word to the Westerly station that help was needed near Wequetequock. The Westerly signal tower was notified and sectionmen under Foreman Plympton stopped work on the tracks and went to Wequetequock on their handcar, to keep back the fires along the railroad right of way.

Residing in Westerly in the early 60's, Miss S. Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith at that time lived on Spring street, and graduating with honors from the Westerly High school, later in 1895 became a teacher in the Westerly public schools and subsequently a teacher in the schools of Boston. While teaching in Boston Miss Smith became the bride of Maybin W. Brown of whom a Boston morning paper Thursday has the following notice:

South Weymouth, Mass., April 16.—Funeral services for Maybin W. Brown long a member of the editorial staff of the Boston Globe, who was instantly killed Monday at the local station of the New Haven railroad by a train, were held here this afternoon.

A private service took place at the home, 160 Pleasant street, Rev. F. L. Luce of Roxbury a friend of the family, offered prayer.

The public service at the Church of the Holy Nativity, South Weymouth, followed at 3 o'clock, the rector, Rev. J. Thayer Allison, officiating.

Among the many friends attending the services were the following members of the Globe editorial staff: George Dimond, assistant city editor; George W. Perkins, assistant day editor, and P. A. Welch.

The bearers were Irwin Harvey, Bates Carrey, R. S. Caretley and Arthur Taylor.

Among the floral tributes was a wreath of roses from the Globe day desk and another wreath of roses from the Globe editorial staff.

The body was taken to West Roxbury for cremation.

Miss Sophie Moon of Boston has been spending the past few days at the inn in Pawcatuck, while visiting her cottage on Westerly road, at Watch Hill, next to the Ocean house. Miss Moon is taking the furnishings [illegible] and shipping them to Woods Hole, Mass., where she recently completed a new cottage.

William J. Phetteplace and N. Henry Lamphere of the West Side were in New London Thursday in attendance upon the session of the New London county superior court. The several cases growing out of the automobile collision at Fort Hill, two years ago last January, between the automobiles of William Phetteplace of Pawcatuck and Fred Barnes of Mystic were set down for trial on this date.

Joseph Byron Totten, moving picture producer, of New York, arrived in Westerly two days ago to take up motion picture work at his studio at Pendleton Hill. Thursday noon Mr. Totten was in Westerly to meet his camera man, Frank Hashimoto and the latter's wife, whose home was in Japan previous to coming to New York. Later Mr. Toten expects to have well known screen artists at his Pendleton Hill studio.

Horatio Seymour Stanton, Westerly's entrant in the Boston Marathon next Saturday, where he is entered as No. 11, under the colors of the P. S. Barber Hose Co., of Pawcatuck, Raymond C. Neild, his bicycle rider, and Timothy C. Deady, manager, left Westerly on the Pittsburgh express for Boston, Thursday morning. Thursday afternoon it was planned to have Stanton run over the course.

The short Easter vacation of the Rhode Island State college at Kingston, which college is attended by many Westerly students, lasts from Thursday afternoon at 4.30 p. m. to Tuesday next at 1 p. m. This will enable many of the students living within a near radius to enjoy four full days at home.

Arthur J. McCarthy and Walter D. Higgins of Pawcatuck were in New London Wednesday.

John Neild has been substituting in Dubrelle and Galin's during the absence of George McBride, confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Phelps and daughter, of New York, arrived in Westerly Thursday afternoon to get their cottage at Watch Hill in readiness for occupancy the coming season.

Herbert A. Sears, 22, of 8 Grace street, Springfield, Mass., was served with a summons Sunday, April 15, by State Policeman Bernard W. Kennerson of Groton barracks, to appear in Stonington town court Wednesday, April 18, but due to an automobile mishap, was unable to get into Westerly, until late in the evening. He returned to Springfield, accompanied by the young women who were witnesses of his infraction of the automobile law, and again made the trip to Stonington, where he was presented at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon before Judge William A. Wilcox on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle, an automobile on the North Stonington road, without sufficient and proper brakes with power to lock the wheels. The mishap occurred near Preston Plains on the Norwich-Westerly road when he was said to have bumped another machine. A plea of guilty was entered and one of the young women, Miss Flagg, asked to be allowed to make a statement and in so doing took the officials to task. Sears was found guilty and fined $5 and costs of $13.13, amounting in all to $18.13, which he paid.

Threatened fire in the center of the business center of Westerly, on Thursday evening at 6.45 o'clock, added variety to the new brush fires responded to recently by the Westerly fire department. While Michael Papalia and his wife were seated near the show window of their store, they saw smoke, also a small blaze, between the newspaper counter and the back of the show window. Mr. Papalia ran out to sound the fire alarm, but went by the pole with the box on it, in his haste. Following his cry that his store was on fire, Joseph Ferraro left his jitney stand and pulled in Box No. 57, corner of High and Canal streets. All three pieces of apparatus had passed through Dixon House square before the alarm had ceased ringing. On direction of Chief Egger the firemen pulled away the shelving and news counter and the source of the fire was discovered. Matches in some way must have fallen down between the counter and window, or a lighted cigarette might have set fire to waste paper, charring the woodwork of the counter. There was no water turned on through the hydrant hose. The firemen satisfied themselves there was no fire in the partition. Due to their speedy work little damage was sustained.

P. S. Barber Hose Co. responded with their combination truck to a still alarm, at 4 o'clock, Thursday night, for a rubbish fire at the west end of Pawcatuck river bridge. The fire ignited the large wooden stringers on the ground back of the old lunch cart. Connection was made with the hydrant on the opposite side of West Broad street and the single stream directed on the burning timber, the sparks from which threatened the adjoining building and the rubbish fire was extinguished.

Final games were played Thursday evening in the four clubs' bridge tournament, when the standing of the series was: Hooks, plus, 11945; Misturet, plus, 2866; Masonic, minus, 1421; Cycle, minus, 18310.

The Westerly Cycle club played in the Masonic club rooms, Westerly, Thursday evening, the scores being:

Masonic club: Stahle-Hodgson 2773, T. Samuels-Haswell 1607; Spargo-F. Saunders 2172; Rathbun-Burdick 1618; Hoxsie-McLaren 4243; totals 12343.

Cycle club: Mayne-Payne 3217; H. Saunders-Blackler 2214; Christy-Law 1866; H. Samuels-J. Law 2545; Moore-Phillips 2101; totals 13943. The Cycle club won by 561.

The Misturet club of Stonington played the Hook and Ladder company at Mystic, their score being:

Stonington: Hyde-Cowan 1884; Bindloss-Koelb 2271; Carroe-Friedman 3596; Hammond-Pendleton 2474; Harper-Chesebrough 2911; total 14137.

Mystic: Chapman-McGregor 2010; Keeler-Wilhelm 2376; Alles-Burrows 3307; Abel-Johnson 1953; Moll-Earnshaw 2587; total 12281. Stonington won by 1906.

FIRE STARTED IN BARN
DOES $15,000 DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, April 17.—A brisk fire which started in a barn in the rear of the stone house on Main street, early Thursday morning did about $15,000 damage before it was checked. The alarm was sounded about 1.15 a. m. and before the hose company arrived the barn was a mass of flames. The fire spread rapidly to the house of Louis Tondandel and then to the Baker and Kusiansky building. The upper stories of both these buildings were gutted and the barn in the rear was completely destroyed. The Campo fruit store which occupied the ground floor in the Baker and Kusiansky building was considerably damaged from smoke and water. The stone house was occupied by James Sullivan and Freeman Gilman. They succeeded in removing a part of their furniture, but much of it was badly damaged. The wooden building west of the stone house was occupied in the upper stories by Mrs. Lillian Hassett and John Roleau, and some of the furniture of each tenant was saved, but most of the furniture in the rear of the house was burned.

A. W. Tuchill, who occupied rooms in the Hassett tenement lost his trunk and a large part of his personal belongings. The Southern New England Telephone company's cable leading to the local central office was badly damaged and telephone service was interrupted all the forenoon yesterday. The damage to the buildings and contents is carried by insurance. A line of hose from Stafford Worsted mill helped materially in checking the fire.

MAKE MOHEGAN TRAIL SLOGAN FOR TOURISTS

With a large attendance of Lions and ten guests, the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan House with President George A. Finn in charge. The singing for the day was in charge of Lion Rev. R. B. Day. Dr. Clarence Thompson won the attendance prize for the day, and the club voted a club subscription to the Y. M. C. A. annual campaign.

Lion Fred Watson, who is actively identified with the movement to revive interest in the Mohegan Trail and bring more touring parties through Norwich, spoke most interestingly on the subject. He spoke of the work being done along this line and pointed out the great benefits the Norwich business men may derive by getting a larger number of summer tourists headed this way. Mr. Watson also said that not only the Lions club and other like organizations but every citizen should get behind this movement, for the more tourists that come to Norwich the more benefits everyone will receive. There is no reason he said, why Norwich, as well as New London and other shore resorts should not materially benefit by vigorously fostering the advent of summer tourist business, for which all New England is yearly making stronger and more profitable bids. Boost the Mohegan Trail, said Mr. Watson, everybody boost by making known everywhere its great scenic beauties, thus helping to put and keep Norwich on the map.

Dr. Kopland K. Markoff who made his first visit to the club since his marriage was royally welcomed and requested to sing "There's No Place Like Home."

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

BREED THEATRE

Usually stories laden with statistics are boresome rather than entertaining or instructive. However, in the case of Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, a United Artists release coming to the Breed theatre today and Saturday an exception can be noted, due to the unbelievable speed with which this gigantic production was "shot" was due to the remarkable organization with which Mr. Fairbanks surrounded himself.

He put at the head of each department the most thoroughly competent man obtainable, regardless of price. And at the head of the whole directorial force he placed Allan Dwan, reputed to be the most thorough and swiftest director of productions of the Robin Hood magnitude in the picture industry. With Mr. Fairbanks' own dynamic energy behind this organization to give it impetus, there was never a dull moment from the time the first camera started to the final fadeout.

Here are the cold figures which tell the story of the making of this feature:

Thirty thousand calls issued through casting department to players.

One thousand and eight hundred players used in biggest scene. Three hundred horses used in a single scene.

Total scenes shot, 1108.

Maximum number of scenes in a day, thirty (in Sherwood Forest).

Minimum number of scenes in one day, two (Banquet Hall).

No time was lost on account of rain. The company worked on one holiday—Decoration Day—and four Sundays. Only four locations were used despite the magnitude of the picture. While the sets were under construction, a crew of 350 was employed, part of the number working at night to speed the work.

The last chapter of The Way of a Maid and the Pathe News make up the remainder of the bill.

In London is an exchange for disposing of superfluous wedding presents.

COMING TO THE BREED

By means of an enormous megaphone it might have been possible for Director Rex Ingram to make his commands heard up and down the length of a straight street during the filming of Scaramouche coming to the Breed theatre all next week, but the French streets in the picture have many twists and turns. It would not be feasible for Mr. Ingram to stand by the cameras at one end and attempt to make his voice heard two hundred yards away by giving orders to pedestrians, telling them when to come into a scene and what to do when they are once in.

For this reason magnavoxes were installed at intervals of 100 feet. The efficiency of this system was increased by connecting each magnavox to a portable switchboard which, placed at Mr. Ingram's elbow, enabled him to talk to each group individually without moving from his seat.

The same arrangement was made at the French village of Gavrillac which was constructed on a 60-acre plot in the San Fernando valley.

The cast of Scaramouche includes Alice Terry, Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone, Edith Allen, Edward Connelly, Lionel Belmore, George Siegmann, Bowditch Turner, Julia Swayne Gordon and many others.

Scaramouche, a Rex Ingram production for Metro, was adapted to the screen from Rafael Sabatini's famous novel by Willis Goldbeck by arrangement with Charles L. Wagner. John F. Seitz was the cameraman.

PALACE THEATRE

Beginning on Monday April 21, the theatregoers of Norwich will be asked to meet Billy Allen and his brilliant company of thirty-five people in a series of Musical Comedie and Revues fresh from Broadway which will be staged at the Palace theatre. There will be four strong recommendations for the alluring entertainment which Mr. Allen and his pretty women and clever men will give here. They will possess merit in their own right. They will be thoroughly up-to-date. They will be suited to the cool season when people desire something that will keep them roaring. They will lure the eye as well as the ear, because they will be finely staged with handsome scenery and elegant gowns to match.

Heading the company himself, Mr. Allen will be on the stage a sufficient length of time to keep the patrons laughing at and with him. But he does not propose to give a one man show. He always gives those playing with him a chance. He has surrounded himself with good people who will be at home in his opening attraction, Temptations of Broadway, a musical comedy review, containing 18 scenes, 35 of latest New York song successes, and very near a carload of scenery and electrical effects are used in this one production.

PALACE THEATRE

Proof of the vast strides toward perfection which the motion picture is supplied by The Age of Desire, a First National Picture produced by Frank Borzage, which began an extended engagement at the Palace theatre last night. We unhesitatingly commend it as one of the finest offerings of the current season.

The man who made Humoresque and Children of Dust has excelled his past achievements. In The Age of Desire, he has created a screen classic, one that establishes a higher standard of photoplay direction. The appreciation of the audience last night was visably enthusiastic.

It has seldom been our good fortune to see a story so admirably adaptable for screen purposes as The Age of Desire, which we understand is from the pen of a chorus girl, Miss Dixie Willson. Aside from its gripping theme, it is replete with action of such a highly dramatic nature that the suspense is kept keyed up throughout.

Also Christie Comedy and Pathe Review, continous showing Saturday from 1.30 to 10:30.

AT THE BROADWAY

Every single act a hit! You'll agree when you see the great program at the Broadway Theatre today and Saturday.

Miss Physical Culture, who is a living tribute to exercise, opened the program with a very enlightening and entertaining act. She is an excellent example of her sex and many Norwich people will be greatly benefited by her sound advice.

Frank Jerome and Miss Evelyn, the variety venders, offered a choice selection of wit and song that made a hit.

Bungalow Love the comedy playlet by Willard Mack, came in for the share of honors with a splendid vehicle for Lee Morgan and Maggie Dunn. It is a suburban incident filled with humor and song.

Frank Browne and Kay Velle in a comedy oddity with music which is a knockout! See them and see one of the best acts in vaudeville.

The Eight Mascotte Girls closed this excellent program with original novelty dances that have seldom been excelled. With a wide variety of stepping these girls work in perfect harmony with wonderful results.

She might have been anybody's little girl, but she came very nearly being nobody's little girl. A dramatic story woven around the adventures of a little waif in New York's Ghetto district is presented at the Broadway theatre, now showing "The Darling of New York," the Universal-Jewel production starring Baby Peggy. It is the little Century comedy estar's first appearance in a multi-reel feature. It was written by King Baggot, who directed the picture, and Raymond Schrock. The entire program is a treat.

BROADWAY THEATRE

What is believed to be a record has been set by Allan Dwan in the reproduction of Gloria Swanson's newest Paramount starring picture, "A Society Scandal," due at the Broadway Theatre Sunday. The picture, an adaptation of the stage play, "The Laughing Lady," in which Ethel Barrymore scored such a tremendous success, was produced in its entirety in New York City and vicinity.

If you've never been to New York the picture will serve a two-fold purpose—that of an entertaining society love drama—and a travelogue novelty.

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, April 17.—Pre-holiday dullness characterized today's stock market which developed moderate strength on a resumption of short covering operations by professional traders.

Steel shares gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength, net gains of a point or so being registered by U. S. Steel common, Bethlehem, Republic and Crucible. Some of the buying in this group was in expectation of an optimistic statement by Chairman E. H. Gary at the annual stockholders of the U. S. Steel corporation next Monday.

Buying of Southern Pacific, which advanced nearly 2 1-2 points to 90 7-8 was one of the late features. Other strong spots in the railroad group included Norfolk & Western, Lackawanna, Frisco preferred and Reading and Lehigh Valley coal rights," all up 1 to 2 points. Another sharp reduction in car loadings apparently was ignored.

Weakness again cropped out in the motor and motor accessory group, Chicago Yellow Cab and Yellow Cab closing at net losses of 3 1-2 and four points, respectively. Fisher Body broke four points, Studebaker, Old Stock, touched 86 and then fell back to 86 5-8, up 1-4. Possibility of unfavorable dividend developments has been an important factor recently in the selling of the motor shares, one of the latest companies mentioned in this connection being the Eaton Axle and Spring, directors of which are reported to be considering either the reduction or the passing of the dividend due to be declared next week.

Publication in the financial district of an interview with Secretary Mellon in which he stated that the New England textile industry was in a period of depression was used as an excuse for a bear attack on American Woolen which was hammered down more than 3 points to 65, a new 1924 low. It rallied later to 66 5-8. New Iowa also were established by American Sugar Refining common and preferred at 43 1-4 and 88 1-2, respectively.

Oils held relatively firm despite a sharp increase in domestic crude production, special buying being noted in Coeden and Phillips Petroleum.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent and then dropped to 4 where it closed. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchanges held relatively firm on the light volume of trading. Demand sterling ruled just under $4.85 and French francs were quoted around 6 1-4 cents. Another break in Japanese yen carried them down to a record low around 40 1-4 cents.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 17.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's curb market but the main trend was upward. Active oils showed little change but gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by such ordinarily inactive issues as Illinois Pipe, Cities Service, Buckeye Pipe and Prairie Oil & Gas.

National Tea was again the individual feature in the industrial group, soaring 15 points to 370, a record high, in further reflection of the recent increase from 85 to 95 in the quarterly dividend and the proposed declaration of a stock dividend of 150 per cent. at today's top price it was 48 points above the initial quotation last Saturday. Lehigh Valley Coal rights were actively traded in closing nearly two points higher at 30. Cuba company and Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe each closed about a point higher.

Activity of the copper shares was the outstanding development in the mining list.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 17.—Under the leadership of United States government obligations, several issues of which established new top figures for 1924, bond prices generally moved into higher ground today. Improvement in the market's tone was helped by the ready subscription of new offerings.

Institutional buying of Liberty bonds combined with the easing of money rates, stimulated activity throughout the government list, sending the first and fourth 4 1-4s to par for the first time this year and carrying the treasury 4 1-4s to a new record price of 101 10-32nds. Purchases were believed to be for accounts of both the British and United States governments.

With liquidation of the Japanese 6 1-2s still in progress, the price dropped 5-8 to 96 which was 2 1-2 points below the subscription price. Weakness continued in the Oriental dependents, another Japanese issue and the bonds yielded 1 5-8 points. Other foreign obligations, however, were firm.

A broader tone for high grade railroad liens was reflected in stiffening prices throughout this list, with a number of speculative rails displaying independent strength. Sugar and Rubber bonds improved with the advance in stocks.

Award of the $10,000,000 Illinois service compensation bonds to a New York banking syndicate on a bid of 100.197, it was said, would be followed by a public offering next week, probably on a 4 per cent yield basis. New York bankers also announced today the purchase of $5,000,000 short-term 5 per cent Swedish treasury bills which were placed privately without a public offering.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 17.—Higher prices witnessed in the wheat market today were largely a result of attention given to consequences of the possible enactment of the McNary-Haugen bill. Wheat closed unsettled, at 1-2c to 7-8c net advance, May 1.02 7-8 to 1.02 7-8@1.03 and July 1.05 to 1.05 1-8, with corn varying from a shade decline to 1c gain, and oats a shade to 3-8c up. In provisions, the outcome ranged from 2c off to a rise of 5@7 1-2c.

It was contended by a leading authority that if the McNary-Haugen bill became a law an attempt would likely be made to establish $1.25 and perhaps $1.50 a bushel at the ratio price on wheat. Under such circumstances, traders showed considerable disposition to avoid the selling side of the market, and to purchase a good deal more freely.

Besides, there were complaints of lack of reserve moisture in the spring wheat states and of delay to seeding in Canada. Prospect of a liberal reduction of the acreage of domestic spring wheat this season received more notice, too, than has heretofore been the rule, and so likewise did the fact that primary arrivals were less than half the total a year ago. Near the end of the day, however, part of the advance was lost through sales to realize profits.

Corn averaged higher in sympathy with wheat and owing to smallness of receipts. There was also a slightly improved shipping inquiry from the east.

Oats displayed independent strength all of the 2,000,000 bushel stock at Duluth being reported sold except 325,000 bushels.

Provisions at first were eased by the downward trend of hog values, but were later affected in the opposite direction by grain.

CHAPLIN

Ernest E. Back, of Washington, D. C., was a caller last Friday at Mrs. Carrie Hemenway's.

Miss Ellen Welch and Merritt Welch and Merritt Welch are home for the Easter recess from East Greenwich seminary.

The Epworth League of Willimantic presented the play, A Regiment of Two, at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening, to a good sized audience. The play was in three acts and the ten characters interpreted their parts in a pleasing way. Before the play a trio, Mrs. C. M. Gallup, J. Wilbur Lanphear and H. M. Welch, sang and between the acts Mrs. C. M. Gallup sang solos and Miss Ellen Welch gave a piano selection. Miss Florence I. Hunt was the accompanist for the evening. A good number attended from Willimantic, North Windham and Eastford. The proceeds, over $40, were divided between the Epworth League and the Chaplin Y. P. S. C. E.

Merritt Welch has his mill on O. F. Wilson's lot, sawing the timber.

LEFFINGWELL

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

The Impolite Peacock.

Heigh diddle diddle, now what do you think?
The roses are green and the cabbages pink,
The Circus Queen's wearing a pretty pink banner, sang happy Uncle Lucky as he drove in his Luckymobile up to the post office in Rabbitville. Hopping out the old gentleman rabbit jumped into the stagecoach which had just driven up from the station.
And treating the clowns in a beautiful manner."

"Heavy mail today," said the old stage driver, taking his pipe out of his mouth to pull his tail.

"Come with me. I've spent my last dollar and am going to seek my fortune," said dear Uncle Lucky. "I don't know just where we'll find it, but, anyhow, we must look for it."

So away they went, faster than before, and after a while they met a little old duck with a silk bonnet on her head.

"Can you tell me if there is a gold mine near here?" inquired the old gentleman rabbit, anxiously. But the little old duck only shook her head.

"I never heard of one," she answered, "but you might ask the peacock who lives not far from here."

"Thank you just the same," said Uncle Lucky, and pretty soon he came to a big iron gate in a high stone wall. A beautiful peacock with a tail like a Japanese fan stood looking out.

"Now we'll find the gold mine," said Uncle Lucky hopping out of the Luckymobile and up to the iron gate.

"Can you tell me if there is a gold mine near here?" he asked, lifting his old wedding stovepipe hat. But oh, dear, me! That peacock stuck up his nose and turned away without even answering dear old Uncle Lucky. Wasn't that impolite of him? He did old gentleman rabbit rang a little bell that was fastened to the gate and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

PLAINFIELD

Final preparations have been made for the Windham County Older Boys' Conference, which is to be held in the First Congregational church of this village Saturday, and prospects are that this will be a fine conference. The luncheon and banquet are to be served by the Ladies' Aid society. There will be music at the banquet by Leach's orchestra of Wauregan.

Plainfield High, after taking a defeat at the hands of the fast LaSalle Academy team, at Providence, Tuesday, will play Bulkeley High school team at New London, Saturday. LaSalle trimmed the Plainfield boys 11 to 2, but the local team is determined to even things up, by placing a defeat on the shoulders of the Bulkeley boys. Plainfield has, to date, won two games and lost one. The principal factor in Plainfield's defeat by LaSalle, was the crippling of their pitcher, Sheault, early in the game. In the middle of the first inning, Sheault threw his arm out when he pitched a fast ball, so was replaced by Bullamp, the substitute pitcher. Bullamp pitched a good game, but the playing of the rest of the team, with a few exceptions, was very erratic. It is expected, however, that Sheault will be in his regular position in Saturday's game, and a hard battle predicted.

The third mid-week meeting was held held in the auditorium of the First Congregational church Thursday evening, when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, the candidates for reception to church membership partaking. The May communion is to be omitted, because of the one served Thursday evening.

Mrs. John Brown, sister of James Muldoon, is dangerously ill at the Pawtucket, R. I., Memorial hospital.

The April meeting of St. Joan Baptista society, was held at the Community House Monday evening.

The meeting of Plainfield Parent-Teacher association, was held at the Community House, Wednesday evening. After the regular business the program of gymnasium work by the grammar school pupils was presented under the direction of Miss Neigle Hartwell. The program, which was an excellent representation of the physical training work done in the schools of this village, was as follows: Medicine ball relay, boys; girls' floor work gymnastics; boys' stunts, chinning the bar, jumping the stick, and tug-of-war; basket ball relay, end fetch and carry relay, girls; basketball relay, and relay running race, boys.

The Lawton mill closes this (Friday) noon, until Monday.

Eugene Wilmot, a former resident of this village, died suddenly at his home in New Bedford, after an illness of four days with pneumonia. Mr. Wilmot leaves many sympathetic friends in this village, having formerly been a member of St. John's Council, No. 3254, K. of C. Five delegates from this council attended the funeral. He was an engineer with the American Expeditionary forces in France, serving in that country during the war for 18 months, and establishing a fine record. In recognition of his service, a military funeral was given him, with ex-soldiers as bearers, taps being sounded over the grave, and a rifle salute being fired.

There will be special Good Friday services at St. John's Catholic church today at 7 a. m., 4.30 and 7.30 p. m.

Misses Esther Ward, Rena Wood and Bertha Saunders, leave today (Friday) for a week-end visit in Springfield.

Emery Davis, Mrs. Patrick Kelly and Mrs. J. Mellon, visited Miss Susie Kubis Davis, at the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium recently.

Miss Antonia Laflash and Alphonse Laflash are spending the week-end in Occum.

Girl Scouts Will Give Play.

COLCHESTER

Col. George C. Allen, F. W. Black and C. W. Allen of Hartford were in town Tuesday evening attending the meeting of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, K. P.

The new pumper and chemical engine were tried out Thursday afternoon on the park.

Miss Annie Logan and Mrs. Katherine Wrinn are in Westport, attending the funeral of their brother.

All the schools in town closed on Thursday afternoon for the Easter recess. Many of the out-of-town teachers have left for their homes.

The members of the Baptist church were surprised Sunday morning when they arrived at the church to find that the ceiling had fallen during the night. No one seems to know when it happened, as the ceiling was all right when the sexton closed the church the Sunday before. The ceiling was of wood and when it came down several of the chairs were broken.

Samuel Friedman and George X. Lyman were callers in Norwich Tuesday.

Mrs. A. T. VanCleve and Mrs. E. J. Howland were visitors in Hartford Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Ames were calling on friends in town Tuesday.

Abraham Agranowitch of Norwich was the guest Wednesday of his brother Joseph, of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cohen of New York are guests of Mr. Cohen's parents on Broadway for a few weeks' vacation.

There was a large attendance at the moving picture entitled Palace of the King. The show was under the auspices of the Colchester Chamber of Commerce. The proceeds will be used for Clean-up Week, in May.

Leonard Siebert of East Hampton was in town Wednesday.

The academy ball team members are out afternoons practicing on the park grounds. They are making dates with several out of town teams.

F. L. Pree of Willimantic was a caller in town Wednesday.

ELLINGTON

Mrs. Nellie Rice is spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Gardner Hughes, in New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hale and daughter were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Albie Hale, of Norwich Town.

Miss Clara Beasley, of New Brunswick, N. J., is spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Beasley.

Jarvis Clapp and George Kibbe, of Mt. Hermon school are at their homes here for their vacation.

Mrs. John T. Nichols left Tuesday for a visit of several weeks with her daughter in New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hayden, of Blandford, Mass., have been visiting their sons, H. L. Hayden and Hoyt Hayden.

An all-day meeting was held in the church parlors Tuesday when Miss Edith Mason, clothing specialist of Connecticut Agricultural College, gave addresses under the auspices of the farm bureau.

The Fathers and Sons' banquet held in the church Monday evening proved a decided success. A large number of men were present to listen to two speakers from New Britain.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Buys New London Business

James E. Donovan of this city has purchased the motorcycle business of A. E. Oliver of New London. Mr. Donovan has been in the motorcycle business for a number of years and this will give him another store in New London county. Jeremiah Fish is to be in charge of the New London store.

Easter Floral Display

The floral display in Hawkins' show windows is attracting considerable favorable comment. There is a wide variety of beautiful flowers shown including rose bushes, daffodils, lilies, Bougainbillea, spiraea, tulips and genista. The demand for Easter lilies is greater this year than has been the case in other years. In fact there is an unusually heavy demand for all kinds of Easter flowers, this year and the week end will be an extremely busy one for the florists.

STRAND THEATRE

Proving itself a thriller from start to finish, "Through the Dark," Cosmopolitan's picturization of "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," one of the most popular of Jack Boyle's series of "Boston Blackie" stories was greeted by an enthusiastic and appreciative audience in its first showing at the Strand theatre last night.

Devotees of the silent drama who rate as good crook pictures for their screen fare can ill afford to miss this new Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan product. The story is unravelled neatly and rapidly and proves engrossing from the firs tflicker to the final fade-out. Colleen Moore, who is featured, has come to the fore rapidly in the last few months, but it is unlikely that she ever appeared to such excellent advantage as she does in the role of Mary McGinn, daughter of a convict whose mother attempts to shield her from the past by sending her to a fashionable and exclusive girls' school just outside of San Francisco.

In support of Miss Moore is an efficient cast, including Forrest Stanley in the role of "Boston Blackie." Others are Hobart Bosworth, Margaret Seddon, Eddie Phillips, George Cooper, Carmelita Geraghty, Wade Boteler and Tom Bates. George William Hill directed from the scenario by Frances Marion.

A Gump Comedy and News completed the program.

BROADWAY THEATRE

D. W. Griffith, responsible to a greater degree than anyone for innovations in the making of photoplays and father of the motionpicture as a vehicle for art, has again made a radical departure from established custom in the filming of "America", the titanic epic of Revolutionary days, produced at the suggestion of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which will be shown at Broadway theatre for 3 days starting Monday.

In fact, it may be stated that "America" embodies more distanctive novelties in motion picture production than even the masterpieces with which Griffith hitherto has revolutionized the theatre world.

Because of the fact that the production was undertaken at the instigation of our most prominent patriotic organizations, representatives of which are present at the filming of the various scenes, and that through Secretary of War Weeks the United States Army co-operated, Mr. Griffith first sought to achieve the most meticulous accuracy from a historical point of view.

Aroused to a high pitch of enthusiasm over Mr. Griffith's aims in producing "America," patriotic organizations throughout the country not only volunteered their services to aid in the research work, but defying custom and tradition, took from the museum cases and private vaults which housed them for years invaluable relics of the Revolution and offered them to the famous director for use in his picture.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

I hope you are not one of those clerks who watch the clock.
Oh, no, sir, I wear a wrist watch.—Boston Transcript.

It takes an expert accountant to know how much German marks are worth.

It takes more than that. It takes a lightning calculator.—Washington Star.

What 50 cents to row me across? Last time it was only a quarter.
Yes, but the water has risen.—Houston Post.

Diner—Waiter, change that soup order of mine to turtle.
Waiter (formerly a chauffeur)—Have the chicken turn turtle, yes, sir.

Mother—William! You've been fighting again! Your nose is bloody—one eye is black—your teeth—oh, you are a sight! Do you know how you look?
William—Tut, tut, maw. What does a hero care for looks?—American Legion Weekly.

"Are you fond of music?" asked the young man.
"Do you sing or play anything yourself," inquired Miss Cayenne, cautiously.
"Never."
"Then I am."—Washington Star.

Protracted researches into the nature of the Aurora Borealis, known as the "Northern Lights," lead Prof. Vegard, of Christiania University, to believe that its essential character is nitrogen, and say that the green line which is the chief feature of it consists of small particles of frozen nitrogen in the highest part of the atmosphere. This line appears when frozen nitrogen is exposed to electric rays.

The first airplane completed in the Rohrbach factory in Copenhagen recently made its trial flight over that city. It is constructed especially for passenger and freight traffic, accommodating twelve passengers besides freight. It is operated by two plans and equipped with double controls. The machine is built of "durfaluminum" and is driven by two powerful motors of 720-horse power at a speed of 218 kilometers an hour.

The most valuable kind of gum is amber, which is found on the shores of the Baltic. It is the fossilized remains of the resin secreted by giant pines which once grew densely around the shores of the sea. Primitive men polished it and shaped it into ornaments, and 4,000 years ago merchants came regularly to the Baltic to barter their wares for amber, which was taken to Greece, Egypt, and even to the far east.

The idea of married couples having merely a calling acquaintance with one another is not so new after all. A German expedition dug up tablets in Assyria during the war which indicate that a wife lived usually with her parents rather than with her husband. But her husband was not without his rights. If she became a sector of the famous "eternal triangle" friend husband might lawfully kill her or at least cut off her ears.

TO CERTAIN IMPATIENT ONES

Carthage and Troy and Rome and Babylon—
Through the slow centuries their pride was wrought;
If to your eyes our progress seems as naught,
Be not too harsh with us, impetuous one.

Carthage and Rome—the centuries saw them flower;
And other centuries saw them dust again.
Shall we, who like their founders, are but men,
Build you Utopia in half an hour?

We are but men, and we have erred like them.
Shall we then tear our labor stone from stone
And scrap all wisdom that our years have known?
Be not so swift to judge—and then condemn!

This much we know—that something we have done;
And this much more—that there is much to do.
Let us not war, who are so weak and few;
Spare us your sneers, and let us work as one.

Let us strive onward, upward, as we can,
Blundering, fumbling toward the final dream,
Spurred in our darkest hours by some faint gleam
Of that we build—a commonwealth of man!

GENERAL AGREEMENT ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

According to mutual agreement and common consent of the industries, the merchants, the street railway company, the bus lines and the schools, Norwich will observe daylight saving time commencing Monday, April 28th.

While no official action has been taken by the school board yet, it is understood that its attitude is that it cannot do less than accommodate the school time to the general practice in the city.

In view of the fact that the railroads are to adopt daylight saving schedules commencing 2 a. m. Sunday, April 27th and continuing until 2 a. m. Sunday September 28th, and also because of the fact that New York city through its municipal ordinance and Massachusetts through its state law, as well as Providence, will conduct their business on daylight saving schedule together with practically every industrial center in Connecticut it has been necessary for business to conform its schedule to the prevailing daylight saving hours.

While it is unlawful in Connecticut for public clocks to display any but standard time, it is suggested that private time pieces be advanced one hour in order that confusion may be entirely obliterated. It is recognized that Norwich being a business center must of necessity conform its business to those maintained in the large majority of the business centers throughout this section of the country. Last year Norwich operated under daylight saving hours very successfully and daylight saving met with popular approval of the majority of the people.

FORMER SCHOOL TEACHER DIES AT AGE OF 91

Mrs. Angelina Otis Fowler, 91, of Agawam, Mass., died last Tuesday in Springfield. She was the widow of Asaher B. Fowler. She came to Agawam from Colchester, Conn., where she was a school teacher for many years. She is survived by her stepson, William Fowler of Chicago, Ill. She was the oldest member of the Agawam Congregational church, having joined in 1859.

Fines Imposed in City Court

In the city court Thursday morning Judge H. H. Pettis was on the bench. Three prisoners were brought before him, charged with breach of the peace in connection with a row at the home of George Fox, 54 School street Wednesday evening. Louis Barber was discharged but George Fox was fined $1 and costs totalling $6.86 and Albert Pierce fined $5 and costs, totalling $11.66 which they paid.

Samuel Hodes and Joseph Freedman, charged with obstructing a highway on North Main street, had their cases nolled for a total payment of $10.

The cases of Eva Topeka and Frances Kasiarowski charged with breach of the peace were nolled on payments of $7 and $8 respectively.

Two men charged with intoxication were fined and went to jail to work out their court bills.

MADE IMPORTANT ADDITIONS TO NORWICH PLANT OF U. S. FINISHING

The installation of a new steam and power plant to the Norwich branch of the United States Finishing Co., with a considerable addition to finishing machinery, is mentioned by President Henry B. Thompson in his annual report to the stockholders' meeting held Thursday afternoon in the board room at the Norwich Savings Society as the thing that has enabled the Norwich branch to handle the large volume of business that has been offered to it in the past year.

The business for the past year at the plants of the company which are located at Norwich and Sterling in this state, Pawtucket and Silver Spring in Rhode Island with a new plant at Cedartown, Ga., continued good through the spring and summer and up to the last two months of the year when market conditions intervened and the year closed with considerably less work on hand than in January.

In the course of his annual report to the stockholders, President Thompson said in part:

"We began our fiscal year 1923 with large orders on hand at all our mills and our receipts of grey goods were well up to normal for the first half of the year. Business through the summer months continued good but for the last two months of the year, due to general market conditions, our receipts were small and we closed the year with considerably less work on hand than we had in January. Our printing business has, on the whole, been subnormal. The decrease in printing seems to be world-wide as our experience seems to coincide with the conditions as we find them with our American competitors and also from the report of the English Federation of Calico Printers, which reflects really worse conditions than we find in this country.

"Our additions to plant amounted to $767,163.16, the principal items being the purchase and equipment of our Cedartown Plant, to which we refer later. Our expenditures in all instances have seemed necessary in order to take care of the changing conditions of business, as our drift during the last few years has been forward the finishing of finer cotton goods. We would have been entirely unable to have handled the large volume of business offered to our Norwich plant during the past year but for the installation of our new steam and power plant and a considerable addition to our finishing machinery, and I mention this to show that our expenditures on plant and new machinery, while large, have been justified. We have handled a larger volume of business in the finer grades of cotton goods at a decreased cost and in improved finishes. In addition to our Cedartown plant, the principal items were the addition to our storehouse and the completion of the electrification of our Norwich plant, the complete rebuilding of our bleachhouse at Pawtucket and the building of new tenements at our Sterling Plant.

"During the past year we have been considering carefully the question of southern competition and after a competent survey of the whole situation, we decided to purchase the plant of the Blue Spring Bleaching & Finishing Company, located in Cedartown, Georgia, fifty miles west of Atlanta on the Birmingham Branch of the Seaboard Air Line. The property consisted of a series of mill buildings in good condition, a boiler plant which had to be rebuilt in part, a large and adequate water supply and a railroad siding of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company. The plant has been rebuilt to meet our requirements and some of the machinery installed has been taken from our Silver Spring branch. The plant as at present equipped is well able to take care of olive drab khaki cloths, sulphur blacks on heavy drills, sheetings, etc. We have gone into this experiment on the most economical terms and have a property with sufficient real estate and water supply to expand in a larger way as our future needs dictate. Trial orders have just been finished as of March 1st and the quality of the work is fully up to the best standard of our New England mills. We are sanguine that the purchase is a wise one and will rebound to the ultimate benefit of the company.

"James G. Clark resigned his position as vice president as of June 30th and the vacancy was filled by the election of John G. Bausher. Under our present mill management we have reached a higher state of efficiency and economy and are turning out a higher quality of work than we have heretofore reached, and the morale and team-play of our entire administration is in every way admirable."

President Thompson also referred to the effective work of the plant safety committees in reducing the number of accidents; to the fact that the company was now carrying about one million and a half dollars of life insurance on the lives of 2253 employees; to the establishment of an employees' mutual benefit association at Pawtucket branch similar to that organized in 1922 at the Silver Springs branch and to the institution of a series of general meetings of foremen of all plants with the executives of the company with talks by the officers of the company and the opportunity afforded to groups interested in particular phases of the company's work to discuss problems of mutual interest.

The following directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year:

John G. Bausher, Montclair, N. J.; Edward A. Greene, Passaic, N. J.; William T. Joyce, Pawtucket, R. I.; John P. Huntington, Norwich, Conn.; Andrew C. Imbrie, New York, N. Y.; Henry F. Lippitt, Providence, R. I.; Jesse H. Metcalf, Providence, R. I.; George S. Mumford, Boston, Mass.; Henry B. Thompson, Greenville, Del.; Herbert J. Wells, Kingston, R. I.; Charles A. Wimpfheimer, New York, N. Y.

Most of the stockholders were represented by proxy. Among those present at the meeting were: Roy D. Judd, William B. Young, J. P. Huntington, Albert T. Bard, Henry B. Thompson, Herbert J. Wells, John F. Rogers, Andrew C. Imbrie, Thomas R. Wilson, James T. Purdon, Frank L. Woodard, Charles D. Noyes, William H. Oat.

AUTOMOBILE RAN OVER MAN ON BROADWAY

John W. Burke of 26 Elmwood avenue, a member of the firm of Shea & Burke, was run over but only slightly injured by an automobile in Broadway early Thursday afternoon in front of the City lunch. The driver of the car, Gerald Carty of 31 Monroe street reported to the police that Mr. Burke had stumbled and fallen in front of the car and that the accident was unavoidable. He took Mr. Burke to the office of Dr. Louis T. Cassidy where it was found that his injuries were only of a minor character.

Carty, who is not yet a licensed driver, stated that he had intended to get his license Thursday. He was accompanied by a licensed driver at the time of the accident.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS PUT OUT FOREST FIRE

Twenty scouts under the direction of Fire Warden Benton put out a forest fire that burned over 75 acres in the edge of Mohegan park, just beyond Ox hill Thursday afternoon. Scouts were called out soon after 1 o'clock by Mr. Benton from the Town street school and the Broadway school and as soon as they could get there representatives from Troops 1, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 13 and 20 fought the fire with brooms, wet bags, pumps and other utensils. The fire was first discovered in the woods of Mr. Beebe and Mr. Bushnell. The fire was extinguished near the Lepan place by the owners but it kept creeping toward the park and probably would have burned a large part of the park itself including the reforested white pine area, if the scouts had not responded. Fortunately the wind was blowing in a favorable direction or very serious damage might have resulted. Two scouts patrolled the burned-over area Thursday night to prevent further outbreak.

SUDDEN DEATH OF NORWICH BUSINESS MAN

The death of Archibald Mitchell, Jr., of 313 Washington street, son of Mrs. Mary Foley Mitchell and the late Archibald Mitchell, ocurred suddenly at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Backus hospital where he had gone to have several teeth removed. Mr. Mitchell had been suffering for several months past with trouble with his teeth and only recently consulted with specialists in New York, who advised him to have his teeth extracted and his tonsils removed. Suffering at that time with a cold Mr. Mitchell put it off to give himself time to recuperate a bit. On Monday last he arranged to have the operation done

ARCHIBALD MITCHELL, JR.

Thursday morning and he walked to the hospital from his home nearby. It was while under the ether that his heart gave out without warning. Four teeth had been extracted when the end came and a dentist and a doctor were in attendance upon him.

Seven physicians who conferred in regard to his case Thursday morning agreed that Mr. Mitchell had a case of myocarditis, a disease of the heart, which is extremely hard to detect. They also expressed the opinion that had he not undergone the operation Thursday he would not have lived more than two or three months, in fact, his condition was such that he might have expired at any time.

With the exception of a few years, Mr. Mitchell had been a resident of Norwich all his life. He was born here December 23, 1877, and graduated from the local grammar schools and from the Norwich Free Academy in the class of 1897. He then attended the College of Physicians and Surgeons at New York. Returning to Norwich he was with the Porteous & Mitchell company for several years, then went to Grand Rapids, Mich., where he was with Charles Trankla & Co., the Grand Rapids store of the Porteous & Mitchell Co. Returning to Norwich he became superintendent of the Norwich store and also as a director. For the past five years he had served the company as treasurer.

Mr. Mitchell was married in Norwich, June 1, 1909, to Miss Harriet Cook Frisbie, daughter of Calvin H. Frisbie of McKinley avenue. Surviving are his wife, four children, Archibald Frisbie, Marion Taft, Allen Honeyman and Katherine Mitchell, his mother, and two sisters, Mrs. Edith Mitchell Olds of Englewood, N. J., and Miss Isabel Mitchell of this city.

Mr. Mitchell was a 32d degree Mason and had always taken interest in the work of the several lodges of Norwich. He was raised in the Blue lodge at Grand Rapids, Michigan, becoming affiliated with Valley City lodge, No. 36. When he returned to Norwich he took his demit to the local bodies and was next raised in Franklin Chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., Franklin Council, No. 3, R. & S. M., Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., King Solomon lodge of Perfection, Van Rensselaer Council, Princes of Jerusalem, Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix, Connecticut Consistory, and on September 16, 1922, was made a 33d degree Mason.

In Masonic circles Mr. Mitchell was past master of Franklin Council, past master of the Lodge of Perfection, Past Sovereign Prince of Van Rensselaer Council, past master of Norwich Chapter Rose Croix and at the time of his death was second lieutenant commander of the Connecticut Consistory. In 1917 as master of the Norwich Chapter Rose Croix he carried out the solemn ceremonial Maundy Thursday for the first time in the history of Norwich, and since that time it has been done several times, and was carried out Thursday evening at New London by the Norwich Chapter. For his work in Masonry Mr. Mitchell received great commendation.

He was a man of high standing in this community and was true to every fine ideal. He was a member of the Norwich Golf club, of the Norwich Fish & Game association and every year summered at his cottage at Gardner Lake where he took great pleasure in entertaining his many friends. For a number of years he had resided with his parents on Broadway but a few years ago took up his residence at 313 Washington street.

Mr. Mitchell's love for the out-of-doors led him to become one of the charter members of the Norwich Fish & Game association and he took great interest in the activities of the association, entering the various meets held each summer at Gardner lake. He had done much fishing in northern waters especially for salmon at the lodge owned by his father on the Restigouche river, New Brunswick, and for trout in the Laurentian mountains, Canada. He had also fished extensively in Maine and New Hampshire waters. He was interested to a great extent in Gardner Lake and was one of the small band of local anglers who saw to it that the lake was constantly stocked with black bass fingerlings. He inherited his love of fishing from his father who in his day was considered the most skillful caster of flies on the Restigouche and who had fished in many famous waters in this country, Canada and Scotland.

A delightful companion, warmhearted and hospitable, Mr. Mitchell had many friends who learned of his sudden death with the deepest regret.

The store of the Porteous & Mitchell company was closed at 1 o'clock on Thursday and in respect to the memory of Mr. Mitchell will remain closed until after the funeral.

It keeps some men busy inventing schemes to separate other men from their money.

GAVE INDIAN TALK FOR PRESTON PARENT-TEACHERS

The April meeting of the Preston Parent-Teacher association was largely attended, when held at the Poquetanuck school house.

After the business meeting which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Appleton Maine, a fine program was enjoyed. Mrs. H. J. Gallup gave a reading from F. Hopkinson Smith.; Miss Ethel Mosher gave several selections on the saxophone accompanied by Frank Shea, banjo.

Arthur L. Peale of Norwich gave his very [illegible] and instructive talk on the early history of the Indians of Co[illegible]d numerous anecdotes and legends of the Red Man, many of which were of local interest. Mr. Peale brought with him a fine collection of Indian relics, many of which had been found by him.

S. H. Reed announced the annual spelling and speaking contest of the town of Preston, which will take place April 25. At this time there will be exhibition of some of the physical training work of the schools. The contest will be held at the Parish house.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

FLORIDA FISHING BY MR. AND MRS. OLCOTT

Florida fishing in which the fish they catch are measured by scores and their weight by hundreds of pounds is falling to the lot of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Olcott of Church St., who are at Tarpon Inn, Useppa Island, Lee county, Fla. In a letter to a Norwich friend Mr. Olcott writes:

I want to give you an idea of what fishing is like down here when the king fish strikes on as they did on the 9th inst. The king fish is of the mackerel family, a hard striking, gamy fish, quick as chain lightning. They run as high as 45 pounds and bring 6 1-2 cents a pound here, so they are worth taking. Mrs. Olcott, the guide and I went out at 8 a. m., the 9th, arrived at the fishing grounds three miles out in the gulf at 9 a. m. There were 50 other boats out all circling round in a half mile area.

The fish were ravenous and myriads of them. They would strike a foot astern of the boat just as the spoon hit the water, four or five trying to get the spoon at once. They were actually ferocious and struck like tigers, the line whipping through the water like a knife blade as they fought.

We fished for four hours and had the largest catch of any guide boat. We caught in that time 200 kings and five gronpers. The total weight of the kings was 1063 pounds, the gronpers 58 pounds. The first three hours we caught 180, 300 lbs. an hour, a fish every minute for three hours. The last hour we caught only 20 fish. The guide got $65 for his catch. Both my hands were bleeding till I put on gloves. We had a number of 12, 14 and 16 pound kings and two 19 pounders. Later I caught a 20 pound king and received a silver king fish button presented by the Isaac Walton club.

Mr. and Mrs. Olcott expect to be home on the 19th of the month.

Committed to State Hospital.

Mrs. Annie Przetasznik of Putnam, has been committed to the state hospital at Norwich. Since her husband left for parts unknown, it has been necessary to send the three oldest children of the family, Chester, Helen and John, to the Windham county children's home, and to board out the two youngest.

Some people are solemn enough to make an undertaker laugh.

FINED IN FRANKLIN FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Edward Mitterer of 285 Laurel Hill avenue pleaded guilty to the charge of reckless driving of an automobile when he was presented Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in a justice court at Franklin, with Justice William Brassil presiding. He was fined $25 and costs which he paid. Grand Juror C. H. Lathrop presented the complaint, which followed an accident last Sunday night when the machine driven by Mitterer left the road and plunged into a stone wall at the Frink farm on the Willimantic road. The automobile had a wheel broken off and toppled over on its side knocking stones out of the wall.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

This Store will be closed until after the funeral, out of respect to the memory of A. MITCHELL, JR.

700 TO 800 AUTOMOBILES IN BLOCKADE ON THE ARIZONA-CALIFORNIA BOUNDARY

Arizona is Enforcing Embargo on Motorists Coming From California—Half of the Occupants of the Cars are Without Food and Many of Them Are Sick—State Troops Have Been Ordered to Yuma and Casa Grange to Stop the Advance of Motorists.

Yuma, Ariz., April 19—Between 700 and 800 automobile travelers, eastbound, half of them hungry and without food, and many of them sick, are banked against the west end of the Yuma bridge clamoring for permission to cross Arizona. Arizona quarantine commission guards and local guards holding the Yuma, Ariz., side of the bridge, with a chain in front of them, have been disarmed to prevent bloodshed, but the Arizona authorities declare they are determined to hold the blockade fast another 24 hours.

Yuma authorities declare that Imperial county, California, authorities today cut the chain penning these people back of the Indian reservation in California and permitted them to crowd toward the bridge.

Governor Hunt has telegraphed the local authorities that a company of infantry is on the way to aid in maintaining the quarantine line. Yuma authorities already have sent half a dozen of the sick travelers to the Yuma county hospital.

The troops will be sent on recommendation of the county attorney of Yuma county, who reported local authorities were unable to cope with the situation, according to the announcement.

The motorists reached the Colorado river bridge at 5 p. m. They were met by a large force of deputy sheriffs.

POSITIONS ASSIGNED TO STATE GUARDSMEN

Phoenix, Ariz., April 18—State troops have been ordered to Yuma to stop the advance of motorists coming from California in violation of the state's embargo, it was announced at the governor's office tonight.

Adjutant General Harris, acting on orders of Governor Hunt, ordered four national guardsmen and one officer to proceed from Casa Grande, Ariz., to Yuma, with one machine gun.

The men are member sof Company D, and are under command of Lieutenant Jesse B. Hill. Four other guardsmen were ordered to proceed to Yuma from Phoenix.

The guardsmen were ordered to leave for their destination immediately and should arrive in Yuma within a few hours.

Some of the motorists succeeded in getting on the bridge, but none has reached the Arizona side.

The adjutant general said he believed the eight guardsmen and Lieutenant Hill could handle the situation at Yuma. "If more men are needed, they will be made available."

MOTOR CAVALCADE HAS SWEPT INTO ARIZONA

Yuma, Ariz., April 18—The California motor cavalcade swept by the guards into Arizona tonight.

Riot calls have been turned in and every available officer in Yuma county and the fire department have rushed to the bridge bent on stopping the rush.

The situation was tense in Yuma. Several thousand persons had crowded to points near the bridge. It was later announced that none of the bridge inspectors and guards are armed. There was no shooting.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Phoenix, Ariz., April 18—Arizona will be "courting disaster" by modifying its embargo against Californian products and vehicular traffic, Governor Hunt declared in a message to President Coolidge tonight.

The message was in response to one from the president in which he suggested that some of the quarantine measures now imposed by states touching California, "are altogether more severe than necessary to fully safeguard them from the foot and mouth disease.

The president's message said in part:

"The federal department of agriculture is acting vigorously to control the foot and mouth disease and is rigidly quarantining infected areas and preventing movement of disease carrying animals and commodities.

"In view of the foregoing, I feel that some quarantine measures now imposed by states touching California are altogether more severe than necessary to fully safeguard them from the disease. These quarantines, if continued will result in wholly unnecessary hardships and in loss of many millions of dollars to growers of fruits and vegetables and other commodities which do not carry the disease.

"I suggest immediate conference of authorities of the states interested and the modification of quarantine regulations to meet requirements necessary to furnish full protection. In view of this I suggest that other states should not interfere with necessary movement of farm commodities from territory not affected. Unnecessary losses should not be incurred because of unnecessary quarantines."

Governor Hunt's reply reads

"When foot and mouth disease was confined to three bay counties in California, officials of the department of agriculture and California authorities assured me it was under control and urged modification of the quarantine order of this state. I complied with their suggestion but their prediction proved erroneous and the disease has spread to several counties in that state.

"Last advice here is that there are several outbreaks in Los Angeles, Merced and San Joaquin counties affecting several hundred head of cattle, hogs and goats.

"Business, banking, agriculture, stock raising and dairy interest of this state are practically unanimous against any modification quarantine and the pressure on me is to make it even more stringent and apply it to passengers on railroad trains passing through this state."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

To Be Deported From Hawaii.

Honolulu, April 18.—Thirteen Chinese and one Japanese will be returned to the Orient next week, having failed to prove their claims to enter Hawaii, according to a statement today by A. E. Burnett, chief of the immigration forces.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The Senate passed the immigration bill, 62 to 6.

Early hearings on the world court proposal were ordered by the senate foreign relations committee.

The senate patents committee continued its hearings on the question of copyright fees in radio broadcasting.

G. B. Moore, traffic manager of the shipping board in Europe, testified before the house shipping board investigating committee.

Federal reserve board officials testified before the house banking committee on the McFadden bill to amend the national bank act.

Democratic leaders considered the advisability of withholding efforts to amend the soldier bonus bill on reports that President Coolidge might approve the measure as it is.

The senate oil committee examined William Cooper Procter and others in its quest for information regarding reports of oil influence at the 1920 republican national convention.

Chairman Winslow denied and democratic members of the committee reaffirmed that the house commerce committee was holding back the Barkley bill to abolish the railroad labor board.

H. L. Scaife told the Daugherty investigating committee he had heard that some seized liquor which disappeared from storage here went to the office of Speaker Gillett. The latter denied it.

The department of agriculture, it was announced, will call a conference of western states representatives in an endeavor to obtain agreement on foot and mouth disease embargoes imposed by states.

The house passed the annual appropriation bill for the departments of state, justice, commerce and labor, carrying $68,000,000, including provision for increased pay for immigration inspectors.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON WORLD COURT PROPOSALS

Washington, April 18.—Proposals for American adherence to the world court, which have been slumbering in the senate foreign relations committee, will be brought out for a public hearing in the near future.

This was decided upon today by the committee, but Chairman Lodge and other members indicated this did not mean an early report would be made to the senate on any of the several propositions that have been advanced, among them the original proposal submitted by President Harding more than a year ago.

Committee action today was confined solely to the granting of a request of a number of organizations favorable to the world court idea that they be heard. A sub committee of five, with Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, as chairman, was named to conduct the hearings.

Senators said there had been little discussion in the committee and there were no renewals of charges recently made in the senate by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, that Senator Lodge was preventing action on the matter. At that time the republican leader declared no senators had pressed for action and that they could do so, at any time.

INCREASE IN PERSONNEL OF THE STATE POLICE

Hartford, April 18.—Increases in state police personnel to the largest number enrolled in the history of the department has been ordered by the state police commission as a result of an agreement entered into with the state highway department for the protection of traffic at points where highways are under construction or repair.

Twenty additional state policemen have been appointed by the police commission within the past few days, of whom sixteen are to be special officers detailed to the state highway department and paid from its appropriations. The arrangement swells the membership of the police department to upwards of 100 men, although the numerical strength of regular state policemen is limited to eight men by state law.

The additional policemen are appointed under a section of the law which authorizes Superintendent Hurley, with the approval of the state police commission to appoint special policemen when warranted. The special men, while indirectly paid from highway department funds and engaged in highway department work, will be furnished with regulation state police uniforms and other equipment, and subject to state police orders. They will have substantially the same authority to make arrests and investigations, at the particular points where they are stationed, and elsewhere when necessary, as regular state policemen.

An unprecedented increase in motor vehicles in the state at a time when the state highway department is at the peak of its operations, thereby complicating the traffic situation, is chiefly responsible for the arrangement made by the two departments.

MAN KILLED BY "DRY" AGENTS IN NEW YORK

New York, April 18.—Prohibition agents tonight shot and killed Thomas Monteforte and seriously wounded his son Michael when the two men resisted attempts to raid a garage where a quantity of alleged whiskey was seized.

Monteforte was said to have been the owner of the garage and the agents told police one of the men drew a pistol who they demanded to know the whereabouts of 30 cases of liquor they had learned were hidden in the building. The agents fired and the elder Monteforte was shot in the head and killed instantly, while the younger man was shot in the back.

No Liquor Sent to his Office, Gillett Says

Declares There Is Not the Slightest Truth in Testimony Before the Daugherty Committee.

Washington, April 18—Speaker Gillett in a formal statement late today declared there was not the "slightest truth in the testimony (before the Daugherty investigating committee) that liquor from the department of justice went to my office."

VARIETY OF SUBJECTS AT DAUGHERTY HEARING

Washington, April 18—Testimony at an unexpectedly arranged session today of the senate committee investigating the department of Justic dealt with a variety of subjects, including mysterious disappearances of confiscated liquors, bootlegging and bootlegging prosecutions, and war frauds cases.

Once or twice committee members balked at the ramifications introduced notably when one witness said he had heard that "two bottles" of confiscated intoxicants had been sent at one time to the office of Speaker Gillett of the house. Mr. Gillett later denied the charge in a formal statement. Adjournment was taken until Monday when committee members said the handling of anti-trust cases by the department of justice and the federal trade commission would be given attention.

H. L. Scaife, former investigator of war fraud cases for the department of justice, spent most of the day on the stand. Called to testify for the fourth time, he promptly introduced the subject of whiskey smuggling through Savannah and was then excused to permit Clark Grier, another agent of the department of justice, to tell about that matter from first hand information.

PROVIDENCE MAN HELD FOR WEST HAVEN POLICE

Waterbury, April 18.—Robert Doyle, of 212 Broad street, Providence, R. I., who was arrested in this city yesterday afternoon because of his inability to answer questions regarding an automobile found in his possession, to the satisfaction of the police, and who later was charged with burglary, was today ordered held for the West Haven police, under bonds of $5,000. Doyle is the second person to be arrested in the past week for the West Haven police in connection with the robbery of a West Haven home one night last week, during which robbery a large amount of liquor was stolen. Doyle was charged with connection with the burglary after he had been inspected and questioned by one of the officers engaged in investigating the West Haven break.

149TH ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF LEXINGTON

Boston, April 18.—Two lights burned in the belfry of Boston's Old North church tonight on the eve of the 149th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord, opening conflicts of the Revolutionary war. Early tomorrow the roads which, a century and a half ago, echoed with the hoofbeats of the horses of Paul Revere and William Dawes, will re-echo as two horsemen, starting from Boston, will pass over the historic routes followed by the Revolutionary heroes.

In sharp contrast to the old-time touch of the reenacted ride will be the roar of the motors of airplanes which will follow the two riders. The rides will signalize the opening of Patriots' day exercises.

TRAGEDIENNE DUSE ILL IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 18.—Mme. Eleanora Duse, noted tragedienne, is "very seriously ill," in a hotel here, with an attack of influenza, Dr. Charles J. Barone, the attending physician, declared in a statement issued tonight. She was taken ill after her performance here April 5.

"Her condition became very critical on April 9," the statement said, "but since then a marked improvement was noticed until April 16, when a relapse occurred. She has improved some during the past 24 hours, but is still very seriously ill."

Immigration Bill Passed by Senate

Vote Was 62 to 6—Slightly More Restrictive Than Measure Passed by the House Last Week.

Washington, April 18.—The immigration bill of 1924, carrying substantially the same provisions relating to Asiatic exclusion and other important changes in basic policy recently approved by the house, was passed tonight by the senate by a vote of 62 to 6.

On the final roll call, as upon every important test vote taken since the measure was first reported, the senate registered its decision by a larger majority even than in the house,

KLAN JUDGE SUSTAINS WALTON DEMURRERS

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 18.—Judge A. S. Wells sustained demurrers of J. C. Walton, deposed governor, to five charges of converting public funds, and freed Walton of all charges in state district court late today.

The charges have been pending five months.

Concluding the statement of his decision, Judge Wells said:

"I based my opinion solely upon the laws of Oklahoma, and I hope that J. C. Walton will be fair enough to say that he got a square deal from at least one klansman."

Walton was charged with having caused T. P. Edwards, his personal chauffeur, to be paid with funds of the state health department.

The allegations were identical with those on the same subject which were included in the bill of impeachment on which he was removed from office.

Judge Wells based his action on the statute which reads: "Any state employ or deputy of such who shall divert any funds from the original object shall be guilty of felony."

He ruled that Walton could not have done this since the funds alleged to have been diverted were in the custody of Dr. A. E. Davenport, then state health commissioner.

J. E. Wright, county attorney, gave notice of an appeal.

Charges of diverting funds are pending against Dr. Davenport and Edwards.

PLAN WIDENING OF THE BOSTON POST ROAD

Hartford, April 18.—Widening of the Boston Post road from its present width of about 18 feet to 36 feet from the New York state line to New Haven, is contemplated in plans now being carried out by the state highway department, it became known today. The proposition was decided upon after a proposal to build a parallel highway to alleviate congested traffic had been rejected. The 36-foot road will be one of the few of its kind in the country, and is the outstanding development in the road program for the next five years.

The work will be carried out at Greenwich, Darien and Cos Cob, through to Bridgeport and then along the Milford turnpike to New Haven. Complete hard surfacing of all through main line routes in the state is also considered which will give the state hard surfaced roads from all transportation centers to the New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island state lines.

LANSING FOR MEMBER OF MEXICAN CLAIMS COMMISSION

Washington, April 18.—Indications were given at the White House today that the appointment of Robert Lansing as an American member of one of the two Mexican claims commissions had been prevented by the development that the former secretary of state in his legal capacity represented some interests likely to become claimants before the commissions.

President Coolidge regards Mr. Lansing as an ideal man for a place on one of the commissions but the inquiry which it was indicated had been made, brought out that some of his legal connections would prevent him from accepting the appointment. Mr. Lansing said today he had not been approached regarding any such appointment.

EASTERTIDE

Oh, rare as the splendor of lilies
And sweet as the violet's breath,
Comes the jubilant morning of Easter,
A triumph of life over death;
For fresh from the earth's quickened bosom
Full baskets of flowers we bring,
And scatter their satin-soft petals
To carpet a path for our king.

In the countless green blades of the meadows.
The sheen of the daffodil's gold,
In the tremulous blue on the mountains,
The opaline mist on the wold,
In the tinkle of brooks through the pasture,
The river's strong sweep to the sea,
Are signs of the day that is hasting
In gladness to you and to me.

So dawn in thy splendor of lilies,
Thy fluttering violet breath,
Oh, jubilant morning of Easter,
Thou triumph of life over death!
For fresh from the earth's quickened bosom,
Full baskets of flowers we bring,
And scatter their satin-soft petals
To carpet a path for our king.

Twelve Firemen Are Unaccounted For and Two Spectators Are Missing—Many of Those Buried in the Debris Are Believed to Have Perished — Frantic Efforts Are Being Made to Bring Forth Alive Some of Those Imprisoned—Fire Was in a Four Story Box Factory—Some Spectators Said They Heard an Explosion Just Before the Building Collapsed.

Chicago, April 18.—Five firemen are known to have been killed and a score of other firemen and spectators were buried beneath the falling walls of a burning four story box factory on the West Side tonight. Many of those buried in the debris are believed to have perished.

The names of three of the firemen known to have perished are:

Captain John Brennan, Mike Devine, and Francis Levy. Henry Beolaig, James Carroll and Robert Davy, three other firemen are in a hospital not expected to live, and twelve other firemen are unaccounted for. Two spectators are missing.

A dozen firemen were standing on the fire escape between the second and third floors when the roof of the stone building crashed in, carrying down two floors beneath. The wall against which the firemen were groped collapsed and the firemen were thrown into the flaming debris.

A water tower which had been placed in front of the building was wrecked and a dozen more firemen and spectators who had crowded through police lines, were struck by bricks and stones. Some of these were believed to have been killed or injured so badly they may die.

Among other firemen who have been unaccounted for is Battalion Chief Henry Kerr, and Lieutenant James Frosh.

No effort was made to identify first victims removed from the building, the firemen bending their effort to the task of raking the ruins in a frantic attempt to bring forth alive some of those imprisoned. Two firemen were removed from the building but are so badly burned that it was thought they will die.

Some of the spectators said they heard an explosion just before the building collapsed. Others however said there had been no explosion, and that the fire had eaten its way through the top of its structure.

The factory building was occupied by the Elegant Paper Box company and the Illinois Leather Goods company. Thousands of spectators gathered to watch the battle with the flames and many of these were among those injured when the walls collapsed. Gas from broken mains in the building caused frequent small explosions.

Rev. E. A. Jonas, of the Holy Family church went to the fire from his home a short distance away and said he had administered the last rites of his church to three men he saw in the ruins. He said he believed two others were dead in the debris.

A policeman reported he had seen one fireman blown against a plate glass window and believed the fireman was either seriously injured or killed. He said he was busy trying to hold the crowds back and did not have time to go to the rescue of the fireman.

DENBY'S PART IN LEASING NAVAL OIL RESERVES

Adrian, Mich., April 18.—Full responsibility for the initiation of the policy which resulted in the leasing of the naval oil reserves was assumed here tonight by Edwin Denby around whom raged a storm of criticism in the senate before his retirement last month as secretary of the navy.

"Had I not taken the action I did to protect the interests of the navy in these reserves against the tremendous loss of drainage," he declared in an address, "I would have been false to my trust and culpably negligent in the performance of my duty."

Replying to what he said had been an insinuation of collusion on his part in connection with the oil leases, Mr. Denby said he had never been talked to about the naval petroleum reserve situation before he entered the cabinet by the president-elect or by any of his cabinet or other advisers.

"My appointment was somewhat unexpected," he said, "and was not until about February 25. Therefore, there was no collusion as to any acts to be performed by me—although even that insinuation has been made."

"Shortly after taking office, it was represented to me that drainage of the reserves was proceeding rapidly and offset wells were necessary. Believing that the department of the interior was best qualified to handle for the navy its enormously valuable reserves, I turned to the interior department for advice on the subject. I then asked the secretary of the interior if he could not take over the administrative control of the naval petroleu mreserves, Secretary Fall did not ask me, I asked him. I wanted to stop the squandering of an invaluable resource.

"Later on—Oct. 16, 1921—after discussion of the subject with the council of the secretary of the navy, I gave Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, engineer-in-chief of the navy, charge of the oil reserves under the naval establishment."

HOMICIDE CHARGE AGAINST HOFFMAN

New York, April 18.—With Harry Hoffman, a motion picture operator, charged with homicide for the death of Mrs. Maude Bauer in Chelsea, Staten Island, on March 24, detectives late today said that another man, perhaps two, would be taken as material witnesses soon.

Hoffman, who pleaded not guilty, was arraigned after a seven hour grilling. He was held without bail for further examination.

Hoffman's arrest, according to the police, resulted from information furnished by Russell Van Name, one of two boys who found the body of Mrs. Bauer by the side of a lonely road. A few minutes before, she had accepted a ride with a man who had offered to get help in pulling her own car out of a sandbank. She had been shot with a .25 calibre revolver.

Hoffman's story, the police said, was conflicting in many respects, especially with regard to his ownership and disposal of a revolver. He at first denied ever owning a .25 calibre weapon, but later admitted he had, saying he had sent it to his brother in the Bronx four days after the crime, the police asserted. He admitted destroying the holster, it was declared, fearing that his possession of the weapon might cause suspicion to be directed against him.

THEFT OF SUITS AND FUR COATS IN HARTFORD

Hartford, April 18.—Forty men's suits valued at about $2,000 and four women's fur coats worth nearly $500 were stolen between 10 o'clock last night and 7 this morning from the local branch of H. H. Butler Stores, Inc., on Trumbull street.

No money was taken but Detective Sergeant Robert T. Sutherland, who is in charge of the investigation, said today that the thieves must have been connoisseurs of clothing since they took the highest priced goods in stock. He believes the robbery may have been done by the trio who took $4,000 worth of clothing from the store two years ago.

The stolen clothing was all new and had just been delivered for the Easter trade.

RESERVE BOARD REPORT ON FOREIGN EXCHANGES

Washington, April 18.—The federal reserve board took notice of currency reforms in certain European countries in a statement tonight on European conditions abroad. The board declared that gratifying progress had been made during the past six months in the stabilization of exchanges, although there have been wide fluctuations, particularly in French, British and Japanese exchange.

The Italian exchange has become quite stable, the board noted, with a maximum range in recent months from 4.59 cents in October to 4.13 cents in March and with a prevailing rate of about 4.3 cents.

With the exception of Poland and Hungary, the eastern and central European countries generally have in recent months experienced only comparatively minor currency fluctuations, according to the board's information. In Austria and the Balkan states, a considerable degree of stabilization has been effected through currency reform and the board expects further measures in the same direction.

In Germany and Russia, the two countries whose currencies have suffered the greatest depreciation, the board said, currency reform measures had greatly reduced exchange fluctuations in the past few months. There was also noted a general tendency of international cooperation for stabilization of exchange through enactment of reform measures in currency.

BUFFALO POLICE ARE ON TRAIL OF BOMBERS

Buffalo, N. Y., April 18.—United States authorities today took up the trail of bombers who last night wrecked the home of the Rev. Luther B. H. Smith in Black Rock. Rev. Smith is expected to testify for the government against alleged liquor law violators, arrested in raids in which the minister had taken part and for which he had aided in the collection of evidence. Charges of attempting to intimidate a federal witness would be pressed, the federal authorities said.

United States District Attorney William Donovan, who was out of the city when the bombing occurred, telegraphed from Concord, N. H., that he was returning immediately to take personal charge of the federal investigation. The department of justice at Washington had been requested, Colonel Donovan's message said, to send additional federal agents to Buffalo to aid in the bomb investigation.

Rev. Smith accompanied David A. Mayns, special investigator of the Buffalo Council of Churches and Assistant to the minister in his unofficial capacity of dry crusader and several federal prohibition agents on a raid of a drug store in Ontario street, this afternoon, a short distance from the Ontario United Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Smith is pastor. It was alleged that threats against the pastor's life had been overheard in the store by Mayns.

SMUGGLING JAPANESE INTO THE COUNTRY

Seattle, Wash., April 18.—Luther T. Weedin, United States immigration commissioner, announced today that a plot to smuggle Japanese into this country had been unearthed and that 16 Japanese had been arrested in the last four days in western Washington as a result.

WOULD-BE PRESIDENT OF MEXICO IS IN WASHINGTON

Mobile, Ala., April 18—Adolfo de la Huerta would be president of Mexico is in Washington, and has been there since he returned from a Rochester, Minn., sanitarium where he was operated upon according to Senor Gonzales, of Villa Hermosa, Tobasco, Mexico, who arrived here today from Frontera.

Denial by Huerta Agents

Washington, April 18—De la Huerta representatives here denied categorically tonight the statement that the revolutionary chairman was in Washington. He had not been in Washington or any other American city, it was added, nor had he left Mexican territory.

SENATE CONSIDERING SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, April 18.—The soldier bonus bill was taken under consideration by the senate tonight with the prediction by Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, its sponsor, that only a "few days" would be necessary for its passage.

A political skirmish marked its official entry before the senate with democrats withholding temporarily their proposal for inclusion in the bill of an option for full cash payments to veterans.

Senators Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, asked Senator Curtis to seek the views of President Coolidge on on the bill as passed by the house and ordered reported by the senate finance committee with the 20 year endowment policy provision.

"If these reports are true," Senator Harrison said, "that are coming to us through American Legion officers, that President Coolidge will sign the pending bill but would veto a measure with a full cash payment option we democrats will gladly expedite passage of this measure."

Meanwhile, Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, introduced a substitute bill providing for the insurance policies or a full cash payment option, which he said he may offer.

Previously Senator Curtis, in reply to questions of Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Harrison, declared he did not know the attitude of the president on the pending measure.

D. A. R. MEMBERS VISITED TOMB OF WASHINGTON

Washington, April 18.—Accompanied by representatives of America's Revolutionary war ally and enemy, Daughters of the American Revolution journeyed to Mount Vernon today and paid homage to George Washington, and his wife, with eulogies and by laying wreaths on the sarcophagi at the tomb. A steady downfall of rain failed to prevent many of the Daughters from participating in the annual pilgrimage in which France's ambassador, Jules J. Jusserand, and Britain's ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, joined.

A memorial service constituted the morning session of the fifth day of the 33rd Continental Congress, when tributes were paid to departed leaders of the society.

OBITUARY

Julius Augur.

Meriden, April 18.—Julius Augur, 78, on his 53rd year as quartermaster of Merriam post, G. A. R., and a past commander, died today after a long illness. He was a retired marketman, former city superintendent of streets and a former fire commissioner and alderman. In the Civil war he served in the 15th Connecticut Volunteers. He leaves a wife and three children.

APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Washington, April 18. — Carrying $68,000,000, the house today passed and sent to the senate the annual supply bill for the departments of state, justice, commerce and labor.

Of this amount the state department would receive $14,58.000; the department of justice $21,364,000; and the department of commerce $23,769,00. The labor department's appropriation of $6,786,000 was increased by $1,200,000 for additional pay of immigration inspectors on the Mexican and Canadian borders.

As passed the measure shows an increase of $4,300,000 over last year, as the amounts include an appropriation of $3,500,000, made once every five years, for the census of agriculture. Exclusive of this appropriation, the amount made available is $1,000,000 more than requested by the budget bureau. Unamended, the measure provided for $214,000 less than the bureau request.

The increase in pay for immigration inspectors was written into the bill by a vote of 72 to 58.

Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee proposed an amendment to increase the amount from $3,300,000 to $4,300,000. A substitute to this proposal, to raise the amount to $4,500,000, was offered by Representative Hudspeth, democrat, Texas, and adopted. Members of the immigration committee warned the amendment, pointing out the additional funds would enable the maintenance of 486 inspectors on both the Canadian and Mexican borders.

Adoption of the proposal was urged as a means of breaking up smuggling of aliens across the two borders. Several members pointed out that by taking steps to restrict the illegal entry of aliens, the house would act in keeping with the policy embodied in the Johnson immigration bill.

Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee opposed the measure. He said he favored the principles it set forth, but believed no additional expenditure should be authorized until the proper sub-appropriations committee could have an opportunity to conduct hearings.

Mr. Johnson and other members of the immigration committee asserted the matter had been considered during hearings on the immigration bill and that the increase was advisable.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS TAKE BUSINESS SUBJECTS

New York, April 18.—Twenty-five per cent of the 2,500,000 public school pupils of the country are taking business subjects, Allen L. Swiggett, of the United States bureau of education told the Eastern Commercial Teachers' association, in convention here.

"A widely directed program of vocational guidance and placement would seem necessary," he said, adding that teachers of business subjects should acquire more direct business contracts to widen their experience.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
81 Church St. Telephone 1052

Loud cries issuing from the tailor shop conducted by Morris Gordon in the Clark Block on Church street Friday afternoon attracted the attention of other occupants of the building. Dr. E. E. Gerton hurried down the stairs from his office on the floor above and after one glance at the situation he ran down to Main street and secured police officers. Patrolmen Arthur M. Hurley and Laramee went to the Gordon establishment. They found the owner with a deep cut under the left eye. Blood was streaming down his face. John J. Holland a local man stood beside the man and appeared to be in an excited state of mind. Holland and Gordon were taken to the police station and booked on charges of assault. Bonds of $100 were furnished in each case for the appearance of the two men in police court this (Saturday) morning.

Holland, an employe of the Southern New England Telephone Company claims that Wednesday evening he took a three-piece suit to Gordon for alterations and pressing. The clothes were to be ready for him Friday forenoon. Holland called for them and Gordon started to wrap them up but according to the customer the vest was missing. When asked for the vest Gordon went across the street to a cleaning and dyeing establishment, to inquire about the garment missing. When he returned he told Holland that as near as he could find the vest was not with the suit. Holland then decided that he would take the suit along as it was and when he returned from New Haven Monday he would come in and pay for the work as the vest would probably have been found by that time. He started to leave when Gordon stopped him and asked him for the money before he took the suit. This led to an argument and according to Holland, Gordon struck him and called him vile names. Holland struck back and at this point the fight was stopped by the appearance of a man in the doorway. While awaiting the arrival of the officer, Holland alleges that Gordon continued to use vile language.

Gordon's version of the story is that Holland had left a two-piece suit to be fixed over and pressed. Gordon insists that there was no vest. Gordon said that when he asked for the money before the suit was taken away, Holland struck him. Ford. Some one then came to the door and said that they would go for the police.

Gordon he claims that when he was struck he had his glasses on and that accounts for the deep cut under his eye. The place was searched Friday forenoon for glasses, or the parts thereof, but they could not be found. Gordon said that he could not tell where they had gone to. Gordon was given medical attention at the office of Dr. F. E. Wilcox. Four stitches were required to close the wash although Gordon claims that he did not strike Holland first or at any time during the conflict, the latter in said he gave also gone to a physician to have marks in his face treated.

The criminal business of the present term of the Windham County superior court will be cleared up during the next session of court, Wednesday of next week, it was stated by State's Attorney Charles E. Searls at the close of court in this city Thursday afternoon. Four defendants pleaded not guilty and elected to have their cases heard by jury at the opening of the term. Three of that number later changed their pleas to guilty and sentences were imposed. The case of Philip Pagano of this city, charged with violation of the liquor law, is the only one of the present list remaining for trial by jury and this has been put over to the next term.

Nine of the forty cases on the docket were closed in court and the following were stricken off the list: Motor vehicle minor, female minor leading vagrant life; Fred Mignault, reckless driving; Joseph Gurka, incorrigible child; Samuel Margolis, reckless driving and manslaughter; Louis Delorme, reckless driving; Thomas Brondeau and Joseph Moriarty, intoxication; Alexander B. Klotz, violation of motor vehicle law; Robert W. Boyd, reckless driving; Manuel Pano, refusing to assist officers; Anastasia Labor, failure to pay personal tax.

The case of William H. Horton formerly of this city, now of Providence charged with violation of the liquor law and the case of Fred Morin, violation of Section 6430 are expected to be disposed of this week.

Continued cases include the following: C. Allison Potter, non-support; Raymond Green, assault on female child; Cyrus E. Green obtaining money under false pretenses; Harold Church and Lawrence Galliet, reckless driving; H. C. Doerin, embezzlement; Frederick Racine, embezzlement, Thomas Killgurey, embezzlement; George Beno, violation of liquor law; Stanley Toper, violation of the liquor law; William E. Jackson, assault, John B. Morin, indecent assault.

One of the warrants made out last Tuesday in connection with the wholesale liquor raids conducted in this city proved later to be for a man who has been a resident of Poland for the past two years. He is Andrew Clebus, whose wife is still living in the town of Windham. One of the writs drawn was to search the home of Mike Morytko, of Chapman street, but was served at the home of another man whose first name was Mike also, who was not under suspicion of selling liquor. A small supply of home brew was found at the latter place. During the afternoon the officers raided three more places which included No. 11 Chapman street. Nothing of an incriminating nature was found there. It was learned later that Mike Morytko lived at this number. It is now believed that in making out the writs the city directory was consulted and as on previous occasions it apparently proved to be incorrect for the three names listed at 11 Chapman street are those of Charles R. Ellis, Mike Morytko and Andrew Clebus. Mrs. Clebus declares that she has not lived at the above number for some time past.

Following was the choice of officers at the annual meeting of Willimantic Building and Loan association, held in the Jordan block: President, George E. Stiles; vice-president, Herbert R. Chappell; treasurer, William N. Potter; secretary, James P. Mustard, directors, Frank Larrabee, Patrick McDermott, William A. Buck, Edgar E. Bass, Jeremiah E. Sullivan, Frank M. Smith, John C. Lincoln, Harry W. Standish, J. F. Carr, Nelson A. Daniels, E. P. Cheesbro, Hollis H. Lyman, George C. Moon, Walter R. King, George W. Hickey; auditors, Herbert D. Pollard and Fred A. Sanderson. President Stiles and Treasurer Potter have held their respective offices since the association was organized.

Manager John P. McQuillan made formal announcement Friday that the formation of a definite team for the American Thread Athletic association's entry in the Connecticut State league would be made this (Saturday) afternoon at Recreation Park. "Freddy" Smith, who gained popularity here when he patrolled the outfield in the garb of the Pink Red Tops of Chicopee Mass., has been secured as field manager. "Tom" Callaghan, athletic coach at Windham High school and one of the best all-round men turned out at Colby will be taken in this season to strengthen the outfit. He is claimed to be a brickwall on first. Leroy A. Dimmick, local Y. M. C. A. physical director and a speedy outfielder is another candidate who stands sure of acceptance.

Bridget Brennan, widow of James Moriarty, died at her home 165 Quercus avenue Thursday afternoon as the result of a shock, sustained last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Moriarty was a devout member of St. Joseph's church. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Herbert Elmore of Providence, R. I., and Misses Catherine, Julia and Mary Moriarty of this city; two sons, Edward and James Moriarty and seven grandchildren, Margaret Elmore of Providence and Dorothy Eleanor, Thomas, Edward, John and Harold Moriarty of this city.

Anthony DeMarchi, 14, of Holbrook avenue was painfully injured late Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding on West Main street was struck head-on by an automobile owned by Michael Maxsola, but driven by a relative of the latter. According to witness, the DeMarchi boy was keeping well to the right of the street when the accident took place. He was taken to his home. A physician found that he was hurt about the hip and abdomen. The boy has since been confined to his bed.

When the summer timetable of the New Haven Railroad is issued, a number of important changes will be noted. At least one train will be added an express from Boston to Hartford, leaving Boston at 7 p. m., and reaching Hartford at 10 p. m. The new gas buses on the Air Line division between New Haven and this city will also be placed in operation. Two daily trips will be made between here and Middletown, except on Sunday. There will be three round trips between Amston and Colchester over the Colchester branch line, also one passenger train a day each way. The cars will seat thirty-five passengers and will have compartments for conveying mail, express and baggage.

The operator's license held by Levi Upton, of Clark street this city, has been suspended since Thursday, April 17, according to a notification received Friday morning by the local police department. Upton was convicted in the local police court last Monday morning of driving while under the influence of liquor.

The first older girls' conference ever held in Windham county is to be held at the Congregational church at Hampton, Saturday May 10. Addresses will be given in the afternoon. Mrs. Arthur W. Gates of this city will be one of the speakers. Her subject will be "The Child were it Lived in Daily Life", Mrs. Helen Bosa Cummings of this city will direct the group conference.

The attendance at the lenten communion service held at the Methodist church Thursday evening was unusually large. The pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated. Following the communion, Rev. Mr. Muirhead gave a sermon on the "Institution of the Last Supper."

Masses Good Friday morning at St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic churches were largely attended.

A special Good Friday service was held at the Congregational church Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The service which was well attended, consisted of an organ recital by Mrs. C. H. Caswell, baritone solos by Mr. Caswell and devotional exercises conducted by Professor H. A. Seckerson.

The general industrial depression apparently does not affect the S. C. S. Box Company located on Moulton Court for the plant is operating on a day and night schedule. Time is so valuable to the firm that the plant took action and was the only concern to operate on Good Friday in the city.

Miss Agnes Gaudreau was given a shower at her place of employment, the Holland Manufacturing Company, recently by the girls employed there. She was presented many beautiful gifts. The affair was in honor of her approaching marriage with Charles Rouillier of Pittsfield, Mass. Those present were Misses Gertrude Simmons, Julia Shea, Mary Pinkowski, Alexandria Beagle, Hattie Ladd, Agnes Heether and Nellie Powell.

Nearly every bad young man has a good sister to watch over him.

JEWETT CITY

Some years ago the W. C. T. U., with the best of intentions purchased a fine metal drinking fountain, fitted with connections for four bubblers and a place where a passing dog might slake his thirst.

This fountain was duly erected and connected up with the city water at a point near the corner of the Jewett City Trust company. The property where it was placed belong to W. H. Brown; it now is owned by Paul Anthony. Mr. Anthony wants it taken off his land. To a large extent the privileges it offered have been abused. In winter it overflows and freezes on the sidewalk making walking dangerous at that point.

It is believed that Warden Matthew Geary and the board of burgesses will consider with favor the petition from Supt. E. H. P. Clement of the town schools.

He asks that the fountain be moved to a point near the Riverside school house here, with all four bubblers in operation it will finally serve the beneficial purpose for which it was originally intended.

Also it will be at all times of the school sessions, under the eye of the superintendent or some of the teachers, which will cause a discontinuance of the abuses to which the fountain has been subject on its present site. The W. C. T. U. members not at present an active body, are in full accord with Mr. Clement's request.

The following Jewett City people were in New London Thursday evening to be present at the solemn ceremonial Feast of the Paschal Lamb: Rev. and Mrs. Howard S. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Richardson, Earl Palmer, Miss Martha Morgan, Miss Clara Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox.

Those eligible to attend as members of Norwich chapter of Rose Croix are R. J. Guy, A. M. Clarke, T. E. Lee, W. A. Richardson, F. H. Tracy, E. A. Faust, L. M. Carpenter, James Blair, A. M. Brown, G. H. Jennings.

Robert S. Tyler of Portland, Me., a native of Jewett City was in the borough Thursday. Mr. Tyler is on the road for a Providence paint, oil and varnish concern.

Leon Ingalls, representing Chief Clerk W. J. Stoddard of the first division of the railway mail service of Boston, was at the local postoffice to examine the clerks on state distribution.

At the local range the final shoot of the series was held Wednesday night and prizes awarded the winners. Charles Palmer won first prize, an agate mounted casting rod; Paul Giest, Jr., second prize, an electric toaster; the third prize went to C. Gutknecht, smoking set. Dona Ballou and Palmer were tied for first prize in the shoot off. Mr. Palmer won by the narrow margin of one point. The scores: Charles Palmer, 50; 49 tie; Dona Ballou, 50; 48 tie; Paul Geist, Jr., 44; Gerald Wolf 46; George Gutknecht 43; W. Webster, 42, Otto Gilbert 40; John Davis 41; Nelbert Mylott 36.

The next shoot will be held next Thursday night as the local club has an invitation from the Norwich Rifle club to attend a match in Norwich on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Walter Richardson entertained the Ladies' society of the Congregational church Thursday afternoon. After business there were readings by Mrs. E. A. Faust and two humorous monologues by Miss Irene Stewart. Mrs. Richardson was assisted by Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst, Mrs. L. M. Carpenter, Mrs. L. G. Buckingham.

EMPIRE Milking Machines

WHICH—3 MILKERS—OR ONE?

Empire Does 3 Men's Work

Here's a letter from James Riley, R. D. No. 1, Harrison Valley, Pa. Read what he says:

"With the Empire Milker I can milk 22 cows in 1 hour and 20 minutes, where it took myself, my wife and a hired man 1 hour and 30 minutes. I can do the work of three people. Let this fact stick in. The Empire sucks the teat just like the calf sucks it. It's nature's way. The cow like it. She stands quieter. She makes more milk. She gives milk more days. The Empire gives a perfect three-sided massage of the teat from it to udder after each suck. No other milker does that. It is patented Empire feature. That's why men want the Empire, use the Empire, make extra profits with the Empire. No matter what men say about other milkers they have only good words for the Empire.

HOSPITAL MEETING WITH DR. RAPPLEYE SPEAKER

The date of the meeting of the new Woman's Auxiliary of the Backus hospital has been necessarily changed from Tuesday, April 22nd, as formerly announced, to that of the following week, Tuesday, April 29th, the reason for this change being the impossibility of securing a speaker for the earlier date. The gathering will be held at the Community house, at eight o'clock on the evening of the 29th, and it is suggested by those in charge that all citizens try to save the time free to attend, what the committee in charge hope to make a notable get-together.

Dr. W. C. Rappleye, superintendent of the New Haven hospital, is to be the main speaker of the evening, while the chairman of the various committees of the local auxiliary will briefly present their plans in a definite way that will give all present a knowledge of the concrete needs of the hospital. Dr. Rappleye is the head of the largest hospital of the state, a hospital that has just been through the process of revampment and enlargement, especially of the maternity ward, so that he is conversant with all of the problems that are ahead of us, and a man preeminently able to give practical help and a big vision of the way the people of Norwich may serve their community through the hospital. Unquestionably Norwich is most fortunate in securing this speaker and it is urged by the committee, and all interested in hospital service, that a large group of townspeople make it a point to fill the Community house on the evening of April 29th.

Next Week at United Congregational Church

All officers, teachers and substitute teachers of the church school are to meet at the Community House, Monday evening at half past six for the monthly supper and conference.

Mid-week worship, Thursday evening at 7.45, Mr. Abbott will speak on Jesus and the Way of Life.

The Mission department will hold its last meeting of the season, in the United Church school rooms (notice the change of place) on Friday afternoon at three o'clock. The program is to be an especially rich one, with Mrs. Lester F. McLean of Hartford, to tell of her experience in Japan as hostess of a Y. M. C. A. home in Tokyo, and Japanese playlet, The Other Point of View.

The Camp Fire is to unite in an interchurch contest of April stunts to be held with the Park church girls, at the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial parish house, Friday evening, at half past seven.

Special Easter Program at the Strand Monday

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the management has selected a wonderful program of Keith vaudeville which is the finest program of the year and a real Easter treat.

Just cast your eye over the following collection of star acts.

Echoes of Scotland is featured. This clever company of seven people offer "A Wee Bit o' Scotch and Irish" this promises to be the best act of its kind ever presented in Norwich.

Ridiculous Roces in Falling for Fun, is great.

Harry Masters and Dotty Grayce in "Oh Harry," appear in a comedy riot, written by that great comedian you've all seen, Ed Lowry.

Joe Roll and Elsie Roy in "By Appointment" need no introduction for they are one of the best comedy teams on the stage today.

Eugene Emmett Trio in a "Family Revue" tops off this splendid program.

Park Congregational Church

Sunday school, men and women's Bible classes at close of morning service.

Tuesday, April 22, a special appeal is made by the sewing committee for a large attendance of the women of the congregation at the sewing bee to be held at two o'clock in the dining room of the parish house.

Tuesday, April 22—The regular camp fire meeting will be omitted this week.

Wednesday, April 23, —Special attention is called to the change in date of the next parish house meeting which will be held on Wednesday evening, April 23, at 8 o'clock in the Sunday school room. Miss Edith Bliss will give an illustrated talk on Rome.

Thursday, April 24—The regular meeting of the Blue Birds will be held at four o'clock in the primary room of the parish house.

Thursday, April 24—Mid-week service in the chapel of the church at 7.45 p. m.

Friday, April 25.—Troop 12, Boy Scouts, will hold its regular meeting in the parish house at 7:15 o'clock.

Friday, April 25 — The Interchurch Girls' meet will be held in the Sunday school rooms of the Parish house at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening, April 25.

Return from Delco Light Convention

Carl Brown, Eastern Connecticut representative of the Delco-Light Company, has just returned from Dayton, Ohio, where for several days a convention of Delco-Light dealers has been in session. Mr. Brown attended as a member of the Star Salesman Club, a Delco-Light organization composed of those whose record of sales and service has marked for particular recognition by the Delco-Light Co. Over 900 guests from the many hundred dealers throughout the country were brought together.

Mornings and afternoons were occupied with studies of farm lighting and power problems. Perfect electrical refrigeration as provided by Frigidaire, also a General Motors product, received much attention and Mr. Brown found the factory taxed to the limit in supplying the increasing demand for this improvement in household convenience.

The Delco-Light factory is spread over more than 18 acres of floor space, and each department was visited by the convention members. Vice-presidents, superintendents and shop foreman talked to the visiting dealers and the spirit of this largest manufacturing organization of its kind in the world was clearly emphasized and demonstrated.

Sale of Terry Farm at Pachaug.

Burdick & McNicol, real estate brokers, have sold for Frank Terry his farm located near the village of Pachaug, Conn. The sale was made to Lucas Cmyr and Felick Gurski, of New York city who have taken possession of the place. This is one of the most sightly places in New London county and the new owners are fortunate in securing such a desirable place. The stock and equipment were also included in the sale. Mr. Terry is a well known practical farmer and will take up his residence with his brother, Willis Terry, who now owns one of the largest dairy farms in Griswold.

An investigation by the House judiciary committee into all phases of prohibition enforcement was proposed in a resolution introduced by Representative Dyer of Missouri, the ranking Republican on the committee.

Broadway Theatre

D. W. Griffith's America, the romance of the American Revolution, which is thrilling audiences in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and is rated by critics as the supreme masterpiece of the great director, will have its local premiere at Broadway theatre Monday night.

The signing of the Declaration of Independence, the battles of Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill, Washington and his heroes at Valley Forge and the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown are among the thrilling episodes of the picture; George Washington, Patrick Henry, Lafayette and Paul Revere are shown in true relation to their great parts. The screen has never before seen a spectacle to compare with the ride of Paul Revere, whose spectacular exploit is shown in vivid portrayal, an episode never equalled in any picture for thrill and historic significance.

Griffith spared no pains to take his scenes on the immediate local of the principal events of the sturggle, reproducing the exact battle lines at Lexington and Concord. In his tremendous task he held strictly to historic accuracy.

Palace Theatre Continuous Showing Today 1:30 to 10:30

"Madam, I have found your son," dramatically announced the professional looking man as he pushed forward a youth he had brought to the home of the wealthy woman. She trembled with excitement. She had her boy again—the baby she had deserted nearly 20 years before for selfish reasons. And now strange emotions filled her soul. With a cry of intense joy she sprang forward and clasped the boy to her breast.

The youth looked over the shoulder of the woman and winked at the other man. He made a pretense at returning the emotional caresses with which he was being showered, but he broke from her embrace as quickly as he could, because he was becoming intensely uncomfortable. He had not bargained—when he entered a deal with a blackmailing gang—that he would have to stand for "this sort of mush" in addition.

In the mother's heart there was no doubt that the boy was really her son. But the two callers were merely playing a shrewd game for the purpose of fleecing the woman out of a large sum of money. The plan had been carefully laid and now success seemed assured.

The denouement of this scene from The Age of Desire, which is now playing at the Palace theatre is one of the most dramatic ever seen on the silver sheet. Frank Borzage produced this First National picture, and Myrtle Stedman and William Collier, Jr., are seen as the mother and son.

Added attractions, Ride 'Em Cowboy a roaring Christie comedy, and latest Pathe News.

Don't miss tomorrow nights big picture show, one night only, The Spider and the Rose. A stupendous romantic drama of Old California, as colorful and warm as its climate.

With a star cast including Alice Lake, Gaston Glass, Joseph Dowling and Noah Beery, also the usual short filletts, Aesops Fables, Hal Roch comedy, Be Honest, Educational film and Pathe Review, all calculated to make the finest entertainment in the city. Prices 35 cents and 20 cents including taxes.

PALACE THEATRE

Wherever the Billy Allen Company has played this season, the press has been unanimous in proclaiming The Billy Allen girls to be the prettiest, "peppiest" portrayers of pulchritude, that have toured the country in a decade. In the chorus there are sixteen girls under twenty, each one cute and attractive enough to hold the attention of any overworked business man. These girls can also sing and dance in a manner to refresh the most jaded minds of the Musical Comedy habitue. They are known everywhere as "The Billy Allen Beauties" and individually and collectively they live well up to the name. With fifteen distinct changes of costumes and that many big numbers in every show, that this company will give here, there is ample opportunity for the "Beauties" to display their beauty and ability to the fullest scope.

The show will open a six day engagement at the Palace theatre changing their program daily, with a special matinee daily, and the Norwich theatregoers will have the treat of seeing six of the best musical comedies and reviews, that money can secure, starting Monday matinee, April 21st.

BREED THEATRE

Scaramouche, Rex Ingrams masterpiece opens a weeks engagement at the Breed theatre Sunday.

Again we wish to remind you that Scaramouche, Rex Ingram's superb photoplay for Metro, which was adapted to the screen from Rafael Sabitini's novel, will begin a seven day engagement at the Breed theatre, begining Sunday. This marvelous example of the new development in the photoplay must be seen to be appreciated. The picture, which has played long runs in the larger cities at two-dollar prices, is the most thrilling romantic story ever filmed, dealing with the French revolution, and tracing a group of characters through astounding adventures.

In the production are Ingram's star trio of The Prisoner of Zenda—Alice Terry, Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro. Ten thousand appear in the mob scenes.

Don't fail to see Aldora's greatest picture.

Scaramouche will be shown twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30 and is presented with a special musical score.

Today's bill consists of Douglas Fairbanks in Robinhood — the last chapter of The Way of a Man and the Pathe News. Continous show today from 1:30 to 10:15.

Some girls marry for money because it is necessary to have an excuse.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The strange animal seen by Joseph Bouthillier and other members of the Bouthillier household on Allen hill during the past week has aroused, through publication in this column of the facts, the interest of many who like to hunt and are interested in the things of nature. Several parties from Danielson were in the Allen hill territory Friday afternoon seeking out the animal, but none came upon it. It has been suggested that the animal possibly is an otter, but there are others who are doubtful about that.

Down on what is known as the Moosup pond road, leading from South Killingly into Moosup there is a posted section of Snake Meadow brook. The land through which this section of the brook runs is owned by an alien. If his neighbors are to be believed, he needs attention. Instead of remonstrating with any fisherman who happens to ignore the posting signs and fishes along his land, he takes a shot at them with a rifle. Here's big game hunting right at home! But the average man does not admit yet that any person, alien or citizen, has a right to shoot at anyone because of a mere trespass. Perhaps state officers might be interested in visiting this alien, who, as such, has no right to possess firearms and may kill someone, unless he is relieved of his shooting equipment. The report that this alien has been shooting at people is based on reports coming in from residents of the neighborhood.

Danielson relatives and friends were at Putnam Good Friday afternoon, to attend, at the Methodist Episcopal church, the funeral services for Herbert Holmes Flagg. Burial was in the family plot at Abington. Mrs. Ana Flagg, mother of Mr. Flagg and Mrs. O. E. Potter, his sister, are resident here.

Music under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Gareau, organist.

PUTNAM

There was interest in Putnam Friday in the disposition in the superior court at Willimantic, of the case of State vs. Agustus Warren, 67, for many years a Putnam barber, who was arrested two weeks ago charged with making a criminal assault on a twelve year old girl. The state had summoned its witnesses in the case but a trial was averted by Warren changing his plea from not guilty to guilty. He was sentenced to one year in the county jail but it was a part of the understanding in imposing a jail sentence that when he receives his freedom he will leave the state.

Warren was presented at a special session of the Putnam city court following his arrest and after the hearing the father of the girl lost control of himself and smashed Warren on the side of his head with his fist. As the result of the blow the father broke a small bone in his right hand.

A general fire alarm from Box 41, in the heart of the business district, was rung in at 3.30 Friday afternoon, calling out all of the fire apparatus in the city. The fire was in the basement of the Putnam Buick & Sales Company's garage and repair department near the oil heater which heats the plant. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals and little damage resulted as the heating aparatus is housed in a fire-proof room.

When the tank which feeds the heater was filled, some of the oil overflowed on the concrete floor. Sawdust was put over this to dry it up and it is thought that when it became dry it was ignited in some manner. Black smoke pouring up from the basement attracted employes and the alarm was sounded.

Although it was a holiday and the business section was deserted a large crowd gathered quickly as this box alarm causes uneasiness to every business man in this city.

The members of the fire committee of the common council have under consideration the advisability of entering into an agreement with the neighboring town of Thompson to furnish a fire truck upon call. Dwellers on Thompson Hill in the vicinity of Thompson common have requested such an agreement and have made an offer of $50 for each time the truck responds to a call. The $50 is not offered in compensation for the invaluable assistance that the Putnam firemen may render, but to cover the wear and tear on the truck in making the run to the Hill and back.

It is understood that the call will be in the hands of two Thompson men, E. S. Backus and Fred Herrick, who have been authorized to call for assistance when deemed necessary. It is also understood that the Putnam truck will only be called when there is an available water supply from which to pump water, or when the chemical tank will be of assistance. Such arrangements as that under consideration is authorized by statute.

Mrs. Karl T. Phillips, of Grove street, entertained at bridge, Friday afternoon. Following cards the hostess served refreshments.

F. Raymond Gilpatric and family spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Gilpatric's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gilpatric, of Fremont street.

Miss Elsie Gallant left Friday to spend the week end with her sister, Miss Lorena Gallant, a student nurse at a Hartford hospital.

All business places in the city, except the post office and the First National bank, were closed at noon, Good Friday. On account of the rain outdoor diversions were impossible and those who intended spending the afternoon on the golf links were disappointed. The theatres did a good business afternoon and evening. Fishemen were driven home early in the day by the cold, raw rain.

Selectman and Mrs. William P. Warren spent Friday in Worcester on business. Mr. Warren left this (Saturday) morning for Boston where he will attend the annual tournament of the Wells Memorial checker club.

The boys of the carpentry depart-ment of Putnam State Trade school have completed a coal crusher for a local concern and it was shown in operation at the school, Wednesday evening. The crusher will be moved to the cola company's yard.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Almira Perry; vice president, Mrs. Fred Willis; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Chase; treasurer, Mrs. Ellsworth Wil-

Miss Jessie Macdonald is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. C. Meier of Wyoming, N. J.

Friday afternoon's rain will serve to give Putnam firemen a rest from answering alarms for brush fires. There has been an average of one a day for th epast week, the last being Thursday afternoon, when Box 14 was rung at the corner of Ring and Farrows street. Some one had left a bonfire and it was spreading to threaten several houses. While none of the fires have caused any considerable damage it is an expense to the city and a loss of time to the firemen to answer these calls. Most of the fires have been in the vicinity of the railroad track and were probably caused by sparks from passing locomotives.

The superior court, in approving the sale of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company's property in Putnam for $475,000, stipulated that the deeds should pass within 30 days. Title to the large property is expected to pass about the first of May to the Putnam Land & Mills Company, a new corporation recently formed under the laws of the estate of Rhode Island by those interested in the purchase of the plant.

It is learned that this corporation intends to lease the plant to more than one, possibly several, manufacturing companies who will carry on the business of their several lines in such parts of the property as each may lease. It is taken for granted that the men for whom the property was ostensibly purchased and who are stockholders in the new corporation will lease the major part of the property.

It is believed that the part of the property that is to be leased to several concerns is the large and newest addition to the plant located on Canal street. It is reported that one floor of this large brick building has already been let.

Acting for Governor Templeton, Ad-jutant General George M. Cole has appointed Ex-Mayor John J. McGarry of Putnam a capatain in the Connecticut National Guard, with orders to form a company of infantry in this city. When formed the company will be the headquarters company of the 43rd division.

Putnam has had no military organization since just after the Spanish-American war when old Company G was disbanded. Some months ago there was a meeting of a number of men in Putnam following which it was stated that there was a possibility of a company being formed in Putnam to be a unit of the tank corps. Interest in this plan waned and finally died out. Then came a rumor that Putnam was to have a company of infantry and that this company would be the headquarters company of the 43rd division. This has now come to pas with the appointment of Captain McGarry.

The first known of this plan was when A. Newton Vaughn, president of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce received a letter from John R. Byrne, state bank commissioner, whose home is in Putnam, and who is also finance officer of the 43rd division with rank of major, requesting that the Chamber of Commerce take active interest and support in obtaining the headquarters company for Putnam. The matter was immediately laid before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and was warmly received.

State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric of Putnam, who is a member of the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce, acted with Mr. Vaughn and Mr. Byrne in the effort to secure the company for Putnam and, as the announcement just made evidences, with success. The forming of a company in Putnam will doubtless mean that an armory will be built here and that Putnam will become an important city in military affairs.

Captain McGarry, who has twice been mayor of the city, has had abundant military experience to fit him to head a company. For eleven years he was identified with Company G, C. N. G., and when the company disbanded in 1904 he was holding the rank of lieutenant. During the late war Captain McGarry was captain of Company L, Connecticut State Guard of Putnam, and brought this company to a high state of efficiency and training.

Captain McGarry must have the cooperation of all citizens if the plan of forming a military company in Putnam is to be a success as its importance to the state and city demands. He is so well known as a citizen and an officer that this should be a big factor in his undertaking. In accepting the appointment Captain McGarry did so with the belief that he would have the united support of the citizens of Putnam and this is emphatically his due.

PLAINFIELD

The Plainfield swimming team was defeated by South Manchester team, Thursday evening, in the Community House sanatorium, in the second leg of the series for the cup. The final score was South Manchester 22, Plainfield 13. Plainfield was immeasurably handicapped by the absence of the team's star swimmer and captain, Ray W. Greene, who although able to be about was unable to participate in the meet, much to the regret of the Plainfield team. After the meet, it was decided by the representatives of the two teams that the third, and deciding meet would be held in the pol at the South Manchester Community House. It is hoped that Captain Greene will be able to take his regular part in this meet, thereby improving to a very great extent, the chances of the Plainfield team for taking the cup for this year. The results of Thursday's meet were as follows:

4-man relay, won by Plainfield. (P) 4 (S. M.) 0; Plainfield: Lee, Vincent, Peterson, Ely, South Manchester: Bissell, Burkhard, Addy, Taylor.

40-yard dash—(P) 4, (S. M.) 5. 1, Addy (S. M.); 2, Ely (P); 3, Peterson (P.)

Underwater swim—(P) 4, (S. M.) 5, L. Vincent (P), and Mildner, (S M.) tied for first place, with a distance of 61 yards. Baldwin (P), 3rd.

Fancy diving—(P) 5 (S. M.) 6, Taylor (S. M.) 2, Leo Vincent (P.) 3, Mildner (S. M.).

100-yard dash—(P.) 3, (S. M.) 8. Taylor (S. M.) first; Leo Vincent (P.) second, Bissell (S. M.) third.

Daniel Connell is having his place of business on Railroad avenue, completely remodeled, and repairs are to be made on the equipment. Workmen have been busy for several days, moving the furniture already there to the new places assigned for it by Mr. Connell, and all day Friday the painters from the Lawton mill were busy redecorating the room.

Social Corner Club, No. 3 met in the chapel of the Baptist church on Wednesday. Over 50 were present. The usual good dinner was enjoyed. Then came the roll call to which some responded with helpful suggestions or a short story. Two piano duets were played by Mrs. David Pitcher and Mrs. William Pultz. Mrs. Murphy told of conditions in the Kentucky mountains and sang some of the songs of the mountain folks, beside other songs.

Several from this place attended Pomona Grange meeting in Groton Thursday.

Mrs. Estella Lyman who has been spending the winter in Miami, Fla., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Taylor.

Mrs. Mary Williams and Mrs. Ida Abel are spending a few days in Norwich with Mrs. Anna Abel.

George Goodwin of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Goodwin, daughter and son, of New Britain, spent Sunday with Mr. Goodwin's brother, C. S. Goodwin.

Mrs. Ella Foster spent Saturday with her mother in New London and from Saturday night until Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Myron Peckham, in Manchester.

At the grange meeting Thursday evening it was poultry night with talks by different members on the various lines of work with poultry. A good number was present. The next meeting April 24 is to be in charge of the Home Economics committee.

Vernon Boothby and Mr. Smith of Woodman spent the week end with the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Boothby.

Mrs Walter Starr has returned, after spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Morrison, at Grosvenordale.

B. F. York is visiting his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Chapman, in Groton.

An oyster supper was served Tuesday night to members of the Lebanon Baseball nine both present and former players. A new mitt was presented Monroe Pultz.

HANKS HILL

Myron Boglisch attended the entertainment at Mansfield Center Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Plick and children are staying at the home of John Norsansky's until their home in Chaffeeville is ready.

EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE STARTS DISASTROUS FIRE

Harrisonburg, Va., April 18. — The court house, two banks, two hotels, the telephone exchange, a number of stores and offices and residences for more than three blocks along the main street of Franklin, Pendleton county, West Virginia, were destroyed by fire last night according to reports received here today.

The fire started from an explosion of gasoline in a garage and caused damage estimated at more than $200,000.

SENATE KILLS AMENDMENT TO THE IMMIGRATION BILL

Washington, April 18.—Proposed extension of immigration quota restrictions to all countries or North and South America, was rejected today by the senate by a vote of 69 to 13.

The amendment to the pending bill seeking such extension was offered by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, who declared without it the bill would leave "the back door wide open." It was opposed by administration managers in charge of the bill as destructive of the whole theory of Pan-Americanism.

Those recorded in favor of the proposal were Senators Watson, Indiana, and Willis, Ohio, republicans; Dial and Smith, South Carolina, Harris, Georgia, Heflin, and Underwood, Alabama, Mayfield and Sheppard, Texas, Neely, West Virginia, Weller, Maryland, and Wheeler, Montana, democrats.

The amendment proposed by Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, which would have divided the portion to the racial groups comprising quota of each foreign nation in proving the population of each nation was then taken up and defeated without a roll call.

WHERE CONTROL IS NEEDED.

In his own state Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin of Massachusetts has been a center of interest because of the insistence with which he has sought respect for the automobile laws, the proper cooperation of the courts in enforcement of them, and a greater regard for highway safety. But it is not Massachusetts alone that is interested in his courageous stand in behalf of improved conditions. What he is insisting upon for Massachusetts commends itself to other states where the automobile problems have not been solved.

At the present time in Massachusetts the driver of a motor car is required to sound his horn and slow down on coming to any point where there is the possibility of an accident. In the opinion of Registrar Goodwin this law should be wiped out, not because it is a bad law but because it is badly observed. He points to the reliance which is placed upon half-observance. Drivers find no difficulty in sounding their horn when they are approaching places where accidents might happen, but they pay no attention to the slowing down requirement. Their dependence, when the horn has been sounded, is upon the carrying properties of the horn. They expect the other fellow to be on the alert but make no effort to give protection to themselves or others through the observance of that important part of slowing down.

Speed is that factor which is responsible for many of the accidents, whether at intersections or not. Dependence upon noise to prevent accidents in the streets is no more justified than at railroad crossings. The insistence upon the bringing vehicles under control, so that they can be stopped in case of need without damage to others, is one that should appeal to all fair minded drivers. Registrar Goodwin makes his suggestion as the result of much study. The horn cannot be done away with, but more attention can well be paid to speed that permits of control at points where accidents might happen.

WITH GERMANY AND FRANCE AGREED.

Much satisfaction has been felt at the manner in which the special commission of experts has dealt with the reparation situation and its recommendations for a solution. Probably the most pleasing feature since then is the reception that the report has received from the reparation commission, Germany and France. Even though an agreement that will be observed is long overdue the willingness of these two countries to regard the report as a basis for solution means progress.

As to just what sincerity there is back of the German reply there may be some question. It is nevertheless open and frank. Being told by the reparation commission that the Dawes report was regarded as a practical basis for a rapid solution of the reparations problem, and being asked what its opinion was, the German government lost no time in sending back word to the effect that it also considers the report as a practical basis for a rapid solution of the reparations problem, and is therefore ready "to assure its collaboration in execution of the experts' plans."

What might suit Germany might not suit France, but the French member of the reparation commission, M. Barthou, has said that the reparation problem seems in a fair way of being solved. He is not to be favorably disposed to Germany. If Germany is favorably inclined and France perceives the same result it would appear that the situation is regarded as having been freed from insurmountable obstacles.

It is to be noted that in neither instance is reference made to reservations. So far as can be discerned the merits of the plan appeal without making resort to them necessary, and if Germany and France can be brought to an understanding there ought to be no difficulty in compliance on the part of the others. It, at least, furnishes a basis for feeling that good groundwork has been provided and unless something unforeseen and unindicated develops, speedy progress ought to be made toward an adjustment.

NOT DEMANDING WAR.

Much is bound to be made of the expressions by the Japanese newspapers concerning the action of congress over the exclusion of Japanese subjects. Just what they think of it and what they say about it will be better known a little later. At this time all that is available are the few references which have been cabled to this country.

There is no reason to believe but what the Japanese press will be most if one mind regarding the action. Some views are likely to be more emphatic and inflammatory than others, but whatever they may be it is evident that Japan is not in a condition to engage in strife, and there is no reason to suppose that it will be inclined in that direction, however sore it may be.

Whether or not there was a hidden meaning in the expression of "grave consequences" as used by the Japanese ambassador, it is well known that there are those who are only too eager to bring to the front that "yellow peril" which is always kept just behind the curtain.

Japan has reason to feel that whatever might have been the action of congress on this particular measure under other conditions, it found it much easier to vote as it did because of the communication from the Japanese minister. And when it stops to reflect upon the matter it may realize that while it is disturbed over the action thus far taken it cannot disregard the effect which the veiled threat certainly had. Whether it was entitled for congress to display such apparent resentment is another question. The willingness to give an airport, or to even break away from the gentlemen's agreement, would doubtless have been less manifest under other conditions.

Japan's disturbance is not going to permit it to leap from the frying pan into the fire. Its feelings may be disclosed in many ways but it is not going to put up a permanent impediment that would prevent relief efforts in the future.

THE OVERDRAWN HEARINGS.

The longer the investigations at Washington continue the more the people are becoming convinced that much of the testimony is based upon a lot of irresponsible statements, hearsay, inferences and wild talk. It is not surprising that a steadily increasing amount of disgust is being manifested at the so-called disclosures. Anyone with a good story to tell gets a hearing regardless of his motive or his actual knowledge of what he is talking about. Dead men tell no tales but the senate committees are being asked to believe what a lot of questionable characters are trying to fasten upon the departed.

There will be hearty endorsement of what Senator Moses of New Hampshire says when he points out that the motley procession of witnesses stalking across the center of the stage at Washington is made up of divorcees, drunks, divekeepers, dope fiends, disgruntled, discharged government employes, reformed bandits, people out of a job and anyone with a grievance."

Such must have been the observations also of any who have taken the time to give their attention to the witnesses being brought before the various investigating committees. Such witnesses would get no standing elsewhere and they certainly cannot make a favorable impression upon the country. Senator Moses not only voices the sentiments of himself but he speaks for a number that is steadily being increased through out the country as the investigations go on. Those who are looking for political advantages from the dragging out of such hearings are reckoning upon a greatly misjudged public.

BLIND SPENDING.

In connection with the demands that are being made for federal tax reduction it has been pointed out the good results that have been obtained in keeping down and cutting down federal expenditures. It has also been brought to attention that while federal tax cutting is highly desirable there is also need of giving thought to the effect of city, town and state taxation problems, all of which are large and need to be wrestled with if relief such as is needed is going to be obtained. Extravagant expenditure cannot be continued without having its effect upon the pocketbooks.

Somehow the impression is gained that the government is a storehouse for funds and all that is needed is to call on it and there will be bountiful outpourings for which no one has to pay. This idea of getting the money from thin air is responsible for too high taxes in many instances. It gives encouragement to extravagance and its effects are shown in the great astonishment displayed when large sums are voted and spent, only to find that even larger appropriations are required in order to complete a project. Inadequate preliminary consideration and improper conservation of the funds employed are responsible for such conditions. It is all the result of that grossly unwise policy of failing to look before the leap. It is the product of rushing in before knowing what lies beyond. It discloses the weakness of the idea of plunging into big outlays before knowing where the money is coming from, or of regarding this or that as having slight effect upon the tax rate, when the aggregate of appropriations and the combined taxes have long since passed the burdensome stage.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The writer in his last paragraph of The Man Who Talks, for April 5, did not mean to convey the impression that the rapid multiplication of alien peoples here in America was an infallible sign of their coming superiority, although there are strong indications that this is to be the fact. In itself alone it does not indicate the "survival of the fittest." However it is true that the tendency to the large family does indicate a certain virility without which there can be no great national strength. It is also true that the lessening size of the family is always attended with a corresponding decline of national power and influence. There must be individual vitality if there is to be national strength. The writer also recognizes the menace that arises from the fecundity of the unfit. We must still further admit that physical and mental incompetents seem to be strangely prolific, and to that extent so to justify the stress in the practice of birth control, but this unfitness is just as much marked in native-born Americans as among our alien population. National degeneracy is always attended with an increase of the unfit. The reproduction of power is a national necessity.

Prof. Carver of Harvard university has coined a word for which there seems to be a place. It is the word, "brutarian." The connection in which he uses the word is this. Speaking of the wide bed covered by his creed he makes the following observation; "As nearly as I can make out, I am always trying to do something for those creatures for whom I care. . . . I also find that I care a good deal for a number of non-human creatures, certain kindly animals, for instance. In that sense I am a little broader than the humanitarian. I suppose that I might be called a brutarian." A lover of lower animals may well be called a "brutarian." Is it wholly unorthodox to claim greater interest in intelligent brutes than in brutish humans? There is ground for believing that intelligent and kindly brutes have a stronger claim to immortality than brutish men.

As a kindly act, the bill recently passed by the house in congress to protect the Pima Indians of Arizona from robbery of irrigation waters of the Gila river by white men farther up the stream is one of the constructive bits of legislation that has been done by the present congress. There is every reason to believe that the senate will concur. These Indians have literally made the "wilderness to bud and blossom as the rose" under the salutary effect of irrigation. The amount of foodstuffs produced per acre by this tribe seems like a fairy tale were it found outside of government reports. To cut them from the source of their agricultural power by the mere cupidity of their "more enlightened" white neighbors was absolutely inexcusable. It is well for congress to look after something else beside oil in Arizona.

To the lay mind this probing business on the part of the United States senate is becoming somewhat intricate. The last move is on the part of a grand jury in Montana bringing an indictment against one of its own senators in congress, and a member of the investigating committee. In the briefest form of speech it is proposed to probe one of the probers. Senator Wheeler of that state is under suspicion of irregularity (which is becoming regularity much faster than is desirable.) It would not at all be surprising if a new committee were formed for the purpose of probing the action of this grand jury of Montana for suggesting that the prober be probed. To say the least the people are beginning to feel that real probing into the oil scandals is degenerating into a farce, and that justice is giving way to political expediance. The politicians are not forgetting that this is presidential year.

If one wants to get a clear and intelligent picture of the natural world let him read John Burroughs' A Year in the Fields. While not so gorgeous as Ruskin in literary style, yet Burroughs gets right at the heart of nature and makes you see it. Listen to what he says about this month: "April is that part of the season that never cloys upon the palate. It does not surfeit one with good things but it provokes and stimulates the curiosity." Isn't that putting into a few words the general impression that April makes upon us? In the morning you never know what will happen within two hours. The genial sunshine of early morning may degenerate into an Alaskan blizzard by noon, and by sundown the birds may be singing a Hallelujah chorus. It certainly keeps one guessing whether he ought to let the steam heater out or not. Still there is a tonicity in the air that atones for all of April's freaks.

The people of America, "lest they forget" ought annually to be reminded of April 19, 1775—exactly 149 years ago today. It may not mark such a great historical event as July 4, 1776, yet we must never forget the day of which the Battle of Lexington and Concord was fought as it was the first repulse of the British forces in the Revolutionary war. It was also the first great surprise that England received of the true strength of her American colonies. She did not think that they would, or even could, work together in concerted action. Accustomed to limited areas at home, it was an eye-opener to see Georgia working in unison with Massachusetts and the raw recruits from all the thirteen colonies co-ordinated and disciplined into an army under a single commander. There was evidently a destiny to be worked out in the new world.

What a revolution in business methods in the last quarter century! There was a time—and a boy now in his twenties can easily remember it—when business came to the man, but now the man must go out after the business. Take, for example, the old-fashioned village grocery store, owned and operated by a man who received it as an inheritance from his father. He simply waited for people to come to his store and buy. He did not deliver goods except those of the heavier sort like the barrel of flour. His business was stable, increasing or diminishing only with the population of the town itself. He was satisfied with slow increases, and usually died of old age with a comfortable fortune. How different, today! A man may have a flourishing trade today, making money hand over fist, and in three months nothing at all. That is why he must hustle to get and keep trade.

"The hour has come and now is" to get at the front lawns, hammer and tongs! That means that we must go over it with a fine rake to remove all dead and unsightly material, and fertilize in the liberal way of a real Christian. To put it off any longer will be sheer laziness. It may give us a wrench to put up "the fiddle and take down the shovel and the hoe," or, in modern parlance, to leave the radio set and take up the garden set. WBZ can wait but DIG can't. WEAN from Providence, R. I., means pleasure (sometimes,) but WORK from a higher Providence means business, at this season of the year. If you don't get at it by the middle of April it will indicate that your storage battery needs recharging. I know, brother, from experience that it is more alluring to hear a siren sing in Schenectady than it is to bend your back over a spade, but have a heart.

Fifteenth Anniversary of North Pole's Discovery

The fifteenth anniversary of America's foremost exploration achievement, the discovery of the north pole by Peary was commemorated last week by exercises at the unique monument erected in his honor in Arlington National cemetery by the National Geographic Society which helped equip his successful expedition.

A Distinctive Monument

Since its erection two years ago the Peary Memorial has been one of the show sights of the National cemetery. It consists of a huge spheroid of granite, like the earth in its proportion and position, resting on a massive base. On the surface of the granite globe are hewn the outlines of the land and sea and water masses of the earth's surface. At its north pole is a bronze star, symbol of the achievement which immortalized Peary's name.

On one side of the supporting granite block is the Latin motto, "Invenium Viam Aut Faciam" (I will find a way or make one) which was the explorer's favorite quotation.

"Peary's achievement not only is immortal; it is now historic for future Arctic explorations will be by aircraft," said Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, President of the National Geographic Society, today.

Struggle for Pole Began Centuries Ago

"The struggle for the north pole began nearly one hundred years before the landing of the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth Rock, being inaugurated (1527) by that king of many disputations, Henry VII of England.

"Scores of hardy navigators, British, French, Dutch, German, Scandinavian, and Russian, followed Davis, all seeking to hew across the pole the much-coveted short route to China and the Indies. The rivalry was keen and costly in lives, ships, and treasures, but from the time of Henry VIII for three and one-half centuries, or until 1853 (with the exception of 1594-1606, when, through William Barents, the Dutch held the record), Great Britain's flag was always waving nearest the top of the globe.

"Immense treasures of money and lives were expended by the nations to explore the northern ice world and to attain the apex of the earth. But—all efforts to reach the pole had failed, notwithstanding the unlimited sacrifice of gold and energy and blood which had been poured out without stint for nearly four centuries.

Peary's Interest Aroused

"A brief summer excursion to Greenland in 1886 aroused Robert E. Peary, civil engineer in the United States Navy, to an interest in the polar problem. Peary a few years previous had been graduated from Bowdoin college second in his class, a position which means unusual mental vigor in an institution which is noted for the fine scholarship and intellect of its alumni. He realized at once that the goal which had eluded so many hundreds of ambitious and dauntless men could be won only by a new method of attack.

"The first Arctic problem with which Peary grappled was considered at that time in importance second only to the conquest of the pole; namely, to determine the insularity of Greenland and the extent of its projection northward. At the very beginning of his first expedition to Greenland, in 1891, he suffered an accident which sorely taxed his patience as well as his body and which is mentioned here as it illustrates the grit and stamina of his moral and physical make-up. As his ship, the Kite, was working its way through the ice fields off the Greenland shore, a cake of ice became wedged in the rudder, causing the wheel to reverse. One of the spokes jammed Peary's leg against the casement, making it impossible to extricate himself until both bones of the leg were broken. The party urged him to return to the United States for the winter and to resume his exploration the following year. But Peary insisted on being landed as originally planned at McCormick Bay, stating that the money of his friends had been invested in the project, and that he must 'make good' to them. The assiduous nursing of Mrs. Peary, aided by the bracing air, so speedily restored his strength that at the ensuing Christmas festivities which were arranged for the Eskimos, he entraced on snowshoes all the natives and his own men!

A Verdant Greenland Valley

"In the following May, with one companion, Astrup, he ascended to the summit of the great ice cap which covers the interior of Greenland, 6000 to 8000 feet in elevation, and pushed northward for 500 miles over a region where the foot of man had never trod before, in temperature ranging from 10 degrees to 50 degrees below zero. Imagine his surprise on descending from the tableland to enter a little valley radiant with gorgeous flowers and alive with murmuring bees, where musk oxen were lazily browsing.

"This sledding journey, which he duplicated by another equally remarkable crossing of the ice cap three years later, defined the northern extension of Greenland and conclusively proved that it was an island of a continent extending to the pole. In boldness of conception and brilliancy of results these two crossings of Greenland are unsurpassed in Arctic history. The magnitude of Peary's feat is better appreciated when it is recalled that Nansen's historic crossing of the island was below the Arctic Circle, 1900 miles south of Peary's latitude, where Greenland is some 250 miles wide.

"Peary now turned his attention to the pole, which lay 596 geographical miles farther north than any man had penetrated on the Western Hemisphere. To get there by the American route he must break a virgin trail every mile north from Greely's 83 degree 24 minutes. No one had pioneered so great a distance northward. Markham and others had attained enduring fame by advancing the flag considerably less than 400 miles, Peary had pioneered 150 miles, and Nansen 128 from his ship.

"His experiences in Greenland had convinced Peary, if possible more firmly than before, that the only way of surmounting this last and most formidable barrier was to adopt the manner of life, the food, the snow-houses, and the clothing of the Eskimos, who by centuries of experience had learned the most effective method of combatting the rigor of Arctic weather; to utilize the game of the northland, the Arctic reindeer, musk ox, etc., which his explorations had proved comparatively abundant, thus with fresh meat keeping his men fit and tempered through the depressing winter night; and lastly to train the Eskimo to become his sledging crew.

His First Attempt

"In his first north polar expedition, which lasted for four years, 1893-1897, Peary failed to get nearer than 343 miles to the pole. Each successive year dense packs of ice blocked the passage to the polar ocean, compelling him to take his base approximately 700 miles from the pole, or 200 miles south of the headquarters of Nares, too great a distance from the pole to be overcome in one short season. During this trying period, by sledging feats which in distance and physical obstacles overcome exceeded the extraordinary records made in Greenland, he explored and mapped hundred of miles of coast-line of Greenland and of the islands west and north of Greenland.

"On the next attempt, Peary insured reaching the polar ocean by designing and constructing the Roosevelt, whose irresistible frame crushed its way to the desired haven on the shores of the shores of the polar sea. From here he made that wonderful march of 1906 to 87 degrees 6 minutes, a new world's record. Winds of unusual fury, by opening big leads, robbed him of the pole and nearly of his life.

"The last Peary expedition 1908-1909 resulted in the discovery of the pole and of the deep ocean surrounding it. The 396 miles from Greely's farthest had been vanquished as follows; 1908, 30 miles; 1908, 23 miles; 1908, 169 miles; 1909, 174 miles.

"No better proof of the minute care with which every campaign was prearranged can be given than the fact that, though Peary has taken hundreds of men north with him on his various expeditions, he has brought them all back, and in good health, with the exception of two, who lost their lives in accidents for which the leader was in no wise responsible. What a contrast this record is to the long list of fatalities from disease, frost, shipwreck, and starvation which in the popular mind has made the word Arctic synonymous with tradegy and death."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Francis J. Heney, who is to be employed as special counsel to conduct the senate investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau, is the well-known Californian lawyer, whose service in investigating corrupt conditions in politics and in big business have earned for him a national reputation. He first came into wide prominence by his service for the Federal government in prosecuting the land-fraud cases in Oregon, which led to the conviction of men high in political authority. Later he again served the cause of the people in his profession and civic conduct as a citizen of San Francisco when that community endeavored to rid itself of the grip on which corporations and corrupt politicians had, in this controversy he became a national figure. New York in Mr. Heney's native state, and the University of California his alma mater. He has been active in politics and was one of the founders of the Progressive Party.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Poreda's Reply.

Mr. Editor: I wish to thank you for your courtesy in inserting my opinions as well as of those fundamentalistic, so-called, dogmas in the columns of your most progressive newspaper.

The criticism and attack on the Gospel which we have witnessed have made one thing plain, that society gains nothing while an individual, not himself renovated, attempts to renovate a modern minister of the Gospel. He has become tediously good in some particular, but negligent or narrow when endeavoring the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures. What happens? Hypocrisy and vanity are the disgusting result.

Mr. Troland does not see the fly in "his own ointment" in the criticism of a progressive local preacher, of whom this city is justly proud. God preserve us from a man of one book.

To conclude therefore, let no man out of weak conceit of sobriety, or an ill-applied fundamentalism think or maintain that a man can search too far or be too well studied in the book of God's word or in the book of God's works. Divinity or philosophy, but rather let men constantly endeavor an endless progress or proficience in both. All progress is continuous.

This audacious spirit which is attributed to a spasm of spontaneous mediocrity denotes its proneness in the manner in which Mr. Troland attempts to criticise those who are broadminded enough to accept religious enlightment broadcasted in a modern way.

He would like to impress us with his acquaintance with Emerson and Tolstoy. No doubt the acquaintance is most brief. At the time of Emerson's death he was recognized as the foremost American writer and thinker of our country. The candor and vigor of his thinking, the spirit and broad ideas which constitute the essence of his teachings, had a lot to do in recognition of his eminence in Europe. Carlyle in Britain and Herman Grimm in Germany were only leaders of an enormous body of admirers in those countries. No American has exerted in the old world such a profound intellectual influence comparable to that of Emerson.

Mr. Troland warns us that Tolstoy never had a religious balance. By this he merely judges Tolstoy by his own experience.

I extend my deepest and most sincere sympathy to a curate having no pulpit or congregation within which to display his banner.

For religious enlightment and truth which is free of moss backed dogmas.

LOST SLEEP FROM PIMPLES
Large, Red and Hard. Cuticura Heals.
"My trouble began by pimples breaking out on my face. They were large, red and hard, and festered and scaled over. The pimples were in blotches and some nights kept me so that I could not sleep. My face was disfigured, and the trouble lasted about four months.
"I tried different remedies without any benefit. I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Mary L. Sousa, 290 E. Main St., Fall River, Mass., July 29, 1923.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

THE RESURRECTION

And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: Matt. 28:2, 3.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the best attested fact in history.

The proofs were so complete as to convince the apostles of it so thoroughly that they staked their lives, their happiness, their all, upon it, with no motive for believing it if false. They believed it because they were compelled by the evidence to believe it. It was against their worldly interests to accept the truth. To claim that the apostles did not believe what they preached is to claim that without motive and against every motive, and amidst sufferings the most grievous to flesh and blood, they persevered, in a conspiracy to cheat the world into piety, honesty, and benevolence, conscience and common sense revolt against such a theory.

There were a large number of witnesses, well qualified, extending over a considerable time, with every opportunity to know the facts under a great variety of circumstances, and they saw, and touched the very same identical body which was crucified and buried. They could not be deceived. Nor can any one conceive how Jesus could have given his disciples better proof than He did of His resurrection.

By their declaration of the fact they induced thousands of the very enemies of Christ to believe in it, and that close to the time and near the very spot on which it occurred. Thus were added a multitude of witnesses.

A singular and significant testimony to the truth of the resurrection is afforded by the change in the Sabbath day. It was changed, not by any express command in the New Testament, but by the almost universal consent of the church, which could not endure to observe as a day of joy and gladness that on which Christ lay in the tomb, nor forbear to mark as a weekly festival that on which he arose.

The very existence of the Christian church is a proof of the resurrection of Jesus. "Faith in mere visions or phantoms may produce phantoms, but not such a phenomenon as the Christian church, the greatest fact and the mightiest institution in the history of the world.

Only the fact of the resurrection can account for the marvellous change in the spirit and character of the apostles. The resurrection completely transformed them: inspired them with a new conception of Christ's kingdom as for people, with a new courage to suffer for the sake of their risen Lord and His kingdom, neither fraud nor fiction is competent to account for the moral contrast.

The works Christ has been doing ever since in the world are a proof that he who does them is a risen, living Saviour, — the conversion of Paul, the victory over the Roman empire, the ever increasing progress of Christianity, the marvellous works of conversion and revival, the fruits of the Spirit. A dead christ could not accomplish such results.

The resurrection lifts into the life of Christ the Saviour, as an essential part. His life and the whole plan of salvation would be incomplete without it.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW'S BATTLE ALONE

For years, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw wanted a home, but she spent the greater part of her life traveling and "boarding around."

During her first recitation in Lawrence, Mass., school, she fainted from fright. The teacher urged her to rest, but the girl went back to the platform and fainted.

Her family moved to Michigan, and her home was a log cabin in the woods where schools, books or newspapers had not penetrated. Finally securing old books, she learned enough to be the settlement's first teacher. The pay was $3 a week, and she saved $18.

Invited to preach, she told her parents they gasped at the "disgrace" and refused to hear her, or to help her prepare for the ministry. She was so frightened, during her first sermon, that her trembling shook the oil in the lamps on the desk.

Then to Albion College, and after that to the University of Boston, where she was the only woman in a class of 44. With little funds, she rented a room without heat, studied in bed to keep warm, and finally broke down on her way to recitation.

Loans helped her to complete her course. Then the Methodist Episcopal Conference refused to ordain her because she was a woman.

This avenue closed, she studied four years more, and became a sharky doctor to women. What she learned converted her to woman suffrage.

Her addresses in its favor were so forceful that she was appointed organizer, and later elected president of the National Association and honorary president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

She spoke before nearly every state legislature, before congressional committees of the country and in leading cities of the world, being, in many places of Europe, the first woman to occupy the pulpit.

Her father heard her speak and praised her, she saw equal suffrage and temperance established in this country, she was honored by the world, and, a few years before her death, Miss Shaw had a beautiful home of her own.

EASTER'S GIFTS

Jesus Christ hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light.—2 Timothy, 1:10.
. . . and gave gifts unto men.—Ephesians, 4:8.

Gifts from the tomb the Savior brought—
Precious gifts for the sons of man;
Priceless gifts, such as man ne'er wrought—
Brought with blood, on a cross of pain.

Out of the tomb He brought us Love—
Love Eternal the Son revealed;
Freely it flows from Heav'n above;
By the spirit forever sealed.

Out of the tomb He brought us Life—
Life for the soul, which ne'er can die;
Death was vanquished, and closed the strife,
When Christ arose Death to defy.

Out of the tomb glad Hope He brought Hope, which smileth through tear-wet eyes;—
Lo, what a victory God hath wrought—
Christ hath risen; we, too, shall rise!

Out of the tomb He brought us Joy—
Joy for sorrow, and song for tears;
"Joy in the Lord," with no alloy,
Since Christ arose, and calmed our fears.

Out of the tomb He brought us Power—
Power to conquer all inborn sin;
Power to witness each day, each hour;
Power for conflict and power to win.

Out of the tomb He brought us Peace—
Peace — His peace—from a heart at rest;—
Hush thee, soul! let thy mourning cease!
Christ hath risen, and thou are blest.
—By Jeanie Wilson-Howell in Boston Transcript.

APRIL RAIN

The April rain, the April rain,
Comes slanting down in fitful showers,
Then from the furrow shoots the grain,
And banks are edged with nestling flowers;
And in gray shaw and woodland bowers
The cuckoo through the April rain
Calls once again.

The April sun, the April sun,
Glints through the rain in fitful splendor.
And in gray shaw and woodland dun
The little leaves spring forth, and tender
Their infant hands yet weak and slender,
For warmth towards the April sun.
One after one.

And between shower and shine hath birth
The rainbow's evanescent glory;
Heaven's light that breaks on mist of earth!
Frail symbol of our human story.
It flowers through showers where, looming hoary,
The rain-clouds flash with April mirth,
Like life on earth.
—Mathilde Blind in Indianapolis News.

OBITUARY

Charles H. Phelps.

Charles H. Phelps, one of the best known banking men of this city by reason of his 52 years' connection with the Merchants National bank, passed peacefully away at ten minutes of 12 Friday noon, at his home, 32 Oak street. Mr. Phelps had not been in good health for several years and had several times suffered severe attacks of pneumonia, from which he had made remarkable recovery. Two weeks ago he was again taken sick and was obliged to give up work at the bank, pneumonia developing. During his illness at his home he had been most tenderly cared for by loving hands. Although the news of his death has been expected for several days, when the announcement finally was made his many friends were moved to profound sorrow.

Mr. Phelps was born in Norwich, Sept. 1, 1852, the son of Henry S. and Mary H. Fordham Phelps. When a young boy his parents moved to Sag Harbor, L. I., where he received his early education. Later his parents returned to Norwich and he completed his education in local schools.

His first employment was in a local grocery store where he remained until 1875, then entering the Merchants National bank. He continued to fill various positions at this institution and in 1895 was made cashier, holding that position until January 8 of this year, when at the annual meeting of the bank he was elected vice president, holding that office at the time of his death. For years he was one of the directors of the Merchants National bank and had also served in a similar capacity for the Dime Savings bank.

In his many years of service at the Merchants bank Mr. Phelps had made a host of friends. He was most efficient in his profession and became one of the leading banking men of eastern Connecticut.

Fraternally Mr. Phelps had always taken great interest in Masonry. He was a member of St. James lodge, Franklin chapter, Franklin Council, Columbian Commandery, King Solomon Lodge of Perfection, Van Rensselaer Council, Princes of Jerusalem, Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix, Connecticut Consistory, and a member of the Masonic Temple corporation, representing Connecticut Consistory. For many years he had been a member of the Arcanum club and was also a charter member of the old Chelsea Boat club.

Mr. Phelps was a member of Trinity Episcopal church and was a devout and influential churchman. During his many years as a member of the church he had lived up to his religious convictions in every way, and took active part in church work. For over 30 years he served the church as vestryman holding that office at the time of his death. For 10 years he had been a most efficient parish treasurer, and had served for many years on the finance committee, new committee and other important church committees. He was a regular church attendant and in his death Trinity Episcopal church has lost a most valuable and efficient member.

In his home life he was a true and loving son and brother. To know him was to love him and there are many in Norwich and this part of the state who will miss him greatly, for a familiar figure has passed from his daily associations, leaving behind cherished memories of many kindly deeds.

Mr. Phelps was the last of his immediate family, but he is survived by a niece, Miss Mary P. Clapp of this city.

Theodore Scranton Brand

Following an illness of two weeks the life of Theodore Scranton Brand of 111 Talman street came to a close Friday morning. Mr. Brand recently underwent an operation for appendicitis but strength failed him and death resulted.

He was born in West Woodstock in 1883 the son of George A. and Abbie Childs Scranton Brand. He lived in that village for many years but of recent years has been employed by the firm of John A. Ford, ice dealer.

Mr. Brand was a man of pleasing disposition, a faithful employe, true son and loving husband and father. Surviving besides his wife, are three children, his mother and several brothers and sisters.

Willis L. Eaton

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Cary of Lafayette terrace received word of the death early Thursday morning of Willis L. Eaton of Waltham, Mass., for many years, 62, principal of Waltham High school. Mr. Eaton has been ill for about a year but not seriously until of late. He is survived by his wife, two sons, one being Carl L., who married Miss Mildred Cary of Norwich, living in Medford Hillside, Mass., Bertram Eaton, and a daughter Thelma Eaton, both of Waltham.

Mrs. Paul Calande

After several months illness Mary T. Driscoll, wife of Paul Calande of 109 Roosevelt avenue, died, Friday morning.

Mrs. Calande was born in Ireland the daughter of John and Mary Driscoll and came to this country when a young woman. In 1906 in Worcester she was united in marriage with Paul Calande and her home since that time has been in Norwich. For the past 17 years she was a member of St. Mary's Memorial parish.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. John Guinan and Miss Dorothy Calande, and three sons, Frederick, Eugene and John Calande, all of this city.

ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AFTER COLLISION

A Chevrolet car driven by Frank F. Rogers of Dayville was badly wrecked Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock at the corner of North Main street and Fourth streets when it was hit by a Nash driven by Leo Baniey of Taftville and Willis Turner of Dayville who was riding with Rogers was thrown out and landed on the front of the other machine.

Turner was taken to the Backus hospital, suffering from a bad shaking up, and Rogers was summoned to appear in the Norwich city court this (Saturday) morning on the charge of reckless driving, which was brought against him by state policeman Kenerson who investigated the case.

According to the report made of the collision, Rogers was driving northerly on North Main street and made a left hand turn into Fourth street just as the Taftville car, traveling southerly od North Main street, came along and struck the Rogers machine. The Taftville man's car received a broken headlight, bent mudguard and twisted steering gear.

SNOW SQUALLS STILL RETARDING AIRPLANES

Seward, Alaska, April 18.—Although three of the four U. S. army cruisers were expected to hop off from Chignik, Alaska, today for a 400 miles flight to Dutch Harbor (Unalaska) on the next leg of an attempt to encircle the globe, it was believed here that reported snow squalls prevented the fliers from leaving. The fourth world cruser was still at Kanatak, Alaska.

Owing to poor wireless communication to the southwestern points of Alaska during daylight hours, it was impossible to obtain any definite information concerning the fliers. The United States coast guard cutter Algonquin is steaming at full apeed for Kanatak with an extra motor for the flag plane Seattle, piloted by Major Frederick L. Martin, who was forced down at that point Tuesday en route to Chignik from Seward. The Algonquin is expected to reach Kanatak tomorrow morning.

JAPANESE BELIEVED TO HAVE COME AS STOWAWAYS

Seattle, Wash., April 18.—Authorities are investigating the methods by which 18 Japanese, arrested in the past four days in western Washington entered the United States, Luther T. Weedin, United States immigration commissioner announced today.

The arrest of the Japanese followed the unearthing of a plot to smuggle Japanese into this country, he said. The 18 in custody are believed to have come to the United States as stowaways and deportation proceedings are to be brought against them, Mr. Weedin announced.

Tiuchi Yoshitomi, arrested at Aberdeen, is accused of being the leader in the alleged smuggling of the others into the country, according to Weedin.

The net expenditure for elementary education for each child in average attendance in England and Wales was 11 pounds 14s. 5d in 1921-22, and 5s. 5d less in 1922-23. The total cost of educating a child during the normal period of school life, i. e., from 5 to 14 years of age, is, therefore, about 100 pounds.

NORWICH GOLF CLUB CHANGES COURSE PLANS

An important change has been made in the layout of the proposed new 18-hole course of the Norwich Golf club, which is to be ready for occupancy next season. Much of the land west of the sixth green, which was included in the first plans has been abandoned and property west of the New London turnpike and nearer East Great Plain has been secured. This land includes the Connelly farm of 31 acres, 11 acres of the Elmer Pierson farm near the junction of Willow and Gold Mine brooks and the old Abel farm. This course on the new terrain will this swing around to the rear of the Maplewood cemetery. Eighteen acres of the James Allen farm west of the sixth green have been retained.

The architects, who are at present constructing new courses at Round Hill and New Canaan in this state, say they have never seen land better adapted for fine links. It is a natural course with nothing to tear down and with little or no clearing. A feature of the greens will be the cup itself will be visible for an approach shot. There will be no blind greens. Another feature is that all the play is practically all down hill. No steep grades will have to be climbed and the course as a whole will not be tiring to walk over. There will be plenty of hazards but they will be so arranged as not to punish a correct shot and to prevent congestion of the course.

President C. Royce Boss, who has been largely instrumental in arranging for the new layout, and is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the club, states that there will not be an uninteresting hole on the course. Each one will have a character and individuality of its own. About 88 acres of new land has been obtained to lay out the new course.

A brief description of the 18 holes is herewith given:

First—346 yards. Green near tennis courts of club, play west down the present ninth fairway to the green located on the knoll flanking the turnpike and on the left of the gully.

Second—180 yards. Tee near the road on the knoll, play north to the green on the plateau near the present second tee.

Third—385 yards. Tee across the turnpike on the Connelly farm and near the house. Play due south to the present seventh green.

Fourth—360 yards. Tee near the seventh green play west to the green this side of the brook and near the bottom of the slope on the right. This is playing the present seventh backward.

Fifth—375 yards. Tee on ridge, play toward the present third green. This is a dog hole with the green near the bubbling spring on the Connelly land. It will mean a good drive and about 175 yard iron shot.

Sixth—410 yards. Tee on ridge near present fourth tee. Play across brook toward present sixth tee. The trees flanking the brook will be removed. The second shot is in line of the trees to the right of the sixth tee, these trees also to be removed. The second shot is up grade so that a lusty blow will be necessary.

Seventh—550 yards, second longest hole of links. On Allen farm.

Eighth — 170 yard toward Skelly land.

Ninth—335 yards. Up grade to present fourth green.

10th—335 yards. Tee near present fifth tee. Play toward pine tree on sixth fairway. Two courses are open. Play to the left for safety or a long shot over gully and ridge to tree. The hole will be placed north of the pine tree.

11th—180 yards. Tee on top of ridge and play toward the brook in the vicinity of the fourth tee.

12th—40 yards. Tee back of fourth tee on ridge. Play toward the New London turnpike. It is a slightly dog leg hole to the apple orchard near the road on the Connelly farm. The green will be double terraced.

13th—285 yards. Tee on plateau of Connelly land. Play is directly west to the edge of a ravine.

14th—575 yards. Longest hole. Tee on east side of ravine. Play across ravine, along right of Willow brook, through slight trough, over stony ridge on left. Rolling land on right along Pierson land. More rolling land.

15th—110 yards. Tee is on peninsular at junction of Gold Mine and Willow brooks. Play is up a grade, a high mashie shot.

16th—345 yards. A slight elbow hole. Rolling pasture over Pierson land and old Abel place.

17th—425 yards. Play across ravine referred to in 14th hole rolling land. Green near road north of Connelly house.

18th—385 yards. Tee near present second. Play over gully and then to terraced green near the present first tee.

The new property offers a wide variety of picturesque views. Ideal spots for picnic luncheons in the wooded sections of the new property toward East Great Plain are provided. These places also lend themselves admirably to childrens playgrounds being out of danger from the line of play of the golfers and being nicely shaded by hard wood trees.

LAUREL HILL HOUSE RANSACKED BY THIEF

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Maynard which is on the ground floor of the house at 94 Laurel Hill avenue, was ransacked one afternoon this week by someone who got in and out through the bathroom window which faces on Winchester street, leaving footprints which indicate the intruder was probably a boy.

Only a small amount in change was secured by the thief, but bureau drawers and clothes presses were turned inside out and a mattress was even slit open in the search for money.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to the many kind neighbors and friends; also the fire departments who rendered such valuable assistance in saving our homes during the recent fire at Norwich Town.

GOOD FRIDAY SERMON BY PARK CHURCH PASTOR

From the text, Genesis 28.17, This is the gate of heaven, Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe delivered an eloquent sermon at Park Congregational church at the Good Friday service at 10.30 Friday morning, pointing out that the cross is truly the gate of heaven, without which there would be no heaven and no life eternal for man.

In part he spoke as follows:

In the faith of the church universal Good Friday has been the shining peak of Jesus Christ's career to which even the resurrection is while necessary and inevitable a corollary. The cross is the supreme and palmary event, the hinge on which a world's redemption revolves. It was the culmination of a movement started in eternity, the ad quam to which it held its course. It was the goal to which redemption leads.

Our holy religion is the religion of God's redemptive approach to man. We do not start from man to find God or the life eternal. That is stark paganism. All pagan religions are man's approach through man in the quest of God.

The Christian gospel is the story of God's approach to man. In the incarnation and the cross we have the story of God breaking into history, entering the world from without and finding man. It is not for us to "climb the heavenly steps," but to welcome God's approach to us. In that way salvation comes—comes to us from without.

The Apostles did not go to those Mediterranean people to tell them that if they would climb through nature or through man to the dazzling peaks, they would find a personal or a world redemption. They told them that God has visited his people broken through intervening obstacles, and come to them. That He was already out on the plains of history healing the broken heartedness of the world and that He had gone to a cross as His last and final appeal to human faith alone and it was not strange that the early church should celebrate Good Friday by what they called the "Adoration of the Cross" and so from the beginning that cross has been the crowning symbol of a gospel which came out of the heavenlies to us. We greet it with a great faith for it is the symbol and procuring cause of our own and a world's forgiveness. Without it we would all be in our sins unshrined and unpardoned. Truly it is the gate of heaven without which there would be no heaven for us and no life eternal.

It is a great thing to sit at the feet of Jesus and have Him tell us of the Father's love for a world of men as unlovable as ourselves or lift the curtain on the future and fold back the doors of our immortality. We are grateful to the great inventors and discoverers of the great secrets of nature which in our time has dazzled us into speechless amazement. But greater our debt of gratitude for the unveiling of the hidden love of the spiritual world which the great Teacher has made familiar to us. It has truly been the gate of heaven to us.

And we are grateful for the vision of perfect life He lived before us which is a revelation of the life to which by rapid marches we are coming up unto—a revelation of the possible becoming of which he believed we are capacious ourselves much of which we have seen in the choice spirits on the world but in Him is the as yet inimitable splendor.

But all this taken alone would have fallen short. For as men and our salvation He must overcome the sharpness of death if he would open the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers. All lines in that great career concentrate here. Here the brazen gate is broken open and the redeemed of the Lord enter into life. Here evil is judged and cast out forever. There is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus. Here the legions of darkness cease their pursuit. Ever the accusing law is silent here and the guilty conscience may be sent into peace. It is this that draws men. The one thing once envisaged breaks the heart of the world and breaks the power of sin, for no man seeing the full entail of sin and the cost of forgiveness should be able to sin again and repeat the old record. Because of these tremendous potencies the cross erects itself into solitary prominence. It is the gate of life, the way into the holiest and because it is such it can never die out of the songs of the redeemed, either on earth or in heaven and they sing the song of Moses and the song of the lamb, saying Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Alymighty, just and true are thy ways thou King of Saints.

A musical program taken from the beautiful cantata "The Story of the Cross" by Dudley Buck was splendidly given by the choir. The program follows:

MC TIGUE AND STRIBLING TO MEET IN TITLE BOUT AT ATLANTA THIS SUMMER

Atlanta, Ga., April 18.—"There is a good chance that 'W. L.' will get a real crack at Mike McTigue's title in Atlanta before the summer is out." "Pa", Stribling announced upon his arrival here today after an adventurous tour in the north and east with his offspring, Young Stribling.

"Paddy Mullins is considering a 15 round bout to a decision in Atlanta for August or September. You may be sure we are for it if Paddy can see it that way, and I imagine Atlanta would like the bout."

"Pa" Stribling also confirmed the report that Stribling will meet Paul Berlenbach in a six round bout in New York to open the milk fund card.

Mullins Confirms Report.

New York, April 18.—Paddy Mullins, manager of Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world, tonight confirmed a statement made by "Pa" Stribling in Atlanta, that a 15 round decision match in that city between McTigue and Young Stribling was being considered for late summer.

"Pa" Stribling made us an offer for the fight which we rejected," Mullins said. "But he promised to renew negotiations after he reached Atlanta. If he meets our terms, McTigue will give Stribling a shot at the title in Atlanta or any other place. Where the title is held is not important."

The terms which Mullins demanded were not divulged.

PLAINFIELD HIGH PLAYS BULKELEY HIGH TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 18.—Due to the cold weather and rain that fell almost steadily all afternoon, the final practice for the Bulkeley baseball team was called off by Coach Robert T. Aldrich. Bulkeley is scheduled to meet Plainfield High at Morgan Park Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Coach Aldrich thought that a work out in the cold would prove more harm than good to the squad so he thought it advisable to call off practice.

Coach Aldrich expressed his intentions of starting Tillie Daniels in the box tomorrow against the Plainfield outfit in the initial contest for the local high school nine. Dazzy Parisi twirled against the Engineers on Tuesday and it is Daniels' turn to do mound duty. Sheffott will do the receiving.

While Bulkeley is optimistic as to the outcome of Saturday's battle, yet the Orange and Black knew that a victory will not be theirs unless they fight hard for it. Plainfield will come to New London with three victories out of four starts. The only team that marred the Plainfield record to date was the La Salle Academy nine of Providence. Plainfield holds a 5 to 4 victory over Chapman Tech and a 9 to 8 victory over Warwick High. The third Plainfield victory was over the mill team in that town.

With the breaking of athletic relations between Bulkeley and Chapman Tech there has been no way to see which team was the best of the two. The only way to decide this question is to compare the scores of the teams that Bulkeley and Chapman Tech meet. Whatever doubt exists in the minds of New London fans as to which team is the best of the two is usually done away with, after both the Tech and Bulkeley teams engage in a game with a team that both meet during the season. The Plainfield game will be one of the tests of the Bulkeley team for the season. If Bulkeley wins Saturday there will be little room for doubt in the minds of the fans as to which team is the best of the two.

Bibault and Allard are expected to be the Plainfield battery. Bibeault is a good curve chucker and he will make things interesting for the spectators with his heaving of the baseball from the elevated position. The Plainfield lineup includes some good hitters and the infield performed in good style in the recent game against La Salle Academy.

CRACK RUNNERS TO MEET CHAMPION IOWA TEAM

New York, April 18.—Four crack eastern quarter-milers have been chosen to race the former Iowa university championship team in a special one-mile match relay at the Iowa relay carnival on May 3.

According to Hugh H. Hirabon of the Wilco A. A., who formed the team at Iowa's request, the east will be represented by Jake Driscoll and Ray Robertson of the Boston A. A.; Tom Campbell, former Yale track captain, now wearing the New York A. C. colors, and Vincent Lally of St. Anselm's, Co. New York. Lally was substituted for Allan Woodring, Olympic 200-metre champion, who withdrew after pulling a tendon, recently.

The Iowa quartet, which won the National A. A. U. one-mile title at Chicago last summer, includes Charles Brookins, world's low hurdle record-holder.

BULLETIN CUP GAME AT NEW LONDON SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 18.—There is bound to be fireworks at Caulkins Park Sunday afternoon when the New London Rangers and the Westerly Soccer teams meet in their first game of their three game series for the possession of the Norwich Bulletin cup. Westerly accepted the challenge of the Rangers for a series of three games for the Norwich Bulletin cup which has been in Westerly's possession for the past year or more. The New London management has had a hard time trying to get the Westerly team to meet the Rangers, but the Rhode Island outfit has at last consented to a three game series and not a five game series that the Rangers management advocated.

From all advance dope it looks as though both teams are evenly matched and the contest will be hotly contested throughout. Both teams are desirous of gaining a victory at any expense.

The lineup of the Westerly team is undecided as yet and the player that will be chosen for the various positions, will not be selected until the game is about to get under way.

How It's Done in the Majors

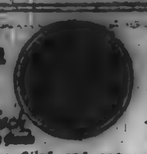
By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants



The bases are filled and one man is out. Batter hits ball through pitcher's legs to second baseman. There is a fast runner on third base.

Where should second baseman make the play?

In a case of this kind the second baseman should try for a double play in order to retire the side at bat. His best plan is to toss the ball to the shortstop, who covers second on the play, and have him complete the double to first.

As the man on third is a fast runner the chances are the second baseman wouldn't be able to nail him at the plate. In the first place he'd have to straighten up to make this throw, and that consumes time — time he saves in tossing the ball to the short stop. In the second place his throw home would have to be perfect to nail the runner. Not all throws are perfect, even when made by the best players. One has to figure on this matter.

MAYS EFFECTIVE AGAINST PIRATES AND WINS, 6 TO 2

Cincinnati, April 18. — Cincinnati made it two out of three in the opening series with Pittsburgh by winning the final contest three to two. Carl Mays, making his first appearance in a National league uniform, was very effective but was taken out in the last half of the eighth for a pinch hitter. Kremer, a recruit from the coast, pitched great ball for Pittsburgh until the ninth. Score:

BULKELEY CLASS TEAMS ARE NOW IN TIE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 18—A four cornered tie now exists in the Bulkeley inter class standing, as the result of the 7 to 2 victory over the juniors by the sophomores at Morgan Park Friday morning. The game was replete thrills even though a five run margin separated the two teams.

For four innings, Taylor for the juniors and Phillian for the sophomores were engaged in a pitching duel. It was only a case of which one weakened first that would decide the winner. It was Taylor that began to find trouble to locate the plate, the second year men taking advantage of the opportunity offered them landed on Taylor with a thud and before the uprising of the impudent sophs was over, six runs trickled over the home plate winning the game right there.

After the fateful fifth, Taylor twirled faultlessly for the remainder of the contest. Phillian twirled a good game for the sophs throughout. Only three hits were made off his delivery all morning. After a bad start he managed to keep the third year men away from the plate for the remainder of the contest.

The juniors led up until the fifth inning and it looked as though they would win by that score up until the fifth.

The teams lined up as follows: Sophomores, Montgomery 3b, Shurts ss, Olsen cf, Piskowitz cf, Brigg, 2b, Collins c Crawford 1b, Montali lf, McKay rf, Woodruff rf Phillian p; Juniors, Watchinsky rf, Morgan rf, Allen lf, Taylor p, Lonergan 2b, Paton c, Vogt 2b, Reeves cf, Carter ss. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

LACEY WILL JOIN BRITISH POLO TEAM.

New York, April 18—Luis L. Lacey, who played back on the brilliant Argentine federation four that captured the American open polo championship in 1922, will be a member o ... ish team which will seek to lift the historic Hurlingham cup from the United States in a series of matches here next September.

This was learned today when the United States Polo association was advised Lacey would be a candidate for the British team. Inasmuch as he is regarded as one of the best backs in the game, whose play compares favorably with that of Devereux Milburn, veteran American star, policists consider his inclusion in the British lineup as a certainty. His presence will strengthen greatly Britain's prospects of triumph.

This year's matches will decide leadership in the series as well as possession of the trophy. Britain and America each have won the cup four times since 1886, this country's riders bringing it back from England in 1921 when the last matches were contested.

DONOVAN DAY AT NEW HAVEN SUNDAY

New York, April 18—Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, representatives of all eastern league teams and of several big league clubs, relatives and friends will go to New Haven Sunday to witness the unveilin' of a memorial to the late Bill Donovan in Weiss Park, home of the New Haven baseball club which he managed in 1923 and 1923.

The eighty-year-old father of the deceased leader will make the trip from Philadelphia with other relatives. A baseball game between the Philadelphia Athletics and New Haven will be included in the exercises. The New York Yankees, for whom Donovan formerly pitched, have purchased a box and contributed to the Memorial fund.

MANAGER LOSES CASE WITH VALUABLE PAPERS

Toledo, Ohio, April 18.—Detectives were scouring the city today trying to locate a suitcase stolen from an automobile owned by Manager Puzz Wetzel of the Hamilton, Ontario, baseball team of the Michigan-Ontario league, containing players' contracts and other valuable papers.

Wetzel, with several other players, were motoring from Delaware, Ohio, where the team trained, to Battle Creek, Mich., and stopped off here for lunch. While they were eating, the suitcase was taken from the automobile.

BYDOLEK BEATS SCHAPMAN OUT IN GOLF TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., April 18.—Coming up from behind after being four down at the turn, Joseph Bydolek of Buffalo today won the annual mid-April golf tournament here by defeating John D. Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., one up in 19 holes.

Though Bydolek had been playing alright golf all week, Chapman had been favored by experts to win the tournament. The latter had tied for low medalist in the qualifying round and yesterday entered the finals by defeating P. S. P. Randolph of Point Judith, R. I., winner of the affair last season.

O. T. C. telegraphic rifle shoots for the week of April 13, it was announced today. Rhode Island State's score was 3762, that of South Dakota A. and M. 3704, and Virginia Polytechnic 3668. State college of Washington, defaulted.

Pershing Stadium to Be Used

Paris, April 18—Pershing stadium will be the stadium of the first appearance of the United States association football team in the Olympic games, the reench Olympic committee, desirous of expressing gratitude for the gift of the stadium to France by the American Expeditionary Forces, having so decided. Should the American team survive the second round all its other games will be played in the Olympic stadium.

Wright Wins Match

Pasadena, Cal., April 18—Fred Wright of Pasadena, member of the international Walker cup team, today won his match from W. W. Campbell, of Los Angeles in the Southern California championship tournament on the Annandale course here at the 26th hole, by sinking a 25 foot putt for a birdie two. The combination was said by experts in the gallery to be a record for match play in the United States.

Rochacher to Coach Springfield

Springfield, Mass., April 18—The appointment of J. L. Rochacher as head football coach of Springfield college was announced today. Rochacher succeeds E. J. Hickox, coach for the past two seasons. The new coach begins his duties September 1. He was graduated from Springfield on 1914 and played tackle and guard on the 1913 and 1913 elevens.

Guthberg Wins Marathon

Toronto, Ont., April 18—John Cuthbers, unattached, of Gleelph, finished first in the 19-mile marathon here today in one hour, 52 minutes, 14 4-5 seconds. The race, which was the official Olympic provincial trial, was run in a rain storm, although the course was in fairly good condition. Art Scholes, of Toronto, was second, and James Moorcroft, of Detroit, third.

Wins Rotary Bowling Title.

Chicago, April 18.—Niagara Falls, N. Y., won the Rotary international bowling trophy in the telegraph tournament held last Monday, with a score of 2930, it was announced today. Indianapolis was second with 2906 and New Philadelphia, Ohio, third, with 2854. The scores represent a three game total for a five-man team.

BAD WEATHER WILL PREVENT CHANCE OF RECORD TIME IN BOSTON MARATHON

Boston, April 18.—Showers today and the forecast of the weather bureau that there will be more tomorrow lessened the chances of record-breaking time in the American marathon race over the roads from Hopkinton to Boston tomorrow, under the auspices of the Boston A. A. Frank Zuna, of Newark, N. J., who will be one of the 144 competitors, set a new American record for the distance of 26 miles, 385 yards, when he won the Laurel to Baltimore marathon last month in 2 hours, 41 minutes, 39 2-5 seconds.

Zuna won the Boston event in 1921 and finished second last year. He and Clarence K. Demar of Melrose, are the favorites for tomorrow's race in which, however, there are several other entrants with records which make them formidable competitors. Demar, the only man to win the event three times, came in ahead in 1911, 1922, and 1923. In 1923 he set the record of 2:18:10 for the regular course of somewhat under 25 miles.

This year, because the race constitutes the final American Olympic marathon test, the course has been lengthened to the regular marathon distance. The starting point, always hitherto in Ashland, has been set back to a point in Hopkinton, with the finish as usual at the B. A. A. clubhouse in the Back Bay district of Boston.

OHIO RELAYS FEATURE OF WESTERN COLLEGES

Columbus, Ohio, April 18—With hundreds of athletes on the ground, fair and warmer weather predicted for tomorrow and the unsurpassed facilities of the $1,500,000 Ohio stadium, conditions pointed tonight to an auspicious inaugural Saturday afternoon of the Ohio relays here. Sponsored by the Ohio State University, the relays which will be an annual event, will be one of the most ambitious ever held in the middle west.

Entry list for the meet includes 86 scvool boy and college teams, with 714 individual athletes nominated. The program calls for 46 events, most of which are relay races. With the exception of preliminary heats in three 100 yard dash events in various divisions and in the 120 yard high hurdles (open), all events will be contested tomorrow afternoon.

Fulton Gets New Manager.

St. Paul, Minn., April 18. — Fred Fulton, heavyweight boxer of Minneapolis, hereafter will be under the management of Eddie Reddy of St. Paul, instead of Jack Reddy, St. Paul promoter, it was announced today.

The change was made to comply with a ruling of the state boxing commission forbidding promoters to manage fighters in Minnesota.

No Game at Academy Today.

There will be no game at the Norwich Free academy campus this afternoon as the next scheduled home game is with Putnam on April 26th. The rain on Friday put a stop to the practice and the next practice will be on Monday afternoon.

Slattery to Fight Lynch

New York, April 18—Jimmy Slattery Buffalo boxer, who outpointed Young Stribling in a winter bout, was signed today to meet Jack Lynch of Phoenix, Ariz., in a six round preliminary to the Harry Wills-Bartley Madden 15 round battle at the Queens borough stadium on May 12.

New London Sport Comment

Tennis in New London is increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds as an outdoor sport. The Chapman Tech tennis team has already been noticed out at practice. The courts at Ocean beach and at the Williams Memorial Institute are scenes of games every day. On Wednesday of this week two well known rivals met on the court. These rivals, Kenneth Shea and George Sullivan gave a good exhibition of tennis playing. In the future it is expected that some league will be sponsored in New London, whereas the tennis players will be encouraged to play the game. The Harbour club seems to be the most logical club in the city that can start such a league and make a success of it.

Public tennis courts, ball grounds, and golf courses are now quite common. It is the intention of New London to convert the Smith property on Ocean avenue into such centers for recreation. If this thing goes through, it will be the biggest thing that New London will have done in the way of encouraging the various sport activities.

Local twirlers in the Collegiate baseball campaign did not fare so well in Thursday's games. Johnny Dwyer was defeated for the first time since his breaking in as a Fordham pitcher, on Thursday, Vermont defeated Fordham by a 7 to 0 score. The other local boy who could not hold the opponent team was Toby May for Catholic University. May started against Yale University and was knocked out of the box in the first inning.

As a twirler, Johnny Dwyer, the former Chapman Tech star all round athletic, seems to have a slight edge over May. Dwyer's performance in Fordham's game against Yale, and May's performance against the same team, shows that Dwyer is the best of the two.

Bulkeley will open its season this afternoon against Plainfield. The entire Bulkeley team is out for a victory. A victgery for the Orange and Black means that this team is better than the Chapman Tech nine.

Who is it that is really responsible of the non-resumption of athletic relations between Bulkeley and Chapman Tech? Both Headmaster Underwood and Principal Hitchcock of the Bulkeley and Tech schools respectively, seem to shift the blame upon each other for the non-resumption of relations between the two schools. It seems that both coaches of the rival schools are in favor of resuming relations. Why don't the headmasters of both schools drop their personal greviences and agree to have the two schools meet each other as in previous years? It would mean quite a few extra dollars in the treasury for each team.

Chapman Tech is finding it rough going in baseball. Thursday found the Red and Black losing their second game in as many starts. Lets hope that the Tech team shows a reverse in form and begins on a winning streak.

As Bulkeley gets ready to begin its campaign for the Connecticut High School championship, I would advise the fans that have a chance to view the teams in action to watch the infield in action. The inner defense of the Orange and Black is one of the smoothest infields that has ever played for Bulkeley. The catcher's department is also a strong asset to the Bulkeley team as the first game of the season draws nigh.

New London fans wonder if there is to be a city industrial league this year as before. No action has been taken by the various teams that are interested and it is most likely that twilight baseball in New London will not be determined until some time next month.

The Bulkeley inter class games are creating unusual interest. A large crowd of followers are always on hand, when a scheduled game is to be played. Friday morning a good sized crowd witnessed the sophomore-junior game. The umpiring of Mr. Hamlin, teacher in English, was passably good. His decisions were at all times f

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Rain, hail and snow was the treat enjoyed by Norwich folks 50 years ago Thursday of this week. This freak weather with baseball games on Main street provided no little amusement.

Several interesting items of the old days, taken from the Bulletin of 1874 are as follows:

Monday, April 13, 1874—The sunlight was falling pleasantly through the southern windows of the Park chapel yesterday morning, when the congregation gathered to dedicate the room to the service and worship of God. The house was filled to the utmost limit, members of the several local churches being present to participate in the dedication service.

The exercises of dedication consisted of readings from the scriptures, singing by the congregation, chants, and the dedicatory prayer. The Rev. Mr. Dana chose for his discourse for the morning the thoughts suggested by the text from Gen. 28-17, "This is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of Heaven."

The organization of the Sunday school was affected in the afternoon and 195 members were enrolled. A committee of three appointed to select officers, Ebenezer Learned, General Ely and Frank Johnson, reported as follows: Superintendent, George Huntington; treasurer, Charles L. Hubbard; librarians, Stephen Meech and William Mowry. A Bible class was enrolled and Senator Foster took charge.

J. P. Barstow, Water street, reports an immense trade in seeds and agricultural implements. On one day recently the sales, mostly in seeds, reached over $300.

A driving snow squall yesterday concluded the weather program for the day.

Another sure sign of spring is the appearance on Main street of an innumerable procession of baby carriages.

Tuesday, April 14, 1874—A Norwich man drove to New London recently in one hour and twenty-five minutes, returning the following morning in one hour and a half without the use of the whip either way. The horse is one in use every day and not by any means a trotter.

One hundred and three lodgers have been locked up in the police station during the past twelve days, a rushing business for spring.

There was a large audience at Freed Hall last evening to hear Theadore Thomas and his orchestra. The program was skillfully carried out and the solo work of Mr. Whitney as usual was of the highest order.

Charles Wormsley the Union street restauranteur has removed his business to the basement under the store of Berry & Co., of Water street.

The old building of Henry Allen undertaker, on Main street is undergoing some extensive alterations.

Wednesday, April 15, 1874—The barn belonging to Joseph Pheffer, a well-to-do farmer of North Stonington was consumed by fire yesterday and with it went six tons of hay, nine cows, one yoke of oxen, one horse, five calves, some sheep, pigs, and many farming implements. The loss of the hay and stock alone is over $1000 and Mr. Pheiffer had but $1250 insurance. The loss at this time of the year is a severe blow to him.

The water in the city reservoir is now three feet below full pond. The rainfall in the last three storms has been 7.78 inches.

A wise man of the street remarked yesterday to a "total physician" that there is one town in the state that does not fear small pox—it's Haddam.

R. M. Haven has opened his new crockery shop on Shetucket street and reports business is fine.

A delegation of local Masons went to Jewett City last evening to attend the dedication service of a hall in that place, where Mt. Vernon Lodge, No. 75, F. & A. M. will meet in the future.

Thursday, April 16, 1874—Ellis Harkness who has been connected with C. B. Platt in the dry goods business for the past few years, and who was favorably known when with the firm of Williams & Chester, has opened a store for himself on Main street. He will sell dress and fancy goods of every discription.

Among the members of St. James Lodge No. 23 F. & A. M. who visited Mt. Vernon lodge No. 75 of Jewett City, Tuesday evening and made brief addresses were J. J. Walt, John L. Division, S. A. Gilbert and Rufus M. Ladd. Responding for Somerset Lodge No. 84 of Norwich were Daniel D. Lyman and Ebenezer Fuller, and responding for Masonry was S. Alpheus Gilbert.

A tax of more than 10 mills on the dollar is being asked for with a view to mecadamizing local streets. Ten mills will raise $100,000 and with city expenses taken out only $10,000 will be left, this sum being the annual expense of caring for the streets and building new ones. Of the 26 or more miles of streets in the city only a half mile has been macadamised and as the cost is about $25,000 per mile much money is needed for this work.

Friday, April 17, 1874—Groton had a town meeting yesterday to take action on the ferry question. Capt. John W. Miner was appointed agent for the town to present to the next legislature a petition for a charter for a new ferry between Groton and New London.

Job Jennes and son, well known here as former proprietors of the Wauregan House will open a hotel at Cape Arundel on the coast of Maine on June 15th. This place is one of the best watering places along the coast and should become a great summer resort.

The state board of charities made their official visit to the jail in this city about two weeks ago. They report that it is the only jail in the state where a library is kept for the use of the prisoners.

Some ancient coins are being unearthed by men working on the old buildings in Myers alley. Several coins back of 1800 have been found the oldest being 1785.

Many people are awaiting tomorrow evening when a big auction sale of horses is to be held at the square.

Saturday, April 17, 1874—One hundred and seven members were dismissed from the Second church on Thursday evening, to unite with others in forming the new Park church. The council to form the new church has been called to meet on the 28th.

Two coal schooners arrived yesterday with cargoes of coal for S. Slater & Sons of Webster, Mass.

Fishermen of the Thames river have been reporting exceedingly fine catches of perch this year.

The poem, Hail Gentle Spring, became a reality in this city yesterday during the storm. The storm was not of long duration however, and little damage was caused, although for a time a light coating of snow covered the ground.

A carload of oysters standing on the Northern road yesterday was run into and the bivalves spilled onto the ground. People nearby soon got busy with shovels and pails, and the ate at which the oysters disappeared was surprising.

VANITY SOMETIMES SPOILS A MULTITUDE OF VIRTUES

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
GROUCH AND SMILES

Two men there lips in every town,
With lives as like as nuts of brown;
But the one wears a smile, the other a frown;
The one looks up and the other down.

The one that looks up is a merry chap
With a hearty "hello" and a friendly slap.
While his neighbor, Grouch, across the way,
May seldom a friendly word to say.

The things they see are just the same,
But the one will praise, the other one blame.
A rosebush for one has flowers grand,
For the other but thorns that prick his hand.

If it happens to rain, why, Grouch will say:
"Tis a beastly, nasty, stormy day";
While smiles will laugh as the drops come down:
"I will lay the dust on my way to town."

They work side by side. When night comes along
Smiles starts for his home with a snatch of song,
Happy in knowing his day's work is through;
Grouch only thinks of the chores yet to do.

And thus through life they go along,
Grouch with a grunt, Smiles with a song;
One always finds the other one blue;
And now, friend, which one are you?

A POOR UNFORTUNATE

His horse went dead and an' his mule went lame;
He lost six cows in a poker game;
A hurricane came on a summer's day,
An' carried the house whar' he lived away;
Then a airthquake came when that wux gone,
An' swallered the lan' that the house stood on!
An' the tax collector, he come roun'
An' charged him up fer the hole in the groun'!
An' the city marshal—he come in view
An' said he wanted his street tax, too!

Did he mean an' sigh? Did he set an' cry
An' cuss the harricane sweepin' by?
Did he grieve that his al' friends failed to call
When the airthquake come an' swallered all?
Never a word o' blame he said,
With all the troubles on top his head!
Not him. . . . He climb to the top o' the hill—
Whar' standin room wux left him still,
An', barin' his head, here's what he said:
"I reckon it's time to git up an' git;
But, Lord, I hain't had the measles yit!"

THE LETTERS FROM CORNER SISTERS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I am sure we were all glad to see a full page of letters in last week's paper, also to note that many of them were short, which reminded us of the story that "short visits make long friends." So we might apply that idea in many other ways. It's the fact that that is better than none at all of the small gift, given in the right spirit, counts more than the expensive one. We might compare brief letters, as we do small favors, "thankfully received larger ones in prospection." In our personal correspondence, we are always glad to receive, it only but a card from a friend, with a few words and signature initials; it does count so much. So with our Social Corner many brief letters add interest to the readers. We do not detract the pleasure we derive from the lengthy letters, but commend them as supplying in part the absence of others.

How easy for us all to get into the habit of putting off doing little things until we realize its necessity and see the results. It seems as if we are living in an age of great activity, so much of a hurry to get there, or to accomplish some work. Progression is a wonderful ideal, and we would not if we could, check its speed. One of the best illustrations is that of the automobile; for the horse had had its day for general travel. How great are the benefits of electricity at our present time and sometimes we wonder, what more can be added. In conclusion, the brief letters from the Corner sister is like the ray of sunshine on a cloudy day, its bright light is appreciated in harmony with good cheer.

Kind wishes to all.

JENNIE.

BAKED VEAL CUTLET — MAPLE FUDGE

Dear Sisters: I am just taking time from a busy winter to write the Corner. First I want to thank a Corner member for a pretty calendar received a long time ago but much appreciated even if I have been a long time acknowledging it.

Here are two recipes the members may like.

Baked Veal Cutlet with New Orleans: Veal cutlet cut one inch thick, 3 bunched young onions (scallions), 3 fresh tomatoes or 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons fat.

Roll the cutlet in the flour and fry in the fat until brown. Place the meat in a casserole or baking dish. Cover with two onions cut in thick slices, using two inches of the green tops; the tomatoes, seasonings and water. Cover and cook slowly in a moderate oven two hours.

If fresh tomatoes are used, peel, and cut in small pieces. This will serve five.

Maple Fudge: Mix 3 cups of white sugar with 1 1-2 cups of maple sugar. Add 1 3-4 cups of milk and 3-4 of a pound of butter.

Cook the mixture until it begins to boil and solidifies when tested in cold water. Then remove from the fire and stir until it reaches a creamy condition. Take care not to stir it too long and thus harden it. Pour out into buttered pans. Genuine maple sugar must be used to get the best results with maple fudge.

May it be a joyous Easter for all the members.

FRED'S WIFE.

TESTED RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Friends: Noting a renewed interest in receipes I am going to send my method of making date fingers and think you will like them.

Date Fingers: One cup granulated sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup dates cut up, 1 cup walnuts cut up, 2 cups sifted flour with 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat eggs lightly, then add sugar, dates, vanilla and nuts and flour. Bake in a square pan 10 minutes in moderate oven. Cut in fingers when cool. Roll in powdered sugar.

Those who are fond of chowders try the following:

Corn Chowder: Cut a two - inch cube of salt pork in small cubes and try out in an iron frying pan. Add one medium-sized onion thinly sliced and cook five minutes, without browning, stirring constantly. Strain fat into a large stewpan. Parboil four cups of half-inch potato cubes in boiling salted water five minutes; drain, add potatoes to fat, pour over two cups of boiling water; cover and let simmer until potatoes are soft, but not broken. Finely chop the contents of one can of corn. Scald one quart of full milk in a double boiler; add corn and when hot pour over potato mixture; season with salt and pepper, add one half tablespoon finely cut chives and three tablespoons of butter or one-half cup of rich cream. Bring to the boiling point and serve in hot soup plates with hot fried crackers. This may serve as the main dish at luncheon. A tablespoonful of grated Parmesan cheese added to each service is an addition both in taste and food value.

Best wishes to the Corner and hope all who have been sick are better.

IN SYMPATHY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I am a Social Corner reader but not a member, and have enjoyed the letters and recipes very much. Have tried many of them and always have good success.

Of late I have read of several Social Corner friends being afflicted with corns and some of them feel so discouraged and feel that there is no cure for them. I read of one that performed an operation with a chisel and mallet and another one who recommended sand paper, which I would think would make them very sore.

Now I am one who has been afflicted with very bad corns for several years and have tried salves and plasters and so many other remedies, but did not get a cure. Sometimes I would get rid of the corn but it would come again and I was about to believe that there was no cure for them. About a year ago my husband went to the city and brought home a box of Gypsy Foot Relief and said I have something that is a sure cure for corns. I did not have much faith in it. At the time I was suffering very badly with two very painful corns, so I was ready to try most any remedy and I used it faithfully night and morning for two weeks and did get rid of my corns. I applied it on a piece of medicated cotton. If it is used two weeks you may find that it makes the toe tender but after the corn comes off a little cold cream will remedy that part.

The Gypsy Foot Relief can be found at the National Drug Store in Norwich, price 50 cents per box and well worth the money. The directions are with every box. Hoping some of the afflicted ones will try it and report. Sent in through

A CALL FOR THE ROLL CALL

Dear Corner Sisters: I noticed a short time ago one of the sisters, I think it was Twice Twenty, suggested a roll call. I was in hopes she would follow it up and call on the many writers who have not been heard from in a long time for some account of themselves. It is certainly time we heard from them through the Corner page.

We all like to see the page full each week and there is no better way to insure it than by having each member do her part and at the same time protect her pen name. The oftener each one keeps in touch with the Corner by a letter, even though it is short, the better the Corner.

Hope Twice Twenty will spur on some of the silent members by her roll call.

What has become of such interesting writers as Uncle Charlie, Lonesome Pine, Aunty No. 1, Biddy, Aunt Mahitable, Little Spinster, Practical Polly and scores and scores of others?

Easter greetings to all.

MARTHA.

THREE EGG AND ANGEL CAKE

Dear Sisters: I have put off writing long enough, so thought I would see if I could compose some sort of a letter. After reading so many of the good letters that are in the Social Corner it is hard for me to write.

Savilla: I thank you very much for the card you sent me when hubby was sick; it cheered me up so to think some one thought of me in my trouble. He is much better now, so he can go back to work, but still has the soreness in his side. What are you doing up?

Aunty No. 1: How are you now? I hope you are all well by now. We have all been sick this winter with grip colds. I was sorry I could not go and see you when you were sick, but have not been hardly anywhere this winter. I never was so glad to see spring as I am this year. I have had cough and nothing I have tried has helped it. I am nearly discouraged. Have had it nearly all winter.

I do I guess you think I have forgotten about sending in that recipe but I haven't. Hope you are well.

Three Egg Angel Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cups of flour, 1-2 teaspoon cream tartar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Sift all together four times, add slowly 1-2 cup scalded milk beating all the time, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 egg whites beaten stiff, then fold in. Bake in angel cake pan 45 minutes.

I want to thank the dear sisters who sent me cards for my birthday. I think it is a lovely thing to do, to remember people's birthdays if only with a card. I try to send to those whose names I have.

Tripple E: I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you. Will see you Sunday if pleasant. Hope all are well now.

Ora: How are you these days? Have not heard from you for a long time. Am losing my neighbor, Mrs. M. She is moving to Greeneville. I am awful sorry to see her go.

I think this is enough for this time so will send all sisters best wishes and hope for speedy recovery for those that are sick.

MORE FLORIDA ATTRACTIONS

Dear Corner Sisters: I will tell you of a recent trip to Eustis, a pretty little town about eighty-five miles from here. It is in Lake county which has 1400 lakes and as it is a hilly part of the country the scenery is fine. It is orange blossom time in Florida and it is delightful motoring through the country, past miles of orange groves. Some of the late oranges are still on the trees, and men are busy picking and packing them to be sent away, but most of the trees are loaded with the fragrant blossoms. We remained in Eustis several days, driving about to the nearby towns, and one day we took a trip in a little steamboat, across Lake Eustis and up the Oklawaha river, which is very narrow and runs through the cypress swamps. It was full of lily pads with a few large lilies in bloom, and water hyacinths and saw grass and in some places, the captain had to use poles to push the little islands aside so the boat could get through. It was a scene of wild beauty and as it is the native home of the alligator and moccasins, and many wild birds, we were on the alert to see everything. We saw several alligators, one was eight or nine feet long, lying on a bunch of grass. We saw several grey and blue heron with their long legs and graceful bodies, flying slowly about, also many beautiful birds, and all about us was the music of the mocking birds. After leaving the river, we crossed Lake Griffin and into pure Endeavor reed paper, lunch and then were through a paper mill.

The paper is made of the saw grass which is gathered from the swamp. It is first put into a big round digestor, 85 feet in circumference, then washed and ground to pulp. After the paper is finished it is colored different colors. The boilers are 40 horse power and burn crude oil.

The whole trip was interesting and worth while.

Now sisters, you must save all your old auto tubes to make into handbags. Cut each side with the handle on and stitch together, pinking the side edges and fringing the bottom of the bag, one can bead or fancy stitch them as they choose.

Greeting and good wishes to all.

HULDY.

GREETINGS FROM NEIGHBOR EVEREADY

Dear Members All: Greetings one and all this delightful season.

This little letter goes forth to say all cards and letters received, and when I can find time they will be answered.

Have many interesting things to tell you at some future time. One is of my recent visit to Girls Trade School in Worcester. Again I was absent at our April meeting, but it was entirely unexpected, as my bag was packed, ready to leave, when a phone call came in for me to teach, so I have been substituting ever since.

Above is self explanatory, for any personal letters you are not receiving.

Know you are all delighted with appearance of these warm days, fulfilling the promise. Spring surely returns, and all will be a verdure clad, and flowers round about.

Ever and always interested.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

ENJOYED CLUB NO. 25 MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Having read the letters in the Corner for some time, and received many useful hints and helps in one way or another, I would like to do the same if you may. I attended the meeting on April second, at Buckingham Memorial, and enjoyed the good things to eat, also the social hour after dinner very much.

For my pen name I will sign

WOODY.

LIKED TO SEE PAGE FULL AND OVERFLOWING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Folks: Easter Greetings All! What lovely weather we are having, although a little cool!

But how happy it makes one feel to see and hear all the birds, and especially the beautiful little blue birds!

I guess everyone took advantage of the lovely weather Tuesday for I met so many of the Corner sisters on the street and Mayflayre and I enjoyed our chat with Chocolate and April Showers.

Suppose most of the sisters have their housecleaning all finished by this time and what a relief it must be! I guess I've contracted spring fever for I've been very lazy this spring but now's your chance sisters for I start in Monday sure, so come one and all and by night we'll be all through. Ha, Ha.

Well, some of the old writers are getting busy. Such nice letters we are having every week and it seems so good to see the Corner page full and flowing over.

Wish I knew all the sisters and brothers but I know quite a few now for everytime I go I meet new ones.

We are going to try to go to Willimantic soon and I hope to meet Agatha and see some of her crochet patterns.

Tatting: Where are you? We don't see anything from you. Come now can't you write a line?

True Blue and Hope: Will return your samples soon. Have one you may like if I go to the next meeting.

Scottie: Was sorry to hear you have been ill. Hope you are all better by this time.

Well as little Black Eyed Susie is calling will say, like Annette, "continued in our next."

BLACK EYED SUSIE. (April 20.

GREETINGS FROM RURAL DELIVERY

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am glad Crimson Rambler you did not send me any work while you thought I had joined the quilting bee.

Potlatch: It seemed like olden times to see your letter in the Corner page. Come again, we are all glad to see you.

Nema: You wonder if I make tatting. If you could see all the needles, thread, and patterns of different things I had sent me in the early days of the Corner you might think I could make most anything. I would not dare to put in print what I received.

Kentucky Wonder: I have put my hat on and as you live only six miles from me I shall have time to take it off before I arrive at your home. You took a good pen name as it is a Social Corner wonder to find out who is who.

Papa's Boy: It must be fun to pick up the eggs at your house. Think you might have ham and eggs real often. We are glad to learn that Dom Pedro is on the gain. May she continue to improve when summer comes again.

Spring is with us and the only sad thing about it is to think in a few months at the longest all the beautiful flowers, the leaves on the trees and the works of nature must die as old grim winter will not forget us.

Best wishes to all from.

RURAL DELIVERY.

IN THE DAYS THAT ARE GONE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: My apology to the editor for leaving him out of my greetings. How are you this beautiful day? Hope the sick are better and that you all are so out in the warm sun.

Kentucky Wonder: Do you feel puffed up because Rural Delivery takes off his hat to you? He used to take off his hat to me in the olden days when I was young and gay, before I faded quite away. No, I'm not ancient. I lived in the days of candles though. We made candles this way: Stuff called filling was gotten from the mill, cut into lengths of 30 inches twisted tight by rolling in the hands, folded in the center and sewed to twist again which it will do. Sticks were put through the loop at the top. When the fat which had been put over in a wash boiler got hot these kept of strings are let down into the hot fat, taken out and put to drip by laying the stick across two bureau chairs. It was slow work. After the fat had hardened they were dipped again until as large as desired. Making rag carpets was another job I have helped at. From the age of three until eight I sewed enough carpets to go around the world, I think, several times. How I hated it all! I am still making rugs and have made some and one to sell. Then came making cider apple sauce. Evening after evening we would sit around the fire paring apples. The men folks would get a cider barrel and saw it in half. We would proceed to fill it. When enough apples were pared and cored we put out the large brass kettle and after cleaning it so it shone we would fill it a little more than half full of apples and enough boiled cider which had previously been prepared by boiling sweet cider down to one half the amount. It would take days to do this work but when we had boiled enough cider and had stewed enough apples to fill these two half barrels our work in that direction was at an end. This sauce was supposed to last the family until warm weather. We stored it in the attic after covering it over the top with large rhubarb leaves. This sauce was made in the fall and some was put on the table three times a day. We liked it very much. For fear you will think me very old I will say our candles were used to light us to bed. We had oil lamps to sew and read by.

I see some of the Corner sisters are members of lodges. I am a Granger, a Rebekah, a Relief Corps member, a church member and story tells, am a like the Grange very much.

Many thanks Kitty Lou for Easter greeting. I have enjoyed your letters so much you are some writer.

Glad to see letter from Breeze.

I saw Adams on the street. I can't make her name out though I've twisted it inside, outside, wrong side, right side, up side down side, changed the letters around and nothing doing. It remained the same. Will close with good wishes for all. Always the same

KINGSTON BROWN.

PROTECTION AND PREVENTION

Dear Editor and Social Corner Family: How I remember my dear father telling me to "be sure you are right, then go ahead."

Last Saturday I put ten pounds of sugar in a paper bag into my knitted handbag. In taking my purse out of the handbag I stuck one of my fingers through the paper bag and the result was the sugar began to sift out. I lifted one corner of my long cloak and put all on the cloak or I should have lost my sugar.

When I got home, and could, I make a white cotton bag and lined the knitted handbag so I went get caught that way again. I write this as someone just as thoughtless as I might have a similar experience. It might be a costly one sometimes in various ways.

Such a delightful morning, this Wednesday.

J. E. T.

WANTS INFORMATION ABOUT CORNER BADGE

Dear Social Corner Members: This is a nice day after the severe storms of snow and rain we have had this month. Not very good weather for club meetings.

Where can I get the "yellow bow," the badge of membership?

If I knew the shade of yellow and the width, etc., I could make one myself.

To the sister who asked for a cure for corns, I would say try Blue Jay corn salve. It is good for warts also.

I wish the chairman of the entertainment committee of some of the clubs would send in some games they have played. I think an exchange would help some who have to make up a program each month.

A few weeks ago, one of the sisters was telling of different ways to use salt. Did you know that it is fine for putting out a chimney fire or a fire in the stove pipe? Sprinkle a cup or more on the coals in the stove and close the stove and the fire in the pipe will soon go out. If in the chimney throw it on the fire if you can get at it. I have used it and it did the work. Hope to meet some of the sisters this summer.

MAVIS.

RECIPES FROM PAULA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am sending a few recipes.

Carrot Pudding: 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, 3 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, teaspoon allspice and nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup seeded raisins, chopped suet, 1 cup grated carrot, 1 cup figs, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, grated rind and juice 1-2 lemon.

Peneche: 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup white sugar, pinch salt, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup walnut meats.

Mix sugar and milk, add butter cook without stirring until mixture forms a soft ball in cold water. Remove from fire, add vanilla and salt and set aside until cold. When cold beat mixture until it begins to keep its shape, add nut meats then knead or work in the hands until smooth. Mold or cut as desired.

Love Knots: 1 tablespoon melted Crisco, 1 tablespoon cream, 2 eggs 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoon juice, enough flour to make a batter stiff enough to roll. Cut in strips about the size of a lead pencil and tie in a loose knot. Cook in deep Crisco until a light brown. Dust with powdered sugar.

Bedford Jumbles: 2 cups sugar, 1 cup butter, beaten well together add 1-2 cup flour, 4 well beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon vanilla and flour enough to roll out. One half cup grated cocoanut is delicious, or finely shredded almonds laid on each cake.

PAULA.

WANTS TO KNOW THE SISTERS

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: I have often thought I would write and see if I could gain admittance to your circle of sisters, but I could not seem to gain the courage to do so before. I greatly enjoy reading the letters from the sisters. I am personally acquainted with the sister who signs herself Rye Brook and I know who quite a few of the others are but am not acquainted with them. But hope to be some time. I will not write much this time for fear it will go to the waste basket. I do not want that to happen as I wish to become a member of the Social Corner if the sisters will move over and make room for one more. Will take for my "nom"

F. O. B.

ANOTHER SHOWER SUGGESTED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Rosary's mother is 85 years old and She is sick. I'm sure a shower of cards would please her from the dear Social Corner sisters. Her address is Mrs. B. Bliss, Storrs, Conn.

AN OUTSIDER.

HER SACRIFICE

Dear Sisters: It would not require the skilful argument of a lawyer of the presentation of voluminous evidence to prove that the reason why Betty Barrows' eyes were filled with tears was because the man whom she loved had left her with bitter words on his lips.

Harry James had received an appointment abroad, and he desired to take Betty away with him as his wife, but she thought of her sister at home lying in a darkened room; who would be alone in the world if she married, so she bravely refused. Like most men, under the circumstances he grew unreasonable and would not hear of her sacrificing herself for her sister's sake. Betty saw that it was absolutely essential that she remain and care for her sister, although it may cost her dearly. He was inflexible in his determination, and at last left, as Betty thought, never to return again.

She crept up to her room with determined perseverence that her sister should never know of the sacrifice she had made. They had been betrothed three years, and now it was all over. She wondered if the pain in her heart would ever cease.

Eight years have passed away and we are in the great city. Betty Barrows is coming home after a day's work giving music lessons. She is thinner and paler since we last met her, and there are threads of silver in her brown hair. One good thing had happened in these years: Nellie had entirely recovered her health.

She hurries through the crowd, breathing the fresh spring air. Surely she will awake and find herself back once more in Kelton, with the voices of her father, mother and Nellie around her; she can feel the touch of their loving hands; the very scent of the hawthorne tree is upon her, and amongst it all moved her younger self, bright and happy in the dawn of love's dream.

"Betty Barrows," his voice fitted in so well with the memories thronging her soul that for a moment it seemed part of them, and it was not until she felt her hands clasped in those of a stranger looking at her with Harry's eyes that she understood what had happened. "Let us go to the park, Betty, so I can get a look at you, and make sure you are the lass I left at Kelton."

Like a child she yielded to his guidance, as in a dream, until under the shade of the trees they sat face to face. "How came you here, Harry?" she said at last, striving to still the beating of her heart. "How came I here?" Is it not much more reasonable to meet me in London from Burmah, than it is to meet you here from dear old dead-alive Kelton? My poor Betty." bending down to look at her, "You must have met with the rough side of life I fear. Tell me about yourself."

Mechanically she answered his questions, and questioned in her turn of his prospects, while her heart throbbed to one thing only. Had he forgotten he had changed outwardly? He inquired anxiously about her life since leaving Kelton, and spoke openly of himself, but as they talked, she realized that he had lived his life apart from her, while to her he had, in spite of all, been part of the present.

The early dusk of spring was closing in fast as they left the park, and turned their steps towards the dingy little lodging which had sheltered her during the bitterest days of her trials. It seemed very strange that evening to see Nellie tall and lovely, waiting for her. While Harry stood beside her, she glanced from one to the other, and the past years came before her very clearly. She then understood that from the ashes of a man's love there is nothing to kindle but friendship.

I think that a vision of the future came very clearly to her that night as, tired with the day's excitement she sat and watched the two who were to her the past and present joy of her life.

After all Betty thought it was natural. He in the full vigor of his manhood; she soft and delicate and fragile. He telling of his rough life and dangers, she like Desdemona, pitying him for them. It was but natural. Nellie so lovely and fresh, and good; she, to herself seemed an old woman.

She had ample time in the weeks that followed. They were together daily, and Nellie, knowing nothing of her sister's story, seemed to think that ever Harry's presence was incomplete if Betty wasn't near. As to Harry himself, his feelings towards

THE TEST OF MARIA

Maria Tinker lived alone and scoffed at her neighbors' suggestion of an able companion. She had lived alone for 37 years and she rather guessed that as no one had ever bothered her in her "sore old spinsterhood" that she was as "safe as the grave."

As the last one faded away from her household, the neighbors in turn scribbled and decided that she ought not to be left alone way up on that hill in that great big house, where her light always shone on the blackest nights and with nary a curtain pulled down.

"Stuff and nonsense," declared Maria in complete self defense. "No one will ever dare to so much as peep at me, and even if they did try to carry me off, I'd have the satisfaction of leavin' this town for a spell, and not have to hire a buggy, or defray expenses."

And so she resided or rather existed free from a thought of interruption, until one cold night as she was washing up her supper dishes, in front of the kitchen window, she glanced out into the darkness and beheld a man's face looking straight at her. For an instant she held her breath. Who wouldn't? He didn't budge but kept right on staring at her.

She thought he might be an escaped inmate from Brewster's Neck Sanitarium, and she ought to instruct him so she actually beckoned to him, and not only that but she opened the back door and asked him to come in.

He was taken back, to say the least, but he entered the spic-span kitchen and sat on the edge of a chair while she went on to entertain him in a most curious fashion.

"Is there anyone with you?" she asked almost in a whisper.

"He, he," he chirvered as though he almost wished there was.

"Well," she went on, "I didn't know you'd come alone, but I spose it's alright. You ought to have been here ten minutes ago," as she glanced at the clock. "And I'll pull the curtains down so you won't be detected at all." The invader was puzzled.

"Of course you didn't give me the signal I expected, but I recognized you as the one who was to come tonight. You were sent by Otto Hurst, wasn't you? You're on a special mission to me."

The man was dumfounded but was uncertain how to act so he allowed her to ramble on, without interrupting her, except to nod as though he understood.

"Well, you see," she went on, "I am supposed to give you the particulars and then you are to come again and report to me just how things stand. You know it doesn't do to write anything. I've dished the fish of 24 women who dare to do things and we are doing everything possible for the cause. Of course, I'm not suspected at all of being a spy and they give me all their confidence and hand over all the supplies to the end I pass them on to someone else and you are to take them away to the right parties. You understand all about that part of it, don't you?"

The man nodded again. He was really wondering how he could get out.

"It is all very plain and easy," she went on watching his glances toward the door and giving him a chance to escape if he wanted to. "You will find the car waiting to take the supplies, and you are to go just eight and three quarter miles from here, to the north, by following the road that turns by the watering trough at the chapel corner. Then turn to your right and go two and a half miles further and you will come to an old house with all the windows out. I have put up a sign that it is for sale, so be sure you get the right one. You are to go right there from here.

"A man standing by the watering trough will go with you to the house, and he will give you the rest of the directions.

"The car is in the shed behind the house but you are to stay at the house until early in the morning. You mustn't leave before that as I have to send more supplies that are to be brought to me at half past seven tonight." She glanced at the clock to gave him time to hurry if he wanted to, but he seemed fastened to that chair, she thought. "They always bring them by that time," she went on, feeling that he didn't move, "as I go to bed early."

"I have two hired men that go to bed by quarter of eight, as my day is up by three every morning, there is so much to do. They ought to be here any minute now, so I'll hurry and put up a lunch for you and the other hand that will you will find waiting for you. I don't want you to be hungry," she started for the pantry.

"You needn't bother about any lunch, lady. I'm not the least bit hungry, and I guess I'd better go as the hired men won't get wise to me, and I don't want to get you in Dutch neither." He was at the door before she had time to answer him.

"Well, all right then, we do have to be so careful, and be sure to do just as I told you." He went out a little quicker than he came in.

"Both of the men" he muttered as he sprinted off down the hill watching out for two hired men he didn't want to meet, and that he expected would loom up before him ere he could get away from the premises.

Maria locked the door securely and bolted it, and gave a great sigh. Then she looked in the glass. "Maria Tinker how did you ever do it? He must have been a Burglar for he looked as though he wanted everything in the house but me."

The next day she contributed to the local paper the following: Wanted: A husky strong female companion. Apply at Maria Tinker's at once.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton tent, No. 7 D. of V., met Tuesday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial and considerable work was done for the Christmas sale. At 6 o'clock a supper was enjoyed after which the meeting of the tent was opened at 8 o'clock by President Mrs. Genie Evans. Considerable routine business was transacted and there was initiation. Plans were made for future meetings and a social time was enjoyed.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, was held Tuesday evening in the Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Genie Evans in the chair and all officers but two answering the roll call. One candidate was received by initiation. It was reported that around $70 was realized from the supper given last Saturday night at the Memorial. A note of thanks was received from Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., for the flag that the tent has presented to the post.

It was decided that at the next meeting, which is on May 6, a joint meeting with a supper will be held with the Sons of Veterans. The sewing bee that is usually held will be omitted at that time.

The state convention of the Daughters of Veterans will be held in Bridgeport, April 29 and 30, at which it is hoped there will be a large delegation from Clara Barton tent in attendance.

ROYAL ARCANUM

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Grand Council, Royal Arcanum, jurisdiction of Connecticut, was held at the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, Wednesday. The banquet held at the Stratfield the night before the convention, was enjoyed by over 50 members and their ladies.

The annual session of the Grand council was called to order at 10 a. m., yesterday, with Grand Regent Sam M. Holloway presiding. The morning session was largely given over to the reading of reports with other routine business, including the election of officers for the ensuing year. The report of the healthy growth of the three new councils instituted in the state during the past year and an increase in the net membership in Connecticut were outstanding features. Supreme Vice-Regent Harold C. Knoeppel, of New York City, installed the new officers, headed by Frank H. Riley of Bridgeport as grand regent.

The new grand regent was initiated in Berkeley council of Brooklyn, N. Y., on July 24, 1901, of which council he became a past regent in 1906. Some time later he transferred to Seaside council of Bridgeport and became a past regent of that council in 1910. He was elevated to the office of grand editor in the grand council of Connecticut in April 1922, and vice grand regent in 1923. He is also a member of Corinthian lodge, F. and A. M., of Brooklyn, N. Y. Grand Regent Riley announced the following appointments:

Committee on laws, W. W. Bent, Bridgeport; Frank Goodchild, South Norwalk; A. H. Barclay, New Haven Appeals, W. B. Castelow, Meriden; R. W. Hewitt, Middletown; Charles F. Noble, New London. Necrology, H. I. Matthewson, Milford; T. H. Pattison, Bristol; H. P. Dunbar, Torrington. Finance, William H. Nugent, Hartford; Frank T. Robers, East Hartford; H. M. Robinson, Bridgeport.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 54 met Wednesday at Buckingham Memorial with Councilor E. Lesemann presiding. Regular routine business was transacted, and two new members were obligated, one old member was reinstated and three applications voted upon. Buckingham council is still going strong in the state membership drive and has hopes of getting first prize. Quite a number of the old members are being reinstated, and at the rate the council is growing it will soon pass some of the older councils in the state in membership. A very enjoyable evening was had by all the members and candidates who went to New London Monday night, when a very large class was initiated. Next Wednesday evening there will be some special business and all members are expected to be present.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY

There was a large attendance at the social meeting of R. E. Hourigan Auxiliary, V. F. W., which was held Wednesday evening, in the post rooms, Venice building. The president, Mrs. Rose Becker, presided.

A social hour followed the business session and refreshments of cake and ice cream were served.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

Mercier Assembly, No. 12, held a largely attended meeting Monday evening in Steiner hall, where a class of 20 candidates was initiated and there were visitors from the assemblies in Baltic and New London. Mrs. Annie Henley of New London who was called on to speak, addressed the members in praise of the excellent work done by the Norwich organization and of the enthusiasm that was shown; and Rev. W. A. Keefe, chaplain of the assembly, gave an eloquent address in which he spoke of the wonderful work that the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women is doing along charitable lines and of their need for money to carry it on. The meeting adjourned about 10 o'clock.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of Ladies Auxiliary Division No. 54 was held Wednesday evening in their hall on Main street. Routine business was transacted and plans were completed for the whist next Wednesday evening. The degree team of 15 members is rehearsing under the direction of Mr. Crowley and is planning to work the degrees in May.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held Wednesday evening May 7th.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

Chief Ranger Maurice B. Looby presided at the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 63, and a large amount of routine business was transacted. A Memorial Day observance committee was appointed to proceed with arrangements for Memorial Sunday which comes in June. The headquarters committee will make a very important report at the meeting next Tuesday evening and this will be of great interest to the members as well as several communications from the Grand Court which have been received during the past week. There is also a class of candidates to take the degrees of Forestry at the next meeting and the degree team has been hard at work with their rehearsals, so that the ceremonies will go smoothly. The team has also received a request from Court Waushinee of Taftville to exemplify the mysteries soon after the state convention which is to be held in Norwich.

ODD FELLOWS.

The regular meeting of Uncas lodge, No. 11, held Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall on Main street with Noble Grand Herbert Spencer in the chair. There was considerable business before the lodge and after plans for coming meetings were discussed a social time was held in the entertainment hall.

There was a large attendance Tuesday evening at the meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 17, held at Odd Fellows' hall with Noble Grand Walter E. Kelly in the chair. After the business session A. H. Perry, chairman of the anniversary committee announced that the celebration of the 105th anniversary of the lodge would be held on the evening of April 29th. It was expected that the attendance at this meeting will be one of the largest of the year. The committee has arranged for entertainment, refreshments and a smoker, the programme also to include talks by members on Odd Fellowship.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Resolutions calling for suppression of the bootlegging traffic and for the abolition of fakirs and games of chance at state fairs were passed Thursday at the joint session of the Groton and county Pomona granges in I. O. O. F. hall, at Groton. The grangers demand more stringent action toward the suppression and elimination of the liquor traffic. They want state fairs to be strictly agricultural, devoid of such entertaining features as sword swallowers hula hula dancers and ping pong gambling booths where otherwise good grangers lose their money in vain attempts to win doll lamps and Navajo blankets.

The fifth degree was worked on a class of 36 candidates and dinner was served for the 160 grangers attending.

Irvin E. Couch opened the afternoon session with an address of welcome. Miss Laura Perkins and Mrs. J. Albert Thompson rendered a piano duet. The Rev. E. F. Ayers, retired minister of Norwich, gave a half-century's observations on the eccentricities of womankind. He dressed the great misers of national wealth by women who are addicted to lip sticks, rouge, clay, powder, lemon lotions and other costly drifters of the feminine art of preserving beauty. In the course of his humorous talk on the beauty shop the speaker amazed his feminine audience and moved it almost to abject contrition with the startling revelation that the women of this nation annually spend more money for cosmetics than is employed for educational purposes. Next came selections from a feminine quartet, composed of Mrs. J. Albert Thompson, Mrs. F. N. Taylor, Mrs. R. J. Welham and Mrs. Edward Chapman.

Talks were given by lecturers of subordinate granges. Their theme, How Can the Grange Best Serve the Community? elicited interesting comments. Briefly the beneficial influence of grangers may be exerted by helping the church movement, making more people go to church on Sunday, by insisting upon and furthering observation of the Sabbath, by cleaning up old cemeteries, by improving school playgrounds, by inculcating into rural and suburbanite youth the romance of farming, by "cleaning up the towns" and by voting better people into town offices.

Men of Groton grange participated in a farce entitled, "The Third Degree in the Grange." The next Pomona meeting will be held in Ledyard, June 19th. Lieut. Gov. Hiram P. Bingham will be the principal speaker.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Seeking a Fortune

No sooner had the bell on the big iron gate stopped tinkling than a big black swan hailed the old gentleman rabbit whom he greeted.

"I'm looking for a fortune," answered Uncle Lucky. "Do you happen to know if there is a good mine nearby?"

"Come in," said the Black Swan, opening the gate wide enough for Little Jack Rabbit to drive in the Lucky-mobile.

"We have to be very careful," said the Swan, closing and locking the gate. "There's an old fox who tries his best to get in. If he once did, you know what would happen to our geese."

"I guess I do," said Uncle Lucky, "for I happen to know that old fox—his name is Danny Fox."

"Now, I'll tell you something," went on the Swan, "for I know you are a generous rabbit and have already given away. Not far from here is an ocean where the oysters are full of pearls. And I have a friend, a big albatross who will help you catch these oysters. If you can get a bag of pearls you will have made your fortune."

"That's very kind of you," said Uncle Lucky as the Swan pointed out the road to the seashore, and pretty soon Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit were on their way to find the fortune. After a while, on reaching the ocean they hopped along the sand. But, Oh, dear me, they couldn't find any oysters, only a few broken shells.

"This won't do," sighed Uncle Lucky. "We'll never find our fortune this way," and sitting down on some seaweed, he took out his old silk pocket handkerchief and wiped his forehead. Just then the big white albatross came sailing by on his great wings. Catching sight of the little bunnies, he flew down and asked:

"What are you doing out here all alone

By the sad sea waves, little rabbits;
Have you fastened the latch on the Old Bramble Patch,
And come here to learn sea-faring habits?"

"Not at all," answered dear Uncle Lucky, "I'm looking for pearls."

"Pearls grow in oysters, Mr. Rabbit," answered the Albatross with such a hearty laugh that a feather dropped from his tail. "You must first catch the oysters." And then this white sea bird sat down and told Uncle Lucky that to catch oysters you must have a boat and a big rake and lots of things.

"I guess I'll look for my fortune some other place," sighed disappointed Uncle Lucky. And the next time I'll tell you what he did.

NURSE CHAPPELLE SAYS TANLAC BRINGS MOST GRATIFYING RESULTS

Nurse With 15 Years' Experience Urges Use of Tanlac—Tells of Her Mother's Experience With World's Famous Tonic.

"I have direct and personal knowledge of so many cases where TANLAC has restored health and strength and helped weak, run-down people to get on their feet that I know it to be an unusual medicine," is the emphatic manner in which Mrs. M. E. Chappelle, Blue Mounts and Thomas Ave., Wauwatosa, Wis., a practical nurse of fifteen years' experience, pays tribute to the famous treatment.

"Time and again I have urged TANLAC'S use and it always brings the most gratifying results. My own mother, now eighty years old, took TANLAC two years ago, and it has been her standby ever since. Nothing helps her as TANLAC does and she is as strong an advocate of the medicine as I am. Only recently, mother became generally run-down. Her stomach was disordered, her appetite utterly failed her, and she came near having a nervous breakdown. TANLAC gave her a vigorous appetite, corrected all complaints and left her not only well and happy but so strong and active that she looks after the home and visits around, as well. And mother thinks the TANLAC Vegetable Pills are the greatest ever.

"In all my long years of experience as a nurse I have never known the equal of TANLAC."

TANLAC is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take TANLAC Vegetable Pills.

WHITE LEGHORNS WIN FIRST HONORS FOR WEEK

A pen of White Leghorns owned by C. T. Darby of North Branch, N. J., was the only pen of Leghorns that was able to be on the honor roll for the 24th week. This pen of birds laid 98 eggs for the week thus capturing first honors. Second, third and fourth places were captured by the Reds and Rocks. A pen of Rhode Island Reds entered by E. A. Calkins of Bloomfield, Conn., was tied with a pen of the same breed owned by Red Mount Farm at Franklin, Mass. Both pens laid 54 eggs each. A pen of Barred Rocks entered by Merritt M. Clark, Brookfield Center, Conn., and two pens of Rhode Island Reds owned by H. F. Deming of Winsted, Conn., and Fernside Farm at Attleboro, Mass., were all tied for third place with a production of 53 eggs each. A pen of Barred Rocks from Freeport, N. Y., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by John M. Labelle of Baltonville, Conn., were both tied for fourth place with a production of 52 eggs each. The total production for the week was 3718 eggs or a yield of a little over 43 per cent.

Brooding chicks is perhaps the biggest problem that will confront the poultryman for the next few weeks. Brooding is a problem full of details. Everything in connection with the management of the chicks must be watched carefully to assure success. The brooder fire should be started several days before the chicks are placed under the hover. For the first week maintain a temperature of 100 degrees under the edge of the hover and one inch from the floor. Make sure that the chicks have all the sour milk they want to drink. A chick feed consisting of 150 pounds of fine cracked corn, 100 pounds of fine cracked wheat and 100 pounds of cut oat meal should be fed five times a day. The mount given should be such that the chicks will be hungry for their next feeding time. The method of grain feeding very largely controls the life and activity of the flock. The feed may be replaced by intermediate grain in four or five weeks. A fine mash consisting of a mixture containing 100 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of wheat middlings, 100 pounds of beef scrap containing 50 per cent protein should be kept before the chicks after the first week.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

MACDONALD FORECASTS FUTURE OF HIGHWAYS IN CONNECTICUT

The future of Connecticut Highways was forecasted by John A. MacDonald, State Highway Commissioner in addressing the Yale University-State of Connecticut Conference on Traffic, motor vehicle problems and accident reduction held at New Haven recently.

Mr. MacDonald said that, while funds can make highways foolproof, obstructions in the highway and a along side must be removed, building lines established, sight lines provided, speed regulated, both too slow and too fast driving being prohibited, proper widening assured, telephone and telegraph lines set back and parking near curb eliminated.

Commissioner MacDonald said: When in the early days of this country communication was needed or wanted between two communities, the path of the least resistance was usually taken; first the footpath, then the wider road to accomodate horse-vehicles and then the hard surface and still wider highway for the motor vehicle. At first, no thought was given to alignments, curves or grades. Later, but too late, these very important items in highway construction received some attention, but never enough nor are they receiving enough today.

Highways, like every other means of transportation, are today carrying many times their estimated maximum capacity at the time of their construction. Many of our roads were laid out at a time when motor vehicles were unheard of, and no thought was given that these roads would ever be asked to carry the present traffic, and it could not possibly be conceived that the development of motor vehicles might reach the present day stage.

Today the question of how fast motor vehicles are going to increase arises. It appears that the State of Connecticut has not yet reached the saturation point. In California, we find one vehicle for every five people, and in Connecticut one to every eleven people. We can readily expect in this state twice as many vehicles as we have at the present time which means twice as much congestion.

If we are in anyway going to be able to forecast what our future requirements will be, we must know what we are carrying today. It is necessary that we have a thorough knowledge of the present day development of the highway transportation situation, and forecast what will be the needs of tomorrow.

In the construction of a highway, a great many items and complicated ones at that, enter into it, and we have need for the most reliable data. In our accident statistics are to mean much, we must know what kind of traffic we are carrying, where and when. The type and kind of accident has a definite relation to the type and density of traffic. It is the amount of traffic which determines the surface and safety features of any highway.

Connecticut, realizing the importance of reliable information and the relation between accidents and traffic, was the first state with the assistance of the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington to make a traffic census which at the present time is complete has not yet been completely compiled or put in convenient form for use. A few facts have been ascertained which are very interesting, and some are contrary to opinions heretofore expressed.

Passenger traffic in this state averages 2.5 passengers per vehicle and 26.1 miles per car trip. Thirty-five per cent. of the passenger movement is primarily for business purposes and 65 per cent is for non-business purposes. Passenger business traffic averages 1.7 passengers per car and non-business, 3 passengers per car with the average trip mileage of 29.7 miles for the passenger mileage in the state in for business purposes and 31.9 per cent for non-business purposes.

Traffic Peak in October

The peak of traffic occurs in October, and the minimum is reached in February. In February, motor truck transportation is 40 per cent. and the passenger traffic is 70 per cent. lower than the October movement. Motor truck traffic reaches the daily minimum at 4:00 a. m., and increases steadily from that time to the first peak which comes between 10.00 and 11.00 with the second peak between 3.00 and 4.00, decreasing rapidly after 5.00 p. m. Night movement over our highways consists mostly of long-distance truck traffic in large capacity trucks.

Of the tonnage movement by motor trucks, 64.9 per cent was hauled from 1 to 9 miles, 29.5 per cent from 10 to 29 miles, and 32.6 per cent. for 30 miles or more.

Of motor trucks, 78.6 per cent operate on trips from 1 to 19 miles and transport 47.4 per cent. of the total net tonnage. Beyond 19 miles, 21.4 per cent. of the motor trucks transport 52.6 per cent. of the total net tonnage. One-third of the movement of trucks is an empty movement, and two-thirds loaded. The percentage of loaded vehicles was smallest in the 1 to 9 miles zone, while the percentage of loaded remained relatively constant for all hauls from ten to seventy miles.

Of the total movement of trucks in the state, 97.3 per cent. may be classed as regular motor trucking service providing from 1 to 6 or more trips per week. Of the motor trucks, 86.5 per cent. handle 70.5 per cent. of the net tonnage of terminal to delivery service. The relatively unimportant balance consists of terminal to terminal and pick-up to terminal service.

5 and 7 1-2 ton groups of motor trucks carry 24.5 per cent. of the total tonnage and the 1-2 to 1 1-2, 26.3 per cent. Trucks of the smaller capacity lead in the 1 to 9 mile haul while the percentage of 5 and 7 1-2 ton trucks increases as the haul becomes longer. Of the tonnage transported over the roads of the state, 81.5 per cent. originates within the state. Of the commodities transported by motor in the state, 76.3 may be classified as manufactured. The bulk of motor truck shipment in Connecticut is short haul transportation, and does not compete with the business of the railroads. Of the tonnage, 75 per cent. is transported under contract between shippers and truck owners.

Comparisons of the composition of truck traffic in 1921 and 1923 indicate that the capacity distribution has not changed materially, there being a slight increase in 1922 of 1-2 to 1 1-2 ton and 5 and 5 1-2 ton capacities, and a decrease in the 3, 2 1-2, 3, 4 and 6 1-2 and 7 1-2 ton capacities. This indicates the prevailing use of the smaller capacity.

This is some of the data collected from the preliminary information provided by our census. As soon as complete information from our traffic survey is available, it will be possible for us to determine what our probable future requirements will be, and then we can very easily determine what locations, rights-of-way, curves, grades and bridges it is necessary to provide to carry that traffic safely.

What a Good Road Is

A good road may be defined as one which will safely, economically and conveniently carry its legitimate traffic. One of the functions of a good road is to carry the traffic required of it with safety; and if accidents are happening, due to improper conditions on certain highways, then these highways are not functioning properly. But before any correction can be made in a road, it is necessary to find where, when and why accidents are happening.

It is a well established principle that no road should ever be improved to an extent in excess of its earning capacity. The return to the public in the form of economic traffic is the sole measure of such improvement.

It is foolish to assume that every road in the state should be required to carry the same amount of traffic at the same rate of speed as every other, and we cannot economically improve the safety features of any highway to any greater extent than the surface should be improved.

The cost of accidents on our highways at the present time is tremendous and is a waste. The public will pay in some manner whether or not corrections are made. If the corrections are made, they will pay in labor and materials; if the corrections are not made, they will pay in accidents. Accident prevention is to be very difficult if the burden is to be thrown all on the state. Drivers and pedestrians must be taught their obligations, but certain obligations must be assumed by the state.

Obstructions in Highways

Obstructions in the highway and to sight lines, such as fruit stands, gasoline stands, hedges, bill-boards, etc., will soon have to be moved; and within a short time, at least at the junctions of highways, building lines will have to be established so as to keep the sight lines at these intersections at all times clear and to provide for future widening of the highway.

The altering of highways is costly, as in changing the alignment of any highway we lost the investment provided at first for the alignment, grades, etc. It has often been said that a bold policy of location is much less expensive in the end than an attempt at alternation.

In providing for sight lines, our gain is little, if at all, as the improvement of the sight line usually increases the speed at such point. It is important to differentiate between convenience and safety. Good judgment must be exercised in improving the alignment of a highway so as not to improve it more than the traffic using that highway would require. Great care must be used in improving an unusually dangerous condition for the fact that accidents are not happening at places where danger is apparent. There is no one single factor in connection with traffic which is more productive of accidents than slow moving vehicles in congested centers. The drivers of the faster moving vehicles become impatient, and the slower moving vehicle requires practically one way traffic and causes a confusion which is productive of accidents. There is considerable agitation to limit the slow moving vehicles to certain highways, but at the present time we have not sufficient arteries to do this with fairness to the vehicle. These large units, as shown from our statistics to be allowed to use our highways as they will, are a constant source of profit to the transportation companies and a detriment to the public. Should these slow moving vehicles be allowed to constantly interfere with the faster moving traffic? It is well known that these units provide for cheaper food transportation, and any additional burden that is placed upon them increases the cost of transportation, but extensive traffic of this kind means widening the highway so as to provide two lines of traffic—one for the slower moving vehicle and one for the faster.

Trucks have always assumed to take the shortest possible route, but sooner or later, control must necessarily be placed with some proper body of the state so as to control such movement and require trucking to be done over specified routes and at specified hours when they will not seriously inconvenience the major portion of the traffic.

It is a well known fact that the populations of the larger cities are increasing at a sufficient rate to assume part of this population must move to country districts. A rapid transportation of passengers between these districts and the larger cities will necessarily have to be provided and will mean much more congestion.

It is incumbent upon the state to provide surfaces for its highways and bank the curves which will allow the use of those highways the full width by any vehicle. I refer especially to high-crowned roads which do not allow at times moving vehicles to go to the outside. In any improvement of the surface or alignment, such traffic must be taken into consideration. The widening of a road should be done prior to an improvement to the surface due to this increase. It is a well known fact that improving the surface of a highway will increase the average rate of speed on that highway. It will also attract more traffic.

By-pass roads around thickly congested centers have been suggested as a relief. As yet, few have been built, probably due to the expense and the opposition from the community which is to be by-passed. It seems to be at the present time the proper solution of our congested city streets although all our highways are becoming continuously more congested and a great number are becoming practically residential streets. When a highway becomes a residential street, it is most important for safety sake that either foot-paths or sidewalks be provided.

In road widening, constant care and unusual foresight and judgment is needed so as not to destroy the scenic effects or old land marks any more than is absolutely necessary.

Considerable thought and time have been given to the beautification of our highways. Caution should be used in beautifying a highway until such time as we are definitely assured that our rights-of-way and surfaces are wide and safe enough for future traffic, and that the work attempted will not be wasted by future requirements for traffic and that work attempted will not bring dangerous conditions. It is a well known fact that an ugly highway increases the speed of vehicles using that highway and that highway beautification has a tendency to lower the average rate of speed, as no operator desires the view provided by an ugly highway.

Parking on Narrow Roads

A great source of accidents is the parking of vehicles along narrow highways. Parking soon must be prohibited on the traveled path or the width increased as this restricts the use of the highway, and any restriction of its free use leads to accident.

Some other form of guard must be used so that when an accident occurs, a sufficient amount of elasticity will be provided to take up the shock of the car striking the guards and not allow the vehicle to pass through the guards and perhaps down a steep embankment.

In the icy season, it is incumbent upon the state to provide a safe passage over the highways, and where ice forms in the road and on steep grades and curves, the state should sand the road to provide a condition which will be safe. We must corrugate our pavements on steep grades to provide a traction to prevent skidding.

Our telephone and telegraph lines must in the near future be readjusted and brought back a considerable distance from our paved surfaces so as not to cause an obstruction when it is necessary for a motor vehicle operator to proceed to the side of the road.

Signs on Highways

Signs on the highways are for two purposes: warning and direction. The warning signs should be heeded by every operator. Direction signs should be clear and really give direction. All signs should be standard. The tendency is to place too many warning signs and too few direction signs. A warning sign placed needlessly brings contempt for others placed properly and leads to more harm than good.

The grade crossing is an ever-increasing danger, and should be eliminated as soon as possible.

The state must provide suitable detours around all its construction work and it must also provide very rapid road buildings, as the traffic is becoming so congested that an ordinary detour, or the so-called one way system of detouring traffic, that is building one side of the road and using the other for traffic can be safely and promptly moved around construction work.

In any event, all traffic must be served as well as possible and must be moved with all the safety that can be provided. Any road closed to safe traffic through congestion or any other means has the same value as no road at all. New conditions are going to bring new problems, and unless we solve the problems that are before us, the solution of future problems will become more complicated. In general, the state of Connecticut ought to build highways that are safe to carry as much traffic as ought to be moved over that particular road.

TOLD SOCIAL WORKERS ABOUT WORK WITH DEAF

The Social Workers' Council of New London and Windham counties held its monthly meeting this week at the home of Miss Elisabeth Huntington in Norwich, as guests of Miss Huntington and Miss Betsey Mitchell, social worker of the Norwich neuropsychiatric clinic.

Mrs. Dupray, supervisor of nurses at the Norwich state hospital, was elected to associate membership.

Greetings were sent by the society to its president, Miss Katherine M. E. Bryan, who is recovering from an illness at the Lawrence Memorial hospital in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker of the Mystic Oral school were the guests of honor. Mr. Tucker, superintendent of the school, gave a very interesting talk on work with the deaf. He related the history of the work, showing how, through education, the deaf had been able to rise from outcasts to respected citizens, and had become economically independent and able to join in community life, in spite of their great handicap. Various methods are employed to give these handicapped persons regular public and high school education. At first the sign language was the only method used. Later the oral method was developed, by which the deaf person communicates with others by speech and lip reading. Both methods are in use today, some schools teaching the combined system.

At the Mystic Oral school Mr. Tucker said, only the oral method is employed, as it is felt that in this way the deaf child learns to think by the same mental process as the hearing child, and, therefore, will have less difficulty in adjusting himself in the world of hearing people.

Mr. Tucker also told about the vocational work of the school, which includes farming, carpentry, cooking, sewing, etc., and by which the deaf child can be made economically self-supporting.

Mrs. Tucker told of the very interesting and complicated means of teaching the deaf child to use his own voice and to read the lips of others.

An invitation was accepted to hold next month's meeting at the Mansfield State Training School as guests of Mrs. Charles T. LaMoure.

The meeting was concluded by the serving of delicious refreshments.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVANCE AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

The anniversary of the death of Christ was commemorated Friday at St. Patrick's church beginning with the morning mass at 8 o'clock, when the ceremony consisted of a prophecy, the lesson, the Passion, special prayers and supplications for all orders and conditions of men, the adoration of the cross and the mass of the Pre-Sanctified. The officiating priest—who was Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, and his attendants, first prostrated themselves in prayer before the high altar, where one of the acolytes spread a linen cloth, then placing the mass book on the epistle side.

The opening prophecy was Osee, 6, 1-6. The tract was Habacuc 3. For the lesson, Exodus 12, 1-11, was read and was followed by Psalm 139. The Passion of Our Lord, as narrated in John 18-19, was the gospel; lengthy supplications followed, after which the priest, exposing the shrouded cross, part by part, intoned: "Behold, the wood of the cross, upon which hung the Saviour of the world." Following the adoration by priest and people, the Sacred Host, consecrated the previous day, was brought back in procession to the main altar, the celebrant consuming the species without the usual prayers of consecration and continuing the mass.

At the close, those in the congregation moved up the center aisle to the sanctuary railing, each person kissing the cross as presented by the rector, Rev. M. H. May, or his assistants, Fathers Galvin or Guerriero. The people left the church by the side aisles. There was no music, the sole response from the choir being unaccompanied, and following the intoning of the Lord's Prayer by Father Guerriero during the mass.

The offering was the annual contribution toward the fund for preservation of sacred places in the holy land.

At 3 o'clock, Friday afternoon, there was the way of the cross, attended by a great congregation, and in the evening the same stations, followed by veneration of the cross.

WILL PROVIDE EASTER CHEER AT HOSPITAL

Through the efforts of the holiday committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the William W. Backus hospital, the patients, nurses and others connected with the hospital will enjoy on Easter Sunday, ice cream and cake, furnished by the hospital committee of the ladies of St. Patrick's parish. The Monday Afternoon Sewing club will have a bright plant on each tray taken to the patients.

Another active committee of the auxiliary is the flower committee which will send an Easter lily for each ward, and to give a little color to the scheme, a vase of bright flowers will be placed on the piano. These are the gift of nine ladies.

These two, the holiday committee and the flower committee, have been in operation for a year and a half or more and hope under the enlarged plan of the auxiliary to give a still greater service to the hospital.

Women voters in the city of Waltham, Mass., outnumber the men by nearly 3,000.

$20,000 LOSS IN NORWICH TOWN FIRE, THREE BUILDINGS BURNED

Fire which broke out about 11.45 o'clock Thursday morning in the rear of a garage on the property of Victor Phaneuf of 163 West Town Street destroyed the garage, two two-story frame houses located nearby, damaged to some extent three other houses and partially burned three small barns and sheds, causing a loss estimated Thursday afternoon at about $20,000.

The fire in the garage had gained great headway before its discovery and quickly spread to the homes of Mr. Phaneuf and the house owned by Frederick H. Bushnell located at either side of the garage. Sparks carried by the high wind set fire to several other structures and when the Norwich firemen arrived on the scene, in addition to the three buildings mentioned the homes of John J. Browning, Edwin Lathrop and Frank L. Weaver, situated across the street were afire and barns to the rear of the Lathrop and Weaver homes were also on fire.

Unfortunate, but pretty good evidence that wood and paper shingles are not fire resistent.

Wood and paper shingles curl, rot, leak and are easily kindled into flame by flying embers and sparks. Slate or tile are heavy, brittle, costly and require skill to lay.

Combining rock with rock, John Manville Asbestos Shingles are simply a combination of asbestos rock fibre and Portland cement compressed under pressure. There is nothing in them to rot, burn, or rust, nor will they warp, split, or crack under summer sun or winter snow.

Safe from fire —with a Johns-Manville Asbestos Roof

YOU protect your office records and papers from fire. Why not your home? Give your home the same chance you give your business. Asbestos offers complete protection to every home in its most vulnerable spot — the roof. Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles are not only fire-proof, but weather-tight and permanent.

The ever-lasting service, they give, means great economy. Figured on a cost-per-year basis you cannot buy a cheaper roofing than Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles.

They can be laid right over the old roof which means money saving from the start.

Ask us about their application on your home.

Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles are examined, approved and labeled by the Underwriter's Laboratories, Inc., under the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Said American Method, they are given Class 'A' rating, the highest possible for residence construction. Laid hexagonal or diagonal method they are given Class 'B' rating.

Aside from insurance saving thus effected these high ratings are of special interest to the owner in the positive proof they afford of the fire-resistent properties of asbestos shingles.

SOCIAL COMMENT

Betty were so thoroughly merged in friendship, it never occured to her that she was feeling differently, and came very soon. They had strayed away from her one evening among the trees at Kensington Gardens, and Betty, intent upon her own thoughts, sat watching the many people riding, enchanted by the beauty of the hour. Memory was awakened, and she was humbly thankful for what she knew must happen.

Her sacrifice began so long ago, to be consumated tonight, or rather; for her life must be finished alone. For a little longer she must strive and strive. Suddenly she felt Nellie's arms around her, Nellie's happy tears falling on her breast, and as she looked down to Harry, for a moment she looked again on the cheeks of Helen, as she placed her hand in his, gently and said; "I am very, very happy Harry, this Easter."

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE EASTER DINNER

Easter is late this year, which means that we may reasonably hope for mild spring weather instead of the sort which have so often marked early Easters. It also means that we may be able to decorate the dinner table with spring wild flowers. Failing these our gardens will yield us crocus and hyacinth, jonquil and daffodil, all leading themselves to decoration.

For soup try celery bisque. Take three cups of celery cut in half inch pieces (old celery will do), wash carefully, cook in a saucepan, just covered with boiling water, until soft and then rub through a colander. Put in a double boiler two and one-half cups of milk and one slice of onion. When the milk is very hot, remove the onion. Rub together one-quarter cup of flour and three tablespoons of butter. Add the celery to the milk, then the mixed flour and butter. Cook in the double boiler until all is smooth. Salt and pepper to taste. This delicious bisque may be served in cups or plates.

If the hostess is fortunate enough to possess a roaster, she need have no anxiety as to her main dish. These roasters are self-basting and the lamb may be trusted to emerge brown and done to a turn. Nothing in the way of early vegetables is more delicious than asparagus. A salad should be an important feature in an Easter repast. After such a substantial meat course, try an egg and lettuce salad. Arrange lettuce leaves on the salad plates. In a mixing bowl slice, or chop, very finely a few chives and a few sprigs of parsley. Remove these from the bowl and in the same dish chop two or three hard-boiled eggs. Add to them the chopped chives and parsley. Mix thoroughly and put a tablespoon of this mixture on each salad plate of lettuce leaves. If a French dressing is used, mix the same enameled ware dish as the chives since a delicate flavor to the dressing.

Strawberries should be in the market even if only to be used in moderation. For dessert have a strawberry sponge. A box of berries will make enough for a table of guests. Put in a mixing bowl, or small saucepan, one box of gelatine, soak in cold water an hour. Then add one-third of a cup of boiling water. Stir in one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice and one cup of strawberry juice. Let the bowl stand in a pan of ice water. When the mixture begins to thicken, beat well with an egg beater. When all is frothy, add the whites of three eggs beaten very stiff and one cup of cream well whipped. Have ready a mould and put away on ice or in a cold place to get entirely cold. This dessert can be made the day before it is to be used. Serve with it a kind of plain cake.

Madeline, two-year-old daughter of Byron F. Greene of St. Albans, Vt., died soon after swallowing some iron tablets which she had found in a bedroom.

AFTER AN OPERATION

Mrs. White Couldn't Get Back Her Strength Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rochester, Minn.—"I had a very serious operation and it seemed as if I could not get my health back after it. I suffered with pain almost constantly. My sister came to help take care of me, and she was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nervousness and run-down condition. She had me try some of it, and in a very few days' time I began to feel better. In four weeks I hardly knew myself and after taking a couple of bottles more I was up and helping around, and now I am strong and healthy again and am still taking it. It is a pleasure for me to write this to you, and I hope that many other women who are suffering like I was will find out about your medicine. I will give any information I possibly can."—Mrs. JAMES WHITE, 221 1st Center Street, Rochester, Minnesota.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of forty years of success among American women.

WESTERLY

Friday morning's session of the Third district court is not often signalled for brevity for a regular court session. With Chief of Police Thomas H. Brown as court officer, Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., made the following announcement to the two lawyers and two reporters (the entire gallery): "Following the usual custom, all criminal and civil cases today being Good Friday, are continued one week" and court stood adjourned.

Making the most of Good Friday, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown directed a raid at the place of Annunziato Renna, 67 Perkins avenue, when a half barrel of cider was found, from which a quart jar and a pint bottle full were taken as samples. The officers spent two hours searching the premises but were unsuccessful in finding hard stuff. In the party were Chief of Police Thomas Brown, Sergt. Ferguson and Patrolmen George H. Champlin and Michael Burke. The samples were taken to the police station and will be sent to the state chemist in Providence for analysis.

Ruth Heaney, three and one half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heaney, of Pawtucket, R. I., choked to death when a fragment of a toy balloon lodged in her throat.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to your box of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

NEW LONDON'S CHINESE QUARTER GETS A BAD SCARE, FRIDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 19.—Crooks and vandals have operated at Ocean Beach without interference for several months, but it is believed now that the police will be compelled to exercise a more diligent patrol of the shore resort and display greater efficiency for last night vandals caused a considerable amount of damage to be done to cottages and in one instance a cottage was entered.

The work of the intruders was discovered this morning. When Patrolman George Perkins was making his round on the boardwalk, he discovered evidence of the destructive work at one of the cottages located near the approach of the walk from Bentley avenue. His investigation revealed that nine cottages had received the attention of the vandals. In each instance, fences were torn away, flower boxes and the brackets that supported them and gates were demolished. The cottages are all located on the Boardwalk, being Nos. 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 17, 20, 21 and 22. The cottage No. 21 was entered by means of one of the big flower boxes being placed against the side of the cottage, making it possible for the vandals to climb to the second story and force a window. So far as could be determined, nothing of value was taken. With the report of the vandalism being made at the police station, Sergeants Frank Howard and Nelson Smith were assigned to the case and throughout the day endeavored to fix the identity of the vandals.

It was learned that several youths, whose ages range from 14 to 18 years, were observed prowling about the shore resort during last evening. They left the beach by boarding a trolley car at the corner of Ocean and Neptune avenues and alighted at various points between Bellevue place and State street. The conductor of the car recalled having seen the gang, but he was unable to tell the names of any of them. Two suspects were interrogated by the police this afternoon and while they admitted having been at the beach there was nothing gained from the interview that would fasten the offense of the destruction of the property upon them.

Thomas Somers, formerly of New London, now residing in New Haven, spent today with friends in this city.

The condition of Allen Penhallow, ill at his home on Bair Harbor place, several days, is reported this afternoon as being slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McShane of Connecticut avenue, are in New York, where they will be the guests of friends for a week.

Mrs. William Nott and infant son of Broad street, Groton, and Mrs. John Shea of Raymond street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

The funeral of Miss Loree White, student nurse at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, and daughter of William J. White of Ledyard, whose death occurred at the institution several days ago, following an illness of two months, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Montauk Avenue Baptist church. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio F. Chase, pastor of the church and Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Celestine Wright, wife of James H. Brown, died last night at her residence, 10 Morgan court, Groton. Mrs. Brown had been ill some time and was of advanced years. She had resided in Groton the greater part of her life.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and Station House Keeper Frank Corcoran, were off duty today, being confined at their respective homes because of illness. It is believed however that both will be back at their posts within a day or two.

Clyde B. Getchell of Williams street paid more than $35 for "correcting" the operation of his automobile on Mohegan avenue yesterday. A. B. Lambdin, business agent for the Connecticut college, and Dr. J. G. Morris, an instructor in psychology at the same institution, saw the operations of Getchell. They heard the Getchell car coming long before it got into the range of vision and thought an aeroplane was about to land nearby because of the noise the automobile made. The college representatives declared that Getchell was speeding 40 to 45 miles an hour when he passed where they were so that the car became an element danger to anyone using that highway. They complained and gave the police the number of Getchell's car so that he was apprehended. Getchell declared that the college men were unduly exercised at supposed danger. He said he had experienced trouble with his motor and that he was correcting the operation of it. He also said it was preposterous to assume that he was running the car at a speed of 40 miles an hour for such speed was not possible for the car. The court regarded the evidence as sufficient and fined Getchell as stated.

Bob Odgers has managed to stay away from the police court during the past year. That fact brought leniency to him when he was arraigned for intoxication today, as the collection of a fine of $5 was suspended for six months. Bob was a frequent visitor to the court in years gone by, but he shifted when hooch made its appearance as beverage.

Charles M. Taylor, a druggist, was in the police court this morning for having in his possession, with the obvious purpose of selling it, a quantity of Jamaica ginger. He was not prepared to defend his case as his attorney was absent today, so it was put over till next Tuesday and Mr. Taylor gave a bond of $500 to appear then. Taylor is said to have mixed things up with the state board of pharmacy and that has led to his arrest and prosecution now.

Nicholas Stadnick, an impetous fellow from Niantic, hurried to New London yesterday to secure a loan. He was at work about his place when the idea seized him to come to New London so he jumped into his car and started without changing his working clothes he stood in. When he reached here he discovered that he had left his operating license and his registration in the clothes he had at home. Then he drove right up to the curb on the east side of North Bank street and there he anchored while he sought his loan. A policeman found the car there, because parking is not allowed on the side of that street at any time, and ordered Stadnick to court. There he was fined $5.

Mrs. Mary Keefe Corcoran, wife of Patrick J. Corcoran, of 400 Broad street, died this afternoon in the Lawrence Memorial hospital, where she had been under treatment. She had been in failing health for many months. Mrs. Corcoran was the daughter of the late Patrick Keefe.

The police station was called up this evening by telephone and a request made that officers be hurried to a Golden street tea and coffee house, conducted by Soon, Shink, Yuen & Co., Chinese, as it was claimed a Chinaman was on his way to the place intent upon shooting one of the employes. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen George Laboce, John Clifford, Charles Hammond and Frank Philopena speeded to the store but when they arrived there, it was learned that the Chinaman complained against had not reached the place. It was also disclosed that the parties connected with the store were apparently more scared than anything else for it was stated that the Chinese had no direct proof of the alleged impending assault. Another Chinaman, proprietor of a Broad street laundry had entered the place and declared that the would-be slayer had informed the former that the stranger was armed and that he was going to seek the Golden street Chinaman and put a bullet into him. The Broad street celestial then hurried to the Golden street place and made known the threat with the result that a call was sent for the police. The officers remained about the store some time, but nothing was seen of the warlike Chinaman.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fuller of Pacific street, who have been passing the winter in Florida, are spending a few days with friends in Norwich before returning to their home here.

Miss Louise R. Jeffry, of Howard street, a teacher at Nathan Hale grammar school, is at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence O'Brien have moved from Colver Heights to the residence of Mrs. O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Cassius Harris of Williams street.

As at first suspected, the fire Wednesday night, that threatened the destruction of the building, corner of State and Main streets, occupied by Charles M. Taylor, pharmacist and owned by Frank Robinson of Norwich, originated from defective wiring. It has been determined by Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Shipman that the blaze started in a fuse box in that corner of the cellar where the fire was raging when the department reached there.

Thomas McGowan of Stonington and Mrs. John Finnegan of Ledyard street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

James Stuart and family of New York, will occupy the William Schall residence on Parkway, the coming summer.

Frederick Ross Sweetzer, 70, a former resident of New London, died this week at New York, where he had made his home for several years. Mr. Sweetzer moved from New London about ten years ago. During his residence in New London Mr. Sweetzer won recognition in the music world, being a pianist of marked ability.

The funeral of Henry W. Tryon was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home on Elm street, Noank. The services were conducted by Rev. J. G. Osborne of Mystic. The bearers were Frank Williams, Albert Fish, Frank Fitch and George Fitch, all of Noank. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

M. Eugene Thurber, 51, of Pequonnoc, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been under treatment some time. Mr. Thurber is survived by his uncle, Albert Thurber and a nephew, William Thurber, both of Noank. He was a blacksmith and until his removal to Poquonnoc several years ago, conducted business on School street, Groton.

Mrs. Charles A. O'Donnel of Springfield, Mass., is spending the week-end with Miss Ethel E. Crean.

Mr. and Mrs. Antone Leverone, former residents of New London, now residing in Miami, Fla., have returned to New London to permit Mr. Leverone to attend to his business interests at Ocean Beach this summer. They were accompanied by Frederick Dondero, another former resident of New London.

Edward Warner, a soldier, wanted in Boston for violation of the military regulations, was apprehended in New York recently and last night he was brought to New London in charge of Corporal Nelson of the Boston army base. Warner was locked up for the night and today he was taken to Boston where he will be given a court martial.

Charles M. Adams, postal clerk in the sub post office at the Union station, is at his home on Monument street, Groton, suffering from mumps.

GOOD FRIDAY TALK UPON CHRIST AND DEATH

The series of Lenten luncheons at the Y. M. C. A., at which Rev. J. R. Danforth of New London has been the speaker, was held Friday, when Rev. Mr. Danforth, in line with the thought of Good Friday, spoke upon Christ and Death.

In part he said:

Often we feel that the people who lived long ago did not think about the same things that interest us. But they were just as human as we are. They worked and prayed. They loved. They worshipped. And these are the things by which we also live. They passed through the same essentially human experiences from birth to death.

When those dear to them died they sorrowed even as we sorrow. In ancient tombs little bottles are found which once were full of tears, mute offerings of sorrow accompanying the loved form of the departed. So men asked then, as they ask now, whether death is a blank wall at the end of life's path, or whether it is a gate giving entrance to more life.

The religious teachers in the land and time of Christ were divided. The Pharisees believed in a future life. The Sadducees did not. With the exception of the times they quarreled over their difference and made it greater—the only thing that quarreling ever accomplishes in religion.

Was Christ a Pharisee? No. Was he a Sadducee? Not at all. He who came from heaven for us entered human life but he neither sinned nor quarreled. He taught and lived the truth. And that is what gives us such vital interest in what he taught and showed us about death.

He faced death as a fact in the lives of others. There was no smooth attempt to gloss it over with smooth words, "Lazarus is dead." It is better to face facts with your eyes open than to hide one's head in the sand and say that there is no burrow.

Knowing the full power of death over others he also knew the power of life which he commanded was greater. From him proceeded a power greater than the power of disease and death.

Moreover he does not waver for an instant in proclaiming the fact of life after death. He meets argument with argument in a way to convince opinion without inflaming passion. But he devoted more attention to persuading men regarding the manner of life they should live and the relation they should bear to God that they may be fitted to enter that other life and live it to the full.

Christ faced his own death some time before he came to it. He could see it coming. And he faced it with a courage that makes us pause in wonder. When his face was set to go up to Jerusalem that last time the disciples, after their vain protest, said they would go, too, that they might die with him. It was the contagion of divine courage.

Seeing the life beyond the tomb did not make death easy for the Master. Read of the drops of blood in the garden of Gethsemane. Read the account of the crucifixion. He had lived the life which never impaired a single nerve by misuse and he suffered the pain of every dying nerve. And on his heart was laid the sin of the world and the sorrow of his own rejection, where he came unto his own and they that were his own received him not.

The victory Christ won over death shows the terrible conflict through which he won it. Read the chapters of the gospel which just precede the crucifixion and those which follow the resurrection and you will see a change in the great Master, the marks of the conflict are there. The crown of victory is still the crown of thorns. He says, "Mary," in a way that shows undying love; but he also says, "Touch me not." He eats bread and fish with his disciples, but he also comes where doors are closed and, when he goes, he vanishes from their sight.

Death is a part of the Christian life. We die with Christ. We also rise with him. We share Good Friday with him. We also share the Easter.

NEW YORK TO FOLLOW CONNECTICUT AUTO LAW

Representatives of the New York State Tax Commission have called on Commissioner Stoeckel and other officials of the Connecticut motor vehicle department during the past few days preparatory to the reorganization of the motor vehicle division of the New York department in accordance with a bill recently adopted by both houses of the New York legislature and now awaiting the signature of Governor Smith.

The bill makes it obligatory upon operators of motor vehicles in New York state to be licensed by the state, as in this and most other states of the east. It creates a central authority with power to revoke licenses and requires every driver, whether owner or chauffeur, to pass a test of competence before being granted an operator's license. In this connection an inspection force not unlike that formerly maintained in the Connecticut department will be organized and it was partly for information concerning the operation of such a force in Connecticut prior to the formation of our state police department to take in this work, that L. K. Rockefeller, assistant to the president of the New York State Tax Commission, visited Hartford.

The New York law, on which the governor and the assembly leaders came to a complete agreement a few weeks ago, combines the best features of the motor vehicles laws of Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Maryland, which states are members, with New York, and five other states, of the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators. The lighting provisions and operators' licensing provisions, for instance, are drawn from laws endorsed by the Conference.

The adoption of the new law in New York is expected to have a beneficial effect in adjoining states, particularly in the greater control over operators because of the requirement that all be licensed by the commissioner who also is vested with power to revoke and suspend licenses.

ACADEMY SENIORS VOTE TO GIVE CLASS PLAY

President Miss Dorothy Lord, of the Academy senior class, called a meeting this week to decide whether or not the class shall give a class play, and a vote was taken which resulted in favor of the play being given. The committee to be in charge of the arrangements comprises, Miss [illegible] chairman, Philip McNamara, business manager; Miss M. McKinley, Miss Faith Curtis, Miss G. Platt and Eli Segal.

Time appointments of seniors for pictures for the Academy Mirror, the senior class book have been posted by Richard Holden, business manager.

NUMBER FIVE

where the vote on passage was 232 to 71.

The six senators opposing the bill in its amended form on the last roll call were Chairman Colt, Rhode Island, and Weller, Maryland, republicans, and Bayard, Delaware, Gerry, Rhode Island King, Utah and Walsh, Massachusetts, democrats.

As it goes to conference the new bill contains few changes which are expected to prolong discussion. Attention, however, has been called to the possibility of important changes being worked out there. Slight differences in phraseology exist between the house and senate drafts in many sections, one of them the vital "Japanese exclusion," provision, and, while no evidence has been shown on either side of the capitol of a disposition to recede in the slightest degree, parliamentary observers called attention to the possibilities offered for modifications in conference.

While House spokesmen declared President Coolidge had no comment to offer upon the senate action, nor upon the situation which has grown out of the failure of congress to accept the advice of the state department against bringing the Japanese into the definitely excluded classes.

The senate bill was described by its author, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, as "even more restrictive than that passed by the house." Both measures adopt 2 per cent of the census of 1890 as the basis for fixing quotas but the house bill permits certain non-quota classifications which are not included in that of the senate. Among the exceptions are the children and other dependent relatives of citizens, and skilled labor and families.

A maximum admittance of 150,000 a year is fixed by the senate bill, against an estimated "quota total," of 163,000 in the Johnson bill, exclusive of exemptions. Senator Reed estimated the house bill actually would provide for the legal admission of "twice the total," or 324,000.

These new estimates compared with the existing law, show a reduction of 250,000 under the senate bill and of about 208,000 under the house

In the final hours of debate the senate refused to extend the quota restrictions to North and South American countries, as proposed by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio. Democratic and republican leaders joined in opposing the move as tending to destroy the work of years toward Pan-American harmony.

Five points of variance with the house bill, which will be ironed out in conference, were pointed out to the senate by Senator Reed. They are:

The system of vise certificates provided by the senate instead of the "stamped passport" system approved by the house. The "mechanics and objects" are the same, Senator Reed explained.

The failure of the senate to authorize any exceptions from quota limitations.

The deletion by the senate of sections providing for supervision of alien seamen arriving at American ports.

The provision of the senate for future operation of a national-origin system of selection based upon the entire population of the United States, if congress approves a survey and report on the subject made by the secretaries of interior, commerce and labor.

The Simmons amendment, adopted by the senate late today, which authorizes immigration authorities to give preference to farm labor when any state certifies a shortage exists in that necessity.

Senator Simmons, democratic, North Carolina, who proposed the latter amendment, urged its adoption as a method of assisting farmers to recover from their present unfavorable economic situation. Their difficulties, he said, was measurably due to the high cost of manual labor they employed.

Senator Reed, opposing the proposal, declared past records failed to show that agriculturalists admitted as such went in any considerable number to farming sections and contended the admittance of a farm expert would have no more effect upon the supply of labor for that industry than would the entrance of any member of any other class.

MOHEGAN TRIAL IN STATE'S PLAN FOR WIDENING HIGHWAYS IN FUTURE

Widening of the Boston Post road from the New York state line to New Haven from its present width of from eighteen feet to thirty-six feet is contemplated in plans now being carried out by the state highway department. This is the outstanding development of a road-building programme prepared by Commissioner John A. Macdonald that will require about five years for fulfillment.

Complete hard surfacing of all the through main line routes in the state is a part of the proposal, and ultimate completion of the scheme will see Connecticut covered by a network of hard surfaced highways from all transportation centers in the state line of New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

This plan involves four distinct routes that carry the main burden of motor transportation through Connecticut from New York to Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and vice versa. The most important of these are the Boston Post road from New York to New London, and the main branch of this route from New Haven through Hartford to Springfield.

The others are the Housatonic Valley highway from the southwestern corner of the state through Fairfield and Litchfield counties to Massachusetts, which is fast nearing completion, and the route from New London, through Norwich and Putnam to the state line at Massachusetts, which has been named the Mohegan Trail by the Chambers of Commerce of the cities along the route.

Added to these, is the present military concrete highway from Hartford to New London. The hard-surfacing of the project mentioned above, therefore, will give the state a complete chain of roadways on its main line routes.

Doubling the width of the Boston Post road from New York to Bridgeport to thirty-six feet is now being carried out in three places. These are at Greenwich, Darien and Cos Cob. When the work has been carried as far as Bridgeport, contracts will be awarded for similar treatment to the Milford turnpike from Bridgeport to New Haven.

The plan for doubling the width of this highway was decided upon after due consideration had been given by the department to the proposition of constructing a separate parallel highway to share the heavy traffic on the Post road through this section. The thirty-six foot road, which will be one of the few of its kind in the country, is expected to remove traffic congestion here, which now is heavy and which is increasing steadily each year.

D. W. GRIFFITH'S "AMERICA"

STORY BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

SEE THE HEART-SHAKING RIDE OF PAUL REVERE SHOUTING "THE BRITISH ARE COMING!"

Fight with your forefathers at glorious Lexington—Triumphant Concord—and the value-crowned heights of Bunker Hill.

Put fire in your heart with the love of the handsome express rider and the bewitching beauty of old Virginia; enemies in war joined by desperate love.

Throb in suspense with the lover, who must flee to save his countrymen and leave his beloved in the arms of the most hated man in America.

Thrill, as never before, when sixteen letters from your old history book come to life in the heroic and fascinating figure of George Washington.

"The Most Stirring Thing of Its Kind Ever Made."

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Miner, of 31 Huntington avenue, celebrated their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary on Thursday evening by giving a dinner to a few neighbors and friends. A delicious dinner was served at six o'clock, consisting of roast pork, mashed potatoes, chicken pie, green peas, banana salad, jello, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. The favors were Easter baskets filled with candy. Mrs. Jennie Berry a sister of Mr. Miner, prepared the feast. The dining room was beautifully decorated with purple and white crepe paper festooned about the chandelier and caught up at the corners of the room. The floral decorations were Easter lilies, carnations and roses. Mr. and Mrs. Miner received gifts of glass, aluminum ware and money.

A social evening was spent with good cheer and music. Miss Hazel Cruthers played several piano numbers and little Virginia Ward, a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miner, sang. Mr. Miner had the same coat and necktie he wore at his wedding, thirty-five years ago.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ward and children, Virginia, Blossom and Reginald, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Percy Miner and daughter, Evelyn, Le Roy Miner, Miss Hazel Cruthers, Mrs. Nellie Cirves, of Bristol, Conn., Mrs. Jennie Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bushnell, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Aldrich. Mrs. Berry was maid of honor and Mrs. Bushnell played the wedding march at the anniversary in 1889. A poem written for the anniversary by Mrs. George Manning of Yantic, was read at the dinner table.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church held a Lenten service in the vestry of the church Friday afternoon at three o'clock, as follows: Miss Bennett and Mrs. Bushnell offered prayer; singing of hymn, Come Thou Almighty King, and Tell Me the Old, Old Story; responsive reading, The Suffering Christ. Letters were read by Mrs. Aldrich from Mrs. Gertrude M. L. Davis, missionary at Silver Lake Social Center, Providence, R. I., and one from Mrs. Bitgood of New London. A Home Missionary song was read. Mrs. William Weaver read Love's Offering, Mrs. Randall, Quiet Lenten Thoughts, Mrs. F. M. Bennett, The Easter Touch; song, Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone? was sung; Mrs. F. H. Bushnell read The Will and The Way. The Lenten offering was taken. Hymn, I Am Thine, O Lord, was sung. Rev. J. B. Aldrich offered prayer and pronounced the benediction. Mrs. J. B. Aldrich, the president, presided.

The church night service of the First Congregational church, Thursday evening in the Sunday school room of the chapel, was very largely attended. By request of the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, many of the candidates who are to unite with this church Easter Sunday, were present at the meeting which also was in observance of Fast Day. Rev. Mr. Bailey spoke from I Corinthians 1:23. But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greek's foolishness.

Organist Herbert L. Yerrington played for the several hymns sung.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodnow, who spent several weeks during the winter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington of Pecks corner, left last Saturday for Baltimore, where they are to vis. Mr. Goodnow's brother, who is president of Johns Hopkins university. Mr. and Mrs. Goodnow have a daughter in Baltimore and Mrs. Goodnow has a brother there.

Rev. William H. Bath, of Williams street, will conduct the service at the Sheltering Arms, Easter Sunday afternoon. He will be assisted by Miss Mary Gray, soprano, who will have charge of the musical part of the service.

Millinery Class Met.

The Ladies' auxiliary, Division No. 14, A. O. H., millinery class met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Theodore Levitsky. There was a good mixed attendance and a very enjoyable evening was passed. Next Thursday evening the class will meet with Mrs. William Sharkey of Prospect street.

AMERICAN LEGION POST PLANS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The regular meeting of Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, was held Friday evening at the post rooms on Main street with Commander Herman A. Bruckner in charge. Routine business was transacted and plans were made for future activities. The flag committee reported that orders have been mailed for 3,000 more guides for the proper display of the national emblem, these to be distributed among Boy Scouts, local banks and to the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, to be used for educating people to the correct display of the flag.

A report was also made that grave markers had been received and flags are to be procured. Committees are to be appointed to take care of placing markers and flags on graves of World War veterans in Norwich cemeteries.

The greater part of the meeting was devoted to planning for the legion drive for members which takes place during the first twenty days of May. Teams are to be appointed and Norwich intends to bring every ex-service man into the legion for the purpose of working for the disabled veterans and needy veterans in this section of the state. It is expected that the membership of the post will be trebled during the drive and all ex-service men are urged to get into the game with their "buddies" that the excellent work being done by the legion may continue.

JUDGE FRANK H. FOSS IS ILL IN TEXAS

Word has been received by relatives in this city that Judge Frank H. Foss of South Windham who is visiting relatives in Texas is unable to make the trip home at present due to failing health. Judge Foss made the trip in hopes that his health might be improved by the change but complications have resulted in his condition becoming more serious. His many friends in Eastern Connecticut will learn this news with regret and sincere wishes for his speedy recovery have been expressed.

UNIDENTIFIED WOMAN DROPS DEAD IN TAFTVILLE

An unknown woman, probably about 60 years old, dropped dead from heart disease about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at Taftville, where she was apparently waiting to take the trolley car on the line to Jewett City. Up to a late hour Friday night nothing had developed to show who she was nor had any inquiries been received for any missing woman. A physical peculiarity that may assist in identification today (Saturday) was her habit of cramping her head on one side due to a twisted spine.

The woman was seen to fall as she was walking along the Jewett City trolley tracks at Taft's station.

Several young men, among whom were Edward La Fleur, Arnold Headon, William Green, Hormisdes Paradis and Happy Bontempo, ran to her and carried her into the home of L. Wunderlich across the street from the station, where Dr. George Thompson was called and from which the body was removed to Grant's undertaking rooms by permission of Medical examiner C. C. Oldersleeve.

The woman was of stock build, gray hair, well dressed, wearing a blue suit with black braid, black coat, brown velvet hat with a feather, light gray silk stockings and gray silk gloves. In her small hand bag was a one dollar bill and she was carrying an unopened box of chocolates. The mark in the hat showed that it had been bought in a Norwich store, but there were no papers or cards in her hand bag to assist in identification.

Bumped By Trolley Car.

An automobile driven by Eugene Foss, No. 38 Ann street, Hartford, received a damaged rear mudguard about 5.30 o'clock Friday afternoon when it was hit by a trolley car as the driver was pulling away from the curb on Main street near the American Confectionery store in the vicinity of Burnham square.

The trolley car happened along just at the moment Mr. Foss was pulling out from the curb and the front end of the trolley car collided with the rear end of the machine. Mr. Foss made a report of the accident to the police.

Court Gave Boys Warning.

Two Norwich Free Academy boys who were forced to visit the police station Thursday night as a part of their initiation into a fraternity at the school were before the court Friday morning. Judge Henry H. Pettis gave them a severe talking to and warned them to be more careful in the future.

Although the talk was delivered to the two candidates the message was intended to include those taking the lead in the initiation work.

Uric Acid Never Did Cause Rheumatism

Free Book Explains Why

If you want to get rid of rheumatism, you must first get rid of the old belief that uric acid causes it.

Read the book that is helping thousands. It's called the "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism," and it's well worth reading because it tells, in simple words that anyone can understand, the truth about rheumatism, gout, neuritis, sciatica and lumbago.

The tenth edition is just off the press and a free copy will be mailed to you if you will send your name and address (a postal will do) today to H. P. Clearwater, Ph. D., 393-L street, Hallowell, Maine. Better send today, as another edition will not be printed unless necessary.

TIRE AND RIM ROLLED THROUGH SHOW WINDOW

About 3.15 o'clock Thursday afternoon the rim and tire on one of the wheels of a small truck owned and driven by Philip Herts of this city came off as the truck was passing through West Main street near the Max Gordon building. The momentum of the wheel carried it up onto the sidewalk and through one of the show windows of the new Army and Navy store in the Psanik building. The window was completely demolished. The truck was stopped within the distance of a few feet and suffered no damage.

HELD FINAL PRACTICE FOR Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS

The senior and employed boys' gym classes met in the "Y" gym Friday night for their final practice in preparation for the "Y Barnyard and Baleyard" circus, which the local gym members are to put on in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The seniors are scheduled for several attractive stunts consisting of parallel bar, horse and buck gymnastics, pyramid building and calisthenic drills, while the employed boys' division will devote their energy to displaying their ability with elephant and high ladder gymnastics. The junior boys, who come in for a good share of stunts this season, will have their final practice Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the clowns Monday night at 7 o'clock. The property committee has been busy getting the gym in readiness for the big stunt and the gym is rapidly taking on the appearance of the interior of a circus tent.

THIEF GOT $15 AT THAMESVILLE DRUG STORE

Someone got into the Thamesville drug store of C. C. Treat Thursday night and stole $15 from the cash register. The thief gained entrance through the transom over the door as was indicated when Mr. Treat found the transom open when he went to the store Friday morning.

Academy Makes Time Change.

Principal H. A. Tirrell has posted a notice on the Bulletin board at the Norwich Free Academy announcing that the school will re-open on Tuesday, April 22th, at 7.30 o'clock, standard time, to conform to railroad and local changes in the time. This takes immediate effect after the Easter vacation has been concluded.

LOAD OF HAY FELL ONTO TROLLEY TRACK

The West Side trolley service was held up for a brief time Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock when a load of hay being driven down the West Main street hill near the junction of that street, toppled into the street and onto the trolley track. The hay was carted away in several loads and the last of it was removed from the street about 4.30 o'clock.

Austin Lathrop Will Be Speaker

A farm boy from New London county will talk before members of the State Manufacturers' Association at the Hotel Garde, Hartford Saturday noon, when three hundred rural boys and girls from seventy-eight Connecticut towns will be the guests of the manufacturers at luncheon. The farm boy is Austin Lathrop of Montville and the occasion is the closing luncheon of a two-day Club Round-up of delegates from the boys' and girls' clubs of Connecticut, maintained by the State Extension Service at Storrs. Representatives from 162 boys' and girls' clubs will be present.

CERTIFICATE

We have examined the books of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and its subsidiary companies, the Putnam Light & Power Company, Danielson & Plainfield Gas & Electric Company, and Lyme Electric Power Company, as at December 31, 1923, and certify that the consolidated balance sheet as at that date, with the relative profit and loss account, is correctly prepared therefrom.

The expenditures for additions to plant and equipment during the year were verified and found to be proper charges to the fixed asset accounts and the provision for depreciation for the year is fair and reasonable. The materials and supplies on hand were based on continuous book records and were valued at cost.

We have verified the investments and cash on hand by actual inspection or certificates obtained from the depositaries and satisfied ourselves that sufficient provision has been made for doubtful accounts receivable and all ascertained liabilities, and,

We certify that, in our opinion, the balance sheet shows the financial position of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and wholly owned companies at December 31, 1923, and the relative profit and loss account is correct.

GOV. PINCHOT RESENTS THE DESERTION OF REP. VARE

Declares the Liquor Question is the Real Cause of the Congressman Withdrawing His Support—The Representative Gave as His Reason For Withdrawing From Pinchot Forces, the Latter's Action in Advising the Appointment of Heney as Counsel to Senate Committee Investigating Internal Revenue Bureau.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 20.—Governor Pinchot in a statement tonight declared the liquor question was the issue which prompted the announcement yesterday of Representative William S. Vare, Philadelphia political leader, that he would not support the governor for delegate-at-large to the republican convention.

The governor expressed resentment at what he termed Representative Vare's "effort to drag in and hide behind President Coolidge," whose nomination, he said, "nobody questions." At the same time, he added, "nobody questions that I, as a loyal republican, will support him in the campaign."

Declaring the Philadelphia organization, "is regular when liquor is regular—otherwise not" the governor asserted "it prates about republican regularity and then, like a regiment deserting on the eve of battle, breaks with the state organization."

"In marked and honorable contrast" he added, "the state organization stands by its guns and proposes to finish what it has started."

The governor's statement was issued as a result of Mr. Vare's announcement in Philadelphia yesterday that he would not support the Pennsylvania chief executive for delegate-at-large, but would support Ralph Peaver Strassburger, who is opposing the governor for one of the seven places as delegate. Representative Vare attributed his decision to Governor Pinchot's action in advising the appointment of Francis J. Heney, of California, as counsel to the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau.

Governor Pinchot was at his home in Milford when Representative Vare's decision was announced. He immediately returned to Harrisburg and today was in touch with various supporters. He then gave out his statement which follows:

"Liquor or law enforcement—that is the issue."

"That is what lies under all the fine words of Congressman Vare's statement. At the eleventh hour liquor is showing its fangs and demanding the punishment of its enemy.

"The Philadelphia organization is regular when liquor is regular—otherwise not. It prates about republican regularity and then, like a regiment deserting on the eve of battle, breaks with the state organization. In marked an honorable contrast the state organization stands by its guns and proposes to finish what it has started.

"I resent Congressman Vare's effort to drag in and hide behind President Coolidge. Nobody questions that he will be nominated at Cleveland, and nobody questions that I, as a loyal republican will support him in the campaign. President Coolidge is not the issue. Liquor is.

"It is of little consequence whether or not a man by the name of Gifford Pinchot is officially present at Cleveland. It does not matter greatly whether the time-honored custom of sending the governor of Pennsylvania to the republican national convention is observed or broken but it is of the utmost importance whether the people of Pennsylvania are going to yield to the little handful of Philadelphia ward politicians who planned this knifing, and thus enable them to issue their orders not only to the city of Philadelphia but to the entire state. It is of the utmost consequence whether Pennsylvania is to be counted wet or dry.

"I stand for a principle—the principle of honest, straightforward effective law enforcement. You know and I know that every bootlegger in Pennsylvania would love to see me beaten. The issue is right there.

"I urge every free voter in this commonwealth, every voter who does not take orders, but votes on conscience and principle to get to the polls and vote to sustain the right of the governor to do his duty whether the Philadelphia machine likes it or not. Every believer in law enforcement, every enemy of the bootlegger and the saloon, every decent citizen, ought to go to the polls and stand up and be counted.

"Until the Vare statement was issued, I made no campaign. But now I ask you to vote for me because the primary has suddenly come to mean a lot for decent politics in the state of Pennsylvania.

"I am glad the issue has come in this way. I expect to win, but win or lose, this fight will go on. The one thing I want to make clear beyond all question is this, the fight to save Pennsylvania from liquor will be pushed to final victory. This administration will neither dodge nor quit. It is right on the liquor question, and it will go through to the end."

TO BREAK MONOPOLY OF THE FILM INDUSTRY

Washington, April 20—An order to break up an alleged monopoly of the motion picture film industry, was issued today by the federal trade commission against the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y.

The commission declared it found that the Eastman co[illegible] substantially complete monopoly of the manufacture of positive cinematograph film.

It prohibited acquisition by the Eastman Company of the Paragon Laboratory, the G. M. Laboratory, and the San Jaco Laboratory, whose combined Capacity, it is said, equals the entire market demand for printing and developing positive films from exposed negatives. All of these films were named in the complaint.

The Eastman and other companies were prohibited from forcing the Allied Film Laboratories, Inc., and its members to use for manufacture of film, American made raw film stock, of which, it was charged, the Eastman Kodak company has a monopoly.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SPENT RESTFUL EASTER

Washington, April 20.—President Coolidge enjoyed an Easter of complete rest, having finished late yesterday the task which has occupied him for several days—the preparation of the address he will deliver Tuesday in New York at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press.

The chief executive and Mrs. Coolidge attended Easter services at their regular place of worship, the First Congregational church. In the course of the services the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Wilbur were admitted to membership by letter from their former church in California and announcement was made that Secretary Wilbur had been elected a deacon.

Instead of joining in the usual Easter afternoon parade, the President and Mrs. Coolidge took another Sunday afternoon cruise on the Mayflower, accompanied by a small party of friends, including Frank W. Stearns and the White House guests, Mrs. William M. Butler, and daughters, the Misses Mary and Beatrice, of Boston.

Advisers of the president regard his forthcoming New York address as one of his most important, comparable with his annual message to congress and his Lincoln day speech before the National Republican club. He spent considerable time in writing it and conferred several times with Secretary Hughes.

LIONS WERE SPELLBOUND BY A CORNET PLAYER

Berlin, April 20.—If Dr. Max Sostaric is as successful in silencing the music critics with his cornet playing as he was in taming Hagenbeck's lions he should have a great career on the cornet stage. The doctor, who is a natural scientist as well as a cornet virtuoso, recently decided he would overcome stage fright for all time by giving a concert in a lions' cage in Hamburg.

Hagenbeck's lion tamers declined to assume a responsibility for his safety but finally consented to let him enter the circus den of lions at his own risk. As he began to play the lions at first exhibited surprise and sniffed at him suspiciously, but when he began his triple-tonguing feats on the horn they stood spellbound, and finally retreated in defeat to the corners of the cage.

TRIBUTE TO CHARACTER OF JUDGE JAMES H. WEBB

Bridgeport, April 20—In commenting upon the death of Judge James H. Webb, Chief Justice George W. Wheeler, of the supreme court made the following statement:

"Judge Webb was senior superior court judge in service. Prior to his appointment to the bench by Governor Simeon E. Baldwin he had been recognized as one of the leading law practitioners in New Haven county, enjoying a large practice and universally regarded for his high character, his undeviating probity, his ability as a lawyer and for his wisdom in counsel.

"His appointment was in keeping with the best standards of the Connecticut judiciary. For ten years he has served in our highest trial court with great usefulness and quite fulfilling the high expectations for his judicial career which followed his appointment.

"Judge Webb enjoyed the confidence and admiration of the bar of the state and of the judiciary of the state. The thousands of laymen who have seen him preside in the superior court left his courtroom certain of his fairness and judicial competency.

"Judge Webb had had in his life a very varied experience in the practice of his profession, in the law teachers chair and in many semi-public affairs of life. His was a well rounded life and the superior court was just the place where all of his accomplishments could be used to advantage of his judicial work.

"His private life and relations with his fellows were exemplary. He was a man of firm conviction, yet of broad charity. He loved the right and followed it. His faith in his religion was the guiding star of his life. He was big in body and big in heart and many will mourn his going, but none among his friends more sincerely so than his associates upon the bench."

SAYS NOMINATION OF COOLIDGE IS ASSURED

Washington, April 20.—Accomplished victory for President Coolidge in the campaign for the republican presidential nomination was claimed today by William B. Butler, the Coolidge manager in a formal statement in which he said 563 delegates instructed or favorable to the president had already been selected, eight more than necessary for a choice.

In the list furnished by Mr. Butler as favorable to Coolidge "either by instruction, by endorsement or by personal preference," were the the New York delegation of 91 and other not bound down by mandatory orders but which he said preferred the nomination of the president.

According to Mr. Butler the "Coolidge delegates thus far chosen, are:

Colorado 15; Connecticut 17; Florida 10; Idaho 11; Illinois 59; Iowa 29; Kansas 21 (two to be elected); Kentucky 26; Louisiana 18; Maine 15; Michigan 32; Minnesota 27; Mississippi 15; Missouri 26 (13 to be elected); Nebraska, 19; New Hampshire 11; New Mexico 9; New York 91; North Carolina 19; (3 to be elected); North Dakota 13; Oklahoma 12, (11 to be elected); Rhode Island, 18; South Carolina, 11; Tennessee 12, (15 to be elected); Virginia, 17; Washington 17; Wisconsin 1; Hawaii 2; Philippines 2.

The statement said there would be two contesting delegations from Georgia and that Georgia delegates were omitted from the table.

Auto Plunged Into The Norwalk River

Two Persons Were Instantly Killed When the Car Crashed Through Iron Railing.

Norwalk, Conn., April 20—Two people were instantly killed and two others escaped serious injury when a large touring car, operated by Joseph Urban, of Bridgeport, crashed through the iron railing of the bridge spanning the Norwalk River and plunged into the water when it failed to make the sharp turn on New Canaan avenue late last night. The dead are: Joseph Urban and Vincent Dubanowicz of Bridgeport. Julian Lukasewicz of Bridgeport and Joseph Lutz, of this city, were unhurt.

According to Lutz, who was in the front seat, with Urban, the driver was unacquainted with the road and Urban disregarded his warning to slow down at the curve. Urban, he said, was going too fast to make the turn and the car smashed through the bridge railing, fell on its nose into the water and turned over. Lutz and Lukasewics swam ashore and the police were notified.

It was at first believed that Lutz was killed when the police failed to find him in the car or near the accident. The river was dragged and it was not until the police visited his house nearby, that they found Lutz had gone home to change his clothes.

Lutz said that Urban had struck another car in Bridgeport earlier in the evening and did not stop as he said he had "plenty of insurance on the machine and didn't care." The dead men were musicians and came to Norwalk from Bridgeport to arrange to play at a wedding.

An inquest will be held here Tuesday afternoon by Coroner John J. Phelan of Bridgeport.

BLOCKADE ON ARIZONA-CALIFORNIA LINE CONTINUES

Yuma, Ariz., April 20.—(By the A. P.)—The Arizona foot and mouth blockade on the Arizona-California state line was established again today. The disinfecting station was shut and on orders from the state quarantine officer, automobile travelers are barred from entering this state from the west.

The situation here is as it was a week ago when east-bound automobiles began to pile up behind the blockade, although reports from Knob Siding, fourteen miles on the west of the Colorado river, said no new arrivals had registered there.

Disinfecting and fumigating went on all day at Knob Siding. Occupants of the first batch of 16 cars to cross the bridge quarantine line early today recorded their passage with a series of whoops denoting their joy at being once more moving homeward to the middlewest and east.

Passengers entering Arizona by train are not interefered with.

OBITUARY

Judge James Henry Webb.

New Haven, Conn., April 20.—Judge James Henry Webb of the supreme court died here last night, following an illness of several weeks. Applications of a new mercurial formula, said to have cured several cases of septic poisoning, from which Judge Webb suffered, failed to have more than a temporary effect upon the jurist.

James H. Webb, judge of the superior court and prominent Connecticut democrat, although living in Hamden and Spring Glen Farm where he was actively interested in scientific farming had an office in New Haven and developed his law practice there. In 1914, when he was appointed to the superior court bench he followed the precedent established by his predecessor Judge Holcomb and worked in his own office right up to the time he was sworn in as superior court judge. During his term of office he retained the popularity he gained previous to his elevation to the bench and he added to the long list of honors which marked his career. The judge was a warm friend of former Governor Simeon E. Baldwin. When he became judge one of his close friends remarked; "Jim Webb will make good as judge just as he has at every stage of his life. Good luck to him." He was a hard and conscientious worker and his friend's opinion was justified.

He was born in Santa Fe, New Mexico, in 1854, a son of James J. Webb and Florilla (Slade) Webb, both residents of Connecticut. He went to the Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1878 with the purpose of following his father in scientific agriculture and dairying on the fine old family farm in Hamden. The elder Webb was regarded as one of the most progressive farmers in the state. From 1895 to 1914 he was professor of criminal jurisprudence in the Yale Law School and for some time lectured on medical jurisprudence. He was a member of the Quinnipiac, Graduates' and New Haven Lawn Clubs and the Knights of Columbus and was counsel for the latter society for several years. He was a member of the Catholic Club of New York and several law societies.

In 1880 he married Helen M. Ives of Mt. Carmel and several children have been born to them. In 1898 he was the democratic candidate for congress from the Second Connecticut district. In 1902 he was a member of the constitutional convention of Connecticut and in 1902 was a member of the board of control of the Connecticut Agricultural Experimental Station. He was a member of the American Bar association and was a delegate to the universal congress of lawyers and jurors in St. Louis in 1904. ## $1,200 Liquor Fine Imposed in Putnam

Benjamin Goldblood of Worcester Pleaded Guilty to Violating the Law.

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, April 20—Benjamin Goldblood giving his address as Worcester was fined $1200 and costs of $36.38 at a special session of the Putnam city court Saturday night, after he had pleaded guilty to transporting and to other counts of violation of the liquor law. This is the largest fine ever imposed by the Putnam Court, the nearest to it being a fine of $750 imposed several weeks ago for a similar violation. The police will also confiscate 108 gallons of grain alcohol, 3 dozen bottles purporting to contain Johnny Walker whiskey and a dozen bottles of Black & White Scotch found in Goldblood's Ford car.

The arrest of Goldblood was accomplished by State Policeman Stremans of the Danielson barracks about 5 o'clock Saturday evening on the Providence pike near the Children's Home. How the police came to be looking for the car load of liquor they are not saying. As soon as the arrest was made Goldblood was ordered to drive to the Putnam police station where he got in touch with friends in Worcester, but it was a late hour before his friends came substantially to his aid and the large fine was paid.

Goldblood said he was on the way from Providence to Worcester but the officers are skeptical and believe it was his intention to deliver his load much nearer Putnam.

RAI NINTERFERED WITH NEW YORK'S EASTER PARADE

New York, April 20.—A drizzle, a downpour of rain, a peak at the sun now and then, more rain and general indications of still more rain—that was Easter Sunday in New York.

Fifth avenue's fashion parade, an annual event, suffered accordingly. A few whose optimism would not be daunted, sauntered forth in brilliant headpieces and other what-nots of reminine apparel, while now and then a silk topper atop a gallant escort could be glimpsed through the misty air. But that ease and grace of manner supposed to accompany those who join in this annual promenade noticeably was lacking rather they kept one eye upon the ever changing skies and the other upon the nearest taxicab. The crows, that on sunny Easters crowd the top decks of Fifth avenue buses, stuck to their apartments and those who did parade had few to watch them.

For the most part, however, Madame's new Easter bonnet got little farther than the front door. Many, perhaps, went even taken off the closet shelf, or if they were it was to be gazed upon fondly then wrapped up in tissue paper again as rain drops spattered against the window panes.

Despite the weather churches were well attended, and at 7 o'clock this morning fully 7,000 persons crowded the campus of Columbia university for outdoor services held by the New York Federation of Churches. At that hour the skies were overcast and it was not until after the Gloria trumpeters had summoned the throng to worship that rain began to fall. Many went inside St. Paul's chapel for the remainder of the services while many others braved the dampness and stayed on until Dr. M. L. Robinson, executive secretary of the New York Methodist society, had finished his Easter message.

The huge auditorium in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, always a point of interest on Easter Sunday, was filled and the great congregation heard Dr. William T. Manning, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, utter a plea for a belief in the resurrection. He took exception to those who sought to explain that the body of Jesus Christ had not risen from the tomb, but only His soul had lived.

"The Easter message is not the presentation of an argument," he said "It is the proclamation of a fact. Our faith as Christians does not spring from mere reasoning and speculation, it springs from an event."

One of the largest throngs in years crowded St. Patrick's cathedral this morning at the solemn high mass which was celebrated by Auxiliary Bishop John J. Dunn. Eight thousand persons filled the edifice to capacity while police reserves were forced to turn many others away. Cabled Easter greetings from Cardinal Hayes at San Remo, Italy, to Catholics of New New York were read at the services.

FARMERS IN NORTHWEST ARE GRADING CROPS

Washington, April 20.—Farmers in the middle west and northwestern states are guiding their production program, reducing the output of commodities hit by price slumps and increasing those where market values have been consistently profitable, said a statement issued today by the agriculture department, based on a study of crops in nine states.

A great reduction in the acreage of wheat and other small grains and in beef cattle production has been noticed, the statement said

JAPANESE PROTESTING THE EXCLUSION LEGISLATION

Resolutions Were Adopted by the Four Leading Political Parties, Meeting in Tokio, Against the Action of the American Congress—Appeal to the American Spirit of Justice to Prevent the Expulsion Measure Becoming Law —Fifteen Tokio Newspapers Counsel Moderation.

Tokio, April 20—(By the A. P.)—The four major political parties of Japan held meetings today and adopted resolutions of protest against the Japanese exclusion legislation passed by the American congress.

The Seiyu Honto supporting the government expressed the hope that the exclusion clause of the immigration bill would no tbecome a law because the friendly Japanese-American relations would be seriously damaged as a result.

Resolutions of the Kakushin Club state that exclusion fosters racial hostility. They appeal to the American spirit of justice to prevent the exclusion measure becoming law.

The Kenseikai resolved that "immigration legislation is an open insult to Japan. The Kenseikai hopes that the American people will suppress this dangerous legislation."

The Seiyukai, principal opposition party, declares that Ambassador Hanihara was justified in his stand on exclusion and that the senate's objection to his letter was entirely unreasonable. The Seiyukai resolutions also attack the government which is blamed for the present immigration complications.

Representatives of fifteen Tokio newspapers met and agreed that a moderate and restrained attitude in the present situation was the wisest. Resolutions were adopted expressing sorrow that "Japanese-American friendship, which was intensified by the Washington Conference and the bridge of sympathy which spanned the Pacific at the time of the earthquake and all other happy memories of our relations, will be destroyed by the act of congress."

The resolution declares that the splendid cooperation of both nations for peace and welfare will suffer most seriously from the exclusion legislation.

ATTITUDE OF SENATORS ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, April 20.—Senate democrats went on record today for a cash and insurance bonus bill in a minority report of the finance made public by Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, although it was indicated on the floor yesterday the party would support the pending straight insurance bill "to assure enactment into law of a bonus measure."

The report declared such a plan would cost the government about $1,000,000,000 less than the pending bill but if it failed to command the support a minority members would vote for the committee measure. Six of the seven democrats of the committee signed it, Senator King of Utah refusing because he is opposed to any bonus bill.

Republican leaders today conveyed the way clear for passage early in the week of the straight insurance bill. Their assurance was based on statements of Senator Robinson, Arkansas, democratic leader, that the democrats feared republicans would vote to sustain a veto by President Coolidge of a cash insurance measure. Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, and other republican leaders said they would vote to override a presidential vet of the straight insurance plan.

The democratic plan would allow a choice of full cash payment or a 20 year endowment insurance policy whereas the committee measure would provide for the insurance policies with cash payments only to those veterans not entitled to more than $60 in adjusted service compensation. Both measures would allow compensation on the same basis, $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service, exclusive of the first sixty days.

Funds for payments under the democratic proposal would be obtained, the report explained, through issuance of $1,500,000,000 additional bonds under the second Liberty Loan act.

Support of the American Legion was given yesterday to the straight insurance proposition. Commander Quinn declaring in a message to senators that the democratic substitute would endanger enactment of any bill since it could not be passed over a presidential veto. The declaration was based on a careful poll of the senate, Commander Quinn said.

STATEMENT BY COOLIDGE ON FOREST PROTECTION

Washington, April 20.—The hope that the American people will come to about fire in their woods just as much as they now abhor fire in their homes was expressed by President Coolidge in a statement issued tonight on the eve of the beginning of Forest Protection Week.

"Tomorrow marks the beginning of Forest Protection Week for 1924, the fourth annual observance of the national movement to stamp out forest fires in the United States," the president said. "In the proclamation I issued designing April 21-27, inclusive, as Forest Protection Week, I stated that the most formidable agency of forest destruction is fire and that of all forest fires reported each year 90 per cent. are the result of human carelessness.

"I desire again to call the nation's attention to the seriousness of man-made fires in the United States and to urge every citizen to give earnest thought to the matter of preventing the unnecessary waste of our fast-dwindling timber supply.

"The secretary of agriculture, whose department has charge of our 146 national forests, informs me that during 1923 about 11,000,000 people visited these federal forest areas for recreational purposes.

"I believe these figures eloquently tell the part the wooded areas of the United States play in the wholesome recreational activities of our people, in fact, American character and American customs are largely the result of influence which our forest background has exerted upon our nation's history.

"Our civilization is largely dependent upon the unrestricted use of wood. But America's magnificent timber supply now needs replenishing. About 31,000,000 acres of idle forest land should be growing timber crops. Fire is an outlaw that not only destroys growing timber but retards and kills young trees from which new forests must come.

"Fortunately the solution of the forest fire menace lies largely in our own hands. It is my earnest hope that as citizens of the United States we shall learn to abhor fire in our woods just as we now abhor fire in our homes."

200,000 PERSONS IN FASHION PARADE IN ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., April 20.—Undaunted by overcast skies, a crowd estimated at well over 200,000 persons thronged the boardwalk today for Atlantic City's Easter fashion parade. A shower early in the morning gave rise to gloomy forbodings on the part of visitors, but the sun managed to break through the cloud banks before 10 o'clock when the rush to the famous wooden way started.

Today's outpouring of fashion proved conclusively that the long skirt has not lost any of its popularity, while the skirt that trailed to the ground was not as much in evidence, the full length garment reaching to the shoe tops appeared to be the reigning favorite.

Threats of rain probably accounted for the absence of the usual dazzling display of millinery. Small basket shaped hats and cloth creations with little or no trimming predominated. The popularity of sheer hosiery of natural blends was strikingly demonstrated.

The unusual absence of freak styles seemed to indicate a conservative trend on the part of the women. Wraps were worn by the large majority of the women and with few exceptions they were of dark colors.

The seemingly endless streams of rolling chairs would have delighted the heart of a seeker after perpetual motion. In the large majority of cases they were occupied by women, the men seeming content to stroll along the fringe of the crowd.

A sudden rain storm, accompanied by high winds that broke just before three o'clock in the afternoon, sent the crowds scurrying for shelter, thousands jammed their way onto the piers and hundreds made their way to the beach and stood beneath the boardwalk until the rain stopped. Within fifteen minutes after the first drops of rain had splattered the wooden planks, the sun was shining again and with happy smiles, women and their escorts, continued to march along the world's famous promenade.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY THE FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Los Angeles, April 20—A total of 48,796 animals have been destroyed since the outbreak of the foot and mouth epizootic in California and an estimated appraisal of $2,034,437 has been placed upon these animals and property condemned during the process of disinfection of infected premises, according to figures compiled here today by H. W. Levers, chief accountant of the state department of agriculture.

The report which included cases up to and including April 17, estimated that 378 herds had been destroyed. Of the animals killed 26,447 were cattle; 10,204 hogs; 12,635 sheep and 110 goats

Assault charges against Morris Gordon, owner of a tailor shop on Church street, and John J. Holland, an employe of the Western Electric company and a native of New Haven, were dropped, in police court Saturday morning, when each man blamed the other for leading the first blow in the tailor shop, Friday forenoon. The pair were found guilty of breach of the peace and fined $1 and costs. Holland paid $7.90 and Gordon $7.30. The dispute started over a vest which Holland had taken to the tailor as part of a three-piece suit which was to be altered and pressed. When Holland called for the suit the vest was missing. Holland said that he ... to spend the week-end in New Haven and when he returned Monday he would pay Gordon for the work done providing the vest had been found in the meantime. Gordon could not see things in the same light and forbid Holland from leaving the store until he had settled for the work. Harsh words led to blows which came to an end when Gordon sustained a severe cut under the left eye. The tailor's left optic was coal black when he appeared in court Saturday morning.

When Gordon began to bleed, Holland sat down in a chair to await the outcome of the tailor's cries for help and police. A passerby secured the services of Supernumary Officer Joseph Laramee who arrested Holland. Dr. E. E. Gorton also heard the plea for a policeman and he summened Officer Arthur Hurley who also came to the shop. Gordon was taken to the police station along with Holland.

Holland said that Gordon disagreed with the plan for payment of the suit after the vest had been located. He testified that as he was about to leave the store with the two pieces of the suit Gordon stopped him and scratched his face while grabbing hold of him.

Gordon said that he stood in front of his doorway to prevent Holland from leaving and that the latter pushed him away and later struck him. He pleaded not guilty to the charges. Holland said that he would plead guilty to assault in self-defense. The court was questioned by Attorney Gaucher who appeared for the tailor.

Dr. E. E. Gorton was called in as a witness but he knew nothing about the case except that the tailor had called to him to get a policeman and he had complied with the request. As there were no witnesses to the case and the men told contradictory stories, Deputy Judge Curtis Dean adopted a suggestion of Prosecuting Attorney Harvey and dropped the assault charges. Both men paid their assessments for breach of the peace.

When court adjourned an officer went with Holland to Gordon's tailor shop and a search was made for the vest, which was found in the work room. It was said that the piece had been overlooked after the process of cleaning the suit which was done elsewhere. Holland paid $2 for the work on the suit and left the shop with the three pieces of apparel.

At the annual concert and ball of San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, following a concert, Grand Knight Gilbert P. Flynn and partner will lead the grand march.

Easter Sunday, the First Baptist church on Union street was reopened, after being closed since the last Sunday in June 1923, during which period it has been undergoing alterations and repairs. The services at the church Sunday were held under new but most pleasing surroundings. The whole interior of the building has been rebuilt to suit more modern needs and tastes. New floors were laid and partitions were torn down or removed to allow for more space and better lighting effects. On the ground floor eight class rooms have been built to accommodate the various church organizations. In order to do this the size of the senior assembly room, known as the vestry, has been cut down, but it remains large enough to seat two hundred. The auditorium has been reconditioned. On the exterior of the edifice the roof has been reshingled and the outside walls repainted. Stone steps leading from the sidewalk into the lobby at the entrance to the church have been eliminated and the doors lowered to the walk level.

The Willimantic W. C. T. U. is to hold a county golden jubilee celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the local Methodist church Friday next.

Five citizenship objectives have been enumerated as follows:

1—An aroused citizenship.

2—Election of dry delegates to party conventions who will work and vote for planks for strict enforcement of law.

3—The nomination and election of members of state legislatures and of the United States congress pledged to enforcement.

4—The appointment of dry enforcement officials.

5—This program is to culminate in a march of allegiance to the polling booths in November, 1924.

This program faithfully carried out will create public sentiment which will demand law enforcement planks in party platforms.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

support of his wife. The case, after several continuances and disagreements was finally settled April 9th that the defendant secure a tenement away from either his or the plaintiff's relatives and that they live together again. Called to the witness stand Saturday morning the wife testified that her husband came to her about the middle of the week and notified her that the tenement was ready. She was taken to a five-room flat on the top floor of a three-tenement house on Valley street and shown what she was to have for a home. She took inventory and found in one room a bed, bureau, two chairs and a carpet. In another room she found a gas range, a table, a few chairs and half a dozen saucers and cups, plates and a few knives and forks. There was no kitchen range nor anything else than the gas range to use for heating purposes. The remainder of the rooms were unfurnished. Mrs. Shea was decidedly dissatisfied with her new "love nest" and she refused to occupy the place. When she spoke of the scant furnishings she claimed that her husband replied that it would be all right for the present as they would soon be going back to live with his brother and sister, under the old plan, which brought about the disruption of the couple.

Shea said that he had complied with the requirements of the court. He was working only three days a week as a moulder in the Smith-Winchester plant and what furniture he had bought was the best he could afford at the present time. He stated that if his wife would buckle down into the harness with him it would not be long before they could have a pretty good home. Shea claimed that the interference of third parties was responsible for the trouble between himself and his wife. "If she would stop listening to others and pay more attention to what I have to say it would be for her own good," said the defendant.

The court asked Shea if it would not be wise for him to pay his wife a weekly sum and avoid further appearances in court. The court felt that the couple could never live peaceably together again. Shea refused to do this on the grounds that what he wanted was a home. If his wife would live with him he would do all he could for her but he would not support her and another home besides. Attorney Gaucher, for the defendant pointed out that Shea had done his bit and asked for a continuance for one week, which was granted.

Unfavorable weather Easter Sunday was a source of disappointment to many about town. Motoring and walking parties were crossed off the list and new Easter clothes remained in the closets until the next fair Sunday. Clouds gathered early in the morning and a drizzling rain fell during most of the day. The weather, however, did not prevent large numbers of church-goers from attending the various services.

Frank Rousseau of this city called at his wife's boarding place on Bolivia street early Saturday evening and there and then drawn down a pint of liquor. According to the man he cannot remember what occurred after that but the facts are that he came back to Center street where he called at his mother-in-law's home and started to smash things up in general. The police were notified and an officer took Rousseau to the police station, where he was locked up on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. His case will be heard in police court this (Monday) morning.

Clarence Rowsell and his wife, Hattie French Rowsell, came to this city from their home in Manchester to visit Mrs. Rowsell's mother on Oak street, Saturday night. A dispute started and it is understood that Rowsell began to beat his wife. The police were summoned and the man was placed under arrest on a charge of assault. The case is on the police blotter for trial this (Monday) morning.

Notification was received at the police station that two boys, one 14 and the other 16, had run away from their homes in Plainfield, Saturday, and were probably headed toward this city. They had been reported as having been seen last in Scotland where the trail was lost. Both youths were suits with short trousers.

A stray horse which had wandered down to the business section of Jackson street, was taken in charge Saturday by Motorcycle Officer Bombria and lodged at Doubleday's barn on Main street where it is awaiting a claimant.

PLAINFIELD

The second annual Windham county Older Boys' conference was held in the First Congregational church Saturday. The best speakers obtainable were brought to the conference, to deliver their inspiring and helpful messages to the boys, and high grade entertainment was given them throughout the day. The program for the conference arranged by County Y. M. C. A. Secretary John H. Corbett, was as follows:

Morning session—Hymn by the conference, followed by an invocation by the Rev. William C. Prentiss.

Election of officers, as follows: Allan Thayer, Putnam; 1st vice president, Minot Horne, Putnam; second vice president, Alfred Royle, Plainfield; secretary, Leonard Johnson, North Grosvenordale. Devotional talk, Mrs. Prentiss; address, His New Day, Ernest P. Conlon, Concord, N. H.; address, Life's Challenge in Public Life, Attorney Harry E. Back, Danielson; address, Life's Challenge in Industry, H. H. Ellis, Principal State Trade school, Putnam.

Afternoon—Luncheon in the vestry of the church, served by the Ladies' Aid society. Five minute presentations, State and County Track Meets, Allan Thayer, Putnam; Camp Woodstock, Franklin Perry, Putnam; The Training Camp, Franklin Wetherell, East Woodstock; conference photograph taken on the church lawn; service of song and worship, Mr. Corbett and Mr. Prentiss; address, Life Challenge to the Christian Callings, J. B. Palmer; religious work secretary, Y. M. C. A., Hartford; five minute papers by boys, Hi-Y Clubs, Minot Horne, Putnam; Philip Armington, Danielson; Vernon Wetherell, East Woodstock; ten minute discussion led by Mr. Conlon; Boy Scouts, Elwood Spencer, Danielson; Earle Butler, Plainfield; ten minute discussion, led by Mr. Prentiss; Y. M. C. A. groups, William Willims, Moosup; James Maitland, Thompson; Leonard Johnson, North Grosvenordale; discussion led by Mr. Corbett; address, The World Outlook, Mr. Conlon.

Following Mr. Conlon's address, the meeting adjourned to Plainfield Community house, the management of which had kindly offered the use of the swimming pool for a meet which was held.

Evening—Banquet, served in the vestry of the church, by the Ladies Aid society. The menu was as follows:

Roast Beef
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Rolls
Ice Cream Cake
Coffee

Music was furnished by the Leach orchestra of Wauregan, with selection, It Ain't A-Gonna Rain No Mo, Massa Had an Old Gray Mule, Plainfield quartette.

The toastmaster was Rev. William C. Prentiss, who introduceds: Ray W. Greene and Cecil L. Butler, who gave the address of welcome, Mr. Greene, for the town politic, and Mr. Butler for the church and all its organizations. Thomas O. Elliott, who responded for the boys to the addresses of welcome. A toast was given by Mr. Corbett, who also awarded the ribbon prizes for the swimming meet as follows:

Fancy diving, 1, Peterson, Plainfield; 2, Wheat, Putnam; 3, Gilpatroc, Putnam; underwater swim, 1, Russo, Willimantic; 2, Bugbee, Putnam; 3, Valentine, Putnam; 20 yard dash, 1 Peterson, Plainfield; 2, Chabbuck, North Grosvenordale; 3, Russo, Willimantic; 20 yd. book stronke, 1, Peterson, Plainfield; 2, Russo, Willimantic; 3, Godlin, Moosup; 50 yard dash, 1, Peterson, Plainfield; 2, Iden, Willimantic; 3, Russo, Willimantic; 50 yd. relay, 1, Pomfret; 2, Moosup; 3, Putnam.

The toastmaster then called upon Bill Short, of Spokane, Washington, and Charles D. Butler of Hartford, who responded to toasts. The speaker J. B. Palmer, was then introduced, his subject being, "What are you worth. During his address, Mr. Palmer, or "Joe" as he is familiarly called, brought out a great many truths before the boys, and driving his points home with a forcibility that gained hi man interested audience, which voted this address the best of the day.

After the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the conference, the meeting was pronounced adjourned until next year by President Thayer.

A meeting of Troop No. 1, Plainfield Boy Scouts, is to be held in the basement of the Congregational church, this (Monday) evening.

Plainfield lost its fourth game of the season to Bulkeley High of New London, at New London Saturday. The Plainfield team was not in as good condition as when it met Chapman Tech, it being deemed advisable not to let Bibeault pitch at all, his arm having not fully recovered from injuries received during the La Salle game, Tuesday of last week. Belknap, the substitute pitcher, pitched a good game, however, receiving exceptionally poor backing. Plainfield has added two more games to the schedule, both with Burrillville High of Pascoag, R. I., the one at home to be played May 29, and the one at Pascoag, Aupril 30.

Doris Elizabeth Tayler, 3 weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor, was christened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, by Rev. William C. Prentiss, of the First Congregational church, Sunday afternoon. Relatives from New Bedford were present, as well as relatives and friends in town, among the former being Alfred Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, who has a position in New Belford, and who spent the week end at his home. The godfathers of the baby were A. Goodman and Mr. Timms, both of New Bedford, Mrs. Timms being the child's godmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bibeau and family spent the week end in New Bedford.

The flowers at the First Congregational church, Easter Sunday, were arranged by the following committee: Mrs. Robert Generous, Mrs. George Babcock, Mrs. Arthur Moffitt. Mrs. Henry Randell, and Miss Harriett Chapman. Many of the flowers were memorials, among them a beautiful bouquet of carnations, given by Mrs. Tyrer, in memory of her husband, George Tyrer. There was a large attendance at the church at both sessions, inspiring addresses being delivered by the pastor and fine music being rendered.

Marden Prentiss, Alfred Taylor, Robert Flower, and William Prentiss, were among those who spent the week end at their homes here.

Glass walls and partitions in the children's ward are to be a part of the new $4,000,000 Beth Israel Hospital in New York City, so that children with infectious diseases may be seen by their families without danger of spreading the infection.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Everybody is getting ready at the Palace theatre for the presentation tonight of the Billy Allen's musical hit "Temptations of Broadway" which has been awaited by local theatregoers with keen interest ever since the original announcement that the big show would appear here.

The local orchestra will be augmented by the special "Billy Allen" musicians thereby insuring a proper rendition of the many famous song hits.

"Temptations of Broadway" the production to be staged tonight by the Billy Allen Company is described as a "rollicking, jazzy lala, paloosa of show." It is a ... combination of all styles of musical comedy, "Reviews, follies, scandals, etc.," all blended into the liveliest, happy-go-lucky entertainment ever staged.

The same exquisite chorus of youth and beauty arrayed in gorgeous creation and startingly novel costumes, the same brilliant cast of comedians, headed by Billy Allen himself, singers and dancers and the same colorful production of artistic and beautiful scenery that was seen during its metropolitan engagement will grace the stage of the Palace theatre tonight. To miss it is to regret it.

BREED THEATRE

A boon for the movies is Scaramouche, the big Rex Ingram production for Metro, which opened last night at the Breed theatre. This screen which is a screen version of Rafael Sabatini's popular novel of the French Revolution, is in our opinion, the greatest photoplay yet made in the motion picture industry. Romance, adventure, thrills, beauty, every desirable feature in a picture, are here done in superb fashion.

The cast of 10,000 is headed by Alice Terry, Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro, the triumvirate of Ingram's earlier film, The Prisoner of Zenda, and they score an ever greater success.

Willis Goldbeck's screen adaption was perfect. The excellent photography was by John F. Seitz. Curt Rehfeld was production manager and Grant Whytock edited the film.

Scaramouche will be shown at the Breed all this week, twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Church Music of Russia Demonstrated by Quartet

Russian church music, a monotony of chords of great richness, was demonstrated by the Russian Cathedral Quartet at Sheldon Memorial last night. Two compositions of the Orthodox ritual, the "Lord's Prayer" by Bakhmeteff and the Cherubimimo Hymn" of Protopopoff, were sung by the four in the robes which they wore as choir singers in Moscow. The remainder of the program was an assortment of Russian and American popular selections. The "Volga Boatmen's Song" was the best of the secular numbers.

M. P. Bataeff, basso, was, as was to be expected in a Russian quartet the featured singer. In the "Armorer's Song," he easily took the D low G on which basses usually preen themselves. His low note is B-flat. N. G. Wasilievsky, tenor, who has an odd habit of singing with his lips apparently closed, like a ventriloquist, sang a Russian lullaby beautifully, and the other members of the quartet gave solo numbers.—Exchange.

They will appear at the Community House this city, May 4th.

Congregational Home Missions.

The annual meeting of the Women's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut will be held at the Center church, New Haven, at 3.45 (S. T.) April 30. Lunch will be served at Center church house at 11.15 (S. T.). Among the interesting features of the program which will be announced later will be the opportunity of hearing the Fisk Jubilee Singers. A large attendance from the churches is expected.

GOSHEN

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall were recent guests of friends in Meriden and Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Case and daughter, Miss Grace Elizabeth Case, of Danbury, spent Easter with friends here.

There was the usual church service held on Friday, Fast Day, that seemed more impressive than usual. The annual church meeting for the election of officers and the reorganization of the Sunday school was held afterwards.

A surprise party was given Miss Dorothy McCall, Thursday evening.

The heavy spring rains have resulted in many bad washouts on the hills on the country roads.

The privilege of wearing knickerbockers on the streets has been granted to the women of Reedy, W. Va., a referendum vote showing a majority of one in favor of the women.

A cast of unusual brilliance was selected to portray the many roles, among the most notable being, Edith Roberts, Norman Trevor, Maurice Cosello, Mary Carr, Walter Booth, Montagu Love, Henry Hull, Dagmar Godowsky, Diana Allen, Effie Shannon and Flora Finch.

This all-star cast coupled with the popularity of the story, make for one of the most interesting screen productions offered to the movie-going public in the past season.

AT BROADWAY

"America," D. W. Griffith's screen epic of the War of American Independence, described as the supreme effort of this great director and one of the outstanding film masterpieces of all time, will have its local premiere at the Broadway for three days beginning tonight with Matinee tomorrow and Wednesday.

"America" is undoubtedly one of the most significant films ever made. Not only is its story the true history of America's struggle for liberty, but its settings are the actual locale of the action of the events of the most glorious chapters of America's history.

For years Griffith has been preparing to make a film dealing with the American Revolution. He had amassed a wealth of data and had even prepared a story. But the matter lay dormant until the Daughters of the American Revolution, seeking a means of making a contribution to the sesquicentennial of the struggle for freedom, prevailed upon him to undertake the task of putting the ideals of our forefathers into motion picture form.

Fortunately Griffith received the voluntary assistance of practically every historical and patriotic society in the country, not only in the labor of digging out forgotten facts, but in the loan of historical homes and relics; and as volunteers to act as extra people. This enabled him to reproduce many scenes on the exact sites of the original happenings, using appurtenances actually used and using descendants of the original heroes as actors.

The result is a stunning picturization of America's great struggle, with such characters as George Washington, Patrick Henry, Lafayette and Paul Revere shown in true relation to their great parts. A graphic telling of the immortal story, floating a banner of beautiful romance across the scenes of America's high adventure. It is described as the most thrilling and satisfying motion picture among all the great super-specials that have been made.

"America" is the most stirring thing of its kind ever made; vivid, historically accurate and fascinating and brings every bit of patriotism to a boiling-over point. It is the living breathing document of the sacrifice and idealism of the men who freed America.

At least two-thirds of the married men you meet are henpecked, but they don't know it.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

There should be a large attendance at the special town meeting called for Thursday evening of this week. The importance of it is sufficient to warrant everyone interested in the financial affairs of the town being present. Having to do with the expenditure of much money, it should command more than passing attention.

It is likely that the debate will be lively, as both the issues and some things said that will hold close attention. On petition of C. D. Mowry and others, the town will be asked at this meeting to appropriate $1,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, to audit the accounts of all town officers over a period of five years past. Here is a resolution that has many supporters and many opponents. Incidentally, it may be stated that the town officials are interposing no objections at all to the auditing of the town's accounts. Some of them have said that they will welcome such an audit. Others are entirely neutral and care not a whit if the audit is for ten years.

One of the chief objections that will be raised against the proposed audit, if objections one hears of are voiced in the meeting, will be the expense, it being asserted that no competent public accountant can be hired to audit the books of the town for a period of five years past for $1,000, or anywhere near that sum. Those in favor of the proposal say the work can be done for that sum. And there you are.

Other matters to be taken up at the meeting include the petition of William M. Franklin and 36 others to see what action the town will take relative to improving the highway known as Broad street, and the petition of Nelson Gauthier and 20 other property taxpayers to see what action the town will take relative to accepting the layout of the street running east from Broad street and known as Denrison street and deeded to the town.

Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood on Mechanic street, funeral services for Sanford P. Chase were conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams of the Westfield Congregational church. The burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were John Spencer and John Law, both of Putnam; Cosmer A. Young, Abner S. Young, Thomas Bradford and William Bowen.

Sarah Himes, wife of Willie Bartlett, died early Sunday morning at their home in East Killingly. Mrs. Bartlett, who would be 78 May 25, had been ill about seven weeks.

Mrs. Bartlett was born in East Killingly and had spent the greater part of her long life there, though for a number of years resident in New York and New Jersey. She was a daughter of John L. and Ann Eliza Himes. Her father was the builder of the mill now operated by Davis and Brown and one of the best known residents who has lived in East Killingly.

Mrs. Bartlett leaves her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Ella N. Young of New York and Mrs. Mary Bartlett Hutchins of Providence, and a sister, Mrs. Henrietta Potter of Cranston, R. I.

Thomas Dunn, 66, a resident on the farm in the Cotton's bridge section of the town of Killingly for many years, died at his home there during the early hours of Saturday morning Mr. Dunn was a native of Chamble, P. Q., but had lived the greater part of his life in this country, for many years in the town of Killingly. Mr. Dunn had been in poor health for a number of years and seriously ill for many months. He was a brother of the late Rev. Terrence Dunn, for years pastor of St. Joseph's church at Dayville. Mr. Dunn leaves his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Brooks of Dayville; two daughters, Misses Alice and Marguerite, and a son, John, all at home. Miss Elizabeth Dunn of Montreal, formerly of Dayville and Danielson, is a sister.

Byron A. Larkin has welcomed to his farm during the past week, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Olmstead of Glen Ridge, New Jersey, and their small son, Allen. Mr. Olmstead, who is a member of the firm of Olmstead, Denison & Anthony, Personnel Specialists, 280 Broadway, New York city, has been obliged to come out into the country for his health. They will spend the summer with Mr Larkin. Mr. Olmstead's youth was spent on his father's farm in New York state. For a number of years, he was in Y. M C. A. work, at one time being secretary at Providence.

Miss Evelyn A. Salmon has taken up work in Upper Montclair, New Jersey.

Congregations were usually large at all the churches in Danielson Easter Sunday, when the services recalled the festival season and one of the happiest days in the church calendar. Easter concerts attracted many to the churches in the afternoon or early evening. Cloudy and rainy weather dampened the ardor of those who who dress in new raiment at Eastertime, otherwise the day was much as other Easter Sundays have been here.

The appearance here before Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., of Mrs. A. L. Peale of Norwich was of unusual interest. Mrs. Peale, a great-great-granddaughter of Nathan Hale, great patriot, was featured by an address in which she told of the home of her ancestors in Coventry

PUTNAM

Celia Smith, 19 daughter of Sam Smith, former proprietor of the City hotel and of Mrs. Lea Smith, who recently brought a civil action against the captain, sergeant and two patrolmen of the Putnam police force, alleging false imprisonment, was presented in the Putnam city court, Saturday morning and, after a trial that lasted all the morning, was found guilty of reckless driving. The court imposed a fine of $25 with costs taxed at $4 and suspended the sentence for six months, with the understanding that if no further complaint is made the case will be dismissed, upon the payment of the costs and the fine will be remitted.

From the arrest of Miss Smith on the evening of April 5th, after the car, owned by her father, had been searched, without result, for intoxicating liquor, grew the civil action instituted by Mrs. Lea Smith, who alleges that she was falsely imprisoned by the Putnam police officers. In her complaint Mrs. Smith alleges that the officers transported her to the police station and there detained her for an hour.

Miss Smith, being a minor, the woman probation officer, Miss Clara Larned, was appointed guardian ad litem by Judge Geissler and a plea of not guilty was entered. The defendant was represented by Attorney I. H. Miron.

Sergeant Laird, of the Putnam police force, the first witness, testified in substance that Celia Smith was driving the car. Her speed ranged from 28 to 42 miles an hour. She went for more than a quarter of a mile at the rate of better than 30 miles an hour. She passed the four corners at the Children's home at 28 miles an hour, and that, after she had slowed down. From Burrill's four corners to the Children's Home she was going better than 30 miles all the way. He got his figures from the speedometer of the car in which he was riding.

On cross examination, witness said that the only other car on the road was that of State Policeman Keith. He said that they were waiting and followed the Smith car for the purpose of serving a search warrant.

Patrolman Ryan testified that he was with the sergeant in his (the patrolman's) car, and that he believed the speedometer to be accurate. His car was standing with engine running and as soon as the Smith car went by they went after it. They went for more than a quarter of a mile at more than 30 miles an hour. He got up to 50 miles an hour in order to catch the Smith car. They were going 38 to 40 most of the way and 28 to 30 past the four corners at the Children's Home.

On cross examination, Ryan said that the car went better than 30 all the way from Burrill's four corners to the Children's Home. That they had a warrant to search the car

Officer Merrill Keith said he saw the Smith car with the police car following it as it neared the Children's Home and estimated that the cars were traveling at 35 miles.

Miss Smith took the stand in her own behalf. She said she saw the car parked near Burrill's four corners and saw it following. She drove from 25 to 28 miles an hour along the straight stretch and went a little faster as she approached the hill. Slowed down near the Children's Home and was going 28 miles just before she slowed down. Did not at any time go 30 miles an hour for more than a quarter of a mile. Officers said they had a warrant to search the machine and she thought it was a joke. Told them to go ahead. When they stopped the they did not say anything about speeding. She can not drive fast when her mother is with her. She did not know she was under arrest until the officers had finished searching the car. The speedometer had been fixed and was supposed to be accurate.

On cross examination, said she had a license since last May. Her mother said to the officer, "Do you want us to get sued" and he said he did. No objection was made to have the car searched.

Mollie Smith, sister of defendant, said she was sitting on the front seat. Saw car at Burrill's corner. Knew that it followed. Was looking at speedometer most of the time. It was almost impossible to go 42 miles an hour with three persons on front seat because one would lose control of the car. Was sure they did not go 30 miles an hour for over a quarter of a mile. Officers said they had a warrant to search the car, which they did. They told them to follow to the police station. When her sister asked what for, they told her for speeding.

Cross-examined, she said she was 16 years old and that her sister is teaching her to drive.

Celia Aframe, 18, the third occupant of the front seat, and Mrs. Lea Smith, mother of the defendant, who was on the back seat, corroborated the testimony of the former witnesses.

Oh, yes, we have some bananas! Oh yes, we have plenty of bananas; and they are being sold cheap for cash. Less than a cent per each banana. Which is to say that Putnam is in the throes of a banana war and for two bits a throw any person, of whatever age, nationality, creed or sex, may take home a bag containing 30 pieces of the fruit made famous through song. And the reason that bananas are being sold for a song in Putnam is that a new fruit concern opened its doors Good Friday and began dealing out bananas at two dozen for 35 cents. This at once created a fear market. The bottom fell out of the market and the old established dealers took the dare, so to speak, marshalled all the bunches of ripe bananas in their store rooms, removed them to the front of their stores or to the sidewalk display and the price went to thirty bananas for 25 cents.

While the fruit dealers are engaging in the war, some displaying signs stating that the "banana war is on" the public is taking advantage of the sudden drop in prices and stocking up for Sunday. Johnny and Willie and Sadie and Mary will be allowed to eat bananas to their hearts' content and to the detriment of their gastronomical organs and will only hope that the war will be long-drawn-out.

In all probability the war will not spread beyond the confines of Putnam. As far as can be learned the reduced prices has not affected the United Fruit company. It is still dealing out the fruit at prices that causes it to be sold at from 30 to 40 cents per dozen in most cities. For the instant, Putnam certainly has all markets of bananas skinned. It behooves some statistician to find out how many bananas were sold in Putnam Saturday and then to figure how far they would reach if laid end to end. All other topics have given way to that of the banana war of April 1924 and its possible continuance.

Lucius P. Merriam, Hector Duvert and Oscar Peterson, a committee of Putnam lodge of Elks, were in Boston, Friday, regarding the purchase of a memorial window for the lodge room.

Silas M. Wheelock and E. H. Burt were among Putnam business men in Boston, Friday.

Mrs. W. L. Taber, of Groton, is visiting Mrs. E. H. Burt, of Grove street and will spend a few days with Mrs. A. S. Macdonald, of Oak Hill, before returning home the middle of the week.

Mills in the city very generally closed down Thursday evening for the holiday, remaining closed until this (Monday) morning.

The special Easter churches in all the churches were well attended.

Miss Ruth Bartlett of the Boston Conservatory of Music, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett.

Henry Brousseau, student in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spent the holiday and week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brousseau.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walker and daughter, of Lowell, formerly of Putnam, are guests of friends in Putnam.

Town Tax Collector Irving H. Miron stated Saturday that taxes are being paid early and that already about a tenth of the amount has been collected.

Interest centers this (Monday) morning in the adjourned cases of Sam Smith, former landlord of the City hotel and Thomas Culley, who leased the hotel from Mr. Smith, scheduled for a hearing in the Putnam city court. Culley was arrested following a raid on the hotel on the evening of April 5th and Smith was arrested a few days later. Both are charged with violation of the liquor law. Since Attorney I. H. Miron withdrew from the Culley case Mr. Culley has retained Attorney Ernest C. Morse. Smith is represented by Attorney Miron.

Miss Myrtle Meyer of New York, a graduate nurse formerly of Brooklyn, is at Putnam hospital caring for a patient.

Trout fishermen who tried the brooks Saturday, after the downpour of Friday night, found them overflowed and all meadow sections looking much like miniature lakes.

Electric lights, shut off during Sunday afternoon, were missed by many on such a dark and gloomy day.

This (Monday) evening brings the first of the post-Lenten dances in Danielson and vicinity.

At St. James' church this (Easter Monday) morning Miss Blanche Bousquet and Norman Reeves are to be united in marriage.

Cloudy, cool weather with rain in the afternoon were big handicaps to the Easter parade of spring finery, but there were many new modes to be sent on the paraders.

Miss Margaret Hood visited on Easter day at Bloomfield, where here nephew, Francis McDonald, is a student for the priesthood in the missionary order of La Salette.

A rum-runner—Benjamin Goldblood of Worcester—was apprehended Saturday afternoon near Gibson's corner, on the Chepachet road out of Putnam by State Officer Edward Stephens of the Danielson barracks. Goldblood's machine was found to contain 108 gallons of what is alleged to be grain alcohol, in cans, and three dozen bottles of sealed liquor believed to be whiskey. Goldblood was held at the Putnam police station. Saturday evening at a session of the Putnam city court Goldblood pleaded guilty to six counts involving violations of the liquor law and was fined $1200 and costs, which was paid.

From Phoenix, Arizona, James MacFarland, formerly of Central Village, has sent The Bulletin copies of the daily papers published in that city. Mr. MacFarland was engaged here for several years as a painter.

Miss Helen Cronin of St. Vincent's college on the Hudson is spending the Easter holidays at her home in Danielson.

JEWETT CITY

Mrs. James McCoy, 61, dropped dead at Taft's Station Friday afternoon, and her body was taken to Grant's undertaking rooms, where it was not identified until nearly noon Saturday. Mrs. McCoy went to Taftville on the 11.03 a. m., trolley Friday, to spend the day with friends. After reading the account of the death in Saturday's paper, the Bulletin correspondent asked a neighbor of Mrs. Oliver Havey's, who owns the tenement Mr. and Mrs. McCoy occupied, to go and inquire of her, if Mrs. McCoy was at home. Mrs. Havey said she thought so, as she had heard sounds of pounding all the morning. In a few minutes, another call came from Deputy Sheriff John Dolan who had been asked by Undertaker Grant to locate the woman, asking the same question. Then Mrs. Havey went to the tenement and found Mr. McCoy laying on oilcloth. He said his wife went to Taftville and not returning he supposed she spent the night there. He had been too busy to look at the paper. The description of the unknown woman fitted his wife exactly. He went immediately to Taftville and identified the body. Mrs. McCoy, who was Eliza McGurney, of Norwich, before her marriage two years ago last New Year's Day, had won the highest regard of her neighbors here. Her death was a great shock to every one, as she has always been in the best of health. Besides her husband, one sister, Mrs. Nellie Flynn of Manchester, N. H., survives her.

As mentioned in the Fifty Years Ago column in Saturday's Bulletin, a delegation fro mSomerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M., came to Jewett City fifty years ago to be present at the dedication of the new lodge rooms in the Hutchins and Stead building. Two years later in the spring of 1876 this building was burned and Mt. Vernon, lost all her valuable paraphernalia. After that the lodge was obliged to use temporary quarters in the old stone Slater grist mill.

E. J. DeVan of Brooklyn, N. Y., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jodoin's.

Easter Sunday dawned with the most beautiful sunlight, for those who arose early enough to see it. In a short time, however, cloudiness and rain followed. This did not affect the attendance at the churches, for the congregations were very large. In all the churches, the floral decorations of Easter lilies, daffodils, hyacinths, carnations, tulips, potted plants, ferns and palms were attractively arranged and the special music was greatly enjoyed.

In addition to the music by the children's choir at St. Mary's church, the senior choir sang: Vidi Aquam, Kyrie, Gloria, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei by J. F. Bateman: offertory, Ave Maria, Jerry Morey; Haec Dies, Bordese.

A sunrise C. E. service led by Priscilla Scites, at 7 o'clock, at the Baptist church, was attended by forty persons. Deacon J. E. Phillips, Miss Ida J. Foster, and Mrs. G. H. Prior. Mrs. A. M. Brown, and Florence Quinle yhad been assigned subjects and questions on Easter, on which they spoke. Rev. A. H. Clement and Rev. J. W. Payne also spoke on the subject. Doris Carpenter and Ellen Prior sang a duet, Verna Tarbox a solo, and Lauretta Alley played a violin solo, accompanied by Iola Shaw of Norwich. A baptismal service followed, when Rev. E. E. Scates immersed Mrs. Jager and her daughter Jasie, Mrs. Merwyn Paquette and Doris Bliven. Robert Wilbur and Edwin M. Gray were baptised Saturday evening. In the evening, the new stereoptican was used for the first time, showing splendid views.

Postmaster B. F. Pine reports handling a larger number of incoming and outgoing Easter cards than ever before. The number totalled close to 5,000.

Miss Iola Shaw of Norwich spent the week end at the Baptist parsonage.

Miss [illegible] of East Great [illegible] spent the week end at the home of his parents.

Miss Violet Harris had Miss Dorothy Church as a guest over Sunday.

Mrs. Carle Muron was among those who served at the meeting of the Ladies' Society at Mrs. Walter Richardson's. One of the numbers on the programme which was much enjoyed was a violin solo by Lauretta Alley, accompanied by Winifred Scates.

Mrs. E. E. Scates and son Robert are spending ten days in Somersworth, N. H., and Billerica, Mass.

John LaFostaige of Boston spent Easter with his parents.

William C. Jaffers is the first to report cowslips for dinner.

Mrs. Agatha Burdick of Woonsocket, is a guest at Miss M. A. Burdick's.

The meeting of the Women Voters' League will be this (Monday) evening in the town hall. Know your town questions are to be discussed and a paper written by Daniel L. Phillips on the history of the town will be read. These meetings are public.

Many people living in Jewett City recall the time when the steamer City of Lawrence used to take the local Sunday schools on excursions down the Thames and on to Watch Hill, and some of the more fearless even went the limit to Block Island. One of the incidents of these trips always seemed a great wonder to the local boys. Away up on the east bank of the river, a little below Allyn's Point, a woman used to come out of a house and wave her apron, when the steamer went churning by. The captain at the wheel would see her and, then blow two blasts on the steamer's great whistle in answer to the friendly salute.

Down at the foot of Beile street the other day an exchange of pleasantries between a Jewett City man and the engine driver of a passing train called to mind these river courtesies of other days.

The man is employed at one of the manufacturing concerns of the burness meets many railroad men of the usual friendly sort. As the cars approached, the local man waved his hat at the passing train. The engine driver recognizing his friend, promptly reached up and blew a couple of long toots of salutation.

NIANTIC

The East Lyme League of Women Voters is to meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the hall room of the Morton house.

When Niantic lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., meets this week and confers the third degree on two candidates a supper will be served.

Bay View lodge, No. 120, A. F. and A. M., met Saturday evening. District Deputy David Seaman of Stonington was present.

An Old Fashioned dance in the ballroom of the Morton House is planned for the benefit of the Niantic Fire Department Fund.

There is to be a dance at Flanders soon for the benefit of St. Mathias' chapel.

Mrs. H. L. Smith has returned to her home in the village after visiting relatives in Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Burns of Meriden spent the week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. A. R. Dewolf.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield J. Manwaring, have returned to their home in Pine Grove after a trip to Cassadaga, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer W. Dorman of Hartford were recent guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dorman in the Pines.

William Goodrich of Hartford spent the week-end at his Pine Grove summer home.

Mrs. Lucy Johnson of Gardner, Mass. spent the week end with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Curtiss.

Miss Phillis Beckwith has returned from a motor trip to Colchester.

Wilson Emholz, a student at Yale Divinity school, New Haven sang at the Congregational church last Sunday at the morning servmice. The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. Robert Badgett, also a student at Yale Divinity school.

Mrs. Nellie U. Nettleton of Clinton spent the week-end with her daughter Mrs. Fred J. Howard. Mrs. Howard has also been entertaining for a few days, Miss Genevieve Whipple of Hartford.

Robert Clark is ill with pneumonia at the home of Elmer Lewis.

Edward Rand of New York is spending several days with his brother, Walter Johnson.

The Harmony club and Gates Rebekah Sewing society met recently with Mrs. Julia Rathbun.

OCCUM AND VERSAILLES

Fifteen hundred seven-inch brook trout were received Friday morning by the Occum Fish and Gun club and were placed in the brooks controlled by the club. The trout were from the hatcheries at Kingston, R. I.

Mrs. Anna Beswick, of Philadelphia, confessed bigamist and mother of 18 children, was held in $5,000 bail after she waived a hearing on charges of taining money under false pretenses and by forgery.

The kitchen is cool because the fire is not going except when you are getting meals

Why keep a fire going when you are not cooking?

A COOL kitchen in hot weather is worth almost anything to a woman. You can have a cool kitchen and at an actual saving of expense. The Florence Oil Range cuts fuel bills sharply, and the comfort you gain is beyond price.

The heat in a Florence Range is intense, but it goes into the cooking, not into the metal of the stove or out into the room. Anything that you cook on a coal or gas stove can be cooked quickly and well on a Florence Range. When you are through cooking, you just turn out the flame.

The Big Burner. The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is most wanted.

Burns cheap fuel

The fuel used—the vapor from kerosene—is cheap. Merely touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. In a few moments you have a clear blue flame close up under the pot. You can regulate the heat to any degree desired. It is not a wick flame, such as you see in the ordinary oil lamp.

The Florence means a clean kitchen, with no ashes or soot—just quick heat when you want it and only when you want it.

A thing of beauty

Porcelain enamel, black frame and nickel trimmings make the Florence Range an object of beauty worthy of any kitchen. It is built of the finest and strongest materials and will last for years.

There are certain exclusive features of the Florence that you will appreciate instantly when you examine this modern stove in the store.

It is sold by department, furniture, and hardware stores. Go in and see for yourself how the Florence works.

Thermal Leveler. Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on uneven floor.

AUTOS AT FIRES.

Running to a fire is not a modern practice. It is an old custom. There was the time when everyone who was able ran to fires. They do it now in small places, and they do it because of the eagerness to be present during excitement and to render any assistance necessary. Running to fires was part of the life of the volunteer firemen, and it was natural that it should encourage others to do likewise. The larger the community the greater the number able to respond, but unless the fire is in a locality having particular personal interest the number responding is limited.

But in these days of the automobile the restrictions surrounding the running to fires is to a large extent eliminated. The first doesn't have to be in the immediate neighborhood for those with cars to hustle out to witness the spectacle. A fire attracts today quite the same as it ever did and it is less difficult to get to it. Not only does it mean that the fire apparatus in many instances are bothered by the string of cars speeding to the same point, but there is also serious difficulty experienced in fighting fires because of the great number of cars that are parked in the immediate vicinity.

Meriden is not the only city that has experienced trouble of this character, but it is one of the cities which has seen the wisdom of adopting a city ordinance prohibiting the parking of automobiles within a block of a fire. There are sufficient laws to deal with the driver who blocks the hydrant or who interferes with the fighting of fires, but the problem of preventing the area needed by firemen in the discharge of their duty from becoming congested has called for additional restrictions.

Not many people are anxious for fires but there are many of them who want to witness them if there are going to be any, or when the firemen are called out. There should be no disposition, however, to interfere with the quick response or the free work of the fire departments.

ENFORCING IMMIGRATION LAW.

Under what may be regarded as a liberal immigration law, in comparison with the provisions and restrictions of that which has been passed by the two houses of congress, there have come into the country many more than the quotas established. There is as much disrespect for the immigration law as there is for other laws and the number of bootleg immigrants would undoubtedly be surprising.

The smuggling of those who want to get into the country, but who cannot because of various restrictions, is profitable. Therefore there are those who are ready and anxious to participate in the landing of immigrants on these shores in violation of the law. Those who cannot get in legitimately are willing to take the chance and to pay the price, and we have a long seaboard and boundaries to aid them. Likewise there are provisions, or lack of provisions, in our laws which give encouragement to the landing of aliens, or to their remaining here after they manage to get in.

At the present time it is possible for crews of foreign vessels to get ashore and desert their ships without hindrance. Many foreign seamen become such for the opportunity it presents to overcome the immigration laws.

In connection with the opposition to the "gentlemen's agreement" between this country and Japan attention has been called to the many Japanese who come in through Mexico and Canada in violation of the restrictions and the agreement. This may be due to the difficulties involved in guarding the border against such acts, but it is unfortunate that stricter means are not employed to keep tabs on the aliens after they arrive. If all immigrants were obliged to register each year it would be impossible for those who duck the restrictions of the immigration law to avoid detection. It furnishes the means of keeping tabs on all those who come in legally and illegally. It would keep out those who as smuggled goods must be regarded as undesirable and it would help in the enforcement of an important law. It is one of those things that even the proposed law appears to have disregarded.

THE FORD OFFER.

In the course of the investigations underway in Washington not much has been heard of the Muscle Shoals matter. It has been getting a certain amount of attention, been showing slow progress and has advanced to the point where the senate committee on agriculture has considered the advisability of calling Henry Ford before it to make an explanation of the bid that he made.

The house has voted to let the water power project go to the automobile manufacturer at the price which he offered. It is not the only bid that had been made, and it is claimed that it is not the highest bid offered, but from such investigations as have been made it is the one in which the most confidence seems to be placed, regardless of what is considered a ridiculously low price.

It is a case where the government has spent a lot of money. It was a war project and into it was put something like $100,000,000, and the job was not completed. The government can throw up its hands and do nothing more about it. That isn't probable, or wise. It can sell it at public sale, get rid of it for a song or operate it itself.

Government operation of the plant will not gain favor. Such operation does not inspire confidence. The utilization of such a big power plant is desirable. It is a valuable proposition standing as it does today, but it is desirable that the government should get somewhere near its worth or as good a figure as possible. It is important that it should be used for something.

Mr. Ford has made a strong appeal because of his announced intention to develop cheap power and to make cheap fertilizer, and because it is believed he has the necessary financial backing to swing the proposition.

Naturally there is some hesitancy about giving sanction to anything which may in the future prove such a great bonanza that it can be regarded as a grab. That is one of the reasons why congress is going slow with the Ford offer. There is no question, however, that the demand for cheap power and fertilizer is strongly urging it.

PLENTY TO D NOW.

Authorities and investigators may differ quite the same as doctors, and they do. There are those who have pointed out the highly detrimental effects in this country from the use of habit forming drugs. There are others who maintain that there is no increase in the number of addicts. Who is right?

The University of Southern California has made an investigation and reports that it finds little evidence to support the statement that there has been a marked increase, that drug addiction is not the cause of criminality and that there is no causative relationship between prohibition of the traffic of alcoholic beverages and the presumed increase in narcotic addiction.

This was presumably a survey which was based upon the connection of drugs with prohibition. It does not substantiate the claim that the dry law has driven the former drinkers to drugs. The Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union claims that in this state there has been no unusual rise in the use of narcotic drugs in the past few years.

Whether there is an increase in the use of dope since prohibition, there can be no question but what the drug addiction before prohibition was deplorable and there is nothing to show that it has undergone any decrease. The comparison of the use of drugs in this and other countries as shown by the report that Italy uses one grain per capita a year, Germany two, France three, England four, and the United States 16 speaks for itself.

This indicates a condition which is serious enough whether it has undergone an increase in the past few years. It is bad enough without any increase, and when it is considered that there is so much illicit traffic in the drugs it shows there is plenty to do to fight established conditions. We do not need to wait until a sudden increase can be disclosed before waging a real fight against it.

MUNICIPAL AUTOS.

Sooner or later the abuse of public office is brought to light. Just at the present time the city of Philadelphia is being asked to authorize the erection of a municipal garage that the automobile service of the city may be put upon a systematic and business-like basis.

It is of course the old story of waste and misuse of the automobile service maintained for city officials. In every city there are certain officials for whom transportation has to be provided in order that they may render the best service to the city. In the days when horses were employed their use was probably restricted to city business. There were no joy rides, no family parties and no exorbitant garage expenses. With the coming of the automobile the situation has been different. The auto never gets tired. It is used for business and then for pleasure and the city foots the bills.

Philadelphia is not the first city to realize how much it might cut its expenses, reduce the upkeep and lengthen the life of its automobile equipment by maintaining a municipal garage and restricting its services to public work. It is only a good business move when it seeks to do this. It is not the first to seek to block such waste and it will not be the last. Philadelphia is headed in the right direction.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

New points of interest these days are the score boards and the box scores.

The man on the corner says: There's no use to expect spring without the April showers.

It doesn't take long to find that some of the first spring plowing is done on the golf courses.

One of the gratifying things about the new Greek republic is that it is being inaugurated without wholesale slaughter.

We are expecting most any day to have the precocious gardener tell us that the peas are breaking through the ground.

Congress seems determined to do just what the country doesn't want in connection with the Mellon tax plan and the bonus.

Six rum craft are reported bearing off the coast, but that gives no assurance that they can satisfy the great American thirst.

It will not take long now, with the use of plenty of enthusiasm, to remove the winter's accumulation of rust from the rake, the spade and the hoe.

Trying to run the heater just enough to keep the chill off requires about as much attention as keeping the radiators sizzling during zero weather.

Now that Vanderlip is the man who claims responsibility for Heney there's greater certainty than ever that the Californian is wanted to put extra stress upon idle gossip.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Never use a large quantity of flavorings of any kind in baking. It spoils the delicacy of the cake or dessert.

When using dried or evaporated fruit in baking, a pinch of salt should be added, as this brings back the flavor of the fresh fruit. The same rule governs canned fruits.

Instead of mixing cocoa with boiling water, before putting it into the cocoa pot, try mixing it with an equal amount of granulated sugar and then pouring it into the boiling water in the pot, stirring all the while. If you do this there will be no lumps.

When poaching eggs try adding a teaspoon of vinegar to the water. Vinegar helps to set the white and keeps it from spreading.

As potatoes get old add a little sugar to the water in which they are boiled. They will taste as good as new ones.

Flower vases with long necks may be cleaned by filling them with hot water and small pieces of newspaper. Shake vigorously and the paper will remove all the dust and sediment.

To make a new hole in a sewing machine belt, heat a hatpin very hot and it will pierce the hole like magic.

To remove paper that has stuck to a polished surface, soften it with a little olive oil, then rub with a soft cloth. The paper will come off without leaving a mark.

Add olive oil to putty to keep it from hardening.

To preserve the colors, wash an American flag in water to which alum has been added. Hang it while wet upon the flagpole as it will dry more quickly and keep its shape better.

Fried bananas may be served very acceptably with beef or with fried ham.

Fruit should be well floured and added last to the cake batter or it will sink to the bottom of the loaf.

When piano keys are yellow, rub them with a little lemon juice and whiting, then remove this with a damp cloth.

HOW TO USE MELTED ICE CREAM

This can be transformed into a dessert much like Bavarian cream by allowing one teaspoon of powdered gelatin to each cup of melted ice cream of ordinary richness. Put the melted ice cream in a double boiler or in a pan set in hot water, and, when lukewarm, add the gelatin previously softened in a little cold water and dissolved in hot water. When thoroughly mixed with the warm cream, turn into a wet mold and set aside to become firm. Beating while stiffening gives a more spongy consistency. Where the ice cream is of several colors add sufficient melted chocolate to gain a one-color effect. Serve with whipped or plain cream.

CARE OF HARNESS.

To keep the harness supple there is nothing to equal Neatsfoot oil, with a little lampblack added for black harness, and pure Neatsfoot oil for brown harness. Applied after the harness has been thoroughly cleaned of all mud and dirt by brush and sponge or soft soap and hot water, this recipe is invaluable.

RUBBER BANDS.

Have a supply of rubber bands in the drawer of your kitchen table or in some place where you can get at them readily as they are much more convenient than string for fastening small bundles.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

When there are children in the house, always keep the medicine cupboard locked and the key on a nail or hook out of their reach.

A coiffure adopted by young girls and young matrons who are not yet bobbed is simplicity itself. The hair is drawn loosely back from the face, prettily waved, and gathered in a loose knot at the neck.

Children should not be given rich desserts. Either fruit or milky custards or puddings, very lightly sweetened, are the best choice.

Hard work will not spoil the hands if this simple rule is followed: After having them in suds rinse the hands in clean water and apply a cut lemon or a few drops of vinegar to kill the alkali in the soap. After a few minutes rinse the hands again and rub in well cold cream or petroleum ointment.

It is a simple matter to keep the lips in good condition. In cold or changeable weather a lip salve is a necessity and most lips also need some sort of softening lotion all the year round. A pleasant salve that can be scented to suit milady's own preference may be made of two ounces oil of sweet almonds, one-half ounce each of white wax and spermaceti and one ounce of rosewater. Melt the first three ingredients in a double boiler, remove from the fire and beat in the rosewater and a few drops of any desired perfume.

CLOTHES ECONOMY.

The most valuable secret of clothes economy is to give the clothes a rest every once in a while. Even steel, if it is constantly used, loses its resistance—gets what is called "metal fatigue." Wool fibers are easily pressed out of shape and worn out by continuous use, whereas they recover their strength if left to rest. It is therefore important that a man have at least two suits for regular wear.

Two suits worn alternately will outwear three suits worn continuously until they are worn out, one after the other. This does not mean a "Sunday suit"—the day of the "Sunday suit" is past. It means that a man saves many dollars in clothes by having at least two everyday suits.

And, of course, no woman needs to be told about the economy of quality. The good fabric, the careful cutting and sewing, the fine trimmings—all these are cheapest in the long run.

USE OF WALL PAPER.

All fashions come in cycles. It is interesting to know that the most conservative interior decorators who have been prescribing plain painted walls for the last few years are again using wall papers very largely.

REMOVE STAIN.

To remove iodine or grease stains, apply alcohol.

When salts of lemon fails to remove iron rust, dip in oxalic acid and rinse well in borax water.

To remove peach or pear stain leave over night on snow. Dip in oxalic acid and rinse well in borax or ammonia water.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Linings to the new wraps are frequently embroidered or are braided or banded with contrasting colors.

Silver embroidery is used on some of the latest French models put on in a way to simulate silver lace.

A long panel from the collar line to the hem in the back of this season's frock is one way of preserving the long, slender line.

Chinese bracelets are made of slender links of enamel with squares in which characteristic Chinese motifs are set at intervals.

The newest shoes show less cut-out trimming than last season, but many applique trimmings of novelty leather.

Black patent leather shoes have buckles of perforated black leather placed on top of gilt leather that is also perforated.

The economical woman buys one satin foundation slip over which she may have any number of different overdresses and draperies.

This season the most practical and untrimmed frocks will be seen on the street and almost every frock needs its own particular wrap.

Some of the newest hats have very high crowns and practically no brims. They are quite ideal for the girl who would add an inch or so to her height.

A very attractive nightgown is of pink voile trimmed with double hemstitching and small figures of lavender voile appliqued on the front and the sleeve caps.

Very luxurious corset and brassiere combinations for the figure that requires little support are of a heavy grade of Italian silk combined with lace and without stays.

Walking sticks of ebony with white figures stitched upon them or with carved animal tops are carried by young women wearing the severely tailored suits.

White fabric shoes with white leather trimmings, will be worn extensively by women when the time for white shoes arrives. Speaking about white shoes bring about memories of reports current to the effect that white kid leather will be the most popular of all white materials for footwear.

SEMI-TAILORED GOWN.

In the wake of the mannish little tailleur that seems to have taken the fashion world by storm come many attractive one-piece dresses that are of the semi-tailored variety. These dresses are a happy compromise between the strictly mannish suit and the more formal dress that is so often developed in black satin. In this type of tailored frock one is quite apt to run across touches of colored braid or bands of the material of the dress used as trimming. Particularly new is the use of white pique with these dresses. It forms collars and cuffs and little waistcoats and is sometimes edged with braid. In fact, pique is enjoying a most merited return to favor this spring.

RIBBONS AND GLOVES.

Ribbons are used quite extensively on the new spring gloves. A pair that is receiving much favorable comment is of beige suede with cuffs edged with a narrow band of silk ribbon, printed with some bright, intricate pattern. Paisley is being used freely for this purpose as are also motifs from China, India, Egypt and the Scandinavian countries.

One of the leading French manufacturers has introduced a novelty that may be expected to develop quite a following here. He made his gloves of white mocha with short, flaring cuffs to which he attached squares of bright plaid ribbons to make a wide, though very flappy, gauntlet cuff.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

A pad of carpet to fit a treadle of your sewing machine will be found a great comfort when much stitching has to be done.

A small floor cushion covered with needlework in a fascinating old-fashioned design is low enough and small enough to be of much service.

In removing basting threads cut them every few inches and do not pull a very long basting thread out at one time, as you are very apt to leave holes in the goods.

A new use has been found for the old-fashioned beaded squares. A beautiful pillow seen recently was covered with old blue taffeta and bound with black. In the center of the pillow was placed a square woven of blue, rose and green beads.

If you are sewing on white goods which you particularly want to keep clean, powder your hands occasionally with fuller's earth or any other white powder. On the hottest day your fingers will not soil the work if you follow this plan.

CARING FOR THE SUIT CASE.

A good leather suit case should last a lifetime, but they rarely do because people take so little care of them. Dust and stains are allowed to accumulate, and the leather is never given a preserving dressing of any kind, with the result that it perishes and rots.

The leather should be washed with warm soapy water and a sponge, and when it is clean, set on one side to dry. This should be done in a cool place with a current of air. The warmth of sun or fire is not good for leather and should be avoided.

Next give the leather a dressing of one part sweet oil and four parts benzine. This is an excellent preparation and will preserve the elasticity of the leather if it is applied at regular intervals. The oil darkens it a little, but this soon dries in, and the difference is hardly noticeable.

To give a brilliant and lasting polish to leather, the following is an excellent recipe: To 6 ounces of malt vinegar add 2 1-2 ounces of water, half an ounce of glue, a quarter dram of soft soap, and the same quantity of isinglass. Mix vinegar and water together first, place over a gentle heat and dissolve it in the glue. Add the other ingredients, boil for about 15 minutes and then strain off. It can be colored with annatto or turmeric, respectively, according to whether the leather to be polished is red, brown or yellowish.

A very small amount of polish need be used, and hard rubbing will result in a brilliant shine.

HARMONIOUS COLORS.

Radiator coils and risers are necessary and, because of their utility, they occupy a place of prominence in every room. At best, they are not things of beauty. Why custom has accentuated their homeliness and prominence by coating them with silver or bronze paint no one knows, but it is high time this practice stopped. The use of such paints seriously reduce heating efficiency. Repaint them to harmonize with room color schemes before starting the heating system.

OLD GLOVES USEFUL.

Pretty baby booties can be made from the tops of long white kid gloves which are past wearing. Patterns can be bought at any pattern shop. Sew the shoe together with colored rope silk in ornamental stitches and make little holes around the ankle, through which draw a colored ribbon.

CONCERNING WOMEN

At the age of 39 years, Mrs. Alice Martin of Pittsfield, Ill., has the distinction of being the youngest grandmother in many states.

Mrs. Fernando Garcia, formerly Miss Dorothy Hencier of St. Paul, has been elected head of the new Republic in Nicaragua.

Mrs. Gertrude Schiltz, who has been guarding a grade crossing in Chester, Pa., for the past seven years, has never had a wreck at her post.

Buxton, England, has a woman weather forecaster, Miss Edna Pilkington, recently appointed city meteorologist, being the first of her sex to hold that position.

EGG SHELLS

Wash egg with a damp cloth when you get them from the grocer. Then the shells may be saved to clear the coffee.

TESTING COFFEE

To test your coffee pour about a tablespoon of ground coffee in a cup of cold water. If the coffee floats and colors the water very slowly it is pure, but if any of the coffee sinks to the bottom or stains the water quickly, some adulterant is present.

RECIPES

Sponge Molasses Gingerbread: Beat together 1-4 cup of lard and 1-2 cup of granulated sugar which has been filled up with molasses; put 1-4 cup of butter in a cup and fill this cup up with boiling water, then add it to the bowl. Stir in 1 1-2 cups of flour which have been sifted with 1 teaspoon each of soda and ginger. Mix well, then turn into a buttered pan and bake 35 minutes in a good oven.

Sour Milk Gingerbread: Dissolve 1 3-4 teaspoons of soda in 1 cup of sour milk and mix this with 1 cup molasses, two one-third cups of flour, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1-2 teaspoon salt, and 1-4 cup of melted butter. Pour into a buttered shallow pan and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tolstoy

Mr. Editor: I also have read Kreutzer Sonata and many more of the great works of Count Lyof Tolstoy, and if his Sonata does not compare favorably with some parts of the Bible then I cannot read. Count Tolstoy is gaining day by day in all parts of the world. Of course I mean among broad minded thinking people; the others do not matter.

In regard to mederalism, while I do not for a moment wish to enter into any discussion along mederalism and fundamentalist lines, I would like to ask John Troland, who appears to be well posted on scriptural matters, how many times the original Bible has been revised?

I would also like to ask him why the Bible I studied when a boy contained the books called Apocraphy and why they do not appear in Bibles today?

I would also like to ask him if the same moral reasons that banned Tolstoy's great book in Russia would not have banned the song of Solomon, parts of the book of Deuteronomy, and other parts of the scripture I can mention?

Tolstoy's books were not banned for moral reasons and John Troland knows it. They were banned by the Czar because the enlightenment contained in them was dangerous to the Czar and his rule.

Does John Troland put the moral status of old Russia above United States, Great Britain and the rest of Europe? None of them banned Tolstoy's works.

Tolstoy's whole life was devoted to mankind. John Troland probably doesn't understand that kind of religion. Prating about the Bible, arguing about modern and way back yonder methods is of course better from a religious standpoint—God save us from such religion—than giving three fortunes to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, heal the sick and in every possible way lessen suffering. That was Tolstoy's way, no honest man ever denied it. The little girl that brought a bunch of clover blossoms to place on Tolstoy's casket because he mended her broken headed doll, tells a far greater story than all the religious, so called, critics can tell of Tolstoy's life and death.

FRICK WENT BACK TO MAKE GOOD

So poor were the parents of Henry C. Frick, that, when he was six years old, he started to work on his father's farm at West Overton, Pa., and could go to school only in winter.

When 14, he had to clerk in the country store. At 16, he walked Pittsburgh's streets for days until he found an opening as clerk in a retail store, offering $6 a week. In another shop, at $8, he became so ill he had to go back home.

Recovering, he was given a chance by his grandfather, to be bookkeeper and handy-man in the mill and distillery in the Connelsville region.

Borrowing money, he and two others started Frick & Company, owners of 50 coke ovens, he being manager but still holding his position as bookkeeper.

The coke business grew until the company had 200 ovens, then the 1873 panic forced him to buy out his struggling partners. When he purchased competitors' plants, while coke was selling below cost of production, people said that "the young fellow living over the drug store must be crazy."

Before he was 30 years old, he was a millionaire employing 11,000 people in plants producing 1,000,000 tons of coke a month.

As official head of the Carnegie steel business he turned chaos into success. Then Carnegie got into trouble with labor and went to Scotland, leaving Frick the center of the great Homestead strike troubles. During them, his favorite daughter died, an archist shot and stabbed him, and while he was recovering, he buried another child.

The strike won, and the business built from $2,000,000 to $40,000,000 profits a year, he had to fight in court efforts to force him to sell his holdings below value. Frick won and later was a director in the United States Steel Corporation that included the Carnegie plants.

At the time of his death Frick was one of the richest men in the country and noted for his many benefactions and for his love for art.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

LURISTAN

"News dispatches telling that Tehran troops have subdued the Lurs of Luristan open a vista of history which is almost as long and fully as alluring as the revelations of Tutankhamen's tomb," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Persia itself is the only land of Old Testament times which retains its identity, name and nationality to this day, and the Lurs are believed to be the aborigines of this ancient country.

"The laws of the Medes and Persians have become a synonym of immutability; Persia itself, almost railroadless, primitive and isolated is essentially unchanged. And the remote Luristan province, on its western border, corrugated by mountain ranges, is one of the most backward and unaltered regions of all Persia.

"Luristan nominally accepted Mahammedanism, but the Lurs pay scant attention to the Koran or to the Prophet. Their religion embraces a philosophical belief in reincarnation and the practice of ancient heathen rites.

"The Elam of the Book of Esther included Luristan, and the ruins of Susa, within the borders of the present province yielded to excavators of recent years specimens of pottery bearing geometrical designs, reminders that some of our mathematics, especially our algebra, came from Persia.

"Some of our finest fruits and flowers, much of our jewelry, and the wine which no longer is ours are Persian gifts to our civilization. A Persian legend attributes the discovery of wine to a queen's toothache.

"A shah had placed grapes in a jar to preserve them and they fermented, so the story runs. Thereupon His Majesty marked the jars 'poison.' After sleepless nights with a throbbing molar the Queen decided to end her misery and swallowed a liberal portion of the 'poison.'

"She fell into a deep sleep, and when she awakened the pain had gone! Therefore, the native will tell you, the Persian word for wine to this day means 'sweet poison.'

"A superstitious general might hesitate to invade Luristan. There Alexander the Great made his last campaign, offering up the enemy as human sacrifices to the spirit of his friend, Hephaestion. There, too, Antiochus IV attempted to loot the temples, was driven to the 'shameful retreat' mentioned in Maccabees, and shortly after that experience he lost his reason.

"Aside from its gifts of peaches, oranges, spinach and polo to western peoples, Persia has for America five modern points of contact. An American colony of experts is trying to put the country on a sounder economic basis, and oil bids fair to overshadow all other products of the ancient kingdom.

"Neither of these contacts is new, however, for as early as the reign of Shah Abbas, in the sixteenth century, Persia engaged British military men to train her army. And Herodotus made the first report on her oil, when he wrote:

"'Near Ardericca is a well which produces three different substances, for asphalt, salt and oil are drawn up from it in the following manner: It is raised by a balance beam to which instead of a bucket half a wine skin is attached. Having dipped down with this, a man raises it and pours the contents into a reservoir. It is then poured from this into another and assumes the different forms; the asphalt and the salt immediately become solid, but the oil they collect and the Persians call it Rhaudinance. It is black and emits a strong oder.'"

Stories That Recall Others

Something to Drown It

A young fellow walked in to a studio the other day for some vocal lessons. The folks at home thought he had a voice and all that he needed was training. The teacher asked him to sing.

Without accompaniment he started on that popular air of several months ago, "Yes, We Have No Bananas." And the bananas were higher than nature of a musician intended them to be. The teacher giggled in a guarded way.

"I need a piano to guide my voice," the youth suggested.

"Yes, or a bass drum to drown it," the teacher added on the quiet.

Grandfather's Stomach

Vivian, age three, was busily engaged in putting her dolls to bed. Her grandfather who had been having trouble with his stomach entered the room and mournfully said: "I just don't know what is the matter with me; my stomach is all torn to pieces."

Vivian thought for a moment, then ran down stairs to her aunt and said: "Hasn't grandpa got any stomach?"

Her aunt, very much surprised at the question said: "Why sure he has a stomach."

Vivian said: "Why, I just heard him say it was all torn up."

BOY SCOUT PET SHOW MADE LIVELY ATTRACTION

The Scout Pet Show, held at 32 Broadway Saturday afternoon and evening proved successful from the standpoint of exhibits and attendance of patrons. This year real pets were exhibited and not many wild animals. Chief among the exhibits were cats, poultry, dogs and a few other specialties. Although Scouts were out advertising the pet show, the dogs and roosters on the inside advertised the show quite well.

Some of the exhibits were very fine specimens and many of them prize winners in other shows. The Smart Shop, formerly occupied by Louis Bruette, made an excellent place for the exhibition and many people stopped in on their way from the movies while others out doing their Easter shopping viewed the pets.

An amusing incident was the escape of a wild duck exhibited by one of the boys in the early morning. It flew over the buildings on Broadway and was rounded up by Alfred Hanson and a crowd of boys on Franklin street. It received a second and also a special prize.

Scouts took good care of their pets providing them with food and water, and exemplified the 8th Scout law, "A Scout is Kind". Several hundred people viewed the pets Saturday afternoon and evening and even with the small admission charged a good sum was taken in which will be contributed to the Camp Tippecan fund.

Following was the list of entries and prizes:

Cats

Joe Bruso, cats and kittens, special; Hoyt Taylor, coon cats, special; Sharrod Ingalls, maltese cat, first; Harry Rodgers, cat, first; Fred Benton, Jr., maltese cat, first; A. LaPierre, cat and kittens, first; Mr. Fielding, cat and kittens, special.

Poultry

OBITUARY

Mary Rebecca Mahoney.

On Saturday morning, April 19th, occurred the death of Mary Rebecca Mahoney, the 11 year old daughter of Jeremiah J. and Carrie H. Ladd Mahoney of 6 Tyler avenue, this city. Rebecca was born in North Franklin April 29, 1913 and began her school life there, later moving to this city. She attended school here and at the time of her death was a member of the parochial school. Her standing was always high and in her studies and music she gave promise of high attainment. Of exceptionally sweet disposition and gentle manner she was a favorite with teachers and school mates. The sadness of her passing away after only a few days of illness is felt by a large circle of friends. She is survived by her parents, two brothers, Harold Francis, and Jeremiah Jr., and two sisters, Catherine and Sadie Teresa.

Mrs. John H. Teft.

Jeanette G. Groves, widow of John H. Teft, passed away Saturday night at 11.45 o'clock at her home, No. 1 Wightman avenue, Norwich Town, following an illness of about five weeks of grip.

Mrs. Teft was born in Blackstone, Mass., August 1, 1858, the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Groves and spent her girlhood days in that city. Later with her parents she moved to Jewett City, where about 56 years ago she was united in marriage with John H. Teft. She continued to reside there for several years but in 1910 moved to Norwich where she had since made her home. Mr. Teft died in this city about eight years ago.

Mrs. Teft was a member of the Methodist church of Norwich Town and of the Dorcas society of that church. She took an active interest in church work as long as health permitted and had many friends who will learn of her death with profound sorrow.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Gertrude Teft of Norwich Town, one brother, Davir Groves of New Bedford, Mass., and several nieces and nephews.

Frederick C. Blanchard.

The death of Frederick C. Blanchard occurred early Saturday morning at his home at 141 Franklin street following a short illness.

Mr. Blanchard was born in Bozrah, June 6, 1881, the son of Fred C. Blanchard and Nellie Gay Blanchard. He received his early education in the schools in Norwich and mastered the trade of machinist. He followed his trade for a number of years in local mills, but at one time was a conductor for the Connecticut company. At the time of his death he was employed by the American Woolen company.

Fraternally Mr. Blanchard was a member of Uncas lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., and was vice grand of the lodge. He was also a member of Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, and of Buckingham Council, No. 16, Junior Order of American Mechanics. Mr. Blanchard served during the Spanish-American war in Company C., and was a corporal in the old State Guard.

On October 29, 1904 Mr. Blanchard was united in marriage with ... ine Mitterer, the service taking place in the Second Congregational church. He was a member of the Broadway Congregational church and was a faithful member.

Mr. Blanchard was a kind and loving husband and father, finding his chief delight in his home life. His many friends learned of his death with sorrow and sympathy is expressed for his family in their bereavement.

Surviving are his wife and five children, Raymond, Harold, Gladys, Alice and Dorothy Blanchard, all of this city.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Alfred Davies.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alfred Davies were held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the parlors of Church & Allen with relatives and friends attending. The service was conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church.

This (Monday) morning at 8.20 o'clock the body will be sent by train to New Boston, New Hampshire, where burial will take place in New Boston cemetery.

Archibald Mitchell, Jr.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, many from out of town, present Sunday afternoon when at 3 o'clock funeral services for Archibald Mitchell Jr., were held from the home of his mother, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell of 315 Broadway. Among those present were employees of The Porteous & Mitchell company who attended in a body, many business acquaintances of Mr. Mitchell and prominent Masons from several cities. The house was filled with many beautiful floral pieces sent in memory of a loved one who has passed beyond.

The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, who also read the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery.

The honorary bearers, all active or honorary 33d degree Masons, were Charles M. Gerdenier of Bridgeport, active, E. Allen Bidwell, Carlton H. Stevens, New Haven, George A. Koppler, G. Frank Olmstead, East Hartford; William W. Frayer, Hartford; Manton N. Coombs, Providence; Joseph G. Abbott, Providence, and Arthur S. Vaughn, Providence, honorary 33d degree Masons.

The active bearers were E. Lilton Jordan, Providence; Frederick W. Cary, Rollin C. Jones, J. T. Hynd, John F. Rogers, Harry E. Prentice, Frederick Fleming, all of Norwich, and Fred Smith of Newton, Mass.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

Calvin L. Rawson.

Funeral services for Calvin L. Rawson were held at the home in North Woodstock, on Tuesday, April 15, at 2 o'clock, in the afternoon. It was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in Woodstock, showing the love and esteem in which he was held by both relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry Baker and were both impressive and comforting. The bearers were cousins, Willis and George Torrey, George Baker, Eugene Beaudry and John Bucklin.

Relatives were present from Providence, Pawtucket, Central Village, Putnam and Whitingville, Mass. The floral tributes were many and most beautiful. Burial was in the quiet cemetery at North Woodstock, which he loved and which was his especial request.

He rounded out a full life and was the last of his race.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, NORWICH TOWN

NORWICH TOWN CHURCH RECEIVES GREATEST ADDITION IN HISTORY

Easter Sunday proved a gala day for the First Congregational church at Norwich Town green when sixty-three new members were received into the fellowship of the church, forty-seven on confession of faith in Christ, and sixteen by letter from other churches. Of this number twenty-four were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. Because detained by illness, etc., several others who were enrolled to unite at this time were unable to do so. This, however, was the largest class to be received into this church at any one time during its history since 1660, and the size of the congregation has been surpassed by none, the church auditorium being filled to its capacity, with several sitting in the gallery. Included in the congregation were several from out of town who came home to spend Easter, also a number of visitors from other churches.

Arranged about the platform on each side of the pulpit were potted Easter lilies, hyacinths, daffodils and spiraea, effectively arranged among showering palms. These flowers were the gift of Mrs. Maurice Wallen of Hartford, formerly of Norwich Town, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Julia Lathrop Potter, a valued and loved member of the parish, who for many years followed out this custom at Easter time. The decorating was under the direction of Miss Rose K. Durr, chairman of the flower committee.

A specially arranged musical programme by Organist Herbert L. Yerrington, included two anthems by a double mixed quartette, Open the Gates of the Temple, by Knapp; and Lift Your Glad Voices in Triumph on High, by Candlyn. The members of the quartette were Miss Bernice Underwood and Miss Lucile D. Bailey, sopranos; Miss Louise P. Bailey and Miss Florence L. Sterry, altos; Frank E. Sterry and Dr. Charles H. Lumb, tenors; Clyde M. Beebe and Harold C. Bailey of Hartford, basses. As an offertory solo Miss Underwood gave in fine voice Ye Bells of Easter Day, by Dressler, with violin obligato by Theodore Sterry, accompanied by Organist Yerrington. Hymns given were Crown Him With Many Crowns, Rise, Glorious Conquerer, Rise, and Hark! Hark! My Soul!

In his Easter sermon, which was brief because of so many details in connection with his usual event, Rev. Mr. Bailey, spoke impressively from Matthew 28:5, And the angel answered and said unto the women, fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. The theme was—Our Lesser Hopes Lost in Our Larger Hopes.

Following the sermon Rev. Mr. Bailey administered the rite of baptism to Lloyd Steadman Nelson, little son of Ronald and Marion Rogers Nelson. Rev. Mr. Bailey then baptised the following twenty-four candidates: Mrs. Florence Schaeffer, Charles Charlton Sterry, Burton Warren Jopson, Irving Earl Browning, Henry William Vergason, Doris Lucy Browning, Lucile Margaret Browning, Charlotte Justine Bellows, Dorothy Reynolds Heath, Grace Mildred Wheeler, Evelyn Irene Eccleston, John Francis Hunter, Marion Elizabeth Hunter, Ruth Elizabeth Eccleston, Dorothy Lillian Waterman, Irving Coburn Manning, Mrs. Ruth Avery House, Mrs. Florence Lillian Ross, Albie Loomis Hale, Mrs. Ruby Louise Jordon, Robert Singleton Stott Jr., Mrs. Evelyn Isadore Santo, Mrs. Mabel A. Stott, and Mrs. Nellie May Eccleston.

Besides these, others who were received on confession and by letter included the following: Reginald Dwight Avery, Mrs. Fannie Chapman, from the Second Congregational church, New London; Miss Jennie L. Lovett from the church in Plainfield; Miss Marjory Ruth Merry, from Central Baptist church, Norwich; Ronald Nelson, from St. Paul's church, Charleston, S. C.; George J. Raymond, from the church in Mansfield; Frederick Guy Rose, Edwin R. Scott, from the Preston City Congregational church. Miss Dorothy Scott, from Park Congregational church; Miss Dorothy Scott, from Park Congregational church, Norwich; Miss Mabelle J. Scott, from Preston City Congregational church; Joseph Schwenk, Charles Ernest Schwenk, Mrs. Louise Catherine Schwenk, Victoria Marion St. Martin, Robert S. Stott, Mrs. Rosalia J. Vergason, from the First M. E. church, Norwich Town; Bessie Manning Whaley, Mrs. Joseph Stott.

In extending the right hand of fellowship, Rev. Mr. Bailey was assisted by Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery, Deacons William R. Lathrop, Henry T. Frasier, John L. Browning and several of the workers on the visitation campaign as follows: Charles L. Learned, Miss Gertrude Avery, Miss Susan Hyde, Miss Jennie Case, Robert Avery, Arthur Avery, Mrs. Burton Jopson and Thomas H. Bacheler.

The board of ushers efficiently managed the seating of the large congregation also the placing of the candidates in the locations assigned to them, as well as saw to it that every one was presented one of the elaborate programmes. These included George F. Hyde, director, Arthur Avery, Kenneth Skinner, Miss Ida Beebe, Miss Dorothy Buckley and Miss Ethel Whaley. Others on the board are Miss Marjory Merry, Philip B. Whaley and Ralph H. Marsh. The deacons also assisted. The celebration of the Lord's Supper was observed at the close of the service with the Rev. Mr. Bailey officiating.

Revivals at the Church.

The Church was organized in 1660 and incorporated in 1890.

A sketch of revival in gatherings during the past years is given as follows:

This church shared in the general revival of religion which pervaded the state in 1740-1742. In the early summer of 1741 the pastor, Rev. Mr. Lord, sent for the Rev. Jonathan Parson, of Lyme, to come and "see the work of the Lord" already in progress, and to give him assistance. He preached to a large assembly on the evening of June 9, from Psalms 119:59-60, "They gave very solemn attention, and there was a concern apparent by tears and sighs in almost every corner of the house." The next day he preached another sermon, of which, he says, the visible effects were not so great as the first. And yet he adds: "I observed a great flocking of the people not only to hear the Word, but to ask pastor for advice." After visiting Stonington, Groton, and some other parishes in prosecution of his work, he returned to Norwich and spent the Sabbath with Mr. Lord, June 14. He describes the assembly as "very attentive and deeply affected. The concern I some and the delight of others was manifest in their countenances; and by conversing with many afterwards, I was satisfied they were under the influence of God's Holy Spirit. And so from time to time, upon opportunities with that people, I believe that Mr. Lord has the blessing of many souls turned to righteousness, among them a considerable number of old Christians, and many newly born, that are feeding upon the sincere milk of the Word and growign up in Christ."

As the fruit of this revival seventy-two were added to the church, or, including those received in 1743, eighty-six.

Forty-one were gathered into the church in 1808 and 1810, indicating that it participated in the general refreshing with which God visited New England in the beginning of the present century.

The close of Dr. Strong's ministry, in connection with that of Mr. Everest, was characterized by a general work of grace in the years 1830 and 1831. During those two years 105 were admitted to the church, 102 by profession and three by letter.

In 1837 there was a limited work of grace which added twenty-two to the church, six of them by letter.

In 1842 was a general revival, but most prevalent among the young. There were added to the church that year 83 members, 78 by profession and five by letter.

In 1857 was a quiet work of grace which added 34 to the church, twenty (mostly young people) by profession and fourteen by letter.

In the close of the year 1866, and the beginning of 1867, was a most precious and extensive work of God's grace, which added much to the strength of the church.

Late in the autumn of 1866 a growing desire was manifested for the revival of God's work, accompanied by an unwonted spirit of prayer. Early in December a series of religious meetings, extending through four days, was conducted by the Rev. John D. Potter with most satisfactory results. A large number of all ages, from childhood to fourscore years, were wrought upon by the Spirit of God, many of whom were truly converted to Christ. ... revolution was accomplished in the parish which constrained beholders to exclaim "What hath God wrought?" There were added to the church as the fruit of this revival 75, 49 of them by profession. A majority of these accessions were heads of families. More than thirty family altars were erected within the parish, and the church was lifted to a higher plane of Christian experience.

Another season of special religious interest began in the fall of 1884, increased in interest during the week of prayer, and culminated in a two weeks' series of meetings in March, 1885, conducted by the Rev. H. H. Wells, D. D., of Cleveland, O. As a result fifty-three were added to the church, forty-one by profession.

During the pastorate of the Rev. G. A. Northrop, 72 were added to the church on confession and 77 by letter. While Rev. George H. Ewing was pastor, 43 came on confession and 36 by letter.

The present pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, has received 34 members on confession and 28 by letter, previous to this Easter Sunday.

SNAPPING TURTLE APPEARS AFTER TEN YEARS

A snapping turtle that was marked and released in 1914 by the Davis boys on the Corning road reappeared and was found by Kimball Harvey with the Davis boys Sunday about 100 feet away from the same spot in the brook where the turtle was found ten years ago. When the Davis boys found the turtle ten years ago in the brook they brought it to the farmhouse half a mile away and it was there released after their father had carved the date into the under side of the shell. This figure was plainly to be seen on the turtle found Sunday. The turtle had grown but little in the decade, now measuring about 5 1-2 inches broad by 7 inches long.

Another turtle that the boys kept a record on for several years was one that was caught and marked in 1910 and 1913 and again in 1914 which was the last time that it has been seen.

Short Session of Common Pleas

The session of the court of common pleas here was not lengthy Saturday morning. Judge Charles B. Waller was prepared to hear the case of the Wales Adding Machine Co., vs the United Metal Mfg. Co., but this case was not ready for trial. The second case, that of John J. Shugrue vs Caroline E. Haefner, also scheduled for the day, was settled out of court. The court than went out until today (Monday) when two cases are up for trial, Sallas & Co., vs Nick Golub, et al., and Robert Goldstein vs the Town of Salem.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK TO GUARD AGAINST FIRES

By proclamation of President Calvin Coolidge, the week of April 21 to 27 has been named as Fire Prevention Week in the states of the Union and all citizens are asked to give thought to the protection of the forests from fire.

The Norwich fire warden, F. A. Benton, issues some timely warnings and advice as to precautions to prevent forest fires as follows:

Lumber that sells for $60 in Seattle, sells for $100 in New England. Connecticut pays an annual ... bill on lumber amounting to $3,000,000. The lack of native lumber permits these excessive prices. Connecticut could raise much of its lumber as the state is admirably adapted for the growth of timber. Much idle land could be put to this use. Many stands of second growth hard-wood, by proper protection and care, would become commercially valuable almost in one generation.

So much for the production of lumber, but more important is conservation and fire protection.

Precautions

1. One of the first precautions this spring is to burn rubbish and brush before the ground becomes dry. Avoid the fire hazard which runs from April 1st to June 1st, and burn brush now.

2. In clearing the slash or brush when timber is cut, care should be taken to collect it in piles separated somewhat from each other. Do not leave brush littering the ground and covering its whole surface.

3. When burning brush choose a day when there is little or no wind, or when the prevailing wind will blow sparks away from the forest.

4. Don't start a fire and leave it. Watch it all the time. When you have finished your burning, be sure you have extinguished the fire.

5. Don't throw away lighted cigars and cigarette stubs or matches. This is criminal negligence.

6. When you discover a brush or grass fire, report it at once to the forest fire warden. Put it out yourself if you can, but report it anyhow. The ease with which a fire may be controlled depends upon the quickness with which the warden is notified.

7. Campers and hunters be sure your fire is out before you leave it.

8. Never start a brush fire without first obtaining a fire permit from the warden or deputy warden. There are two reasons for this: first, the law imposes a fine ... party violating this requirement and second, if the warden has granted a permit and the fire then gets beyond control, he is in a position to locate the fire quickly and mobilize a force to fight it. A penalty of $200 and six months imprisonment may be imposed for violation of the permit law.

9. In putting out fires saving, wet bags, brooms and shovels are the best utensils where water cannot be secured. Back fires should not be set. More damage is done by setting back fires than good accomplished. The most effective manner to fight a fire that is creeping along the ground dry leaves is to make a brush broom or besom, and sweep the leaves back, making a strip of bare ground in the path of the fire. One will be surprised at the ease with which a fire can be controlled when this is done.

10. Under no circumstances meddle with a state fire warning notice posted by the warden. Lastly, kindly cooperate with the fire warden in helping him to fight fires. In a scattered community an adequate force is difficult to assemble. Your timely help may prevent much loss.

During the past year the work of the Norwich Boy Scouts has been noteworthy. Scouts were called out five times to fight forest fires in Norwichtown and vicinity, and succeeded in each instance in extinguishing them after hours of hard work. In fact some of our scouts have been veteran fire fighters with two years experience.

Norwich Council has 20 Forest Guides whose duties are to post notices, patrol hazardous sections, and secure cooperation in preventing and suppressing forest fires. As their work during the spring shows merit, 20 additional Forest Guides will be appointed by the Scout Executive from the first and second class scouts, making a total of 40 for the Norwich Council.

The preservation and conservation of Connecticut's forests will save lumber and fire-wood and indirectly the water supply. This indirect result cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, but its value is enormous in comfort and happiness to man and all living creatures. The homes of birds and small animals, the fertility of the soil, and the beautiful foliage of grass and trees, all these are saved for man's delectation.

For emergency call, Fire Warden F. A. Benton, Telephone 1107; deputies: Lucius Davis, Preston, Telephone 917-2; F. H. Wyant, Norwich Town, Telephone 2160; A. W. Lillibridge, Scotland Road, Telephone 1712. Lawrence Browning, Maple Street, Phone 361-12.

FOUND DEAD IN BED ON NORTH THAMES ST.

George Brown, colored, was found dead in his bed at his home, No. 18 North Thames street, early Saturday evening by Police Officer John Donovan. Mr. Brown, who was an elderly man, had not been in good health for some time but was able to be up and around. Friday he was out of the house and talked with some of his neighbors.

He did not make his appearance Saturday and as his family was on a visit out of town neighbors, thinking that he might be ill in the house started an investigation. Officer Donovan made his way into the house and conducted an investigation. Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve was notified and conducted an investigation.

Mr. Brown is survived by a brother Asa Brown, in Central Village and other relatives. He formerly lived in Central Village where he had been employed.

RECKLESS DRIVING CASE CONTINUED IN COURT

The case of Frank F. Rogers of Dayville, charged with reckless driving, came up in the city court Saturday morning but was continued until this Monday morning to allow Mrs. Rogers time to secure counsel. He was placed under a bond of $100 for his appearance in court. The case grew out of an accident on North Main street Friday afternoon when the car driven by Mr. Rogers collided with one driven by Leo Banley of Taftville. Willis Turner of Dayville, who was riding with Mr. Rogers was injured and taken to the Backus hospital where it was found that his injuries were not serious.

One case of intoxication was also heard by the court and the man discharged upon payment of $10.

ATTENDANCE PRIZES GIVEN AT EASTER FESTIVAL

The Eastern festival for the church school of Trinity church was held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a choral service of Easter music that was of much interest. The address to the school was by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown and lay reader S. Hussey Read assisted in the service.

Prizes for perfect attendance for a year were presented to Frank Hill, Dorothy Armstrong and Viola Armstrong.

NEW PASTOR AT MT. CALVARY BAPTIST

Easter services at Mt. Calvary Baptist church on High street were conducted Sunday under the direction of Rev. G. G. McGee, B. Th., the new pastor who took charge on the first of April. He came here from a pastorate at Gordonsville, Va.

Rev. Mr. McGee was born in 1894 at Saratoga, Miss. After attending schools there he entered Jackson college at Jackson, Miss., in the fall of

REV. G. G. McGEE

1910, finishing from there in 1917. He was then in Hartford, this state, until the fall of 1918, when he entered Union university, Richmond, Va., where he did his seminary work, finishing there in 1921, with the degree of B. Th.

He joined the Union Baptist church Hartford, in 1917 under Dr. S. J. Fisher, the pastor, and was licensed to preach in January, 1918.

While attending school at Richmond, he was called to the pastorate of the Pleasant Grove Baptist church, Gordonsville, Va., in March 1919. In his pastoral charge and in philanthropic work he made great success and he resigned to accept the call to Mr. Calvary church in this city. He comes to this city with fine recommendations from the Virginia church and the several communities in which he has resided.

WAS JEWETT CITY WOMAN WHO DIED SUDDENLY

The woman who dropped dead Friday afternoon at Taft's station was identified Saturday as Mrs. James McCoy of Jewett City, a former resident of Greeneville. Her husband came here from Jewett City to make the identification as told in the Jewett City news column.

OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR

Charged with having made a sale of a bottle of "white mule" Sunday afternoon at his home on High street, Frank Wilbur was arrested by Officers O'Neil and Dombrowski. He was unable to get bail and remained locked up over Sunday night for appearance in court Monday morning.

Assisted Flanders Baptist Choir

Mrs. H. L. Richardson of 625 Main street this city, assisted the choir of Flanders Baptist church Sunday and also rendered solos in connection with the Easter Cantata.

Prayers for Judge Webb

In the Catholic churches of Norwich Sunday, the congregations were asked to pray for the repose of the soul of Judge James H. Webb of New Haven, who died Saturday night.

ROUND THE WORLD AIR SQUADRON AT KANATAK

Pearl Creek Dome, Kanatak, April 20—(By wireless to the A. P. via Bremerton, Wash.)—Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the United States army around the world air squadron who was forced down here enroute to Chignix from Seward Alaska, Tuesday, will start for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island, Monday morning to rejoin his three companions, if weather conditions are favorable, he announced here tonight.

Exceptional speed was made today under trying conditions by Major Martin, his mechanician, Sergeant Alva Harvey, Superintendent Reed of the Standard Oil plant here and a few natives on the replacement of the motor in the flag plane Seattle.

The engine arrived early today on the United States coast guard cutter Algonquin from Dutch Harbor, 520 miles southwest of Kanatak, after the vessel steamed at top speed all night.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG UNDERWENT OPERATION

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 20.—Clara Kimball Young, actress, who underwent an operation in a local hospital last night for the removal of an abdominal tumor, was resting easily tonight and her ultimate recovery is looked for, according to Dr. W. T. Weaver, her physician. Dr. Weaver said Miss Young rallied "splendidly" from the effects of the anaesthetic and regained complete consciousness early this morning. Her condition, however, he said, was still serious and it will be a month before she will be able to leave the hospital for her home in Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Young was stricken suddenly ill on the stage of a local theatre on Tuesday night. The operation was decided on after she suffered a relapse late yesterday afternoon.

WESTERLY WINS FIRST GAME FROM RANGERS IN BULLETIN CUP SERIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 20.—The Westerly Soccer team captured the first game of the series for the Norwich Bulletin cup at Caulkins field this afternoon from the New London Rangers by a score of 4 to 0. The Westerly team play in general was by far superior to the playing of the Rangers. The local team seemed to be helpless before the onslaughts of the visitors and it was an easy matter for the Westerly team to send the ball through the goal four times.

Showing a brand of soccer that the Rangers have yet to stack up against, the Westerly outfit did not let up in their play for any length of time. The visitors showed a skillful offensive and defensive game throughout, keeping the ball in their possession almost continuously. Westerly played a clean game from the very whistle and were a fine combination in action. It was a delight to see them work the ball down the field to get within kicking distance of the Rangers' goal.

The Westerly goal making came after a series of well planned attacks that had the Rangers guessing at all times. Try as the locals would to break up the offensive drive of the Rhode Island team down the field, netted them little or nothing for their efforts. The passing of the Westerly team was exceptionally good. In this department of play the Rangers were hopelessly outclassed.

The Rangers have a weak left wing that will have to be strengthened if the locals expect to make some headway against some of the other soccer teams that will oppose them this season. The goal keeper position must also be strengthened if the Rangers expect to hold the opponent teams from registering scores.

There were several accidents during the game that made it a draggy affair. For the Rangers, Mawson was knocked unconscious for five minutes, when he was kicked on the point of the jaw by Waddington, when these players were playing the ball. Crawford was dazed after he slipped and fell to the ground. Six of the Westerly players were slightly injured during the process of the game.

The two teams lined up as follows:

| Westerly. | | Rangers |
|---|---|---|
| Billings | Goal | Greig |
| Waddington | Right Back | Soderstedt |
| Tetlow | Left Back | McFarlane |
| Tindle | Right Halfback | Orkney |
| Wolstencroft | Center Halfback | Thompson |
| Darlington | Left Halfback | McGowan |
| Cruickshank | Outside Right | Ainsworth |
| T. Weall | Inside Right | Myrehle |
| C. Weall | Center Forward | Carlaw |
| E. Weall | Inside Left | Crawford |

Referee, James Chaplin. Linesmen, Hopwood for Westerly; Anderson for New London.

DUGAS AND FILLMORE MEET AT AETNA ALLEYS TONIGHT

One of the best matches of the Eastern Connecticut individual bowling tournament takes place this evening at the Aetna alleys when Chip Dugas of Taftville and Roy Fillmore of Norwich meet. This game will practically decide the winner of the tournament as Dugas leads the league with a small margin over Fillmore who is the runner up. The rest of the bowlers are strung out behind the two leaders with practically no chance of winning out so tonight's contest will be a fight for the championship title between these two pin smashers.

Fillmore has been rolling in fine form and Dugas has been equally as good, faring better in some of his matches than Fillmore. There is no love lost between the Taftville roller and the local boy and tonight's match will see them at it in their best style. Of course local bowling fans are pinning their faith on Fillmore to win out while the Taftville contingent is strong for Dugas. It is reported that quite a bit of money has been placed on this match.

DE MAR SETS NEW MARATHON RECORDS

Boston, April 19.—(By The A. P.)—The Olympic and American marathon records were broken today when Clarence H. De Mar of Melrose raced in far ahead of the field and won the twenty-eighth American marathon conducted by the Boston Athletic association. He covered the Olympic distance of 26 miles, 385 yards, from Hopkinton to Boston, in 2 hours, 29 minutes, 40 1-5 seconds. This was the final test for candidates for the American Olympic marathon team.

The Olympic record of 2:32:35 4-5 was made by Hannes Kolehmainen at Antwerp, in 1920. Frank T. Zuna of Newark, N. J., held the previous American record of 2:41:33 3-5, which he made in winning the Baltimore marathon last month. Zuna, who also won the recent Detroit marathon, started in today's race under the colors of the Millrose A. C., New York. Nine miles from the finish he had worked up into fourth place, but on the heartbreaking Newton hills stomach trouble forced him to drop out.

The ease with which De Mar won is shown by the fact that he finished more than five minutes ahead of Charles L. ("Chuck") Mellor, Illinois A. C., Chicago, who was second. It was De Mar's fourth victory in this event. He won previously in 1911, 1922 and 1923. No other runner has won the American marathon more than twice.

The times of the first eleven men to finish were:

1. Clarence H. De Mar, Melrose, 2:29:40 1-5.
2. Charles L. Mellor, Chicago, 2:35:04 2-5.
3. William J. Churchill, Olympic club, San Francisco, 2:37:52.
4. Carl W. A. Linder, Boston A. A., 2:40:12 3-5.
5. Victor MacAuley, Windsor, N. S., 2:40:34 2-5.
6. Ralph A. Williams, Quincy, 2:41:33 3-5.
7. William J. Kennedy, Cynwyd A. C., Port Chester, N. Y., 2:43:03.
8. Louis Tikkanen, Finnish-American A. C., New York, 2:46:21.
9. Spero N. Meragesa, Millrose A. A., New York, 2:50:49.
10. M. J. Dwyer, Mohawk A. C., New York, 2:50:51.

ALL-COLLEGIANS LOSE WEIRD GAME TO RIVERVIEW TEAM

Playing under the most unfavorable baseball weather conditions Saturday afternoon the Riverview club of the Norwich State hospital won a listless and uninteresting game from Bill McKnight's All-Collegians, 12 to 5. The game was close until the last of the fourth inning when the Collegians completely blew up; booting the, missing judge fly-balls, and making wild heaves and, in fact, doing everything that a good baseball team should not. In this inning the hospital team scored 9 runs before a single put out was made.

The game started off well neither team being able to score although both had a man as far as second. In the second inning the Collegians fell victims to McCarthy's curves and three were mowed down on strikes. The Riverview boys scored two runs in their half of the second but the Collegians evened up matters in the first half of the third. With every thing even then came the fatefull fourth inning when the college boys fell by the wayside, the strain being too much. Lemieux who pitched for the All-Collegians was every bit as good as McCarthy but his support was terrible. Sauk was the heavy hitter for the Riverview club getting two doubles and a triple in four times at bat.

TWENTY-THREE HOME RUN HITS IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Chicago, April 20.—Fifteen National league players knocked out home runs during the first week of the new season while eight American league players circled the bases. Babe Ruth, home run king, slipped by on a narrow squeeze when he drove the ball over the right field fence in today's game with Washington.

Two runs is the highest tally any player has scored, three of these being in the American league and two in the National.

Harry Heilmann, hard hitting Detroit Tiger, began early this season with two home runs the first week, Jacobsen and McManus, both of the St. Louis Browns, also had two. In the National, Groh, New York, and Grantham, Chicago, were the only players making two in the first week.

The following in the American league made one home run: Blue, Detroit; E. Collins, Chicago; Witt, New York; Ruth, New York; Sheely, Chicago.

SUB BASE SCHOOL TEAM NOSE OUT THE TABS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 20.— A last minute rally sent the Tabs baseball team of this city down to a defeat at the hands of the Submarine School at the Submarine Base Saturday afternoon. The Tabs took the lead in the fourth inning by scoring five runs but could not hold it. Gradually but surely the Sub School men gained this advantage back. The final score was 7 to 6 in the subs' favor.

For the first three innings the game blossomed into a tight contest. Dickson for the Tabs and Mancini for the Sub School twirled good ball in these early innings but weakened in the fourth and were more or less weakened for the rest of the contest.

Score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Tabs | 0 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 1 | 0 | — | 6 |
| Sub School | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 2 | — | 7 |

Batteries for Tabs: Dickson and Doulon, Donovan. For the Sub School, Mancini and Clark.

BRITISH GOLFERS TRIM TWO AMERICAN CHAMPS

Philadelphia, April 20.—Arthur G. Havers, and James Okanden, British professionals today defeated Max Marston, national amateur champion and Joe Kirkwood, professional, 6 up and 4 to play in a 36 hole best ball exhibition golf match at the Cedarbrook club.

Announcement was made tonight that the first half of the 72-hole exhibition match between Havers, who holds the British open title, and Gene Sarasen, American professional champion, would be played at the Cedarbrook club next Saturday. The second half will be played the next day at the West Chester-Biltmore club at Rye, N. Y.

Sarasen defeated Havers 6 up and 4 to play in a 72-hole exhibition in California last January.

CARDS RALLY IN NINTH AND NOSE OUT PIRATES

St. Louis, April 20.—A ninth inning rally in the second game of the series brought the St. Louis Cardinals out of their losing streak to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 2 in a closely played game here today. None were out when the cards brought in the winning score. The score.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Nationals

Which method of throwing is better for an infielder — underhand or overhand?

Underhand throwing is a great asset for an infielder to possess as it saves time. An infielder doesn't have to waste time in straightening up to get the ball away in using this method, as he does when he makes an overhand throw. It takes lots of practice to make the underhand throw perfectly.

It's a most valuable asset for a second baseman because he has so many short throws to make. This fast underhand toss gains him a lot of decisions at first not otherwise possible and it, in turn, makes many doubles sure. The shortstop uses the overhand throw more than any other infielder. Any infielder can perfect himself in throwing underhand by continuous practice, and I'd advise all youngsters playing the infield to work at this stunt until they master it. Saving time is one of the biggest problems in making plays and you can't go far in baseball until you know how to do this.

DAUSS HOLDS BROWNS TO THREE SCATTERED HITS

Detroit, April 20. — George Dauss held St. Louis to three scattered hits today and Detroit won, 9 to 2. Pruett was effective for the first four innings, but lost control in the fifth and Detroit scored seven runs. Vangilder relieved him here. Dauss struck out seven men. Score:

GIANTS' VICTORY DUE TO GROH'S HOME RUN

New York, April 20. — The Giants won their fourth successive victory here today by a score of 3 to 1. Huntzinger, former University of Pennsylvania hurler, pitched well up to the ninth inning, when Nehf relieved him. Groh's home run with Southworth on base won the game. Boston scored its run in the first when Tierney and McInnis singled after Cunningham reached base on an error.

RAIN HALTS GAME WITH PHILLIES AHEAD

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 20. — Rain broke up the Brooklyn-Philadelphia game today after six innings when the score was 4-1 in favor of Philadelphia, disappointing 18,000 spectators. Four hits in the fourth inning, including a homer by Williams, who led off, and double by Henline, gave the Phillies their lead. Ring was in great form except in the fourth inning when two singles and a force cost a run. It was the first scheduled game in Brooklyn, but the official opening will come next Thursday, with the Giants.

REDS' BATTING RALLY IN FIFTH BEATS CUBS

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—Cincinnati bunched four hits off Aldridge in the fifth inning and won today's game, 5 to 2. Grantham's hitting included a double, a triple and a home run into the rightfield bleachers, the first ball ever hit on the fly into that section in a championship contest.

Friberg, Stats and Luque were put out of the game for disputing decisions by Umpires Pirman and Powell. Roush strained his side while at bat in the eighth inning, and gave way to Harper. Score:

SQUEEZE PLAY WINS FOR THE WHITE SOX

Chicago, April 20.—A successfully executed squeeze play by Ray Schalk and Bill Barrett pushed over the deciding run which gave Chicago a five to four victory over Cleveland today, before a crowd of more than 23,000. Joe Shaute, Cleveland, pitched in fine form for the Indians, until the eighth when he weakened, and was replaced by Smith. In this inning Speaker was guilty of a two base error when he dropped Kamm's fly.

FRENCH OLYMPIC TRYOUTS ARE NOT IMPRESSIVE

Paris, Apr. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—That France will have to rely upon her old mainstays in order to make a showing in the athletic competitions in the Olympic games seemed indicated today by the results of the first great pre-Olympic elimination contests held in the Colombes stadium. The contest apparently demonstrated that France has little chance to make a good showing in either track or field events. A number of much-heralded provincial phenomenons "blew up." No man worthy of figuring. Among the point winners in the Olympic games in July was uncovered.

Andre Mourlon was the best in the sprints, doing the hundred metres in 11 seconds flat. One French record was broken during the contest. This was for the hammer throw, but the mark was only 36 metres 27 centimeters (about 119 feet), which was sixteen metres short of the Olympic record.

BULKELEY HAS NO DIFFICULTY IN OVERWHELMING PLAINFIELD HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 20.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team made its 1924 debut at Morgan park Saturday afternoon against Plainfield High. Plainfield was no match for the Orange and Black and was forced to accept a 1 to 3 defeat, before a large opening day crowd. Of the fifteen hits that the Bulkeley batsmen found Belknap, the rival hurler, for, two were good for home runs and four for doubles. The final accounting in the hitting found Bulkeley gaining 25 bases for their hits. An unusual large crowd was present to view the team that sent Chapman Tech down to a defeat a week ago. A majority of the fans expected the team from up the river to repeat, but whatever black mark the Plainfield team put against New London teams was erased when the Bulkeley team players dented the home plate a total of 17 times.

From the very first inning the Bulkeley team showed an amelioration over their game with the Engineers on Tuesday. The infield at all times gave a snappy exhibition of finer defense work. Whatever uprising the Plainfield nine attempted was at once quelled by a fancy piece of fielding that kept the crowd on edge throughout. The outfield, besides being composed of three sluggers was equally as strong on the defense. The three members of the outer garden were at all times agile. Captain Wally Rice was continually in the limelight, either by making good catches of fly balls or pasting the pill where the Plainfield players were not.

However, the man that really stands out as the important cog of the Bulkeley machine and deserves much credit for the way he handled himself, was the twirling ace of the Bulkeley nine—Tillie Daniels. Daniels had the Plainfield batters at his mercy from the very first inning until the final out was made. At the termination of the contest he was as fresh as the time he first entered the game. He allowed the hard hitting Plainfield batsmen but five hits and wiffed a total of thirteen of the opposing batsmen. This performance could have probably been improved upon if the day had been more suitable to baseball.

Belknap for Plainfield, had little or nothing on the ball. He was pretty lucky to weather the impending onslaught as long as he did. He was never a puzzle from the very start and the Bulkeley batsmen had an easy time hitting the ball safe. He received poor support from his team mates at times, that made matters worse for him. It was just a case of time when the Bulkeley batsmen would land upon his offerings and send him to cover. There was nobody to relieve him and he was allowed to stay the route.

Captain Wally Rice, Booth and Barney Hutchinson led the Bulkeley attack with three hits each. Rice and Booth each had home runs to show for their day's work, while Hutchinson had two doubles and a single. Every member of the Bulkeley team connected at least once or more times except Tillie Daniels—but then pitchers are not supposed to hit.

Bulkeley did not lose any time in harvesting runs. After Plainfield was retired in the first inning, Bulkeley found Belknap for three hits and a like amount of runs. Hutchinson led off with a double along the third base foul line. Tuttle was given a base on balls. Rice had some friends out in center field and kept waving his bat to them. He fanned. Mansfield was given the second base on balls in this inning

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES EACH DAY

Speak a gentle, kindly word.
With a goodly smile,
Is an animal or bird—
It is worth your while!
—Bert Morehouse in Our Dumb Animals.

THE FIRST ROBIN

A robin all ruffled by the wind,
Such a miserable, desolate thing,
Has perched himself high in the maple tree;
He's fairly bursting his throat to sing.

A song as cheery and warm and bright
As his own red breast, and light and gay
As the lift and flirt of his eager wings
As he says good-by and flies away.

The wind is east and the sky is dark;
It looks like snow at the hill's far edge.
But I have forgotten all of this—
I'm planning the box for my window ledge—

And what shall I plant and where and when;
What's the best place for the mignonette;
Shall I buy hollyhock seed this year?
Don't dare to say—it is winter yet!

The calendar knows that it is spring,
And I know so and robin does, too;
So there's a majority—three to one—
Nobody listens at all to you!
Abigail Cresson in New York Herald

NOBILITY

True worth is in being, not seeming;
In doing each day that goes by.
Some little good—not in the dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.
For whatever men say in blindness,
And spite of fancies of youth,
There is nothing so kindly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our price as we measure;
We cannot do wrong and feel right;
Nor can we give pain and gain pleasure,
For justice avenges each slight.
The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bush for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And straight for the children of men.

We cannot make bargains for blisses,
Nor catch them like fishes in nets.
And sometimes the things our life misses
Help more than the things which it gets.
For good lieth not in pursuing,
Nor gaining of great nor of smalls
But just in the doing—and doing
As we would be done by, is all

Through envy, through malice, through hating,
Against the world early and late,
No job of our courage abating,
Our part is to work and to wait.
And slight is the sting of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth;
For he who is honest is noble
Whatever his fortunes or birth
—Alice Cary.

UNCLE JED'S TALK WITH THE WIDE AWAKES

About the most popular member of the feathered family, especially with the children, is the robin. Robin Redbreast is quite easy to make friends with. He is a very handsome and graceful bird. He comes early in the spring, even before winter's snows are gone and stays with us all spring and summer and into the fall.

Robin Redbreast is quite tame. He does not seem to be afraid of us and seems to be quite anxious to make friends with us. If we stand still and not startle or frighten him he will sometimes hop almost up to our feet.

No doubt it will interest the Wide Awakes to know that robins are not all alike the world over. The robin we see here in our country has a lovely red breast shaded by gray and deepening into brown. But if we lived in the north of Europe we would discover that the robin's breast, instead of being red, is blue. And if we lived in that faraway country of Australia we should find that the robin's breast is pink. Quite unlike our Robin Redbreast. The Australian robin's breast is very much the same color as the breast of an English bullfinch.

Not only is the color of the breast different, but its plumage is entirely different from that of our robin. In addition to the breast being pink, the throat is white, the wings are slightly tipped with gold and the back is a dark shining blue. In spite of its very different appearance, it is a robin, just the same.

LETTERS FROM WIDE AWAKES CAME FROM MICHIGAN

Dear Uncle Jed: When we moved to Connecticut last summer from Michigan, I rode with my sister in her Ford. The second day we were at my uncle's house, near Pittsburgh, Pa., and he took us to see a coal mine. They had donkeys to pull the little coal cars through a tunnel into the mine on a railroad track and all the men had little lamps on their hats. One of the mines was not used any more so the people had built benches along the track because the air that came up from the tunnel was so much cooler than it was in town.

We went through Gettysburg, Pa., and saw the battlefield with all the mosuments but it looked more like a cemetery.

At Philadelphia we saw the city hall with a monument of William Penn and all the tame doves, hundreds of them that go to the city hall and have the people feed them.

At Jersey City we drove the Ford on a ferryboat and sat right in the car while we crossed the Hudson river, to New York City. We left New York City on the Boston Post road and saw the sunrise on the Atlantic ocean, a short time after leaving New York City. We arrived in Norwich about five o'clock in the evening and we were glad to stop and rest after riding 1375 miles.

MY DOG PRINCE

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you about my dog. He is a black and white collie. His name is Prince. I lead him and play with him. He goes with me after the cows. He likes to drive them. My sister and I like to play with him. He barks when any one is around. We got him when he was a little puppy.

DOROTHY AND RUTH

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my two little dolls, Dorothy and Ruth. I have many clothes for them, and because I haven't got the same clothes for both, I told my mother to hide one of my dolls.

But when I have company she gets it for me. When I play my only one doll I have all of the clothes for that one. They are the same size and made the same. They both say mama and close their eyes when I put them to bed.

LIKES TO READ

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes. I like my school very much and I like to read. We have reading twice a day and spelling once a day. As it is raining I could not go out to play today so I thought I would write to the Wide Awakes.

SOMETHING ABOUT LIONS

Dear Uncle Jed: The fierce animal with a flowing mane and tail, is found in both Asia and Africa. His shaggy mane, his strong limbs and fierce countenance are so grand that no words can describe them. So great is his that by a single stroke of his paw he can break the back of a horse, and by one sweep of his tail throw a strong man to the ground. Unless provoked or hungry, he will not attack an animal openly, but when famished, he fears no danger. The lion, however, seems to bear all good natures.

Some years ago the keeper of two lions was taken ill. One lion sad and solitary, remained at the end of his cage and would not take food from anyone else. At length his keeper got well, and thinking to surprise him, he crawled softly to the cage, showing only his face between the bars; the lion, in a moment, made a bound, leaped against the bars, patted him with his paws, licked his hands and face, and trembled with pleasure.

THE CHIEF LAKE PORT

Dear Uncle Jed: Chicago is located in Illinois. It is the second largest city in the United States. There are over 2,000,000 people living in Chicago. It grows very fast. Chicago was founded about 1830. In 1871 it was burned. They quickly rebuilt it. Chicago was a very wet city. They layed layers of rails and cement to make it solid. The buildings were then made of steel and brick.

Chicago is the chief lake port of the world. It is also a great manufacturing, commercial and railroad city because of its location. It is near the iron and coal regions. The people of Chicago think that some day it will be as large as New York.

THE STATUE OF JUSTICE

Dear Uncle Jed: In one of the public squares of an ancient city was erected a statue known as the Statue of Liberty or Justice. The base of this statue was made of white marble and the statue itself—which was that of a woman,—was made of bronze. She held a sword in her right hand and when the sun glistened on it it would hurt one's eyes to gaze upon it. In the left hand she held a scale which meant that every person should be treated justly.

It happened one day that the wife of a nobleman missed her necklace of pearls. She called all her servants and questioned them. A poor orphan girl was accused of having stolen them. She had no money for a fair trial so she was condemned to die on the scaffold which stood before the Statue of Justice.

After the execution the skies darkened, the thunder grumbled, the lightning flashed and the clouds let fall over hill and dale their contents in abundant rain. In the midst of the tremendous storm the scale was struck by the lightning and fell to the ground. After the rain had ceased the people ran out to see what had happened. Picking up the scale that had fallen they discovered the pearls interwoven in a nest which had been made by a bird.

A TRIP TO MIDDLETOWN

Dear Uncle Jed: Ready? The question was asked by a slim girl who was jumping into an auto as she spoke. I guess so, Doris. Do come in our auto, was the reply. So we started. We had a lovely day. We were going to a beach near Middletown. My aunt, uncle and cousins were to join us there. We turned up a narrow, country road to eat our dinner at noon. It was difficult driving and we stopped for a ramble. We found a robin with a broken wing.

We reached Middletown about two o'clock. As we were just coming into Middletown the sky suddenly became black. When we reached my aunt's we were having a hard shower. We played games and had a lovely time in the middle of the afternoon we had some delicious ice cream. We had a very nice time.

FELL OVER A FENCE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about jumping over a gate. One day last summer my sister and I were picking flowers in a field. We looked over a fence and saw some flowers as we wanted to pick them. My sister climbed over the fence. I thought I could but it was about four feet high.

I took a long run and while I was jumping over the fence my dress was caught by a nail which was nailed half way in the fence. I tumbled head first over the fence. My sister was watching me, when she saw me tumble head first over the fence she began to laugh so that she could not help me. I tried to get up but my dress was caught by a nail.

When I saw my sister laughing, I laughed too, because I imagined how I looked with my dress caught on a nail and hanging over the fence.

After a while my sister came and unhooked my dress from the nail and when I got up I saw that I had a large hole in my dress and I said to myself that I would never try to jump over a fence again. So I advise the Wide Awakes not to try to jump over a fence.

MY DOGS

Dear Uncle Jed: I have two dogs. Their names are Beauty and Brownie. I live on a farm. Beauty is a good cow dog. She goes and gets the cows alone in the lots and she likes to play. Brownie is a good watch dog. They have lots of fun together. I go to school every day. I am in the fourth grade and am nine years old. I like to read the stories about little Jack Rabbit in the Norwich Bulletin.

SHEEP IN AUSTRALIA

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. In geography we have been studying about sheep in Australia. There are many sheep farms in Australia. One farmer sometimes owns eight hundred acres. They often have dry spells so they have dug artesian wells. When the water comes out of the wells it is quite warm but it soon cools. It is also salty, but the sheep drink it just the same. At times it is hard to find enough food for the sheep because little rabbits eat the grass and roots. Men go out and kill them. One man sometimes kills as many as four hundred a day.

Some farmers have put fences around their farms so that they can not get in. Much wool is shipped from Sidney, a seaport of Australia, to Europe. The raising of sheep is the chief industry of Australia.

ABOUT HENRY W. LONGFELLOW

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes. I am going to write about Henry W. Longfellow. Many years ago in New England lived a boy who wanted to be a poet. Do you know what is a poet? He is one who sees the beautiful in everything and can tell about it in such a way that others can see it too.

The poet loves little children because he sees beauty in them. He was a good scholar, and when he was fourteen years old, he entered college. Then he became a professor in college. He lived in Cambridge near Boston in a fine house where General Washington had once lived when he was fighting for his country.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Dear Uncle Jed: It was a beautiful July morning. Polly's mother had forbidden the children to row on the lake that day, as a storm was coming up. It was a great temptation, so when their mother was out visiting, off they trotted to the lake, with Sam in the lead. Sam shoved the boat into the water, and they were off. Sam was an excellent boatman and promised the children that he would start back when they saw a storm cloud. Finally, when they had enjoyed a 20 minute ride, Jane spied a storm cloud.

"Sam," she said. "You had better row us back. I see a storm cloud. Sam muttered something under his breath and continued to row toward the middle of the lake. After a while Polly felt a sprinkle. "Sam Brewster," she cried, "You take us home this minute! It's raining!" Sam was doubtful. "You always imagine things," he sneered, "I don't believe you felt any rain at all!" Polly was silent. Suddenly she jumped at Sam, and tore his hair furiously. "You row us home, Sam Brewster, or I'll—she glared at him with big eyes, "or I'll kill you!" Sam was frightened. Never had he seen Polly in such a rage. It was raining hard now so Sam rowed toward the shore. The waves tossed the boat up and down. Suddenly one large wave overturned the boat. Sam saw Polly struggling in the water when she bobbed up to the surface. But where was Jane? Sam swam to the spot where she had disappeared just as she came up. "Swim," he cried to Polly, and catching Jane with one hand, (he swam with the other) he shoved her ahead. He could see Polly swimming ahead and the boat was tossing in the waves. It seemed hours before he finally reached the shore. Polly was shivering on the bank. Suddenly she gave a joyous cry. "Mother!" she cried and ran down the bank toward a tall, slim woman. Sam followed slowly with the shivvering Jane in his arms. That night you may be sure the children thanked God for their miraculous escape.

LEARNING TO SKATE.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you before but I am going to tell you the story of my first skating. I have heard many others telling about what they wrote to you so I thought that I would try. This is my first story.

About two days after Christmas I thought I would go skating. I had got those skates for Christmas. I went with some other boys on the pond. When we got there I started to put on my skates. After I got them on I took a stick and tried to skate. I got about three feet from the stump when all of a sudden my feet shot out from under me and I went down with a bump. I hurt myself but after awhile got over it and started to try again. This time I succeeded in getting quite far before falling down.

In a little while I was across the pond and my ankles were weak. I rested for about ten minutes. Then I started back across the pond. When I got about half way my feet again slipped from under me and I went down with a bump. I got up again and started. After I got up this time I watched the big fellows skate. Then I started to take strokes like they did. I tried and tried and tried till at last I thought I could skate. I then started off and got half way up the pond when I skated on a piece of twig and my skate slid sidewise and I went down with another bump. After I got up I could skate pretty good. I had a hard time learning but I did not go home without learning.

OUR FLAG

Dear Uncle Jed: The flag of our country has more than one name. Sometimes it is called Our Flag, sometimes Old Glory, and yet at other times, The Star Spangled Banner. I like the name of Old Glory best. The first national flag was made by Betsy Ross for George Washington in 1776, but was not made the national flag until 1777. The thirteen red and white stripes stand for the thirteen American colonies. At first there were only thirteen stars. For every new state that came in a new star and stripe was added, but the flag was becoming so large that they left the thirteen stripes the way they were, and only added stars. Just imagine the size of the flag if there were forty-eight stripes! I do not think there is a more beautiful flag in the world than ours.

But our national flag is not alone in having the name of The Star Spangled Banner, for our national song has that name. Once, during the War of 1812, the British on board a ship needed a doctor, and not having one of their own, they had to have an American doctor. When the doctor went on the ship, he had a young man with him, named Francis Scott Key. When the doctor was through, they would not let him off because they were afraid that he had found out some news which might be useful to the Americans, and so the doctor and the young man had to stay on board. They stayed on deck and watched the fight. When they could not see Old Glory, they would wait until a cannon shot off and then they could see that she was still waving, 'O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." While watching the fight this young man wrote The Star Spangled Banner, which later became a song and then the national song.

We must not forget either, that we should respect our flag. Never should we allow it to touch the ground. Whenever we see it, we should salute it, even if no one else does. Or if we hear the Star Spangled Banner being played we should stand up and the men should take off their hats. If it is being sung join in if you can or else stand at attention. Never, never should we disrespect our flag for that is one of our most precious possessions.

CAUGHT IN A STORM

Dear Uncle Jed: Marjorie was the captain of the campfire girls. It was a bright, sunny morning, so they decided to take a ride in their canoes. They took a small basket of provisions and started out. They paddled slowly so they could catch a glimpse of the beautiful scenery. At noon they had paddled about three miles down the river. They found a shady, little nook along the shore and decided they would have their picnic there. They sat idly watching the river rush by.

After dinner Marjorie thought it about time to turn back. They gathered up their baskets and different things they had brought, and started back. They were paddling easily when all of a sudden Jane exclaimed, "Look, girls, look!". They all turned and uttered a cry of dismay. They saw a vast cloud right above them which had shut out the sun. They paddled swiftly down the river, turning now and then to look at the dreadful cloud. Soon they heard a crash and saw a dull streak of lightning. The rain came down in torrents and drenched them to the skin. The vast cloud had now passed over them. The rain was not so heavy and the sun peeped out from the clouds making a georgous rainbow. The girls clapped their hands in delight. They soon reached their camp and poured out the story of their escape to their guide. They were pretty glad they were safe and sound once more.

THE HAUNTED HOUSE

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide Awake Circle for a long time. Now I am going to tell you about the haunted house. The house was way up in the country near the place where we used to live. Everybody used to say that this house was haunted. Once an old man had lived there but he had died. The people used to say when anybody went in there at midnight they would hear groans, and the clinking of chains.

One day Jim and John met on the

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Off to Carrot City

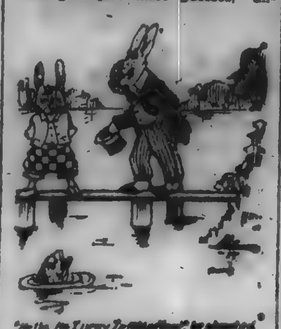
Well, we must look elsewhere for our fortune," sighed Uncle Lucky as Little Jack Rabbit rode away in the Luckymobile.

Dear me! If in the last story the Albatross had only been able to have helped them. But away he flew across the ocean wide and blue.

As the little bunnies rode along all of a sudden, a little voice shouted: "This way to Carrot City!"

"You don't say so," cried Uncle Lucky. "But who are you?"

"I'll give you three guesses," answered the voice. But, Oh dear me! Uncle Lucky couldn't guess right and neither could the bunny boy.



"I'm Jo, Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot!" he shouted. "Mrs. Fin is very busy making a hollow on the sandy bottom at the curve in the bank, where the water runs quietly. When she has laid her eggs she will cover them over with little pebbles," and, with a flap of his tail, Mr. Fin swam away to see how his careful wife was getting along.

The two little bunnies hopped back in the Luckymobile where Mr. Guinea Pig was sitting quietly on the back seat, and away they went across the bridge to Carrot City. Just as they turned the corner, a peddler came by with a pushcart full of big ripe tomatoes. And, Oh, dear me! Before he could get out of the way the Luckymobile ran into him. Over went the little cart and out went all the tomatoes, one of them hitting a Policeman Cat right in the eye.

And in the next story I'll tell you what that Policeman Cat did, for he was dreadfully angry, you can well imagine.

"So," sighed the little rabbit, opening his knapsack and taking out a lollypop pie. "But, Oh, dear me! Although the old gentle gentleman rabbit was very careful not to spill any juice on his lovely blue silk polkadot waistcoat, he almost did when the strange voice said:

"If you'd given me some pie I could have told you who I am."

Then what do you suppose Little Jack Rabbit did? Why he opened his knapsack and took out an apple pie.

"I'll give you a piece if you'll tell me your name," said the little rabbit cutting the pie into three even pieces, which is a mighty hard thing to do, let me tell you.

"Here I am. Look at me!" shouted a Guinea Pig jumping out of a clump of bushes. "And now, please give me some apple pie."

"We're going to Carrot City," said Uncle Lucky, after the pie was all gone. "Jump into the Luckymobile and come with us."

Away they went and by and by they came to a bridge that spanned a little stream called Watercress Brook in which lived a speckled trout named Mr. Fin.

"Hello, Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot!" he shouted. "Mrs. Fin is very busy making a hollow on the sandy bottom at the curve in the bank, where the water runs quietly. When she has laid her eggs she will cover them over with little pebbles," and, with a flap of his tail, Mr. Fin swam away to see how his careful wife was getting along.

road. They made an appointment that they should meet at the same place at half past eleven o'clock and they would go in and see if the house was truly haunted. So that night Jim did not go to sleep, but kept his eyes wide open. When his mother and father were fast asleep, he crept out of bed softly and went into the kitchen to stuff his pocket full of cookies and candy. Then he went to the window where John and he had fixed a ladder and he climbed out. He then went over to John's house and called for him. He got dressed and they both started for the haunted house. When they got there they went upstairs and started to search every corner until they came to the cellar. They sat down and began to eat the cookies and candy which Jim had brought. After they had finished they went down into the cellar. They looked all around until they came to a hole in the wall, where there was an old bottle, and anytime the wind blew the bottle would rattle and make all kinds of noises. So it wasn't a haunted house after all.

A SPECIAL TOPIC

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time, I have written to the Wide Awake Circle, and I hope you will be interested in reading it. The story I am going to tell you about is my special topic. Every week I have a special topic, and if I want to know it well, I have to study very hard. I take great interest in my studies, and in my special topic.

Last week I had a special topic, on what the United States is doing for its children. My teacher, said it was very good and interesting, and it will give the children, a thought, on what the United States is doing for us children to know the school laws. She also said, it was instructive to all children to know what the United States is doing for us all.

All large public libraries and small ones have separate reading rooms and separate lists of books for us. I hope next week I will know it as well as I did this week.

IMAGINARY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you an incident that happened while I was on my spring vacation. It happened when I was on my first fishing trip.

One day as I was walking through the woods, I saw a dog running after something. I thought and thought; finally I made up my mind it was a woodchuch. Soon the dog caught the woodchuck and ran into a cave.

I thought I wanted to see whose dog it was, so I went slowly up to the cave. I saw the dog but did not know whose it was.

RICHARD AND HIS DOUBLE-RIPPER

Dear Uncle Jed: Last winter our teacher told the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades to write a short story. The below story is the one that I wrote. I am 13 years old and am in the eighth grade in the Gurleyville Grammar school.

Richard and His Double Ripper. Richard made a sort of half-dream as he emerged from the house. This was because he was obliged to go to the village store for some provisions for the family's daily needs.

Perhaps if his mother had asked him to go to the store the day before he would have consented. It would have given him a chance to show off his new double-ripper that his father had made for him the previous week. But as it was his sled was lying by the roadside a wreck. This is how it happened. The night before Richard had been out sliding, and of course to show the other boys how strong his new double-ripper was he let them all pile on. There were eight of them in all which would have been no large crowd had Richard's sled been larger. But as it was the sled was only big enough to accommodate four persons. His father had only intended it for Richard and his three friends. Like a good boy Richard had invited four more of the boys in the near village, the place into which he was now going.

THEIR BOAT WAS WRECKED

Dear Uncle Jed: Roland O'Brien was the captain of the boy scouts. It was a fine June morning, so Roland thought that he would move the camp over the lake. The lake was two miles so we had to make a big boat. While we were on the lake a big shower came up and wrecked our boat. We all fell into the lake and one of the scouts broke his arm on a big rock. The water was five feet deep there. Most of the scouts were very skillful in swimming. The storm was a bleak one and we were so cold that we were glad to sit near the fire, to dry our cloths, when we got back to camp.

THE MEANING OF DEMOCRACY

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for a long time but today I took the time to write to you.

Democracy means cooperating and not deserting our country. Every child who respects the country should learn these words.

Let us show ourselves Americans by showing that we do not want to go in separate camps or groups by ourselves, but that we want to cooperate with all other classes and all other groups in a common enterprise. That is the meaning of democracy.

Ex-President Woodrow Wilson said: The expression, "Let us show ourselves Americans by showing that we do not want to go in separate camps or in groups where soldiers are trained, nor the camps where people go for pleasure, but it means that we do not want to leave our country and our flag.

NEW LONDON POLICE FIND YOUTH RESPONSIBLE FOR BURGLARIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 21—Preston Sutphen employed at the New London Ship and Engine company plant in Groton and residing at 302 Ocean avenue, has been driving an automobile several years, but he evidently has not overcome the speed mania. As he hit a pace of 35 miles an hour on Ocean avenue a few days ago, Fred Caron, an officer of the state's force, happened to be at hand and he followed Sutphen on a motorcycle, timing him as he proceeded. That led to Sutphen's arrest and his presentation Saturday in court where he was fined $25. Sutphen might have been prosecuted for having failed to endorse his license, for he was guilty of that negligence, too, but the officer was not insistent that such action be taken and he was not penalized for that offense. Sutphen is not the sort of young man who would offend against laws of the state or city but his enthusiasm seems to dominate his judgment.

When Kasimir Katucshwitz goes to his work at the New England carpet lining works Tuesday he will have had an experience with liquor that should teach him that he is better off when he abstains from its use. He was fined $5 in the police court Saturday and pair $14 from money due him for his labors. Kasimir is not a stranger to the court or to the police. He was arrested some weeks ago when found in a cellar on Atlantic street so intoxicated that he could not get out. There was an arrangement on the door of the cellar so that when it was opened a bell in the apartment above would sound and so Kasimir was discovered as soon as he entered. He created a great commotion there. Friday night when he was apprehended so drunk that he could not get his feet under him he represented that he was sick and Dr. Cheney was called to the police station to attend to him. An interpreter informed Kasimir that he was to be taken to the hospital where he would have to remain several days and pay a bill for treatment. That cured his illness at once. He was simply faking. He has now been warned that he will go to jail when next he is convicted of intoxication in the police court.

Palestine Commandery, K. T., held Easter services at Brainard temple this afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock The attendance was large though it was limited to the seating capacity of the temple and was by ticket. The knights were in regalia and the service was most impressive. There was a handsome display of Easter blooms in the temple.

Large congregations attended the services in the churches of the city today in spite of the fact that rain fell during the forenoon and the afternoon was lowery and threatening. The weather interfered with the fashion parade in marked degree. The music in all the churches was especially fine.

Gurden Avery of Main street, complained to the police this morning that his son's bicycle, which had been left on the veranda of the Avery home, was stolen either Friday or Saturday night.

An automobile owned and operated by Fred H. Cross, 43 Georgiana St., was damaged Saturday evening when in collision with an automobile owned and driven by Duncan Belcher of Clinton. The machine operated by Belcher had been parked alongside the curb on the west side of the street, between Main and Green Sts., and was operated from the curb just as the automobile operated by Cross and headed in a southerly direction came along. Cross' car struck the Belcher machine with considerable force and bore the greater amount of damage.

The continued carelessness of merchants in closing their places of business was again evidenced Saturday night and Sunday morning when several places were discovered unlocked by patrolmen, in making their rounds. The bakery of Jacob Hochman, 117 North Bank street was discovered insecure by Patrolman Carlos Selgitsky when a rear door was found unlocked. Hochman was notified and 4:11 o'clock was operated in two sections this evening, because of the great throng of Easter travelers. Among the passengers in the west bound Gilt Edge was the Philadelphia American League baseball club, including Connie Mack, manager and Danny Murphy, coach, en route from Boston to Philadelphia.

A free-for-all fight was pulled off in Palmertown, late this afternoon when a gang of hootch drinkers staged the combat. The fight became so furious that the state police barracks at Groton was communicated with and Officers John Palmer and John Anderson were speeded to the site of the battle. Arriving at Palmertown the officers took into custody Joseph Laveile, John Hollamb and Charles Gibbons, charged with breach of the peace. They were brought to the New London police station and locked up, pending a hearing in Montville tomorrow noon.

In an effort to apprehend the gang of young men who caused much destruction at Ocean Beach Thursday night when gates, fences, flower boxes and brackets supporting the boxes, were destroyed at nine cottages, about a dozen youths were brought to the police station Saturday by Sergeants Frank Howard and Nelson Smith and questioned at considerable length regarding their movements on the night the vandalism was committed. The grilling lasted the greater part of the day and when the task had been concluded there was no evidence at hand to warrant holding any of the gang for the commission of the depredations. The investigation is being continued.

An automobile owned and operated by Battista Bottinelli, 22 Reed St., was in collision with another automobile this afternoon at the corner of Jay and Huntington street, Bottinelli's automobile, a new Packard, sustained some disfigurement. Bottinelli did not ascertain the owner of the other car, but declared it bore Connecticut registration, N-579 and was operated by a woman named Lewis.

The New London police believe that in the apprehension of a colored youth residing on Shaw street they have captured a culprit, who has been one of several boys that has engaged in petty burglaries and thefts here for some time, for besides the fastening of the crime of burglarizing the gun shop of Robert N. Turner, 438 Bank street, plunder has been found in the possession of the boy that was stolen from other places. Following the apprehension of the youth Wednesday night by Sergeant Patrick Murphy when guns, shells and bullets stolen from the Turner store were found, in the possession of the youngster, Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray yesterday recovered two Belgian hares at the home of the youth, which were stolen several days ago from the houseboat of Louis Ross, tied up at the wharf of the Texas company, off Sparyard street. The hares, which were hidden in the attic of the youth's home, have been returned to Ross. Besides the hares, the officer found at the Shaw street house a bicycle that was stolen a few days ago and the property of William Soltz, a youth, residing at 41 Federal street. The youthful thief will be given a hearing before Judge Victor Prince in the juvenile court during the coming week.

The east bound Gilt Edge express, due New London from New York at 4:11 o'clock was operated in two sections this evening, because of the great throng of Easter travelers. Among the passengers in the west bound Gilt Edge was the Philadelphia American League baseball club, including Connie Mack, manager and Danny Murphy, coach, en route from Boston to Philadelphia.

My Rosy Skin

How I clean it—how I preserve it
By Edna Wallace Hopper

My skin is the marvel of millions. Even softer and more rosy than 40 years ago. Yet mine is a grandmother's age.

Mine has been no easy life. I have lived it in the limelight. I served France five years in the rigors of the war. Yet countless young girls envy my complexion. I can easily pass for 19.

France gave me the methods I employ. Now, in gratitude, I am supplying them to others. They multiplied my beauty, gave me perennial youth. Now I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

How I keep clean

The first step to beauty is a clean skin—a skin that is clean to the depths. Lucie Lantelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.

The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

You may think you clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply Facial Youth to what you call a clean skin and see the extra dirt you get. That is what causes blackheads and blemishes.

I cover my body with Facial Youth before bathing. Thus I remove three times the refuse I remove without it.

Nothing to compare

My Facial Youth is the greatest cleansing formula science has created. The greatest beauty experts now employ it. Some supply it to others, but at four times my price.

I bring it to you at a modest price, and I urge you to employ it. You will find nothing to approach it. A fine complexion is impossible unless the skin is clean.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters at 75 cents per bottle. Also my Youth Cream—my fruity cold cream. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Take this first step to beauty now. Clean the skin with my Facial Youth. The immediate results will amaze you. Then, if you wish my other aids, they are at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

WESTERLY

Chief of Police Thomas Brown and Officer Michael Curtin investigated the accident and arrested Salvito on a charge of reckless driving. He will be given a hearing before Judge Turano in the Third district court.

GROTON STATE POLICE FIND EIGHTEEN BARRELS OF CIDER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, April 20.—"Wet" was the raid conducted by state policemen from the Groton barracks Saturday night about 9 o'clock, at the Walter Taylor place, known as the Henry Breed farm, in the Randall district, town of Stonington. This farm is situated on the road leading from Miner's ice house to the New London turnpike, about three miles from Westerly and is said to have had a reputation of being a very "damp" locality. The reputation of the place seems to have been well founded, for eighteen full barrels of what is to be hard cider and another barrel partly filled are now under a keeper in the assembly hall of the lockup on Liberty street.

State Policemen E. Burns, B. W. Kenerson, H. Malburson, Charles Myatt, and J. Kamanski were the raiding force from the Groton barracks, acting under the authority of a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna, of the town of Stonington, in which Walter Taylor, formerly steward of the Westerly British club, is charged with keepink with intent to sell; actual sales and reputation. Arriving at the farm, the state policemen began searching the place, which had every indication of being one frequently resorted to by those seeking to quench their thirst. The cider barrels were found in the cellar and it required hard work and lots of it to get the cider loaded on the two trucks. The barrels were carted to the Liberty street lockup where they were dumped on the front lawn and rolled into the front door, assistance being given the state police by Patrolmen Connors and McMahon of Pawcatuck. A crowd collected to witness the storing of the contraband stock.

Walter Taylor was brought before Judge William A. Wilcox in Pawcatuck, where a $1,000 bail was required. When asked if he wished to procure a bondsman he is said to have replied that "he would pay nothing." His confinement in the lockup followed. Less than an hour later he is said to have agreed that his wife be sent for. Before Judge Wilcox Alzina Taylor, wife of Walter Taylor entered into recognizance in the sum of $1,000 bond for her husband's appearance in the Stonington town court this (Monday) morning there to answer to the charges brought against him.

On Sunday state policemen took samples from the various barrels of cider duly marked them and sealed the barrels. The samples will be taken to Hartford to determine the percentage of alcohol contained in the cider, both by weight and by volume. As one of the state troopers remarked, the cleaning up of places like the one raided is the means of saving "millions of dollars worth of trouble."

CONGREGATIONS FILL NORWICH CHURCHES FOR EASTER SERVICES

Congregations that filled the churches worshipped at the Easter service Sunday and heard the message of the resurrection in sermon and song, while the beautiful floral decorations on pulpits and altars were in keeping with the spirit of the day. Choirs, soloists and organists made the musical parts of the service an impressive part of the worship and the programs that had been announced were carried out.

At United Congregational Church

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott spoke at the United Congregational church upon the theme, Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead? In brief he said:

The wave of death which this community has experienced makes many a person ask will a man live again. Will the soul survive after death?

If one asks for demonstrable evidence of immortality, one is disappointed. If one attempts to picture immortality apart from the material conditions which we know, one is baffled. But neither the disappointment nor the baffling invalidate the possibility of faith in immortality. Belief in immortality is based on the foundation belief that our universe is a spiritual universe, that God is the Spirit that fills it with loving purpose; that human life in the spiritual power that God needs to fulfill His purpose uninterruptedly.

This is what Jesus showed in His life, death and resurrection, and He bade us seek the living not among the dead, but among the living.

At Trinity Methodist

At Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. J. Harlow Graham spoke from the text, Luke 24:16, And their eyes were holden that they should not know Him; and Luke 24: 31, And their eyes were opened and they knew Him. Between these two texts is the story of the two disciples who have made a great discovery because a new faculty has been granted them. Jesus is present in both instances, but they must first undergo the miracle of a reawakened faith before they can see a resurrected Christ. Death has been defeated. But Cleopas and his companion live in a dreary world of disappointed hopes. They are returning from the cemetery and a new made grave, but Jesus whom they supposed dead is alive. Their hearts are heavy and their feet drag. Life can never be the same again. The companion who was himself the center of their world has gone. On him all their plans were built. How long the miles seem. There is very little to live for. Their springtime is dreary. The message of the flowers is a mockery.

The Christian imagination has often gone over this journey with the two disciples. No doubt they recounted their dreams of other days. All the old experiences of fellowship and common hopes were rehearsed. But the end fell is defeat.

And then their lord, himself drew near. But they did not know Him. Their eyes are the keen eyes of the practical man. They have seen the great stone before the door of the tomb and the great seal placed there to protect it against any intruders. And their doubt gives place to faith and they make the great discovery. The scales of unbelief fall away and life is even richer than they had ever hoped.

Is this story a parable of our condition? Margaret Slattery tells of a Christian family in which three of the children were taken from the home by diphtheria. Only a three year old baby remained. Easter came, the father, as superintendent of his Sunday school, read the Easter lesson, the mother taught her class the Easter story. A fifteen year old boy remarked to his father as they walked home from from church: "Mr. and Mrs L— believe the Easter story don't they."

"Yes, yes, all Christians believe that" he replied.

"Not that way," said the son.

Is the Eastern message real to us? The preacher then dealt with the Eastern hope under three heads: (1). Man's deep desire for immortality; (2), Man's essential value and (3) God's dependability as supporting this hope.

At Greeneville Congregational.

Jesus The Risen Lord was the topic of the sermon which Rev. Charles H. Ricketts presented before a large audience at the Greeneville Congregational church Sunday morning. The text was taken from Matthew, 28th chapter, the 6th verse: "He is not here, He is risen."

The speaker began by giving the rapid sequence of events that connect Palm Sunday with Easter. Monday being known as the day of parables because so many of them were spoken in the Temple Courts. Tuesday as the day of temptation; the last and most important of His earthly ministry. Wednesday was the day of silence, as there is no record that Jesus left the quietude and sanctity of His Bethany home. Thursday, known in the Middle Ages as "Green Thursday," was full of spiritual activity; the celebration of the Pachal Lamb, His valedictory address and the celebration of "The Last Supper." On Thursday evening the spiritual battle was fought and won in Gethsemane. Then came (early Friday) the betrayal, arrest, the trial before Caiaphus, Peter's denial, the scene before Pilate, the crown of thorns and crucifixion.

At three o'clock Friday when Jesus was dead, His precious body was taken by Joseph of Arimathea, and, with another timid disciple, Nicodemus, was given the honor of interment in the tomb of the former. And there it lay till the resurrection of early Sunday morning following.

In view of a theory held to some extent in recent years that the resurrection was nothing more than a spiritual reappearance of Jesus, the speaker presented as an argument in support of the commonly accepted belief of His bodily resurrection.

1 From the meaning of the word resurrection. It means the restoration of the identical thing that had been put away. When applied to the grave or tomb, it means the bringing back of exactly what had been put into the grave or tomb. Three things have never been disputed. (1) Jesus died on the cross. (2) His entombment. (3) The vacancy of the tomb on Easter morn. Only one of two possible theories will account for that vacancy: Either His body was stolen, or He rose from the dead.

2 Subsequent testimony proved that His body was not stolen. The two Marys find the tomb vacant. Thinking the body stolen they say to Peter and John, "They have taken away the Lord . . and we know not where they have laid Him. Then Mary mistakes Jesus for the caretaker until he says, "Mary." And then she exclaims, Rabboni . . Master!" Later Thomas is confirmed the fact of the bodily resurrection by touching His hands and side.

There is no doubt that Jesus lost something in death: that His body had undergone some change, but it was essentially the same body that was crucified otherwise His personal identity would have been wholly lost.

At Trinity Episcopal.

The verse from Job 14:14: "If a man dies shall he live again," was the text of the sermon by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown at the morning service at Trinity Episcopal church.

These words of the text, he said are the persistent question of alike of philosophy and science and of the human mind and heart. These are doubtless times when the question seems to sink into comparative oblivion. A wave of unbelief or materialism rolls over the world, carrying everything before it. For the time being it absorbs attention to the exclusion of everything else. The thought of a future life is put aside that men may give themselves over to the interests and pleasures of the life that now is. A fresh discovery of science as a new school of philosophy seems to warrant the relaxation, if not abandonment of long-standing religious beliefs and restraints. Or, new phases of commercialism tempt us to place all our interests and hopes in what they have to offer. But in no case does the question of the text long sink below the horizon of man's consciousness.

It is not allowed to do so. Sickness and death are ever in our midst, invading the circles of our family, friends and community, inevitably forcing upon us the problem of the future. Now to assert that death is the end of the soul is to deny the revelations of the universe and to insist that there is only irony and mockery where there ought to be reason and wisdom. Evolutionists tell us that the cosmic process having reached man, a spiritual being, can go no further in the spiritual order. Evolution will never produce a higher being than a spirit, but the cosmic force will still persist and be utilized in the expansion and perfection of spirits. Because death puts an end to the manifestation of the soul through it does not therefore prove that the soul is incapable of manifesting itself except through the earthly body. If the body is like a house in which a spiritual tenant dwells, as we believe it is, what happens at death is simply the removal of the tenant from one God-built house to another. There is a reasonable presumption against the soul's continuance of being in a different sphere.

Belief in immortality is co-terminous with belief in the diety. The two forms of belief are always found together. And the belief is universal. It is evident a native instinct of the soul. "But," says Reimar, where in the plant of nature do we find instincts falsified. "Where do we see an instance of a creature instinctively craving a certain kind of food in a place where no such food can be found." Are the swallows deceived by their instinct when they fly away from clouds and storms to seek a warmer country." And if this be true of the impulses of the physical life, why should it not be true of the superior instincts of the soul?" All other instincts have their object provided, the presumption is that the instinctive belief of the soul in a future life is no exception to this rule. The fact is, it is irrational to suppose that the soul dies with the body. How, on that supposition, can we account for the enormous waste in disciplne and culture, in education and affection? What is the meaning of the love which binds men together if being and affection alike pass into oblivion? How justify our system of education if the soul is developed only to be destroyed? What reason is there in moral struggle and endeavor, if, ultimately, the noblest soul we know is of no more enduring worth than the soul of the most degraded? We devote a large part of our lives to education and culture, toiling painfully and making costly sacrifices in order to build up an edifice we call education and character. Is it worth while if this short life is to see the end of us? Is all this life-building to be toppled over in a moment? If so, life is certainly without meaning. What of life's inequalities? Are those thousands whose only native dower appears to be lust and criminal propensity, and whose native environment is the slums and the dive, never to have another and fairer chance, in another and better sphere. If the universe is moral and rational, there must come a time and a sphere wherein those who have known nothing but misery and suffering here shall find relief from pain and knew the meaning of joy.

It is always best for ourselves and the world, to believe the best. With this faith in immortality, human life is nobler and human effort more persistent and enduring than it would be without it. The doctrine of Evolution, with man as its aim and outcome, paints to man's immortality. Now the farce of such reflections there is cumulative. They are not positive proofs that man shall live again. But the probabilities are on their side. They constitute a presumption which has withstood the corroding doubts of the ages. But, for us Christians, the supreme evidence for immortality is the resurrection of Christ. For that resurrection substantiated all Christ's claims to be the Son of God and all His revelations as to this life and the life beyond. We pin our faith in a future life on Him who is constantly evidencing His present existence and power in the saving work He does in us, on us, and by us.

At Universalist Church.

From the text "Because I live ye shall live also, John 16, 19, Rev. A. N. Foster spoke Sunday morning at the Church of The Good Shepherd upon the theme The Larger Meaning of Easter.

In part he spoke as follows:

Easter comes again with buoyant cheer and confident conviction. Where fear and despair have been, now faith and hope and love show us the larger life. To many persons, Easter brings a distinctively Christian message for it commemorates certain anniversaries in the life of him we term Lord and Master. The literalist insists that it commemorates the physical resurrection of Jesus from the dead and that belief in such is necessary to Christian fellowship Apart from that our preaching is vain and your faith is also vain!" And yet, earnest reflection will prompt us to say that if, so much, even eternal salvation of unnumbered millions depends on belief in the resurrection of Jesus, it is passing strange that the records of so extraordinary an event should be so fragmentary and so contradictory.

Easter has a larger message to give than that of the physical resurrection of Jesus. Historic Christianity has emphasized very strongly the teaching of a future life. It has been made one of the cardinal points of the Gospel. The most wonderful confidence and the beautiful trust of Jesus in his heavenly Father imply the continuance of life beyond the scenes of this world. "In my Father's house are many mansions"; "I go to prepare a place for you." "And this is eternal life to know the Father and Jesus whom He hath sent." That larger conception of a life which transcends physical boundaries is the almost constant teaching of the Master. His direct word of assurance is given that as he lives this man abundant life, so shall his disciples share such with him. He is not then stating some exclusive prerogative but is rather stating a universal law of life. Easter commemorates the eternal life of widened vision and quickened aspiration for the ideals of the higher life.

Such aspiration has not been limited to the so called Christian nations of the world far remote and alien tribes and peoples "feeling after God" have in differing phrase postulated a corresponding method of approach to the Divine. The common elements have been the selection of choice youth for tragic sacrifice and the belief that through virtue of that sacrifice greater triumph has come to religion. Stories that are similar are found in the lore of ancient Egypt, India, Greece and Rome and not infrequently the one sacrificed is defied.

The larger message of Easter tells us—through science—that all life is precious and that as no atom of matter is ever lost or destroyed much less shall mind or soul "be cast as rubbish to the void when God hath made the pile complete." Although every land is marked by graves and tombs of the dead and shrines of the departed, still it is true that men of every tribe and nation insist that the dead live again. This instinct, though perhaps not conclusive, is yet all but universal in history and is of deep significance.

At German Lutheran.

In his sermon at the morning service at the First German Lutheran church, the pastor, Rev. Hermann Hunzinger, said that the existence of the Christian church on earth does not rest on a certain philosophy. It does not rest on dreams or hallucinations of some uneducated fishermen or women. The existence of the church is resting on a historical fact, the bodily resurrection of Jesus. If you deny the bodily resurrection of Jesus, you may just as well deny that the battle of Gettysburg was fought. The evidence in the first case is even stronger. Jesus is living. If we are not half dead in our spirit we must see and feel His footsteps, how He is walking through the ages, we must see and feel how, in our days, he is making the debris of a bygone civilization into the forms of a new life. Yes, and He is winning even more wonderful victories against sin and death and the power of the devil than in the days of old. O, He is very much alive—so much, that you, O my soul, cannot help it, to come to a decision either for Him or against Him. He is neither a philosophy nor a dream nor a fairy tale. He is the God-man in person. Don't let Him wait for your decision too long!

At St. Patrick's Church

"This is the day which the Lord hath made; be glad and rejoice therein," the text of Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, preaching at the first mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, was the keynote of the exultant services of the day. The high altar was adorned with ascension and calla lilies, hyacinths and other spring flowers, and the same blossoms, with flowering tulips were placed about the sanctuary, against a foil of tall palms and ferns. The gold candelabra and the vestments of richest gold cloth, accentuated the splendor with which the church always surrounds this the pivotal feast of the Christian year.

The sanctuary decorations were arranged with customary taste by the Sisters of Mercy from the parish convent.

The low mass at 7.30 was read by the rector, Rev. Michael H. May, who had the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving Holy Communion to nearly every person in the great congregation.

Preaching on the hope which Easter brings to the soul, Father Guerriero rapidly sketched the events which had preceded the tragedy of the Crucifixion, and the promise of the Saviour to the Jews that He was to rise again on the third day. The gospel for the Sunday, Mark 16:1-7, with the message of the angel, "He is risen; He is not here," proves how completely He fulfilled that promise. The preacher deduced the lesson that it is now the part of men to rise from the sleep of sin, to begin a new life, to make themselves friends of that Christ who has triumphed over death, Who has given the most convincing proof of immortality.

At 9 o'clock, another immense congregation filled the church, when the junior choir sang Paschal hymns, under direction of Miss Mary Bresnahan, organist.

For the solemn high mass at 10.30, Organist Frank L. Farrell had arranged a particularly pleasing program for the volunteer choir. Gurmant's Kyrie, Gloria, Sanctus and Agnus Dei, the Credo being by Gloria Rosewig's Veni Creator, the majestic Hallelelujah Chorus, of Lambillotte Sterner's setting of O, Salutaris and Ilosfis Tantum Ergo made up the numbers, given with volume and harmony. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament followed this mass.

The soloists were Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Miss Loretta Bellefleur, Frank G. Aubrey and Frank R. Murdy. Especially good was Mr. Murdy's solo, "Qui Tollis," in the Creed. The chorus of thirty voices sang well with the recently rebuilt organ, Mr. Farrell utilizing the chimes effectively.

At Park Congregational

Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe spoke in his sermon Sunday morning at Park Congregational church from the text Revelation 2.10: He showed me that great city the holy Jerusalem descending out of heaven from God.

In his sermon he said:

We have been raising the question of immortality. The war brought that subject to the fore. We asked the questions insistently, have these twenty millions of lives the chance of living and fulfilling the ends of their creation. Will this sane universe make room and give these lives the chance to life which war denied them. And we raised the question for ourselves shall we have the chance for the unfolding of these unawakened latencies of our own. But recently we have been raising the question which is that life our passing friends have entered upon and upon which we shall enter soon? What is the life we shall be living soon? And the answer is hard to find. We look to two sources, albeit three.

First, Science—It is revealing for this life. For that life science is absorly agnostic. Sir Oliver Lodge tells us science is silent. It knows nothing beyond the physical phenomena. For the spirit of man science casts no horoscope. Its telescope and microscopes and scalpels and retorts are all out of commission at the near brink of the fatal river.

The second answer is from scripture, but scripture is reticent and reserved. Revelation cannot interpret in our broken earthly vocabulary the unspeakable things. Eye hath not seen or ear heard the things prepared. The highest things cannot be put in human speech. Goethe told us. We know not what we shall be. The unborn child cannot be told the great things life holds for it. And we must be born into that life to know. We can only walk by faith into the great silences. We must face the great beautiful adventure. The leap into the dark is a leap into the light.

We must be content with the limitations of our knowledge. We are ignorant of much of the world with which science deals. Its own province it has not explored. Science knows nothing of the essence of matter a great scientist has just been telling us. How it works science may tell us much but what it is science can tell us nothing—what is the electron. No one knows. Mr. Edison is always telling he knows only a little of electricity and so of many forces. All of which awaits the revealing of the future and the future life will find us the new knowledge and the fresh readjustments—Jesus knew relationship to nature but refused to disclose the laws by which He handled nature with such supreme mastery.

Confirming our thoughts to a single envisagement of that life the Revelator in these closing chapters gives us hints and forecastings which keep us in our bewilderment.

His oriental imagery to which he resorts gives us then in the first place the idea of spaciousness. A city of unconceivable vastitude. Cooped up in our provincial Utican imprisoned in our restricted environment we are to be let out into spacial vastitudeness soon. Our lives are to be released from earthly captivities into the freedom of spatial enlargement. Life is to be a big thing and there is even now a big way of looking at life. It is not what it is but what it is coming up to that is important. Our horizon lines will be thrown back and we shall never overtake those ever widening spaces that beckon us, etc. etc.

2. Then there is the idea of splendor. This city of God is built of precious stones, gates of pearl, streets of gold and lights with the face of the divine glory which catches us away from the dusty highway and the austerities of rock and pah and desert sand of the interminable stretches of dreary monotony. No weary marches over dreary plains and up steep acclivities to sit down weary Titans which the tides of life sweep by.

3. Then there is the assurance of safety. A defended life walls—scaling the heavens is the oriental imagery. Guarded gates angel defended, our fears dismissed. Our hysterias of dread and apprehension, of real or imaginary menace gone. The sea of glass will be swept by no storms—thy peace shall be as the river and thy righteous as the waves of the sea. The "No Mores" will come in as a flood. No more pain or tears or sorrow or death. No pursuing menaces following here full pack. Our escape will be final.

4. Social. The city gathers the fine guilds, the choice spirits, the genuine aristoi the elite. We shall meet the great spirits of history, the savants, the discoverers, the inventers of useful things, the inspired and the inspiring teachers of truth. And we shall find and recover the great friendship that lent to life its charm, etc.

5. And then we shall come to the great activities of which we here have felt the inarticulate and the unrevoked capacities for we shall serve Him day and night in His temple. We shall be done with the old languors and insippidities. No torpid stagnant static conditions sitting by the wayside asking for death. No sluggish hybernating saints asking for a thousand years of rest. It is the sphere of vast activities—God's tireless teller my Father worketh hitherto and I work and we shall be doing His kind of work. God is no statio being sitting on ivory thrones asking you to bow your heads in the dust of humiliation. He is away from all this oriental business of demanding bemeaning homage carrying a universe on His heart carrying a new rapture to distant races and He will be forever taking us into the thick of these vast self forgotten activities. Not to be ministered unto, but to minister, said one who tells us what He did God is always doing God's like Jesus a serving God what Jesus did His Father is always doing —Let us get away from all this imperialistic thought of God for we will have one day to revise all our thinking. He is the great Servant of the universe and we shall be admitted to this guild of universal service. His name will be in our foreheads which means likeness and eternal identities. We shall be servants and toilers and engaged on the same tasks and ceaseless activity of Him who worketh forever more.

At Central Baptist

"Jesus and the Resurrection" was the theme of Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt at the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning. The three main points developed by the pastor were: (1) The resurrection, a fact, (2) The resurrection, an experience; (3) The resurrection, a prophecy.

Under the first head the evidence for the resurrection was presented. The fact that Christ died and was buried, that the grave was carefully guarded and that disciples never expected to see him again in this world. Notwithstanding all this the grave was found empty and these unexpectant disciples were satisfied that they had seen him on different occasions and at different places during the period of about six weeks. Even the most skeptical, like Thomas, were led to exclaim "My Lord and My God." Their most convincing testimony is seen not in their words but in their lives. They became changed men as a result of this conviction. They were ready to go to prison and to death for their belief. Moreover, the Christian church was founded on the belief in the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. The change of the day of worship from Saturday to Sunday is still further proof of our Lord's resurrection on the first day of the week.

Secondly, the resurrection an experience. What did the resurrection do for those first disciples? What did they need most? They were crushed by what had happened. Their primary problem was not with God and the far future but with God and the immediate and living present. It had to do with the defeat and ignominious death of their leader. Not only was hope crushed but they were in mortal fear that a like fate awaited them. No wonder they were behind barred doors when the Master appeared to them! What, then, did the resurrection do for them? It proved Christ to be the Son of God with power. It set God's seal upon Him and proved that Christ was all he claimed to be. Moreover the conviction grew that God's power was available not only for Christ but for every Christian who purposes to follow Christ and do his will. That is what Paul means when he speaks of knowing Christ and the power of his resurrection. No longer were they behind barred doors. They came boldly out into the open and could not be silenced by the threats of the Jewish authorities. After Pentecost they came to realize that Christ was still with them by the spirit and that His promise to be with them always was indeed being fulfilled.

Third. The resurrection a prophecy The belief of the early church was that Christ was the first fruits of those that slept. Just as the first ripe sheaf is promise of the coming harvest, just as the first swelling bud is a promise or prophecy of the coming spring and summer.

The hope of immortality was in the world before Christ appeared among men, but how dim and vague compared with the assurance that Christ brought. It is said that in the ancient Greek cemeteries no inscription of hope is ever found. The inscriptions are all sacred to the memories of the past. In contrast, Christ abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. Death now means simply to depart and be with Christ which is very far better. "Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Twelve persons were baptised at the morning service at the church and three more in the evening. A notable incident of the day was the wonderful response the congregation made to an appeal to pay contributions towards the World Movement. An Easter day

POETRY

Savior Divine

The glory I had with Thee before the the world was—Jn. 17:2.

Before this earth itself began,
Ages of millions millions past,
As Science proves thro' astute men,
Evolved—said universe so vast—
With God the Truth—Christ claimed to be,
Existent from Eternity.

"The glory that I had with Thee
Before the world itself was made"—
Transcendent claim—as the deepest sea,
Surpasses streamlet of the glade.
Could Nazareth's Babe have been but man,
In glory thus e'er earth began?

Mere human Savior, Christ the Lord?
Blasphemer rather, if but man,
By saints nor angels pure adored
If not with God e'er Time began—
Faith's best is betting much vain ward,
If Christ's not Truth, all truth's absurd.

Robbed of His glory shall He be,
Pronounced but mortal in our thought?
Creatures of clay wiser than He
By whom the world itself was wrought?
Strange heights can fleshly pride attain
To count a Christ's assertion vain!

Why those at Cross of Calvary stand
With those who scoffed, to take one's part,
A nail to drive in that bruised hand,
With spear to pierce once more His heart—
Or ask with Pilate "What is truth"
This world remade, remaking proof.

Savior Divine—forbid we take
Aught of Thy glory thus away—
Thy mystery, shrouded, yet will break
We wait, unfolding, that Great Day
Of which, from Thine own lips we hear
Of Glory, in which Thou'll appear.

—By the Rev. George G. Phippa in Boston Transcript.

Old April

They call him Old April
Yet never such name
Has ever been showered
With infinite fame.
Still, he has a mission
Worth while, I contend
As 'round he goes swinging;
"Umbrellas to mend."
It's queer how umbrellas
Are held in disdain
Till we are without one
And caught in the rain.
Our scorn for umbrellas
We gibbly declare
When clouds all have vanished
And everything's fair.

We scoff at Old April
Our rainy-day friend,
Forgetting umbrellas
He really should mend.
But, when dark clouds gather
We gloomily sneer:
"When one needs Old April
He never is here."

Life's much like the weather,
We fair-day abuse
Unmindful of showers—
Till something goes wrong.
Then, out through the darkness,
We look for a friend—
Some Old April staging:
"Misfortune to mend."
—Wm. Heuschel in Indianapolis News.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Many a husband makes the mistake of thinking that the two goldfish are sufficient company for his wife evenings.—Boston Transcript.

Little Molly was being scolded for some misdemeanor and said rather sadly: "Please, mamma, don't say so many words to me."—Chicago News.

Suitor—Do you think that you could learn to love me?

The Lady—Possibly; but if I were a man, I'd hate to think I was an acquired taste.—Exchange.

Editor—In this poem you have used "Parnassus" where you meant "Pegasus."

Poet—Have I? How stupid of me! But the defect isn't vital, is it?—they are both mounts, you know.—Boston Transcript.

Traveler—I have often wondered why the English were such tea hounds.

Friend—Yes?

Traveler—Yeah, but I know now. I had some of their coffee.—Ottawa Citizen.

Cook—What are we having tonight, sir?

Mistress—Why, I've just told you—clear soup, fillet of sole, entrees, calf's head pudding.

Cook—I meant on the wireless, m'm.—Punch.

Our sexton doesn't like the new woman preacher.

What are his objections?

He says she isn't strong enough to keep the dust pounded out of the pulpit cover.—Listening Post (Montreal).

Young Lady (on first visit to western ranch)—For what purpose do you use that coil of line on your saddle?

Cowpuncher—That line, you call it, lady, we use for catching cattle and horses.

Young Lady—Oh, indeed. Now, may I ask, what do you use for hair?—London Telegraph.

KALEIDOSCOPE

There are no speed regulations for the sailfish, the speed demon of the gulf stream, a giant ocean traveler than can make more than sixty miles an hour, can rise clear of the water and travel in the air a distance of forty feet by the use of a great beak fin that acts as a sail, according to a writer in the Adventure Magazine.

Hearing the burglar alarm of the Clitsons' Savings Bank, of Cambridge, early in the morning, a squad of policemen went to the bank and surrounded it. Then they cautiously entered, to find the janitress on her knees trying to pick up a small piece of wood with her soapy fingers. It was a button connected with the burglar alarm.

A small mantel clock stopped more than thirteen years ago on the day and almost on the minute that its owner, Jonas Brown, of Allentown, Pa., died and refused to run, although members of the family had sent it to the repair shop many times. Recently it suddenly resumed its task of ticking off time. Members of the household say that no effort was made for many months to induce the clock to run and that it started of its own accord.

Maternal devotion fought with fear and conquered it at a fire in Brockton, Mass. It was only a hen and her chicks. Not six feet from where the bird and her brood made their stand the flames licked greedily and reached toward them. The feathered mother held her ground and covered her chicks with her ruffled wings. The firemen, applauding pluck, worked their hardest to keep the flames away from her corner and succeeded.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daly, of Lewiston, Me., are the parents of three children born on the 23d day of March. Francis is eleven, Thomas, nine and Eugene, seven. And to carry the thing a little further, Mr. Daly was also one of three children having the same birthday, February 16. The three boys mind sharing the same birthday, but, as Francis says, "What's the use of kicking? We can't do anything about it."

Statistics for 1923 show that more cocoa beans were handled in Bahia, Brazil, than ever before. Receipts for twelve months were 1,184,000 bags, exports were 1,061,710 bags, and stocks on December 31, 1923, were 100,-778 bags. Slightly more than 61 per cent (646,114 bags) of this extraordinary crop went to the United States, principally through the port of New York. Such a proportion was most unusual and was due to the partial paralysis of European demand.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

New York, April 20—(By the A. P.)—Little change was apparent in the character of the industrial reports which were received in business and financial quarters during the last week. A continuation of the slight slackening in steel production was taken as a normal consequence of the buying of the last several weeks. It was pointed out, however, that production was still large with the leading interests working at approximately 90 per cent of capacity.

The trade was awaiting Judge Gary's remarks at the annual meeting of the steel corporation and for the publication of the first quarterly earning statement and the dividend action which will come next week. It was thought that the earnings for the first three months of the year would be excellent and that a good business in the second quarter would be forecast.

Curtailments in the automobile industry continued to be a subject for considerable discussion. Conditions were decidely uneven, some companies running nearly full while others were on materially reduced schedules. The larger manufacturers, having made an unusually large number of cars during the first quarter of ths year, are better able to satisfy the spring demand for their products than formerly was the case. The result has been a reduced demand for the less popular cars. Sales to users are stated to compare favorably with last year and to be increasing with the advent of warmer weather.

Railroad car loadings showed another decrease, but this again was due principally to the slump in coal production and shipment. Bad weather also has affected the record for the week ended April 5, the last for which figures were available. Shipments of merchandise and less than carload freight remained, however, substantially ahead of the corresponding week in any other year and were slightly higher than in the preceding week.

Commodity prices displayed a firmer tone. The declines in grain and sugar prices terminated with fair rallies, cotton values gave way somewhat on profit taking, but recovered well and attained a fair degree of stability. Cotton consumption statistics for March had comparatively little effect on the market. They showed that curtailment had continued, but that it was not on as severe a scale as has been imagined. The March takings by the country's mills amounted to 484,000 bales, 73 per cent. of that in March a year ago when the high record for the post-war period was reached. Stocks in warehouses and manufacturing establishments, which amount to about three months supply at the March rath of consumption and experts, are nearly one hillion bales smaller than at this time last year.

With the leading European exchanges rallying briskly to new high levels for the year, much encouragement was derived from the speedy acceptance of the Dawes plan by the governments of the leading European allies and of Germany. The manifest desire to press acceptance before the general elections in France and Germany was taken as a testimonial of an earnest wish for a general settlement by all the parties to the reparation dispute.

This was considered indicative of improved European morale and of a desire to clear the way for the negotiation of the international loan which the Dawes plan recommends.

Russian Cathedral Male Quartette Here 4th of May

Rare Musical Program Will Be Given Sunday, May 4th

Music lovers in this city and visinity are looking forward with unusual interest to the rare treat to be afforded on Sunday, May 4th, in Community House, when Russian Cathedral Male Quartette of New York City, will present an artistic program of Russian and American songs. Programme will be given by representative Russian artists, and it is expected that the hall will be filled on that afternoon and evening.

The Company to appear here have been proclaimed the most unique of their kind in the world and since their arrival in this country their program of Russian Church, Operatic, Classical and Folk Song compositions have been most excellently received in the larger cities.

Tickets can be obtained at The Cranston Co. on Broadway, and at The Talking Machine Shop—$1.15, Including Tax.

Harry Van Hoch and son, of Bridgeport, were guests the past week of Mrs. E. A. Bishop.

A union service of the Center Congregational and Fitchville Baptist churches was held Good Friday, evening at the Fitchville church.

Mrs. O. A. Bishop was in Groton Thursday visiting her niece, Mrs. A. P. Calvert.

The output of newsprint paper in the United States in March totalled 119,098 tons, an excess of 734 tons over February.

MINUTES OF RESPECT

The Merchants National Bank

At a special meeting of the board of directors of The Merchants' National Bank, held, April 19, 1924, to take action on the death of the Vice President, Mr. Charles H. Phelps, the following minute was ordered spread upon the records:

Mr. Charles H. Phelps entered the employ of this bank as clerk in 1872. He was appointed Acting Cashier on March 12, 1885, and elected Cashier Feb. 4, 1888, which position he held continuously for thirty-nine years. On January 6, 1924, he was elected Vice President, this being his office at the time of his death.

He was made a director on January 29, 1886, and gave valuable and continuous service in this capacity, also as Secretary, and a member of the finance committee to which he was annually appointed.

His service to this institution and duties of his various offices, became the main object of his daily life, to which he gave his every effort, rarely absenting himself from the bank during these many years.

He was a quiet man, modest and unassuming; genial toward others at all times, regardless of their station in life; firm in his convictions of right and wrong, and altogether a true gentleman.

Our association with him has been pleasant and agreeable, his counsel in all matters productive of results profitable and permanent, and our loss in his death is correspondingly great.

It was voted: To devote a page in the records to his memory, and that this minute be spread thereon; and that a copy be sent to his surviving relatives.

Voted: That the directors and officers attend the funeral in a body, and that the bank close at two o'clock on the day of the funeral.

Attest: H. F. POWERS, Cashier.

The Dime Savings Bank

At a special meeting of directors of The Dime Savings Bank of Norwich Saturday, April 19th, 1924, the following minute was adopted and spread on the records:—

The death of our fellow director, Charles H. Phelps, has filled our hearts with sadness.

He was connected with this bank for twenty-five years as a corporator; and for the last eight years as a director; and he so endeared himself to each of us that we realize the loss of a true friend, who was also a valued business associate.

With him, duty always came first, and it was faithfully performed without any regard for his own welfare.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to his relatives and we will attend the funeral service, as a further expression of our sorrow and respect.

It was voted to close the bank at TWO O'CLOCK on the afternoon of the funeral.

Attest: JOHN H. PERKINS, Secretary

TAFTVILLE

Clarence Nagle and Edward Kearns of the Ponemah House were Saturday callers in Providence, making the trip in Mr. Nagle's new car.

Kenneth Harroun has returned to his home in Bridgeport after visiting George N. Beardow of Providence street.

Edwin Pollard who has been spending the holidays at the home of his father, William Pollard of South Second avenue, has returned to his home in Boston, Mass.

Michael Tierney and Mr. and Mrs. John Daugherty have returned to their home on North C street after attending Saturday's ball games in Boston.

Wendell Brown has returned after spending the holidays at the home of his parents in East Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood and son Mahlon have returned from a motor trip to Lake Wacabuk, N. Y.

Miss Nellie Hart Anger, at one time a teacher in the Wequonoc school, was the guest of Miss Mathilde Staffer over Easter Sunday. Miss Auger left Taftville with Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Werking to teach in the Lexington, Kentucky Normal school. Miss Auger is now living in Middlefield, Conn.

Jake Benoit, locally famous promoter, presided over the open meeting held on Friday night in the Army-Navy Hall by the "Fourth of July Celebration" Committee. Nothing definite was actually decided on. Rough plans for a bigger and better concert, horrible parade and celebration were laid and valuable prizes will be awarded for different events. Although, during the past years the parade has been on Fourth of July eve, it is thought that it might be better to hold it on Fourth of July morning at 8 o'clock to give out of town people a chance to be present. This matter was left to be settled at the next open meeting which will be on May 7th.

The Taftville Athletic association will hold an open baseball meeting in Ponemah Hall this evening to elect officers for the season and discuss the probability of a twilight league. Anybody who is interested in local sport is invited.

The funeral of Mrs. Oscar Archambault took place on Saturday morning at 10.30. A high mass was sung at the Sacred Heart church with Rev. C. O. Bellerose as celebrant. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery and the bearers were Edgar, Leon, and Romeo Archambault, sons of the deceased, Albert Maney, Hormisdas Garry and Edgar Armand. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends. There was a wealth of beautiful floral pieces. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge.

NORWICH TOWN

Following was the Easter sermon by Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich Town:

Text Luke 24:34. The Lord is Risen indeed.' On the resurrection is the church built and because of the Christian Scriptures exist. The resurrection is the final credential of each. Should the resurrection ever be abandoned as a historical fact, the Christain church will fall to pieces; because its own power of gracitation will cease to exist and the scripture will have no meaning.

Three is a tendency for some to maintain that the Eastern faith is independent of the Easter fact, therefore that the belief in immortality will survive, even if the fact of Christ's resurrection is abandoned; and the beautiful ethics of Jesus will survive, so far as we are now concerned, the Christian belief in immortality will survive, even when men have ceased to believe that Jesus came forth from the dead.

The Easter faith is the conviction of the victory of the crucified over death, of that power and righteousness of God, and the life of Him who is the first among many brethren. It was the fact that produced the faith; because Jesus rose from the dead and was and is alive forever more, the church rose from the dead and taught that we, too, shall live. We may affirm that the resurrection is the cornerstone, not only of the Christian church, but also of the Christian social system.

The resurrection is the basal fact of the Christian church and the Christian Scriptures. We know that Paul treated it in this light. He says in his elaborate discussion in I Cor., he uses it to justify the death of Christ to secure the forgiveness of sins; he also uses it to prove the supremacy of Christ exalted over "all rule and authority" even death, and as a proof of his resurrection he says: "If Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins; then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." But he brings out the foundation source and exclaims, "But now is Christ risen from the dead and became the first fruits of them that slept. What are the words of them that slept. What are the words the angels in white speak in the empty tomb? The words ring on across the ages: "Fear not ye; for I know ye seek Jesus which was crucified! He is not here; for He is risen, as he said. Come see the place where the Lord lay!"

At the Sacred Heart church, Easter was observed with special music and decorations, there was a large attendance at both masses. The purple vestments worn by the priest during Lent were replaced by those of white embroidered in gold. The altar was artistically decorated with Easter and calla lilies, carnations, roses and daffodils, arranged among potted palms. Typical among the Gentiles was the Paschal candal at the gospel side of the altar. At the 8.30 o'clock mass the singing by the children was full of sweetness and in harmony. At the 10 o'clock service Korman's mass was sung by the choir, the soloists being Mrs. Richard Quinn, Miss Mary Buckley, Le Roy Hubbard and Henry Jarvis.

Miss Elizabeth A Malone, organist, was in charge of the musical part of the mass.

The pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, preached from the gospel for the day. Mark 16:1-7.

There were many communicants at the first mass.

THIRD KU KLUX CROSS IS BURNED ON NORWICH HILLS

A fiery cross, 32 feet in height, with a 16-foot cross arm was burned on Hinckley hill, Sunday night, at 10 o'clock by the Ku Klux Klan. Just as the town clock sounded the hour a torch was applied to the huge cross which had been quickly set up in the darkness by the klansmen. Word that the K. K. K. was observing Easter Sunday by burning a cross on the hill quickly spread and the fiery emblem of the much talked of organization was watched from many sections, especially in the higher sections of the city.

Beside the cross was a large sign which read as follows:

Christ died on the cross to save humanity. We, as klansmen, are willing to die, like Christ, to save America.

(Signed) K. K. K.

Police headquarters paid no attention to the demonstration and the cross was allowed to burn itself out. This was the third appearance of the fiery cross in Norwich.

EASTER CONCERT BY THIRD BAPTIST SCHOOL

The Easter concert of the Sunday school of the Third Baptist church was held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church and there was an exceptionally large attendance.

The programme was as follows: Hymn, Joy to the World; prayer, by pastor, Rev. George R. Ferguson; recitation, The Lesson of Easter, Mabel Quinley; Scripture reading, Matthew 28, 1-10, Mabel Quinley and Elinor Howard; song, Christ Arose, school; dialogue, The First Easter, six members of boys' department; recitation, Easter Garments, Elizabeth Tarnoski; recitation, Signs of Spring, Marilyn Lund; song, Easter Is Here, Mrs. Elmer Mulkins' class; recitation, Consider the Lilies, Elinor Howard; dialogue, Once Upon a Time, Lee Quinley, Leroy Sebastian and Winifred Haydon; recitation, My Place, Woodrow Sebastian; song, Life Is the Message, Winifred Haydon and primary class; dialogue, The Lilies of Easter, three members of girls department; recitation, Love Your Work, Victoria McCabe; dialogue, When Jesus Smiles, Mary Jane Quinley and Elizabeth Tarnoski; solo, Blossom Bells, Mabel Quinley; dialogue, Resurrection.

Exercise—A Better Country. Cast: The Angel, Doris Lund; the Pilgrims, Minnie Quinley, Barton Hall, Dorothy Conklin, Helen Tarnoski, William Sebastian and Amy Jackson. Song, Our Jesus Is Risen Today, Mrs. George Bailey's and Mrs. Christopher Wunderlich's classes; remarks by the pastor, Rev. George R. Ferguson; Easter offering and hymn, All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name, members of school; benediction, Rev. Mr. Ferguson.

The Easter concert was given under the direction of Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham, assisted by Mrs. William A. Lund. The decorations of the church, which were most beautiful, and in keeping with Eastertide were arranged by women of the church.

This (Monday) evening the children of the Sunday school are to be entertained at a social in the chapel by the committee in charge of Sunday evening's program.

SERIES OF SERMONS BY UNIVERSALIST PASTOR

The Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) announces a series of four sermons by the minister, Rev. A. N. Foster, on successive Sunday mornings beginning April 27 and closing May 18. The subject will be Back to the Decalogue or An Ethical Religion the Supreme Demand of Our Day. The sermons will be upon the following themes: I. Moses and the Ten Commandments. II. Thou Shalt Not Kill. III. Thou Shalt Not Steal. IV. Thou Shalt Not Covet

Small Fire on Preston Bridge.

Preston bridge caught fire Saturday afternoon at 5.40 o'clock and the small blaze was quickly extinguished by the fire department which went to the bridge in response to a telephone call.

At 8.19 p. m. Saturday night the department responded to a telephone call for a chimney fire on Palmer street extension.

A man's wife is apt to get him into a bad scrape when she uses his razor to sharpen a lead pencil.

COW FOUND MUTILATED HAS TO BE KILLED

Another case of slashing and mutilation of a dumb animal came to light Sunday morning when a cow belonging to Moses Hyatt of 60 Spring street was found to have been so badly cut that it was in serious condition from loss of blood. The work looks like that of a degenerate, possibly the same one that mutilated two horses about two months ago in the stable of John O. Peckham on Thames street. Neither of the horses died, however.

Five policemen were kept busy on the Spring street case all day Sunday and there is a possibility that some clues may have been developed. A number of men from the West Side were before Capt. D. J. Twomey for questioning Sunday.

The cow was kept in a small stable in the rear of Mr. Hyatt's residence. During the night some miscreant took the cow out of the stable, led it up onto the hill behind the Hyatt lot, tied it to a tree and there committed the fiendish mutilation.

At First Baptist Church

Three persons were baptised at the Easter Sunday morning service at the First Baptist church, by Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the church. Four were baptised at the evening service. At the morning service Rev. Mr. Dunbar preached from the topic, The Power of Resurrection, text, Phil. 3:10—That I may know the power of his resurrection. In part he said:

Paul in his letter to the Philippians writes of his quest for the Holy Grail. His passion for the likeness to Christ in his own life reaches no higher plane than in the third chapter of this wonderful epistle. He is at his best when his keen intellect is on fire with mysticism. In his desire to know Christ he is ready to leave the heritage of the past, insofar as anyone can leave the past, that he might press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. One of these yearnings is that he might know the power of the resurrection. Not the resurrection as a historical fact or the resurrection of his own body after death, but rather Paul is interested in the power back of it all and desires that power for himself.

To see the influence of the resurrection in the affairs of the world we have only to read the story of the dark days between Friday and Sunday morning. Read of the disappointment, the horror, the shattered hopes, the defeated ambitions and the sorrow of early followers of Jesus. Then compare this story with the forty days following the resurrection. There is a life to live after all.

Only in our imaginations can we picture a world with a dead Christ. But let us use our imagination and picture the world without a risen Jesus. The effect of all Jesus preaching would have been lost. Had Peter and John offered the lame man at the gate silver and gold, he would have accepted them, but if they had told him to rise and walk in the name of a dead Christ, the two would have received in return a stream of curses. What place has the great commission in the world with a dead Christ? Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, teaching them to, observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Would a disciple dare to preach with Christ still in the tomb? We see the effect in the church where an unrisen Christ is preached — the city of New York there are about 1400 churches, one denomination which does not preach a risen Lord has nine. This same denomination attempted foreign missions but gave up after years of failure. The power of his resurrection is lacking.

To deny the resurrection of Christ is to deny a historic fact and because of this fact we are led to Paul's words "that I may know the power of his resurrection." The resurrection illustrates the mighty power of God. It is the assurance that Jesus was the son of God. There have been hundreds of good men in the past but none have returned from the tomb or grave. The resurrection strengthens our trust and belief in his teachings. These words of his, "In my father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you," carry a power and strengthen our hope for the future.

At Christ Church.

The resurrection is not only essential to Christianity because it alone accounts for the facts of the history of the religion of Christ, but it is essential to the Gospel. It needs real faith to make this Gospel dominant in the world and most assuredly the world needs this faith today, said Rev. Richard R. Graham, in his Easter Sunday morning sermon at Christ Episcopal church. The floral decorations were beautiful and the Easter music was very expressively sung by the choir. Rev. Mr. Graham, rector of the church, chose for his text for the morning sermon, I Peter 1:3—Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to His abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. In part Rev. Mr. Graham said:

Today the whole Christian world joins to commemorate that great event on which ultimately our whole Christian faith depends, the Resurrection of Jesus Christ by which alone we can account for the fact that those followers of Jesus of Nazareth who had seen all their hopes shattered by His death on the cross, are now born anew into a life of hope, which hope, strange to say, is as essentially connected with the failure of the Cross as it is with the triumph of the Resurrection.

Through the effect this event had on the disciples of Jesus the whole history of the world has been changed, because the whole religious thought of the world has been influenced by the Gospel these men preached. Whatever happened on that first Easter morning, and it is true that we cannot say exactly what did happen, it was sufficient to convince these men that the Lord had risen, and all the doubts and denials of that fact from the first days down to our own time have not been able to take from the millions of believers the certainty that the body taken down from the cross reappeared, as on this day, to die no more.

But we are distinctly told that the risen Christ was shown "not to all the people, but to witnesses chosen before God." The appearances to the disciples were real and actual; they came in spite of, and contrary to, the expectations of these men, and, therefore were not the creation of an imagination which deceived itself into believing things which were not so, but at the same time these appearances of the risen Christ were as we might say, the reward and result of faith, a faith which had indeed grown dim, which had been well nigh destroyed by the disaster of the cross.

The resurrection is not only essential to Christianity because it alone accounts for the facts of the history of the religion of Christ but it is essential to the Gospel, the good news of God, revealed to us in Christ. The Gospel of the resurrection is the Gospel of Hope, and it needs faith to accept this Gospel for ourselves; it needs real faith to make this Gospel dominant in the world and most assuredly the world needs this faith today.

The war and perhaps even more distinctly the frustration of our hopes which followed the peace made many feel that Christ was indeed crucified, dead and buried and they failed or refused to see any hope of a resurrection.

Even now the power of the Risen Christ is perhaps revealed only to a few chosen witnesses. Certainly that power can demonstrate itself only as those who do believe in it are faithful to their belief. If old hopes are to be revived; if the world is to be made better; if the Risen Christ is to rule more and more in the affairs of men, then we who profess to believe must truly accept the Gospel of the resurrection; we must be the witnesses for that life of hope which is based on the victory which Christ won when He rose from the dead.

At St. Mary's Memorial

Close to 3,000 communicants attended the three masses at St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday and following the last mass benediction of the blessed sacrament was given by Dr. Patrick J. McCormick of the Catholic University at Washington, D. C.

The low mass at 7.30 was offered by the rector, Rev. William A. Keefe and at this mass, which was the monthly holy communion day for the men and boys of the parish, hundreds went to the altar to receive the sacrament from Father Keefe, who had the assistance of Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. The 9 o'clock mass was offered by Father Coholan and the high mass at 10.30 by Rev. Dr. McCormick.

The sermons at each mass treated on the theme "He is risen. He is not here," the preachers portraying the resurrection of Christ as He Himself had foretold it. His resurrection is but a forerunner of our resurrection from the grave and it will depend upon how our lives are spent here as to the judgment which awaits us on the last day.

The work of Bishop Nilan in his diocesan charities was heartily commended by Father Keefe and the annual Easter offering taken up for this purpose proved to be a very generous one.

Beginning with the Gounod Kyrie through the Mozart portions of the mass St. Mary's choir again demonstrated its ability as an artistic singing organization. An outstanding feature was the Mozart Gloria which was truly inspiring. "Et Incarnatus," a tenor aria, with quartet accompaniment of much vocal difficulty was given a thoroughly musical interpretation in the capable work of Nicholas Spellman, tenor, Miss Sadie Driscoll, soprano, Miss Rose Malone, contralto and Horace Cornine, baritone.

The fine solo work of Miss Elinore Donovan and of John Fontaine and Edward T. Connelly contributed much to the service. The chorus was up to the usual high standard and will repeat the Easter program next Sunday.

At the nine o'clock mass the junior choir sang the Easter carols and the fresh young voices seemed to convey the joyous spirit of Easter. Miss Catherine Brennan and Teresa Portelance were the soloists at this service.

The Delaware and Hudson company had its biggest year in 1923, gross operating revenues amounting to $47,320,452, exceeding the previous maximum of 1921 by $1,534,894, the annual report stated.

CERTIFICATE

We have examined the books of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and its subsidiary companies, the Putnam Light & Power Company, Danielson & Plainfield Gas & Electric Company, and Lyme Electric Power Company, as at December 31, 1923, and certify that the consolidated balance sheet as at that date, with the relative profit and loss account, is correctly prepared therefrom.

The expenditures for additions to plant and equipment during the year were verified and found to be proper charges to the fixed asset accounts and the provision for depreciation for the year is fair and reasonable. The materials and supplies on hand were based on continuous book records and were valued at cost.

We have verified the investments and cash on hand by actual inspection or certificates obtained from the depositaries and satisfied ourselves that sufficient provision has been made for doubtful accounts receivable and all ascertained liabilities, and,

We certify that, in our opinion, the balance sheet shows the financial position of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and wholly owned companies at December 31, 1923, and the relative profit and loss account is correct.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS ON RECLAMATION

Chief Executive Urges Legislation for a Policy Providing That Payments Shall Be Assessed in Accordance With the Crop Producing Quality of the Soil—Informs the Legislators That Some Settlers Are Living on Irrigated Lands That Will Not Produce A Livelihood and at the Same Time Permit Payment of Money Expected by the Government.

Washington, April 21.—Immediate revision of the reclamation law along the lines indicated in the report of Secretary Work's fact-finding commission was recommended to congress today by President Coolidge.

In a special message, the president declared adoption of a "definite policy" toward reclamation projects to be imperative, and asked that "permanent relief" for settlers, rather than temporary extensions in reclamations payments be authorized by law.

The message follows:

"I would respectfully urge on congress the immediate necessity of revising the present reclamation law.

"The secretary of the interior appointed a special advisory committee of six members to study reclamation and make reports to him. That committee has completed its work and has made its report to the secretary of the interior and he has transmitted that report to me and I herewith transmit it to you.

"Many occupants of our reclamation projects in the west are in financial distress. They are unable to pay the charges assessed against them. In some instances settlers are living on irrigated land that will not return a livelihood for their families and at the same time pay the money due the government as it falls due.

"Temporary extensions of time and suspension of these charges serve only to increase their debts and add to their hardships. A definite policy is imperative and permanent relief should be applied where indicated.

"The heretofore adopted repayment plan is erroneous in principle and in many cases impossible of accomplishment. It fixes annual arbitrary amount that the farmers must pay on the construction costs of projects regardless of their production.

"In its place should be substituted a new policy providing that payments shall be assessed by the government in accordance with the crop producing quality of the soil.

"The facts developed by the special advisory committee show that of the government's total investment $18,851,145 will never be recovered. There will be a probable loss of an additional $8,830,000. These sums represent expenditures in the construction of reservoirs, canals and other work for the irrigation of lands that have proven unproductive.

"I recommend that congress authorize the charging off of such sums shown to be impossible of collection."

SUBPOENAED AS WITNESSES FOR WHEELER HEARING

Washington, April 21—Dr. O. M. Lanstrum, newly elected republican national committeeman, from Montana, and Charles Reifenrath, manager of the Helena Record, are to be subpoenaed by the special senate committee investigating the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana by a federal grand jury in his home state.

They are to be questioned on the basis of information contained in a letter which has come into the possession of the committee and which is described by the senator as tending to support his charge that the indictment is a "frame-up" and the result of his activities as prosecutor of the Daugherty committee.

The text of the letter, which was written by S. C. Ford, a republican, and formerly attorney general of Montana, to former Representative Tom Stout, of that state, is withheld, at least for the present. Senator Wheeler and his advisers take the position that the facts should be developed before the committee.

Subpoenaes have been issued for a number of other Montana men, including three members of the grand jury which voted the indictment. It is indicated that the jurors will be questioned about reports which have reached Washington that several ballots were taken before the indictments were returned.

More than a dozen witnesses are to be questioned and indications now are that the inquiry will consume much more time than at first supposed. Among the more important of the witnesses is Blair Coan, an agent of the republican national committee, who was active in an investigation in Montana before the indictment was returned. Coan is now in Washington.

Because of the failure of other witnesses to reach Washington the meeting of the committee scheduled for today was postponed. As soon as the witnesses arrive here the investigation will go forward and members of the committee plan to press it to a conclusion at as early a date as possible.

MYSTERY SOLVED BY THE DEATH OF J. W. WICKWIRE

Batavia, N. Y., April 21—The death in San Antonio, Texas, of J. Whipple Wickwire, aged civil war veteran of Akron, N. Y., which became known here today, placed a period after a mystery that has baffled western New York for five years.

Wickwire, reputed moderately wealthy, disappeared in 1919. His family believed him visiting relatives in the west. Subsequently inquiry revealed that he had not followed his announced plans and all trace of the veteran, then 81 years old, was lost.

In 1923 Surrogate Louis C. Hart of Erie county appointed Charles B. Pixley of this city temporary administrator of the Wickwire estate on petition of relatives who believed the man dead.

Mr. Pixley, in announcing Wickwire's death today, said that the veteran had been located in San Antonio several months ago, but had exacted a promise not to reveal his whereabouts, and had left his estate in the hands of the surrogate and Mr. Pixley for administration. He died without explaining the mystery of his disappearance.

FARMER KILLED HIMSELF WHILE CONSTABLE WAITED

Newington, Conn., April 21—Harry Luce, 47, farmer shot and killed himself in his barn today while Prosecutor Churchill and Constable Pitkin were waiting outside to take him to court on a charge of assaulting his wife, for which he had just been arrested. When the warrant was served by the constable, on a complaint by his wife, Luce asked to go into the barn with a milk pail. The officers heard the shot and found Luce dead with a bullet hole through the head and a revolver nearby. Besides his wife he leaves three children.

ARREST OF AN ALLEGED BANDIT IN NEW BRITAIN

New Britain, Conn., April 21—Stanley King was arrested at the local railroad station this afternoon and held on a charge of robbery in East Hampton, Mass. According to the police King and another man held up a merchant in East Hampton Saturday night. King's companion was caught but he escaped. Cash totalling $250 and some checks were found in King's pockets when he was arrested.

SHOWDOWN IN SENATE ON BONUS BILL TODAY

Washington, April 21.—A showdown on the proposal for a cash option in the pending straight insurance soldier bonus bill was demanded in the senate today by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, after his party leaders earlier in the day had formally withdrawn such a substitute measure.

Agreement was reached to vote on the cash option proposal tomorrow afternoon and Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, in charge of the measure, announced he would seek a final vote on the bonus bill by tomorrow tonight.

Senator Copeland offered a cash option amendment which was drawn up by the minority members of the finance committee and which Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts its author, just previously had announced would not be pressed. Mr. Walsh had said he would offer the amendment when the pending insurance bill became a law.

When Senators Copeland, Dill, democrat, Washington, and Norris, republican, Nebraska, earlier had requested Mr. Walsh to put the proposal forward now "and let the blame for its defeat fall where it may" the Massachusetts senator was defended in his course by Senator Robinson, Arkansas, democratic leader. Senator Robinson and Senator Walsh insisted that to put the cash option in the bill now would work probably to defeat any bonus legislation. They pointed to the declarations of several republican senators who announced on the floor, they would vote to sustain a presidential veto of a cash and insurance bill but would vote to override a veto of the straight insurance measure.

The pending insurance bill has received the endorsement of the American legion and Commander Quinn last Saturday sent each senator a message urging that no attempt be made to amend it.

"OMNIBUS" MILITARY BILL PASSED BY THE SENATE

Washington, April 21.—An "omnibus" military bill, designed to correct a number of inaccuracies or inadequacies in present laws was passed today by the senate, with only brief discussion. It provides for:

Relieving the president of the necessity of reviewing minor cases of infraction of regulations.

Authorizing equal subsistence and other allowances for the Philippine Scouts as now made for the regular army.

Permitting the purchase of secret apparatus by the secretary of war without public advertisement of specifications.

Establishing a department of economics, government and history at the military academy at West Point.

Protecting government employes of loss of pay when called for training as reservists.

Placing army field clerks in the list of those eligible for retirement.

Authorizing payment of nearly $1,000,000 in admiralty claims against the war department.

Authorizing sale of military equipment to the Cuban government.

Authorizing the detail of officers on request of South and Central American governments as instructors.

Giving Philippine Scouts all retirement rights after thirty years service at three-quarters of the base pay plus $1.50 for allowances.

GEN. CAVAZOS, MEXICAN REBEL LEADER, KILLED

Mexico City, April 21.—(By The A. P.)—General Marcial Cavazos, rebel leader who for months has menaced rail communications north of Mexico City, was surrounded near the village of Puebla Nueva, near Pachuca, this morning with 80 followers, and was killed, together with General Lorenzo Alanis.

The bodies of General Cavazos and General Olanis are to be exhibited.

General Cavazos with 400 men attacked Pachuca Saturday but was repulsed after heavy street fighting. Later he was overtaken near Cardenal, state of Hidalgo, by General Daniel Rios Zertuche with 1,000 men. Another 1,000 men were quickly rushed from Pachuca in automobiles but Cavazos managed to break the circle with a force of picked troops.

Airplanes from Mexico City, however, quickly located him near Puebla Nueva where he was surrounded and died fighting. The federal troops took more than 200 prisoners, according to an official report of the battle.

Liquor Testimony Feature of Hearing

Speaker Gillett Makes Emphatic Denial Before Daugherty Investigating Committee.

Washington, April 21—Allegations of liquor disappearances at the department of justice, of defaults in anti-trust law prosecutions, and of privileges extended to "millionaire" convicts at Atlanta, federal penitentiary were made today before the senate Daugherty investigating committee.

Speaker Gillett of the house was allowed to open the hearing by entering an emphatic denial that any of the liquor seized by the department ever reached him, and Chairman Houston Thompson of the federal trade commission, who will be heard to greater extent later, began an account of that body's endeavor to induce the department of justice under Attorney General Daugherty to institute criminal proceedings under the anti-trust law.

Speaker Gillett's appearance before the committee was brief, although sparks flew once or twice in his personal exchanges with H. L. Scaife, a former investigator for the department of justice, who stated last week that liquor from seized stocks got into his hands. The only basis for the story, Mr. Gillett said, was that he did recover for a constituent a trunk, seized because it contained liquor back in 1919, but only after the liquor was removed.

F. M. Boucher, a clerk dismissed by W. J. Burns, from the bureau of investigation of the department of justice in 1921 said officials in the department had been accustomed to keep good liquor from seizures in their offices, for dispensing to friends, while Alonso E. Bunch, who got a court order for the restoration of over 100 cases of whiskey, told a story of long and fruitless efforts to get it back, and asserted that it had all been "used up." E. B. McLean, Washington, publisher, got some of it, Bunch insisted, on the word of a man who hauled it away from department of justice store rooms.

During one brief dip into the situation surrounding the Montana indictment of Senator Wheeler, prosecutor," the committee was told by Robert S. Glenn, of Nashville, Tenn., that a justice agent had asked him for facts as to Wheeler last March, and had endeavored to induce him to arrange a personal conference between the governor and Mr. Daugherty, "to call it never off of Daugherty."

J. E. Wilkins, prison guard and school superintendent at Atlanta until April 16, when he was suspended, was then head and touched on drug trafficking in the institution. George Remus, an Ohio bootlegger, Wilkins said, had a private room and bath at the prison, and along with two or three other wealthy inmates was given special dining room service and comforts designed to alleviate the monotony. He said it was the impression that they were given consideration because they had money, but he did not know to whom the funds so applied may have gone.

Adjournment was taken at the call of the chairman.

VETERANS BUREAU MATTER PLACED BEFORE PRESIDENT

Washington, April 21.—A disagreement of long standing between Chairman Reed and Senator Oddie of Nevada, the reports on the senate veterans bureau investigating committee, as to whether there should be immediate and sweeping changes on the organization of the bureau was taken today to President Coolidge.

After listening to the senator for some time, the president took the matter under advisement. It is expected that he will confer with Director Hines before reaching any conclusion.

Upon leaving the White House Senator Oddie summed up his criticisms of the bureau in this manner:

"Improper functioning from the start of the war risk insurance and the veterans' bureau due to wrong policies; improper organization; and incompeten personnel in the principal positions."

Senator Reed made this statement: "I am in agreement with Senator Oddie about the results to be obtained, but I am not in agreement with him on the methods of obtaining them.

Both senators emphasized that their disagreement was a perfectly friendly one. It is fundamental, however, as Chairman Reed takes the position that Director Hines should be given a free hand to work out the difficulties encountered in speeding up claims and in dealing generally with the veterans. On the other hand, Senator Oddie holds that the director cannot obtain the best results with his present corps of assistants.

LIGHT VOTE EXPECTED IN NEW JERSEY PRIMARIES

Newark, N. J., April 21.—In the absence of contests of consequential proportions in either party, a light vote is expected tomorrow when New Jersey voters go to the polls to express presidential preference.

Election of a majority of the state's thirty-one republican delegates for President Coolidge is regarded a certainty by state leaders, notwithstanding the personal invasion of New Jersey last week of Senator Hiram W. Johnson. The Californian, who has a complete slate of delegates in the field, is not expected to cut into the Coolidge total, although Johnson supporters predict success in several districts, particularly those embracing industrial centers.

Governor George S. Silzer is assured New Jersey's thirty-two delegates to the democratic national convention. No other name will appear on the ballot, although in the fifth district, Hugh McKeown and James J. Walsh are running independently as "unpledged and against the unit rule." Their chances for success, however, are regarded as remote by county leadeds.

36 OFFICERS OF MALLEABLE IRON COMPANIES INDICTED

Cleveland, Ohio, April 21.—Federal warrants for the arrest of 36 officers of Malleable Iron companies, under indictment for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, were drawn by District Attorney A. E. Bernstein, after the failure to appear today for arraignment. One officer was reported sick.

Summonses also were issued by the court for thirty-five corporations who failed to enter pleas. Twelve officers and ten corporations pleaded not guilty.

No Federal Troops For Arizona Embargo

Secretary Weeks Denies Requets That Troops Be Made Available For Enforcement.

Washington, April 21.—Use of the federal troops in the enforcement of the foot and mouth embargo on traffic between California and Arizona is illegal and requests that troops be made available for that work were denied today by Secretary Weeks.

The secretary acted after he had obtained an opinion from Major General Bethel, judge advocate general of the army.

A request to the war department by Arizona authorities for an army airplane to patrol the Arizona-California border, also was denied. Money appropriated by congress for aircraft operations, it was held, could not be expended for such work.

66 STOCKS SELL AT LOW PRICES OF THE YEAR

New York, April 21.—Sixty-six separate stocks established new low prices for the year in an active selling movement in today's stock market which was based on the pessimistic interpretation placed on Chairman Gary's remarks at the annual stockholders' meeting of the U. S. Steel Corp., and unfavorable reports relative to the oil industry.

One of the features of the session was a 17 point break in Congoleum, one of the most active specialties, on the breaking up of a "bull" pool in that stock. Total transaction in this issue exceeded 100,000 shares, or more than one-tenth of the day's business.

U. S. Steel dropped nearly 3 points to 95 5-8 and then rallied to 96 1-8 on selling undoubtedly inspired by Mr. Gary's statement that a further recession in business was likely because of the fact that this is a presidential year. Among the issues which sold at their lowest prices of the year were Baldwin, American Can, Gulf States Steel, American Sugar Refining, American Woolen, Du Pont, Baltimore and Ohio, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Pacific, Cosden, Houston, Producers and Refiners and Atlantic Refining.

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS IN SESSION IN NEW YORK

New York, April 21.—Newspaper editors and publishers from all parts of the United States and Canada were gathering here tonight for a series of meetings which will be inaugurated tomorrow with the annual luncheon of the Associated Press at which President Coolidge will speak.

The American Newspaper Publishers' association, the executive committee of the Morning Newspaper Publishers' association, and the North American Newspaper Alliance will hold conventions later in the week.

President Coolidge's address, the second he has made in New York this year, will be broadcast from the Waldorf-Astoria by radio arrangements even more elaborate than obtained at the Lincoln Day dinner here on February 12. Eleven large broadcasting stations east of the Rockies will receive the speech over nearly 7,000 miles of telephone wires, and will relay it to their respective communities. The broadcasting will start at 1.45 p. m. New York time.

LEGISLATION ADVOCATED FOR RESTITUTION OF BEER

House Judiciary Committee Hears Arguments For Action That Would Permit the Sale of 2.75 Per Cent. Beer—Samuel Gompers Based Advocacy on the Ground That It Would Give the Working Man "A Good, Palatable, Nourishing Drink" That Had "Warmth" in it—Other Labor Leaders Urged Reasonable Modification of the Volstead Act.

Washington, April 21.—Another attempt to bring back 2.75 beer by modification of the Volstead act was made today before the house judiciary committee.

Samuel Gompers, president, and other representatives of the American Federation of Labor, vigorously urged legislation that would permit once more the sale of beer with this alcoholic content on the ground that it would give the working man a "good, palatable, nourishing drink" that had "warmth" to it.

Matthew T. Woll, president of Photo Engravers International Union and also a vice-president of the labor federation, declared the 18th amendment did not attempt to define what drinks were intoxicating, and that congress had the power to legalize the sale of a 2.75 per cent. beverage.

Members of his organization, Mr Woll asserted, are strongly in favor of modification. He said the only opposition to resolutions of the Photo Engravers' union declaring its stand on the question come from "reds" whom he declared to be "feeding" on the disorder which has been brought about through attempts to enforce prohibition laws.

The doctrine of state right, Mr. Woll said, has been "wiped out by this fanatical idea, that everybody might be made good." If the individual "is no longer sovereign of himself and his morals" he said, "then the state should handle our property and communism will reign supreme."

James O'Connell, president of the metal trades department of the federation, declared prohibition enforcement is the colossal joke of the age" and is creating a "total disregard of respect for law that is appalling. Any law that cannot be enforced by the citizenship, he said, should be modified, especially when it is violated by the "whole citizenship."

All of the labor spokesmen asserted they did not wish to see the return of the saloon, and sought only reasonable modification.

PROTEST "DRY" CONTROL OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL

Washington April 21—Vigorous protest against proposed legislation to make the use of all alcohol for industrial purposes subject to control by the prohibition enforcement bureau was entered today by the American Chemical Society. The society's council, at a meeting preliminary to the opening of the organization's six day annual convention here tomorrow adopted a report of the committee on industrial alcohol declaring the bill introduced by Representative Crampton of Michigan proposing creation of a separate prohibition bureau in the treasury department would "throttle the vast industrial machine built around the legitimate uses of alcohol."

"It is unfortunate," the committee's report said, "that the prominent workers for prohibition do not direct their efforts to the detection and prosecution of violations of the law instead of seeking by every method to acquire the authority to pass on the needs and rights of the industries to alcohol and to arbitrarily saddle this authority on the industries."

The report urged that instead of the proposed transfer of control over the industrial use of all forms of alcohol from the internal revenue bureau to the separate prohibition bureau that would be set up under the Cramton bill, there be established a commissioner of industrial alcohol to enforce those portions of the law pertaining to industrial uses.

More than three thousand delegates representing every branch of the chemical science and its industrial application are expected to be in attendance when the convention is formally opened tomorrow by Professor Lee H. Baekland of Columbia University the society's president.

MADAME DUSE'S BODY TO BE SENT TO ITALY

New York, April 21.—Eleanora Duse's death in Pittsburgh today cut short her third tour of the United States which opened in the Metropolitan Opera House here the night of last October 29, when she appeared in Ibsen's "The Lady of the Sea," and was to have ended in this city within a few weeks.

Her return to public life, after an absence of 15 years, was hailed as an artistic event, and the actress already 64 years old, had her audiences at her feet throughout her brief engagement. "Duse and Bernhardt," wrote the critics, and those who saw and heard her echoed the words.

"La Duse" first considered a third tour of this country early in 1922. She was almost penniless. Most of her fortune had gone in war work. She was ailing, and thoughts of the travel hardships that would confront her thousands of miles from her Italian home made her waver in her decision, but in July, 1923, she finally determined to essay the trip. She had in the meantime, appeared in a half a dozen London performances and London had acclaimed her. Premier Mussolini had called on her, saying he wished, through her, to pay tribute to the Italian theatres as a means to the education and elevation of the people.

Mme. Duses body will be brought to New York tomorrow and will be sent to Italy on the steamship Diulio, which will sail for Genoa, May 1. Arrangements are being made by Fortune Gallo, one of those in charge of the American tour. Twenty members of her company will accompany the casket.

WHIRLWIND CLOSE OF PRIMARY CAMPAIGN IN PENN.

Philadelphia, April 21.—The fight between Governor Pinchot and Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Morristown publisher, for election as a delegate at large to the republican national convention, overshadowed all other contests in the state-wide pdimaries tomorrow, as the campaign closed tonight.

Enlivened by the controversy between the governor and Representative William S. Vare, a republican leader of Philadelphia, as a result of the latter's withdrawal of his support from Pinchot, the campaign, heretofore listless, was brought to a whirlwind close in an atmosphere surcharged with denunciation and recrimination and with claims of the rival factions widely at variance.

The governor went down the home stretch declaring that prohibition was the issue that caused Vare to withdraw his support, while Mr. Strassburger and his supporters called attention to Pinchot's suggestion for the appointment of Francis J. Heney, of San Francisco, as counsel for the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau and asserted that "loyalty to President Coolidge" was the only question at stake.

MENTAL STATUS OR THAW WILL BE DECIDED TODAY

Philadelphia, April 21.—Whether Harry K. Thaw is sane or a lunatic will be decided by a jury here tomorrow, testimony in his trial and the addresses of opposing counsel having been virtually completed today before Judge John Monaghan.

"I'll be free tomorrow!" was Thaw's confident assertion to his counsel as court adjourned.

Admission by two alienists, called to the stand by counsel opposing his release, that during Thaw's confinement at the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases he had shown no indications of insanity, was taken by his lawyers as a strong point in their favor although both alienists stated he was suffering from "moral insanity."

COOLIDGE WILL ADDRESS THE A. P. MEMBERS TODAY

Washington, April 21. — President Coolidge, in leaving Washington tonight for New York where tomorrow he will address the members of The Associated Press at their annual luncheon, undertook his second trip away from the capital since he entered the White House and the last trip he probably will make before the meeting of republican national convention.

Mr. Coolidge recently abandoned a proposed trip to Indiana and in doing so announced that the engagement to go to New York for the Associated Press luncheon probably was the only out-of-tow one that he would be able to fill prior to the adjournment of congress.

Less than ten hours will be spent by the president in New York. His special train will arrive there in the morning before most of the city is awake. It will be switched to a quiet position in the station and the president with the members of his personal party will go to the Waldorf Astoria for breakfast.

The president has arranged no programme for tomorrow forenoon. But it is expected that he will have several conferences, some of which probably will be of a political nature. The luncheon at which he will speak is at one o'clock and soon there after he will board his train for the return trip to Washington.

The president's party consists only of Mrs. Coolidge and Edward T. Clark his personal secretary, C. Bascom Slemp, the secretary to the president was prevented from making the trip by a cold.

DORMITORIES FOR GIRLS AT ASBURY COLLEGE BURNED

Wilmore, Ky., April 21.—Mary Crawford and Glide Hall both dormitories for girls, and the power plant at Asbury college were destroyed by fire here today with an estimated loss of $200,000.

Arrival of a fire engine from Lexington, about 25 miles away, saved other college buildings from destruction and relieved the population of the fear that the fire might spread to the town. Three deep wells on the college campus provided an available water supply and within a couple of hours after the arrival of the Lexington engine the fire was under control.

The fire originated in the basement of the Mary Crawford hall discovery at its inception enabled the young women to leave the building when Glide hall was threatened, it also was ordered vacated.

Meanwhile a high west wind fanned the fire and carried embers to other college buildings as well as to nearby cottages outside the campus. Scores of men by this time were striving to subdue the flames with little success. Fearing that the fire ultimately would sweep the village, calls were sent out for help to nearby cities. The Lexington fire department responded with a fire engine which proved to be the turning point in the battle.

The dormitories destroyed were brick structures, 40 by 300 feet, three stories in height.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKE SPREADS IN HAVANA

Havana, April 21.—The motormen and conductors of the Havana street railways quit work today in sympathy with the striking dock workers. The 5,000 or more taxicabs of the city saved the day for the traveling public, but tonight fears were expressed that their drivers would go on strike tomorrow.

The street car company succeeded in keeping ten cars in operation, and expressed the hope tonight that additional cars would be run tomorrow. Most of the Spanish language evening newspapers suspended publication today.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
81. Church St. Telephone 1082

With a view to attain greater efficiency in the fire department several important changes have been made in the administration and routine for Engine Company No. 1 of the Bank Street Engine house by Chief James J. Tighe of the department. Michael J. English has been advanced from hoseman to acting lieutenant and a code of rules has been promulgated.

The latter went into effect Sunday.

Assistant Chief Henry J. Kelley has been assigned to the command of the first platoon, which consists of himself, Edward J. Manemann, Eugene F Martin and Charles A. Reynolds. At present, the second platoon is in charge of Acting Lieutenant English. The other members are Amos C. Barber, Joseph J. Grimes and William L. Smith. Under the new system of administration, Chief Tighe, who is also captain of the company will have a decided advantage in the execution of his various duties which include that of building inspecting, as he will have considerable more liberty.

The new code of rules calls for a desk watch daily from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. This movement is a wise one, in that still calls may be received promptly. Although still alarms have in the past been received as quickly as possible the new system is inaugurated more for the purpose of regulating the receipt of telephone calls and for precaution For each member oof the company, including the officers, the watch period is two and one-half hours, at such times as the member's platoon is on day duty.

In connection with this, Chief Tighe requests that any resident giving alarmd to the station by telephone give such information as is necessary, such as the location of the place and nature of the fire. This will insure faster service and more suitable equipment when the location of the fire is reached.

Under the new rules, it is forbidden to place chairs in the station doorways. Motors will be tested twice daily, at 7.50 a. m. and at nine p. m. All routine work is to be completed at 11.30 o'clock in the morning. For transgression of these rules all members are subject to reprimand, fine, reduction in rank and salary, suspension or dismissal.

Clarence Rowsell of the village of Buckland, town of Manchester, who was taken to the police station Saturday and ordered to appear in court Monday on charges of intoxication and assault on his wife, Hattie French Rowsell, pleaded not guilty. Judge Dean was on the bench.

Mrs. Rowsell appeared considerably embittered against her spouse. She said that he did not support her and accused him of being a loafer. She said that he beat her up quite often and a few weeks ago started to butcher her with a knife. She displayed a scar which she claimed was caused by her husband when he attempted to cut her heart out.

Witness said that she came to Willimantic with her husband in an automobile Saturday to visit relatives on Carey street. About nine o'clock in the evening they left for their home and when on Oak street her husband struck her in the mouth with his fist while she was driving the car. She abandoned the machine and went into a house to call the police.

She said that they were married a year ago last January. Her husband was a tree surgeon but did very little work. He drank heavily and was drunk Saturday night when he struck her. She wanted to divorce him, but he kept coming back to her home, which she owned, in Buckland. The place had been left her by her first husband.

Motorcycle Officer Bombria who made the arrest, testified to being summoned to the corner of Oak and Summit streets. He found a man waiting beside the car. Mrs. Rowsell later came out of a nearby house and at her request he placed her husband under arrest. The woman displayed a cut lip and held a bloody handkerchief to her face. She said her spouse had struck her for no reason. The officer stated that Rowsell appeared to be under the influence of liquor and he smelled strongly of liquor, but remained quiet.

Lieutenant McLean also testified that Rowsell appeared intoxicated, when taken into the station house.

Rowsell told the court about the "sorry day" when he married his wife. He was a graduate of the New Hampshire State college and was a tree expert by profession. It was true that he had not worked for five or six weeks, but when he was employed he turned over all his money to her. "Everybody knows about her bad temperament" said the accused. They had had a little trouble at the home of his wife's rleatives and when starting home she reached down to the floor of the car adn picked up an automobile crank and raised it to strike him. He then pushed his hand against her face and she started to cry and got out of the car. He alleged that his wife was always striking him with something or other. He displayed a mark on his forehead which he said was caused when his wife used a fork on him, also showed a scar on his palm.

Rowsell admitted having had two drinks before leaving Hartford, but denied being drunk. Judge Dean found Rowsell guilty of assault and imposed a fine of $10 and costs amounting to $18.15, which was paid by a friend. The charge of intoxication was nolled. The couple were sized up by the court. Rowsell would be a fitting candidate for the light heavyweight class, while his wife is a small woman.

Frank Rousseau was charged in the police court with intoxication and breach of the peace and found guilty. Judge Dean imposed a fine of $10 and costs which was paid. Rousseau was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law where he started to clean the house of its occupants.

The following wedding announcement of local interest appeared in the April 17 issue of The Nashua Telegraph.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Philbrick, 15 Howard street, this morning, Mrs. Philbrick's sister, Miss Florence L. Truell of Windham, Conn., became the bride of Harry N. Mosely of Scotland, Conn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Laurence L. Barber, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, under a bridal arch of carnations and ground pine. The bride was attractively attired in grey canton crepe and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Philbrick and her brother, Harry W. Truell of this city. The bride carried white sweet peas and her sister, the matron of honor carried pink sweet peas. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Nellie Harmon. Following the ceremony a reception was held for the 20 relatives and out of town guests present and a collation was served. The bride is principal of the grammar school at Windham, Conn., and the groom is a mail carrier. Following a wedding trip by automobile to New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Mosely will reside in Scotland, Conn.

At St. Mary's church Monday mornign, the marriage was solemnsed of Arthem Aubin, son of Stanislas Aubin of 28 Carey street and Miss Lena Allaire, daughter of Tetienne Allaire of 54 Broad street. Rev. E. A. Mathieu performed the ceremony, also celebrated the nuptial mass. Violin solos were rendered during the ceremony by George Desrosier of Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau was at the organ. The best man was Edward Brookman and Miss Celanise Coutu was maid of honor.

The bride was gowned in silver grey canton crepe with grey hat. Her maid of honor wore a French blue canton crepe gown with hat to match. Both carried bride roses.

The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride. Relatives and friends from Worcester, Woodsocket, R. I., Danielson, Putnam and this city attended. Mr. and Mrs. Aubin, have gone for a honeymoon journey to Boston, Lowell and Holyoke, after which they will reside at 28 Carey street.

Mr. Aubin is employed at the Hillhouse and Taylor plant and the bride has been employed at the American Thread company plant. The bride's gifts were especially beautiful.

When the commen council convenes for its next monthly meeting it is expected that announcement will be made as to the condition of the footbridge, the long steel structure which extends from the head of Railroad street to Pleasant street. The bridge, which enables pedestrians to cross from the center of the business section of the city to Brooklyn side, is now undergoing an inspection by Engineer A. H. Greenwood and his assistant. The inspection of the bridge is the outgrowth of the adoption of a resolution sponsored by Alderman William E. Jackson, chairman of the footbridge committee, to have the safety of the bridge determined by experts. The engineer comes from the firm of Greenwood and Noerr of Hartford. The task will not be completed until several days later when a full report will be handed to Alderman Jackson.

Motorists were telling here Monday of a powerful automobile which skidded on the North Windham road early in the afternoon and after narrowly missing a telegraph pole climbed up a 15-foot embankment. The machine then tore down part of a stone wall and rolled back easily down the bank to the highway. The journey was resumed without serious damage.

Mrs. Julia Sparks King, died Sunday in Preston. She was a native of Willington Hill. She leaves her husband.

Funeral services for Judson A. Potter were held at 1.30 o'clock Monday afternoon from his home on North street. Rev. F. F. Foshay, pastor of the First Baptist church officiated. Clarence Carpenter, 17, son of Chas. S. Carpenter of Leonard's Bridge is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from a painful injury sustained Monday noon while engaged in cutting timber in the woods, a short distance from his home. The axe struck a branch which caused it to be thrown to one side striking him on the left foot, opening up a gash five inches long and three inches deep. Young Carpenter was rushed to the hospital in an automobile.

A report circulated here Monday that the 24-passenger auto bus on the Danielson-Willimantic line had turned over on the North Windham road Sunday night, and that several people had been injured was found to be mainly untrue. While turning out to allow an automobile to pass the wheels on the right side of the bus left the macadam and sunk to the hubs in the mud. Two tractors of the state highway department were commissioned to extricate the bus. None of the passengers was injured.

Sealed proposals for the laying of new sidewalks in the city during the coming year were recently opened by two or three members of the street committee, Aldermen William A. Buck and Charles H. Boobe. Alderman George W. Hickey was absent. The bidders were David P. Ahern who had the contract last year, Merrill H. Jones and Samuel Porcaro. The difference in the figures was so slight that the committee decided to defer action upon the contract to a later date.

Shetucket Grange, No. 69 Patrons of Husbandry of Scotland has at present a membership of over one hundred, the largest in the history of the organization. Learn how millions get whiter teeth

This offers a delightful test which will bring a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

It means whiter, cleaner, safer teeth, such as millions now enjoy. See what it brings to you.

The war on film

Dental science is now fighting film — the cause of most tooth troubles.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth. Under old methods of tooth brushing, much of it remains.

It becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth look cloudy.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

These troubles became almost universal when that film was left on teeth.

Modern research has discovered two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Tests have proved that these methods mean a new era in teeth cleaning. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now the use of Pepsodent has spread the world over, largely by dental advice.

Look at what Pepsodent does

The use of Pepsodent will bring at once a new conception of clean teeth.

It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined effects will be a revelation to you.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Compare the new way with the old, then decide for yourself what is best. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

JUDGEMENT FOR PLAINTIFFS IN VOLUNTOWN CASES

In suits brought against Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Voluntown by Catherine Osga and Marcia Osga, Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court has handed down judgement for $125 for the former and $100 for the latter. The suits grew out of an automobile accident in which a machine driven by the priest's chauffeur struck a horse and wagon belonging to the Osga family.

Judgement for $135 in favor of Rose Chioda of this city against Vincenso Figmanaro on a suit for slander was given by Judge Waller but he found for the defendant Figmanaro in a case in which assault was alleged.

In a suit over a contract for lumber in which Charles P. Bliven was plaintiff and Philip A. Robinson defendant, Judge Waller gave judgment for the plaintiff for $157.68.

GIVEN FINE OF $5 IN MONTVILLE COURT

STRAND THEATRE

The B. F. Keith Easter vaudeville offering at the Strand the first half of this week far surpassed all previous programs and the unanimous opinion of the capacity audience all testified as it being wonderful.

Ridiculous Recco in failing for fun, made a lively opening act. Funny and thrillingly reckless falling made his offering an outstanding hit.

Harry Masters and Dotty Gray followed with a comedy skit by Ed. Lowry entitled "Oh! Harry." Smartness keen satire and good song makes this comedy very much worth-while.

Dressed in the clothes of yesterday, Eugene Emmett who is often referred to as "America's Sweetest Singer," is heard in a "Family Revue". There is pathos, humor and sentiment in his voice and with the assistance of another vocalist and accompanist makes this one of the very unusual offerings.

Joe Rollard and Elsie Ray in "By Appointment" ran away with the comedy honors. In vaudeville lingo the offering is a "wow" and must be seen to be appreciated.

And to top off this splendid array, the feature of the bill Echoes of Scotland offering a wee bit of Scotch and Irish with seven people was the best act of its kind ever seen in Norwich.

Last night the patrons of the Strand Theatre were pleasantly surprised with the screen version of William MacHarg's popular story which was so widely read in Hearst's International Magazine. The picture was heralded some weeks before as a winner and it certainly lives up to all that has been said about it.

BROADWAY THEATRE

"America", D. W. Griffith's screen epic of the War of American Independence, which had its premiere at the Broadway Theatre last night and will continue today and Wednesday, although it did not begin to take actual form until last summer, has really been several years in the making.

For years Griffith has been preparing to make a film dealing with the American Revolution. He had amassed a wealth of data and had even prepared a story. But the matter lay dormant until the Daughters of the American Revolution, seeking a means of making a contribution to the sesquicentennial of the struggle for freedom, prevailed upon him to undertake the task of putting the ideals of our forefathers into motion picture form.

Accepting this commission, Griffith's first act was to establish a special research bureau to complete his own efforts at obtaining the very necessary meticulously accurate historical information. The work of this bureau consumed months and took members of the research bureau across the seas to there inquire into the modes and stiquette of King George Third.

Barnyard And Balehay's Circus

If the "Y" gymnites have their way there will be very little gloom about the "Y" building Tues. and Wed. night when the exponents of exercise put on "Barnyard and Balehay's" circus. Elaborate plans have been made by the various committees to make this the biggest show on "maple" and the Y's have in mind everything that goes with a white top attraction from the pink lemonade down to the thrillers in the big tent.

The "show grounds" will open to the public at 7 o'clock sharp when the big sideshow, ticket wagon and other concessions will be open to the indulgence of the early comers. The ballyhoo men will keep things humming on the grounds until 7.45, when the "big tent" will open, and after a short concert by Swahn's Orchestra, the grand parade will take place led by Ringmaster John Salloway.

The circus is regarded as the biggest feature of the local YMCA's physical department program, and on account of its past success in drawing large crowds to the building, has become an annual event. There has been an excellent advance sale of tickets and a large audience is expected both performances.

Health Lectures.

On Wednesday evening, April 23, at 8 p. m., at Chapman Technical High school, New London, Dr. Edward J. Howland, health officer of Colchester, will introduce Dr. Millard Knowlton of the state department of health who will give the last lecture on Preventable Diseases after which will be shown four reels of motion pictures entitled, How Life Begins. This illustrates the development of life from the lowest plant and animal forms to the higher animals. The message is carried forward by means of beautiful nature pictures and photomicrographs.

City Manager William A. Holt will introduce on Friday evening, April 25th, at the same time and place Howard A. Lanpher, M. D., epidemiologist, who will speak on Personal Hygiene. This discusses the measures for personal and general hygiene by which the highest degree of health may be attained and maintained, followed by motion pictures entitled Personal Hygiene.

All pictures and lectures of interest to the general public, mother's groups, students, community nurses, doctors and teachers. Admission is free.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

Scaramouche, Rex Ingram's long-awaited Metro production from the famous Sabatini novel, opened a week's engagement at the Breed theatre Sunday and held audiences spellbound, through the wizardy of Ingram and the extraordinary talent of Ramon Novarro, Alice Terry and Lewis Stone.

The enraptured attention of the audience, the spontaneous outbursts of applause, the nervous thrills that seemed to pass over the spectators like an electric spark, backed up this reviewer's opinion that Scaramouche will be one of the greatest photoplays of all time. Its total effect is gargantuan. One is overwhelmed by the magnificent panorama of the French revolution, as Ingram has visioned it, that catches up the leading characters like puny obstacles and sweeps them onward through harrowing experiences, through episodes of singular intensity, through dramatic scenes that strike to the core of emotional excitement.

But each scene stand out like a cameo, clear-cut, beautiful. That is the touch of Ingram, the artist. In portraying the French revolution better, more intelligently than it has been done by anyone before, he has, however, sacrificed none of the heart-havoc and soul-stirring emotional appeal. The Danton of George Siegmann is an inspiring portrayal, and the vast motley of types that fill the terror scenes of the revolution make you shudder at its stark, brutal reality. You want to wring your hands in fright when the heroine is trapped by the mob, you want to jump out of your seat and yell for joy when she is rescued by the hero. Scaramouche is so human in its characterization, so exciting in its movement, that it carries you with it, swaying your feelings with every new mood.

And there are the mobs, and the marvelous massive settings, and the picturesque beauty of French villages. Such settings as they are! The French Assembly, where smoulders the fire that will fan into a fierce flame of war to the death between aristocrats and the people, the Tuileries Palace, the vast public squares where patriots' eloquence inflames the populace, the walls of Paris, score upon score of other impressive settings.

Scaramouche will be shown twice daily for the remainder of the week at 2:30 and 7:30 P. M.

ALLEN OPENED HERE WITH FINE SHOW

Billy Allen's first presentation in this city Temptations of Broadway at the Palace theatre last night was greeted with a large house and the production was well deserving of the appreciative audience. Billy Allen has become famous on the road for his musical comedy stock productions but this year he has a collection of headliners who grouped together make up one of the best little bands of entertainers possible in the musical comedy stock field. Every one of the characters holds a prominent place, but among the top most of the bill must be placed Billy Allen and his cofunster Bert Leighton. Jean Lowery and Luella Pullen are good to look upon and a pleasure to listen to Miss Lowery's rendition of The Rosary was superb, also Miss Pullen's Chinese Lullaby. Baby Josephine, Ruth Pettit and Bert Leighton have a number entitled The Elixer of Life, which is a real bright spot in the production. Baby Josephine has several numbers in the skit, which she puts across with all the pep, zip and dash of a Ziegfeld soubrette. The child is more than pleasing and efforts brought the house down with applause. Gladys Briggs was also a pleasing surprise to the large audience and one of the best things that can be said of her, is that she is destined to much bigger things in the theatrical world. Miss Virginia Lee is also a past master in the art of dancing. The Bachelor Harmony Four, J. Warren Lawler, Bob Fisher, Billy Turner and Tommie Moran are "there" when it comes to singing harmony. The chorus is young and pretty, the scenery and wardrobe is excellent. The whole show carried a strut and swing which had the audience keeping time with the music all the way and should draw good houses for the Palace before the week is ended. Minstrels of 1924 is the show on the boards for today's matinee and night, while a new show will be staged every day this week with daily matinee's.

Hospital Auxiliary Meeting Postponed

As already announced, the public meeting under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus hospital has been postponed a week because the desired speaker could not be secured for tonight.

POQUETANUCK

The Easter services at Saint James' church were well attended, and the floral decorations were arranged in an attractive manner. Appropriate music was rendered at the services and at the 11 o'clock service J. Guy Ayer sang in an excellent voice Flee as a Bird (Dana) for an offertory solo.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Notice has been served on the selectmen of the town of Killingly by Thomas H. Greene, a Boston attorney, that a suit for damages may be instituted, as the result of M. E. Greene and Abraham Furnan, both of Boston, being injured when the car in which they were riding and which was being driven by M. E. Greene, crashed head-on into a tree in Reynolds street, last Wednesday evening. Greene is now a patient in the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, having been removed there from the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, and it is said his broken leg may have to be amputated.

Attorney Greene has notified the selectmen of Killingly that his clients may have claims against this town as a result of the accident and that if such a situation is disclosed he intends to prosecute his clients' rights.

Town Counsel Attorney E. L. Darbie replied to Attorney Greene's communication Monday and set forth that the town denies any and all liability in the matter.

Two after-Easter weddings of general interest hereabouts brought large congregations to St. James' church Monday morning.

At 8 o'clock Miss Aurore Gendreau of South Main street became the bride of Leo Dion of Worcester. Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., performed the marriage ceremony while Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., was celebrant of the nuptial mass. The bride, a member of the Children of Mary, was escorted to the altar by Mrs. Anna Mailhot and Miss Blanche Lamoureaux, respectively president and treasurer of the society. There was the usual ceremony at the Blessed Virgin's altar for members of the Children of Mary who are entering the married state.

Miss Gendreau was attended by Miss Bertha Dion of Worcester, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. Eugene Gendreau, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride's gown was of white brocaded crepe and she wore a veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses The bridesmaid wore yellow georgette with hat to match. Her bouquet was of carnations.

A musical feature at the wedding service were the violin solos by L. J. Anger of Worcester.

After the church service a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valere Gendreau, South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Dion left during the day for their wedding trip. They will have returned to Worcester, where a newly furnished home awaits them, by next Saturday evening, when a reception will be given in their honor.

The bride received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. Dion is associated with his father, Alphonse Dion, in the contracting business in Worcester.

At 9 o'clock the number attending the previous wedding, augmented by many others, were present at the wedding of Miss Rose Blanche Bousquet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Joseph Bousquet of North Main street, and Norman Alexander Reeves, son of Abel L. Reeves, took place.

Rev. F. X. Richards performed the marriage ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

The bride's gown was a beautiful creation of flat crepe trimmed with Venetian lace. She wore a veil and carried a shower of bride roses.

Miss Eva Mlour of Putnam, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Miss Mlour's gown was of lotus blue taffeta, with hat to match.

Rudolph LeClair, nephew of the bride, was best man.

During the mass Mrs. John Brazyca of Pawtucket sang Ave Maria.

There was a reception and breakfast for the newly married pair and the wedding guests immediately after the mass, at the home of the bride's parents.

During the day Mr. and Mrs. Reeves left for a wedding trip during which they will visit in Boston, New York and Washington. Upon their return they will make their home in Danielson. The bride's traveling suit was of castor flat crepe with hat to match.

Many beautiful gifts of linen, cut glass, silverware, gold and other things for the home were received by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves are both very well known in Danielson, where they have spent their lives, and many were the wishes that their married life may be long and happy.

Mrs. Reeves is employed at the store of F. E. Bitgood. Mr. Reeves is successfully engaged in the insurance business in this territory.

This (Tuesday) morning, accompanied by relatives, the body of John Thomas Smith, 70, for many years resident in Wauregan, will be started east. Mr. Smith died Sunday, a message received here by Mr. and Mrs. William P. Perkins states. For 49 years Mr. Smith was overseer of the weaving department of the Wauregan company mills and he is remembered in that village with affection by a great many former employes and friends. He went west the past year, after his health began to fail, and was living at El Cjon, near San Diego, with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Livesey, formerly of Wauregan, when the end came. Mr. Smith leaves one daughter. Mrs. Smith died in Wauregan several years ago. Mr. Smith was about 70 years of age.

Of interest to many here is the news that Mortimer W. Thomas, principal of Drury High school of North Adams, Mass., is to be in New York three days next week with the high school band, the largest school band in the United States. Principal Thomas is a brother of George O. Thomas of this place and a Killingly man by birth. Ten teachers of the Drury school faculty will go along on the New York trip with Principal Thomas and the band, numbering upwards of 100 musicians.

As indicating the standing of the band it may be pointed out that they are scheduled to play a concert at Wanamaker's next Monday afternoon, their first day in New York. At 6.30 that evening they will broadcast a concert from WEAF, and later that evening will give another concert at New York town hall, center of many civic activities.

Tuesday afternoon of next week they are scheduled to play for the making of phonograph records at the Edison studios, to give a concert at the Hippodrome and to devote the following day to sightseeing and entertainment that will be arranged for them.

Citizens of North Adams subscribed $4,000 to enable this school boy band to make the trip.

Monday morning the funeral of Thomas Dunn was held from his home, with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, Rev. Fr. Kilgrain of Providence and Rev. Alpherie Chartier, M. S., were officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Dr. Peter Tiernan, Thomas Donohue, Charles Pendergast, Thomas Wolf, Henry Brooks and William Gilooley. At the grave the committal service was by Father Kilgrain.

Guests entertained Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schroth of Water street in honor of the christening of their baby were: Vincent Schroth, Mrs. Frank Schroth and two sons of Everett, Mass.; Emil Schroth and daughter, Miss Rita, of Wauregan; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Panizza of Greenwich, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walters and three children, Mr. and Mrs. John Kosewski and son, Edmund Vevie and Nazaire Vevia, all of Danielson.

Eric Gilbert and Roscoe Burton left Monday morning for New Hampshire, where they are to be engaged in the forestry service during the spring and summer period.

Only a small amount of the season's plowing in the territory hereabout is has been done as yet. Cold and wet weather is delaying this work.

More progress in fitting the Paco mill for operation will be made this week. Preparation of this plant to operate is being watched with great interest by local people.

Pupils of St. James' parochial school are enjoying their Easter vacation.

Track laying crews putting new and heavier rails between Putnam and Danielson on the steam road have advanced their work to a point about half a mile above the Connecticut mills.

J. C. Witter will be at Orange, this state, tomorrow conducting one of the most important auction sales of live stock to be held in Connecticut this spring.

Mrs. J. B. Milligan of North Main street will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting this (Tuesday) afternoon.

Degrees were conferred on candidates at Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange.

George A. Draper of Hartford was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Natorski of Main street entertained a number of visiting relatives over Easter.

Charles S. Francis is remaining in Hartford for treatment following an operation for the relief of trouble with his eye.

The strange animal roaming the Aspen hill section has again been reported as being seen on the Benham farm, formerly the Kendall farm.

Road machines working in Killingly are leveling highway surfaces and ridding the roads of deep ruts.

PUTNAM

There were no hearings Monday in the cases of Samuel Smith and Thomas Culley, charged with violations of the liquor laws. These cases were to have been heard in the city court, but another continuance was asked for by the state and was granted. The cases are now scheduled to be heard next Monday morning, having been continued to that time. The bonds also were continued.

Varying the monotony of the drift of police work for the past few weeks, the officers here now have a break of a minor nature to engage their attention. They are concerned with the investigation of a case of breaking and entering at the E. L. Kelley laundry. This break was probably made during the early hours of Sunday morning. Only a fountain pen has been established as being missing, though whoever made the break conducted quite a thorough search, evidently in the hope of finding money.

Entrance was gained by breaking out a pane of glass at the rear of the Kelley establishment that someone might reach in and turn the lock. Whoever did this stunt probably was cut in the effort, for a trail of drops of blood is to be found about the laundry. There were indications that the visit was more or less unhurried, for time was taken for the tuning in of a radio set.

The imposing of a fine of $1200 on Benjamin Goldblood, of Worcester, for rum-running within the limits of the town of Putnam has created more widespread interest than any case of the kind since the coming of prohibition. It is a record fine for the Putnam city court and means that the city, as well as the state, will benefit in a material way, financially. If liquor fines continue to come in during the remainder of the year as they have during what may be called the first four months, Putnam will get sufficient revenue to meet a considerable part of the tax charges that must be raised each year.

Mr. Goldblood has had an expensive experience, but he took a chance of that. In addition to paying fines and costs amounting to $1236.61, he has lost 108 gallons of grain alcohol, said to be worth in the neighborhood of $700, and three dozen bottles of liquor commanding about $100 more, it is said, in the whole sale market. The total loss to the Worcester man must be in the vicinity of $2,000. There is no profit in rum running in the face of such an experience.

The funeral of Edmund Larceux, 49, was held from his home here Monday morning with services at St. Mary's church, Rev. Charles F. Bedard being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Dancers who have refrained during all the Lenten period from indulgence in one of their favorite pastimes gathered in numbers from Putnam and towns hereabouts, Monday evening, for the thirty-first annual concert and ball of Cargill council, Knights of Columbus. This year the event was held in St. Onge's new Music hall, off Livery street.

Tasillo's orchestra of Hartford played for the concert from 8 to 9 o'clock and for the dancing, which continued until one o'clock this morning.

Nothing was lacking in all the details of the arrangements for the ball to make it the success that has been characteristic of this annual event of Cargill council for many years past.

While no announcements have been made within the past few days relative to the Manhasset Manufacturing company's affairs, nor to the affairs of the Putnam Mill and Land company, the corporation represented by the successful bidders for the property, it is understood that the new owners will take it over within a very short time, in compliance with the court order allowing a time limit of 30 days for so doing. No hitch is anticipated in the execution of the program intended to get this big industrial plant to producing again.

The [illegible] Charter. Judge M. H. Geisler, leading the discussion, will be the subject taken up by the Men's class of the Congregational church next Sunday. On May 4, the Automobile will be the subject and Everett Packard will lead the discussion. On May 11, Edward S. Duffy will talk on Silk Manufacturing, on May 18, Henry S. Lyon will have The Telephone for his subject and May 25, Hon. Charles E. Searls will discuss the Citizen and the Laws.

There was a reminder of the manner in which labor members of circus crews travel, in the person of one of the crew of three riding on a big motor truck that was seen here Monday morning. This truckman, evidently wearied by the strain of a long journey had devised a hammock by tying up a flap of part of the heavy khaki back curtain on the machine. In this he swung in apparent peace and comfort and was only interested enough in Putnam to peer over the tailboard once to see where he was at, before relapsing into another refreshing snooze.

Next Sunday brings the usual change of running time for passenger trains of the New Haven road operating through this city. Announcements relative to these changes already have been made, so those who use trains may pay heed and remember that the trains will be running earlier than at present.

The Sophomore class of Putnam High school has two plays prepared for presentation in the auditorium of the high school. A dance is to follow the theatricals. Next week the senior class will present the annual class play, this to be given in the Bradley theatre.

A call will be issued this week for a special city meeting to be held on Monday of next week for the purpose of passing on a number of appropriations, which if [illegible] will involve the expenditure of about 12,000. These have to do with supplying funds for proposed additions to sewers, curbing and other street improvement and an appropriation for Red Cross work.

H. H. Davenport, who has been in the south the greater part of hte winter has returned here after a very enjoyable vacation period. Mr. Davenport was for years state road supervisor in Windham county.

The work train crew operating out of this city has put in rails are far south at a point near the Chicken Farm crossing near Elmville.

Miss Eva Mlour of this city was bridesmaid at the marriage of her cousin, Miss Rose Blanche Bousquet, at Danielson, Monday. A number of guests from this city were at Danielson for the wedding.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. John Gallup substituted at the grammar school Monday, in the absence of Miss Helen Phillips.

A meeting of St. Jean Baptiste society was held at the Community House Sunday evening, the meeting being a special one for the purpose of conferring a degree on a class of candidates.

Joseph Labrecque is to be employed in the new salesroom of Leon Frink, beginning work as soon as the building is opened.

Ground is being broken in the rear of the Lawton Inn, for a new nine-compartment storage garage, to be erected by James Muldoon.

Antonio Geresa, former grain merchant in this village, has recently completed two buildings, one a residence on the car line between here and Central Village, and the other a business building near the store of Jacob Weschler.

A meeting of the local grange is to be held in the grange hall this (Tuesday) evening.

Miss Joanna Derrance leaves Wednesday for Winter Park, Florida, where she plans to spend some time with Mrs. Thomas Baker, her aunt. The trip will be made by train, the journey taking three days and two nights. Miss Dorrance gave pleasure to the members of the First Congregational church by a violin solo at the evening service, Easter Sunday, being accompanied by Miss Emily Hopkins.

The triduum, or three days' devotion, last week at St. John's Catholic church, from Sunday evening until Wednesday evening, when the preacher was Rev. Daniel McCarthy, M. S., of LaSalette Seminary, Hartford, had an average attendance of 1,200.

Rev. Father McCarthy, who made such a profound impression when preaching at the exercises of the triduum, sang the high mass and delivered the sermon at 10 o'clock, Easter Sunday. The choir, directed by the organist, Miss Teresa Sullivan, provided some very fine music. The soloist was Miss Katherine Kirby, of Plainfield, formerly of Norwich.

Easter Sunday afternoon, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pechie, born in Norwich, was baptized by Rev. Father R. P. Morrissey, her name being Doris Marie. Mr. and Mrs. Dursee Pechie were godfather and godmother, respectively. Relatives and friends of the family were entertained after the christening, at the home of the parents, in the Old Village.

JEWETT CITY

The Jewett City Creamery company, B. C. Bliss, superintendent, expects to celebrate its thirty-sixth anniversary Friday evening in Odd Fellows' hall. A general invitation has been given all to attend who are interested in the creamery or dairying. There is to be fine programme and refreshments will be served.

Rev. J. J. McCabe was in Hartford Monday to attend the ordination of his cousin, Rev. Luke Fitzsimmons of Bridgeport.

Leslie Carroll of Boston University spent Sunday at his home in the borough.

Letters of dismissal from the Congregational church to the Congregational church in New London have been granted Mrs. Mabel Havens, Carleton Havens, Rosina and Loretta Allyn.

Mrs. John Tefft, who died at Norwich Town, Saturday, lived in Jewett City for 36 years before going to Norwich. She was married 36 years ago in Jewett City at the home of her sister, Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin. Mrs. Velo Sharkey is her niece.

The Methodist Sunday school gave an Easter concert Sunday night. The programme was announced by Supt. Irving Thornton. The chair sang several selections under direction of W. J. Robertson, Jr., J with Mrs. Irving Thornton accompanist. The programme included these numbers: Easter Tidings, Anna Bugbee; Easter Joys, Ray Bugbee; reading, Easter, Hazel Johnson; Paying Tribute to the King, James Jordan; We Come to Sing His Praise, Neva Mancini; reading, Footsteps of Spring, Frances Bugbee; Scatter Easter Sunshine, Wilfred Jordan; He Is Worthy, Emma Mancini.

Some men probably has a dog with a sore throat, if it is at all affected by night air. For a dog left in an automobile on School street from about 7 o'clock until nearly 11, Sunday evening, apparently never closed his mouth during that time, judging by the noise he made. At one time during this free concert it was debated whether to call for the services of a young married man in that vicinity, who, the day before was asked to shoot at a loose piece of slate on the Congregational church steeple, and dislodge it, to guard against its falling upon some unsuspecting person's head. This he did, but the slate never budged, although three holes were said to be made in it, according to the young man's far-sight vision.

Miss Yvonne Guillotte and Wilfred Fontaine were married at St. Mary's church Monday morning, by Rev. J. J. Tyler. The bride's maid was Miss Regina Harpin from Baltic, and the best man was Edward Guillottee of Jewett City. Following the ceremony, the two couples went to Baltic, where the bride's maid and groomsman were married at St. Mary's church and their witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Fontaine, for whom they had just acted in the same capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] and William Duggan were in Norwich Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs Duggan's niece, Rebecca Mahoney.

Finn's tonight and Wednesday Lillian Gish in The White Sister. Special Music. Tickets now on sale at Finn's store. All seats reserved.—adv.

Easter guests at Mrs. Fred Jodoin's were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Desmarais and family of Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellis of Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Chabot and daughter Estelle and Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] don, of Norwich.

The Magic Mirror

THE man who is on the verge of buying a new car can obtain a good idea of automotive values by studying the used car market. ¶ Here are assembled the new cars of former years of all manufacturers. ¶ All of them have been subjected to the acid test of usage, have been driven many months and many miles. ¶ Their performance, endurance, economy and position in public esteem are all graphically summed up in their resale value. ¶ Looking into this market, as into a magic mirror, one can learn the true merits of the new cars of today from the resale records of the old. ¶ A high resale value is positive evidence of fine quality in materials, engineering and manufacturing. ¶ It points indisputably to a product that is exceptionally reliable, enduring and economical. ¶ Investigating this market, buyers of fine cars will rediscover concerning the Cadillac what they already know: that it is supremely dependable, that no limit has yet been found to its life, that it is the paying investment in its field. ¶ They will find, in fact, that "Cadillac resale value is the envy of the industry."

CRIMINAL RECKLESSNESS.

Speed so great that it was impossible to control the car and keep it in the highway was the cause of the Norwalk accident where the machine was sent through the bridge railing into the Norwalk river, causing the death of two persons, including the driver.

This is one case where the charge of criminal recklessness seems justified according to the report of the affair and the statement of one member of the party. It was not the first but the second accident that day for which the driver was responsible. In the first he struck another car in Bridgeport but continued on his way since he had "plenty of insurance on the machine and did not care." That same spirit was apparently guiding his actions when he crashed through the bridge. One thing he did not figure on, however, was that he was jeopardizing his own as well as the lives of others. He didn't care how much damage his car did to others and he didn't care how reckless he was so long as he escaped harm. It isn't believed that he was contemplating personal injury. It was all over in a twinkling, however. He paid a frightful penalty for his narrow-minded view of the responsibility of an automobile driver. He carried the impression that he could do just as he pleased and others must take the consequences. He could not be bound by restrictions. He basked in the shade of the insurance that he had on his car but it did not prevent him from going through the bridge railing into the river and into eternity, carrying with him a friend and subjecting two others to narrow escapes. He lived under a false sense of security, but the case was no different than many others.

The driver of the auto that took the plunge is one of a type that constitutes the great menace to the highways today, and the unfortunate part of it all is that others are no more likely to profit from the lesson of his experience than he was from that of others. In such cases of criminal negligence there is a self imposition of the penalty that ought to make a strong impression. Even confidence in insurance or the ability to escape harm is at times badly based.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK.

Perhaps you haven't participated in it before and there's a possibility that you have small chance of lending your active support, but there is good reason for all to give thought to the purposes back of Forest Protection week, the fourth annual observance to which is underway this week.

More than those owning forest land are concerned. Whatever is proposed in connection with the protection of woodland interests, directly or indirectly, a great many people. There are those who need and use the lumber coming therefrom, those who delight in the forests, those who walk or hunt therein, those whose living is dependent upon the handling of forest products and those whose labors are concerned with the use of lumber for building purposes. To all it makes a difference, though many of them do not seem to realize it, whether they are giving or insisting upon the giving of better protection to the forest lands.

When we stop to think that the United States consumes more wood than any other country in the world there is food for reflection. There is reason why we should be interested in forest protection, forest development and forest conservation. And there is a particular appeal in the fact that there are 11,000,000 acres of forest land burned over each year, or about twice the area covered by logging operations. In dollars and cents this means a loss of more than $16,500,000 to say nothing of the wiping out of young growth, the destruction of watershed protection, the loss of animal life and the harmful effects upon recreation.

A large percentage of forest fires are preventable. More than three-quarters of them are caused by human beings. Self-centered thoughtlessness, carelessness, disregard for the property of others all figure in this annual loss. The hope of those arranging Forest Protection week is that a little reflection on conditions and the part which each one can play in correcting them will result in a different attitude and a checking of this great volume of needless waste.

CONSERVING TIME AND STRENGTH.

For the purpose of conserving the strength of the president, that it may be devoted to the multifarious duties of his office, it has been decided to reduce the amount of handshaking that he has been doing in receiving large numbers of visitors.

There is a great honor attached to meeting the president. It always has been so and it can be expected to continue. So far as possible President Coolidge has been disposed to welcome the visitors, delegations and callers, even though business was not involved. As in other instances the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak. There are limits to which a person in the responsible position can with wisdom tax his strength. President Wilson found it necessary to give up the annual New Year's reception and to protect his strength by curtailing the amount of handshaking, and President Harding and President Coolidge both came to recognize the necessity of getting relief from such a strain.

President Coolidge went through with the New Year's reception but it has been found wise to make a change in the daily visitation. There is no desire to deny the visitors the chance to see the president, but it has been found necessary to abandon the handshaking, so that now the children and other visitors who have been in the habit of shaking hands simply pass through the president's office and see him at work.

To many this might be quite an undertaking as trying to catch up with delayed work, but it apparently suits the president and in this conservation of time he prevents the piling up of that great grist of business which comes daily to his desk. No doubt he regrets the necessity of abandoning the personal touch that comes through the handshake, but it is a case of making a choice between pleasure and duty and under such circumstances duty must get the consideration.

The president of this country finds plenty to occupy his time and to tax all the strength that he can command.

THE C. V. EXPERIMENT.

Railways throughout the country are going out of business. Changes have been necessary in order to make ends meet and despite the efforts to cut the cost of operation while expenses are going up this has not been sufficient to meet the falling off in patronage. Many are the localities which have been forced to accept curtailed service or get along with no trolley service at all. The changed conditions surrounding public transportation lines are not confined to any particular locality. They are to be found wherever there are trolleys.

And the effect is even being felt by the railroads. Train service has been curtailed because patronage has disappeared, and hereabouts particular interest is just now being shown in the experiment which the Central Vermont road is to make by the substitution of a storage battery car for one of its steam trains. Not a little has been said in behalf of gasoline-propelled cars, and they have been introduced on a number of short lines, but the electric cars run by storage battery is a departure hereabouts.

It is an experiment to which this road is forced because of dwindling passenger business. It is necessary to cut expenses and the lighter equipment should be able to accomplish much in this direction inasmuch as it is required to run trains for the accommodation of the public. If the plan succeeds the other steam passenger train, now being run between New London and Palmer, may be eliminated. Whether there is any prospect of increasing the passenger service through the installation of the storage battery cars will depend entirely upon the results obtained and of course the patronage received.

It is the reflection of that change in transportation methods which is going on throughout the country.

THE FORD OFFER.

Consideration of the Ford terms for the Muscle Shoals project has been given from various angles. Congressman Burton has voiced his opposition to the acceptance of the offer and he maintains that it ought not to be accepted because it is inadequate. In his opinion it is another case of getting a very valuable property for a song.

The government has laid out about $100,000,000 in the development of the project and the congressman from Ohio declares that the automobile manufacturer is willing to pay $1,600,000 for this property for which it could get $16,000,000 if it were scrapped.

Such a price does not of course constitute the whole Ford offer, but if it is possible for the government to realize a fifth of what it has spent in Muscle Shoals by junking the equipment there ought to be a higher sale value than the one which he quotes. As a plant to be operated it should be more valuable than for junk.

The leasing of the plant for 100 years is also subject to criticism because it far exceeds Mr. Ford's expectancy of life and there's no telling what might become of it at his death.

Muscle Shoals constitutes one of the expensive war babies. It certainly is of no benefit unless utilized. There is no wish to have the government operate it. It is preferable that it should be put to use even though the government could not begin to realize what has been spent in developing it. It remains for congress to determine whether the Ford offer is a fair one under prevailing conditions or what the terms are under which it would be disposed of. If the Ford offer is the best that can be expected that should settle it. If it isn't that should settle the Ford offer.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The best way to avoid fire losses is not to have any fires.

The man on the corner says: Some Aprils are more delightful than others.

The Dawes commission has done a great job if as indicated everybody is going to be satisfied.

Some experts say Harry Thaw is sane; others that he is not. It is too much to expect that they would agree.

The recall of Hanihara is not planned, says a Tokio despatch, but it is safe to assume that he will think twice before writing his next note.

The weatherman should have known that even though the parade could be held any other day because of the stormy Easter, it could never be the same.

The president doesn't expect any sudden flare-up in Japan, and there'll probably be none, but that will not prevent all kinds of yellow perils being preached.

How some are ready to even misrepresent the president is shown by the claims that he wants all investigations stopped, when as a matter of fact his opposition was expressed solely against the internal revenue bureau probes.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., April 21—"Watch your Step" ought to be the slogan of the Cleveland and New York national conventions when the question of nominating a vice president comes to the front.

For under the existing complications of minority rule in the hands of the insurgent congressional element, the election of a vice president may mean the head of the ticket, in case the presidential election is thrown into congress and a long dead-lock results.

The vice presidency has potential possibilities this year, such as have rarely existed.

Something more than sectional political advantage may be taken into consideration when the second place on the national ticket is to be filled.

The power of the vice president may be the power of the president when the administration changes next March.

That would come about if the electoral college failed to cast a majority of votes for one candidate and the election was thrown into congress, as has already happened twice in the early days of the republic.

As set forth in the columns of The Bulletin by this writer several months ago, the possibility of presidential election by congress following the November election is not improbable. Unless one of the other of the majority parties take a strong stand in November and elect their nominee by a great majority; the threatened third party, or a minority candidate may clean up the field, when the election is thrown to congress.

The senate and house each cast votes for the president, under such circumstances, but the senate alone elects the vice president. In case of a delay in electing the president, in which both branches of congress must act, the newly elected vice president automatically becomes president with full presidential power to name policies, and perform all presidential functions. If the cabinet should resign, as is customary when an administration changes, the vice president alone would steer the ship of state; he could name his own cabinet or rule alone until the deadlock was broken and a president elected by congress. So naming the vice president will be naming a man of presidential standing this year.

The senate can vote only on the names of the two highest candidates as voted on by the electoral college, so an election of one or the other must immediately take place. In case of a tie vote the president of the senate, or its presiding officer, casts the deciding vote. There can be no deadlock in the senate. But in the house three men having received the highest electoral college votes can be voted on for the presidency; that means that if neither major party candidate can swing votes to elect him on the first ballot, the third party man and his followers will control the situation and practically name the president of the United States for the next four years just as though he has been the choice of the people. At this moment the La Follette group hold that balance of power, as it is easy to see what the country faces, unless the election in November shows a sufficient majority to elect a democrat or republican right off the reel.

That is the gist of the situation. Briefly summed up it is along this line: We usually assume a president and vice president are elected at the November election. But it is not so. We then elect presidential electors who meet later and cast their votes for these two offices. If there are three party candidates it is possible for the third party electors to cast enough votes to keep either of the two major parties from securing a majority. In that event the vote is thrown to congress in the following manner. The senate elects the vice president; it votes by states, not by individuals, a state having a tied vote casts none. Two New England states, Massachusetts and Rhode Island would find themselves in that catagory and Massachusetts would be thus debarred from voting for a vice president or for its own favorite son, Calvin Coolidge, when the vote on the presidency was taken. Immediately on his election the vice president is sworn into office. If a president has not been elected he automatically assumes the duties of the presidency, the same as in the death or inability of the president to perform the duties of that office.

It requires the vote of both senate and house to elect a president and as three names may be presented the danger of a deadlock is imminent. The house, as does the senate, votes by states, so on the presidency New Hampshire would be the one New England state losing a vote, as her little delegation is evenly divided. All other New England states have a republican majority in the house.

During the deadlock the third party—now the La Follette party, would hold a complete balance of power, and as the vote is restricted to candidates receiving the three highest votes at the electoral college, trading for that balance of power would be the order of the day with results entirely uncertain as to who would be the when the voting was completed.

It must not be overlooked that it is the 68th congress, now in session, that would cast the electoral votes, and not the congress that will be elected next November. Although both major parties hope to secure the election of their candidate through the regular path of the popular vote next November, both are mindful of the possible contingency of an election by congress. The La Follette groupe is expectant of controlling the situation even though it knows it cannot elect its own candidate. The bitterness, unrest and nation-wide disturbance that would be created if the election is thrown to congress cannot be overestimated.

If we happen to know just what "cosmic formation" means we may be interested in the "investigation" now being conducted by certain scientists that may prove or disapprove the newly advanced theory that recently discovered stars are ice. The naval observatory at Washington as well as the one at Harvard is taking up the matter.

But even if they prove it, we need not take our fur coats out of cold storage, for while up to this time we have been taught the nearest star was only 250,000 "light years" from the earth, we shall now be taught that the newly discovered ice stars are one million light years away.

You can take your choice on the matter of prospective congressional adjournment in June. Here is what two well recognized authorities have recently said: "Congress is facing a summer session. Leaders frankly say with only a scant six weeks before the national conventions it will be practically impossible to finish the work and adjourn in early June." Another equally well informed leader remarks, "Congress will probably adjourn in early June with all the important measures disposed of."

The fact is, the entire matter rests with the men who conduct so-called "speech-fests" on the floor of the senate and thus delay all legitimate business. Heflin, Caraway, Robinson and the chief offenders, with a few able stand-bys to do the shouting whenever they stop for breath. An example of this was shown last week when Heflin talked and harangued against the republican party and the republican members of the senate, against Chief Justice Taft, and other eminents including Coolidge, till the minute-hand ran to hours. Then he remarked he had "risen to talk on immigration," having thus stated his "subject" he resumed his political personal attacks. It reminded his hearers of the man who wanted a divorce because his "wife talked him to death." "What does she talk about?" queried the judge. "I don't know," replied the man. "She don't say."

Last week was "Be kind to animal week" in Washington. Someone remarked that no one seemed to make special arrangements to be kind to the democratic donkey or the republican elephant.

Statistics show that the yearly average of coffee drinking in the United States is 514 cups per person. This was estimated from the number of pounds of coffee sold during the past year, by which an enterprising person estimated that it signified that if you have not drank 514 cups somebody has swooped your share.

As a fact probably many people drink more than 514 cups, for we must eliminate from that estimate those who "don't touch a drop as it keeps me awake all night" the one-cuppers for breakfast only, the demi tasse folks, and those who believe it harmful and are counted as the "won't touch its."

A new political organization in Washington is a political bloc of women voters. It outlines its object as forming a basis for the peaceful development of economic life and the eventual abolition of war." The first move made by it is "to rouse women to vote" so states its chairman. But in its preamble the words, international, progress, and judicial occur with frequency.

SUBTLE METHOD

"Hey," began the society hound as he decked himself in fine raiment. "I wish you'd come along with me this evening and meet the daudiest girl. You stick around home too much! I'll bet you'd be a whiz if you ever got started! C'mon!"

"Not me!" insisted the woodchucking but shy roommate rather nervously. "I'm afraid of girls; didn't you know it? I could go out and slay lions or bears or mice or welsh rabbits, but I should shiver with fright if I were suddenly plunged into a room full of girls. I know when I'm well off and I'm staying right here. They just want to catch you."

"Any time!" scoffed the society hound, skillfully abstracting a necktie from the other man's bureau drawer. "They're dandy girls and just good pals and they don't want to get married and settle down! Come on and I'll introduce you to the cutest little brown-eyed girl."

"I know that kind," the shy roommate insisted glumly. "The sparkling-eyed, twinkling-toe sort! When they sparkle at me I'm all at sea. The sparklers are very confusing. I was rather interested in one once, but it made me so nervous deciding what she expected me to do that I would go along talking out loud to myself and she thought there must be insanity in my family and dropped me flat. It was a great relief. I don't think I should care at all about her."

"You are certainly fussy," the society hound reproved him. "Well, there are others. There is Paprika Print. She is tall, slim and has deep mysterious eyes that you cannot fathom and is a mighty nice girl in every way, with two cars of her own——"

"Nix," the shy roommate interrupted, shaking his head. "She'd be just like the banker's daughter whom I once knew. She had two cars, too, and if she liked you she never could understand why you were unable at any hour she might call on you to come and chauffeur for her. She said she did love to see a man guiding a swift car with his strong and supple wrist and that she thought no real womanly woman had the cold concentration necessary to be a good driver. After I lost two jobs through concentrating on Luella's speedsters when I should have been behind a desk we parted. She had mysterious eyes, too.

"Girls are too intense. Now you can sit around in the same room with a man and talk if you feel like it or keep still if you don't. You can pick up a book or magazine and light a pipe if you happen to want to, but the minute a girl walks through the door all the scenery changes. There isn't a chance for you to be interested in a thing but her.

"You must manage to convey to her that until she appeared the world was a blank and you a hopeless wanderer and that now the birdies are singing, bells ringing, whistles tooting and the world's simply too grand for words! She takes it as no more than her due, although secretly she may realize you are a frightful liar. I'll bet when a country has a quegh instead of a king nobody gets a minute's peace! On the job every minute! Kgtewing all over the place!

"Why, girls must be made of blotting paper the way they absorb attention! I tell you I'm gonna keep away from 'em from now on!"

"That's too bad," said the society hound, trying on his hat before the mirror. "Because there is one of them, Listeresse Geode, who said the other night she thought you were the most distinguished looking man she's ever seen and why didn't I bring you around some night. She's going to be there tonight, but I'll tell her——"

"Now don't you go telling anything and getting me all in wrong," broke in the shy roommate, beginning to stir around. "Of course, there are exceptions to every rule and when a girl is clever and discriminating and has sense that's a different proposition I suppose I really should get out a little and if you'll wait a minute I'll be ready. I don't want you to think I don't appreciate your interest in me, old man! Just a minute!"

"Good!" agreed the society hound casually. "I told her we wouldn't be there till 9 o'clock, so it's all right! I thought it might take some time to get you started!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Commendation.

Mr. Editor: It would be presumptuous in this writer to attempt to do more than to call attention to and emphasize what cannot be emphasized too strongly. We refer to the Good Friday sermon of our dean, Dr. Howe, who in a clear distinctive way pointed out the difference of Christianity from all other religions, in being the approach of the divine to the human, and not that of the human to the divine.

This is a time when this distinction more than ever—it seems—should be impressed on those who wait on our pulpits, and who in the maze of apparent and confliction opinions as to the weight of truth, that is to be gleaned from the oriental faiths now set out, by the current philosophies of today. In these religions, claiming only human origin, every semblance of Christian truth is being put in comparison, and exalted as of chief significance at the expense of Christianity, and often, too, by its paid and ordained exponents. Of course truth is the same throughout the universe and through all eternity. Professor Arnold, also a great poet, some years ago wrote an extensive poem entitled The Light of Asia. This work was an effort to bring Buddha and Budaism into favorable comparison with Christianity—but the student of it can easily see that the comparisons often fall to the level of mere analogies, and just because of the distinction pointed out by Dr. Howe, the one proceeding outward from the man, and the other coming downward from heaven. The Baptist, John, who "came to prepare the way of the Lord" was also thus emphatic in impressing his hearers that "a man could receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven." And our Lord silenced the scribes and Pharisees by the same question in different form when he said, "From whence was the baptism of John? From heaven, or of men?" Their answer was "We cannot tell" They were locked in a dilemma and dare not tell—and they described their puzzle as the fear on one hand to provoke the condemnation of the people, who believed John a prophet, or on the other hand, to convict themselves of unbelief in him. Jesus, surely was a wonderful councillor, and jurist and expert cross-examiner.

Christianity is a revelation—it is not projective. There was a time when human vision was thought to proceed from the eye. The scope of the eye being one-third of a circle, all objects at certain distances came within its reach, but, later, science showed that sight was dependent upon light which being reflected from objects gave color and form to an image on the return, and that the optic nerve brought the consciousness of the reality to the brain in what we term vision.

It is so with Christianity, as the doctor and the Baptist affirmed and as Nicodemus declared that which is worth being "comes from God."

All human religions are necessarily circumscribed by a geographic or racial boundary." They are not world religions, in spite of what grains of truth there exists in them. Let us bear that in mind.

When we read of the intrigues debaucheries and incestuous alliances of the best heathen gods, we are not sorry that they were confined to small areas. It was the error of Judahism, that it could not see the universality of the oracles committed to its trust. Its cause was not made hopeless, even by the acts at the Passover, but by refusal to admit the mistake when the feast of Pentecost came. And it will be the catastrophe of Christianity, if it fails to recognise its divine authority and commission or neglects to impress it upon the hearts and consciences of those who wait upon its ministries.

P. S.—Mr. Editor: We trust that neither you nor your readers have thought that this writer is measuring swords with your correspondent Mr. Poreda. Mr. Troland can learn something even from Mr. Poreda and with due modesty we think Mr. Poreda might learn some good things from us. One thing, especially, that when he compliments "your progressive newspaper" he should not abuse your courtesy by obtuse and pointless personalities. "The fly in the eye," is much worse, even, than "the fly in the ointment."

JOHN TROLAND.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer these poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is Nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, has proved successful when all else has failed. This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut-like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Adams Delano, who has been appointed by President Coolidge to the National Commission of Fine Arts, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry Bacon, is an eminent architect of New York, a fellow of the American Institute of Architects and of the Architectural League. He is a native of New York City and a graduate from Yale. In 1903 he received the diploma of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He was for seven years a professor of design at Columbia University. The National Commission of Fine Arts, of which Mr. Delano now becomes a member, was established by act of Congress in 1910. It is composed of seven members, three architects, one landscape architect, one painter, one sculptor and one layman. The plans for all new structures to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government, and all questions involving matter of art with which the Government is concerned, must be submitted to the commission for comment and advice before action is taken.

McADOO'S FIGHT AGAINST POVERTY

Poverty, harsh and uncompromising, was a constant companion of William G. McAdoo in his early years.

When he was born his parents were well-to-do, with a beautiful plantation at Marietta, Ga. While his father was fighting in the Civil war, his mother had to flee with her three-weeks-old baby, ahead of Sherman's march to the sea.

The plantation was so devastated that there was no use returning to it, and after the family reunited in Milledgeville, the McAdoo's financial condition was so bad that the boy had to help with the housework when his mother was taken ill. To provide an education for the children, the father gave up his uncertain law practice and taught at the University of Tennessee, in Knoxville.

Leaving the university when in his junior year, young McAdoo became deputy clerk in the United States Circuit Court at Chattanooga, to earn funds that he might study law, and was admitted to the bar when 21 years old.

Consolidating the street railways of Knoxville, he was made president of the new company—and it went into the hands of a receiver. Many Knoxville citizens then thought that the young man, who had lost all his earnings in the crash, was foredoomed to failure.

Going to New York, at 29, he became an obscure lawyer with a small office in Wall street.

Ten years later he started to complete the Hudson River tunnel project, that already had caused two failures at a cost of over 30 lives and $40 000 000. The powerful transit syndicates fought him politically, financially and in the courts, the banks would not help, the panic of 1893 added to the task, but he raised $70,000,000 and in 1908 opened four of the McAdoo tubes.

He was Secretary of the Treasury during President Wilson's administration, Director-General of Railways during the war, and married the President's daughter. He now is a lawyer and a candidate for the nomination for President of the United States.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Isle Royal.

Should Isle Royal become an American National Park, in accordance with propogals now before the government, American citizens can deliver their thanks to Benjamin Franklin.

"No matter which of the two romantic stories of Isle Royal's cession to the United States is true, the pioneer printer, philosopher, physical scientist, and postmaster general, had his finger in it when the Treaty of Paris was drawn in 1783," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society. "Although the international boundary runs straight up the middle of the Great Lakes, when it reaches the middle of Lake Superior it jumps over to the Canadian shore to give the United States Isle Royal. The stories explain the line's irregular conduct.

"The canny Franklin, according to one account, learned from the French that copper had been found on Isle Royal. Although in the 18th century diplomat's had not learned to figure boundary lines to mineral deposits, Franklin's interest in electricity prompted him to insist that this copper-island be given to the United States. Look on the map of Lake Superior again and you will see that the American line does not leave the lake at the tip end but at the Pigeon river, not far from Isle Royal. When the United States was given the island the story goes the boundary makers were impelled to change the boundary from St. Louis river, on which Duluth is located to the Pigeon river. This change gave to the United States one of the greatest iron deposits in the world, the Mesaba field, which otherwise would have gone in part, at least, to Canada. Unwittingly Franklin helped to make the United States the foremost steel producing nation in the world.

"The other story is that the early explorers who were still hunting for the Western Sea, made their portages through the Pigeon river to the Lake of the Woods, which was the focus point of the early Virginia grant. Following the explorers, trade used the Pigeon river on their voyages to the interior. Therefore, it was only natural on the part of the boundary makers to follow the canoe travel route which led between Isle Royal and Canada. The latter story is more plausible, but the first is almost too good not to be true.

"A great part of the world's wheat from the Red River Valley leaves Fort William and Port Arthur going down the lake on the north side of Isle Royal, while a never-ending parade of iron-ore boats moves past the southern shore when the ice is out, but the island itself is almost as innocent of civilization as in the days trappers paddled past it. Isle Royal is 45 miles long and 10 miles wide. Heavy virgin forests of pine, birch, and sugar maples clothe its rocks. Its ridges, once reefs of great glacial Lake Superior, are outposts of the Ontario highlands. Ontario has rare minerals, gold cobalt, and asbestos and it is natural that its outpost should have copper. Another outpost, Keweenaw peninsula, across the lake is one of the world's leading copper producers.

"Not until the last few years has any human being regularly stayed on the island all winter. Probably the man who lives there all year round row would not stay were he not said by the State of Michigan to kill wolves which cross from the mainland on the ice. Wolves are chief enemy of a large herd of moose, estimated to number more than 1,500, which make the island particularly interesting as a possible park. About 400 caribou are said to live on the island.

"Once Isle Royal heard the voices of civilization for it had a copper rush. A company worked a copper mine with 500 miners as recently as 1913, but the veins were not as rich as Keweenaw deposits so the island was once more abandoned to nature.

"Now Isle Royal is inhabited by a few fishermen and summer resorters who find there the cool quiet of the north woods. The fishermen live in isolated shacks along the rocky coast, setting their nets to catch whitefish, lake-trout, herring and menominee fish. Most of the Scandinavians, who gave up the sea for the inland sea of wheat fields in the Red River Valley. But the real sea called and they compromised accepting fresh water instead of salt. Fresh water has harrowing tales to match perils of open sea.

"There was the Knife River fisherman who went out to gather his nets in a December blow taking his wife with him to row the boat stuck in the ice. His wife was too weak to walk, so the man picked his way to shore for help. When he returned with aid the boat was gone. Next spring they found it. The boat had drifted back to Knife river where it started from. The woman lay in the bottom of the boat covered over with ice.

"Indians, or possibly, the Indians' predecessors, learned there was copper on Isle Royal hundreds of years ago. Pits have been discovered where these primitives pried copper-bearing rock out of the ground elevated it on rude platforms and extracted some copper. Scientists think that it must have been an extinct race which mined the metal since no records are known of copper in the possession of Indians in this region. By computing the rings on stumps of trees growing in these ancient pits, they determined that the excavations were made before Columbus landed in America.

"A large part of Isle Royal has been bought up by the State of Michigan, which has signified its intention of donating the park to the National Government if it is decided to incorporate it in the National Park System. In addition to the main island which has forty-eight inland lakes there are 160 smaller islands off shore. These vary in size from one acre to 320 acres. Isle Royal is 20 miles from Fort William, 1696 miles from Duluth, and 250 miles from Sault St. Marie."

THREE WILLIMANTIC CHILDREN HURT IN MASSACHUSETTS CRASH

Three Willimantic children, a son and two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Tremblay of 499 Pleasant street were hurt in an automobile accident at Ludlow, Mass., Sunday morning and were taken to the Ludlow hospital, suffering from cuts and bruises. Later they were able to leave the hospital and were taken home.

Mrs. M. T Nolan and her daughter, Rita, 21, both of 56 Columbus avenue, Somerville, were taken to Wesson Memorial hospital, the former with cuts and bruises about her head and the latter with a badly injured shoulder and possible internal injuries.

Mr. Tremblay, who had with him his children, Philip, Clare and Florette, was driving north in Parker street and the Nolan car was traveling west on Boston road when the collision occurred. The Tremblay car was pushed off the road and crashed against an electric light pole. Both cars were badly damaged.

Mrs. Nolan and her daughter, Rita, it was reported at the Wesson hospital, are expected to recover. Police investigated the accident but found no cause for action.

FRANK MURPHY SHOWS DRAW GOOD CROWDS

The Frank J. Murphy shows, open for the past several nights on the grounds off Main street on the East Side, have attracted a large number of people each evening. The show this year is bigger and better than ever before and with the usual shows and rides are a large number of booths where one is attracted to try his luck on blankets, candy, dolls and the usual prizes.

The rides include the large ferris wheel, the whip and the merry-go-round and these have been well patronized. Shows on the grounds include group exhibitions of feats of magic, electricity, freaks and such like, and the novel mechanical village.

An addition this year is the world war museum, conducted by ex-service men. This exhibition contains pictures, pieces of war material, helmets, corps pointers of German and allied armies, guns and many other interesting bits of war material collected from the battle fields.

The show will remain in Norwich for some time before Mr. Murphy starts out on the swing which will carry him to many states of this country before he returns to his winter quarters in Norwich next fall.

Everything possible has been done by the management to make the show one of the cleanest on the road and all objectionable features of the traveling shows of past years has been done away with by Mr. Murphy.

ALCORN FIGHTS RELEASE OF PRISONER ON QUIET

The power of a judge to release a prisoner from jail before the expiration of his sentence has resulted in a situation misused by some attorneys, State's Attorney Alcorn said in superior court at Hartford Monday and he added that he wanted to give public notice to the members of the bar that hereafter he has asked the court to require that any application for release is to be made that it be made in open court and the reasons publicly stated, and that the state's attorney be given opportunity to be heard. Mr. Alcorn said he had learned that some attorneys had held out to clients in jail the hope of getting them released before expiration of their time; had taken large fees for negotiating the matter and then would go to the judge in one part of the state and possibly bother the state's attorney about it. He said that in some cases where the judge had said that he would commute the sentence after a certain length of time, attorneys had taken advantage of the situation and collected large fees for "getting the client out."

Judge Maltbie interposed to say that he had heard of two cases where attorneys had told clients if they had money to pay for services they would be able to get the sentences committed. So far as he was concerned Judge Maltbie said that hereafter there would be no commutations except on application in open court and the state's attorney present.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

The following cases were quickly disposed of by Judge A. F. Libby in the city court Monday morning:

Frank Wilbur, colored, charged with having made a sale of "white mule" Sunday afternoon at his home on High street, was fined $200 and costs of $11.87 these being remitted, and he was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

A local man charged with intoxication paid $10.50 to settle his case, and three other men charged on similar counts paid fines and costs.

Frank F. Rogers of Dayville charged with violation of the automobile laws was fined $20 and costs totalling $36.03 which he paid on the charge of reckless driving. He was in collision last week with another machine at the corner of Fourth and North Main streets.

ELKS' EASTER MONDAY DANCE LARGELY ATTENDED

A hundred couples attended the successful Easter Monday dance held Monday evening at the Elks Home under the auspices of the Boston Elks Convention club. The Blue Ribbon Novelty orchestra furnished the dance programme. The committee in charge comprised F. P. Callahan, Joseph P. Williams, Lawrence E. Millea, Abe Silverberg and James P. Hayes.

This was the first of a series of dances to be given for the purpose of raising a fund for the Elks' trip to the Boston convention.

MASS IN NATIONAL SHRINE AT WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Of interest to many Catholics in Eastern Connecticut was the fact that at Washington mass was said Easter Sunday for the first time in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the $3,000,000 church edifice under construction in the grounds at the Catholic university where Bishop Shahan is president.

The National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception is being erected by the voluntary contributions of the millions of Catholics throughout the world. It is to be the largest edifice of the Catholic church in North America, and one of the greatest basilicas in the world. It is to be constructed of the finest marble in this country and the Old World and will contain paintings and tapestries of the highest artistry. The style is to be North Italian Romaneque. The extreme length will be 465 feet. The main transept will be more than 300 feet wide, and the principal nave 54 feet wide. The width of the facade will be 134 feet. The dome will be about 250 feet high and 90 feet in circumference, while the height to the campanile will be 332 feet. There will be 62 marble columns, each weighing from 3 3-4 to 9 7-8 tons.

Many residents in and about Norwich are contributors to the magnificent edifice.

WILLIAMS CROSSING SIGNAL NOT WORKING PROPERLY

A number of autoists who came down the Norwich-Willimantic highway Monday afternoon reported that the railroad signal at Williams Crossing on the Central Vermont road was showing red continuously. These reports covered a period of several hours and autoists claimed they had stopped and in some cases left their machines to see if a train were approaching before they drove across the rails.

The south side of this crossing for a person driving to Norwich from Willimantic is dangerous, as the banks leading to the trestle of the trolley road cuts off all view of the track to the south, and with red showing on the danger sign makes the chance of crossing even more dangerous.

A number of drivers of cars claimed that the signal should be replaced by one of the improved type, as a signal which is not working properly is a dangerous thing to use in warning vehicles at a dangerous railroad crossing.

TWO NORWICH TRAVELERS RETURN FROM EUROPE

Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and Edward G. McKay, who sailed from New York on Feb. 23 for a tour in Europe arrived in New York Monday morning on the return trip and Mr. McKay came on to his home here Monday evening. Mr. Shields is to remain in New York for a week.

Mr. Shields has been greatly benefitted in health by the travel abroad. They visited Spain, Italy, France and England and when in Italy stayed a few days with Mr. Shields' sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, who is at Villa Florence, San Remo, with her four children.

Stops Rheumatic Pains—No Medicine to Take

Discovery of Italian Physicist Proves Boon to Rheumatic Sufferers

Thousands of people in this country who once were victims of torturing rheumatism are now praising a new wonder discovered in Italy.

Allesandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named, has discovered a new and revolutionary treatment for Rheumatism. This discovery is VOLTA, a Powder which, when shaken into the shoes, has given immediate relief to thousands of the most persistent cases of rheumatic pain.

Unlike internal remedies, which are often dangerous, Volta powder is intended to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet. This absorption is due, no doubt, to the fact that the feet contain over 10 times the number of pores to the square inch as does any other part of the body.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with an unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very first package or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not even upset you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as:

FILLMORE TAKES LEAD IN BOWLING LEAGUE BY BEATING DUGAS SEVEN

Roy Fillmore, local bowling ace, swung into the lead in the Eastern Connecticut Individual bowling tournament Monday evening, when he won seven out of 11 strings from Chip Dugas at Taftville. Dugas went into the match with a slight lead over the local boy, but Fillmore was in good shape and when the match was over Fillmore was leading the league.

Dugas, however, broke the individual singles record when he hit for 143 in the second string, passing Barber, who hung high single of 142 in his match with Fillmore last Thursday night at Danielson. The match was fairly close, Fillmore beating out Dugas by 10 pins in the total pinfall, Fillmore having a total of 1148, while Dugas had 1138. Fillmore's average was 104 and Dugas' was 103.

Both boys with the exception of two strings were fairly steady and rolled a consistent game. Fillmore had 23 more strings to roll while Dugas has ten more to roll. Fillmore must win 12 of the 32 to win the title.

The scores:

| Dugas. | Fillmore. |
|---|---|
| 98 | 105 |

| Barber | 29 | 37 | .439 |
| Dodge | 28 | 32 | .419 |

Frank Barber of Danielson after last night's match issued a challenge to the winner of the tournament to roll for a purse of $1,000. Barber says that the winner can make his own terms, whether it shall be home and home series or rolled on neutral alleys; whether it will be total pinfall or games won and lost. Anything is agreeable to him as long as he gets the match.

Barber will not be able to roll Dodge this week as Frank will be in New York until the first of next week, but will be able to roll the latter part of next week.

BULKELEY WILL HAVE TENNIS TEAM THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Plans are now under way for the introduction of a new form of sport at Bulkeley High school. In her struggle to place herself at the head of the high and prep schools in Connecticut, Bulkeley has added tennis to her growing list of athletic activities.

The idea has been sponsored by Headmaster Homer K. Underwood and the faculty in its endeavor to further the physical condition of the students. An odd situation arises in the fact that basketball, an old standby has been discarded temporarily, while tennis, a sport which in the past has been sadly neglected, is now open to any member of the student body. The idea, thus far conveyed might mislead one into believing that nobody at Bulkeley has seen a tennis racket before. But it is interesting to note that several upper classmen wield a mean racket; in fact two of them entered the tournament at the Hotel Griswold last summer and lasted until the semi-final, when they were eliminated by the champion of New London, after a hard struggle.

With this material on hand the tennis team's prospects for its games with high schools are exceedingly bright. Wallace Wemple of the senior class will take charge of the first meeting, at which numerous candidates are expected to turn out.

DODGERS TAKE EXTRA SESSION GAME FROM PHILLIES

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia today 7 to 4 in ten innings, the third extra inning game in the four played in this city this season.

Deberry, the Brooklyn catcher, hit a home run in the tenth inning with two one base winning the game and handing Carlson his second straight ten inning defeat.

Grimes and Carlson both were hit hard at intervals. Score.

ALEXANDER WEAKENS IN EIGHTH AND REDS WIN

Cincinnati, April 21.—Alexander, after pitching great ball for eighth innings, weakened, and the Reds tied the score in the ninth on Bressler's triple, and Burns sacrifice fly, and won in the tenth on hits by Duncan, Hargrave and Pinelli. Benton was in grand form, the only Chicago tally coming in the second on a three base muff of Grimes' fly by Duncan and a sacrifice by Friberg.

GIANTS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM BRAVES

New York, April 21.—The New York Giants continued their winning form today, defeating the Boston Braves 2 to 1 in the fifth straight triumph for the New York team.

Jack Bentley and Jess Barnes hooked up in a great pitchers' battle, the former allowing seven hits and the latter four. The Braves lone run was scored in the third inning when Bancroft singled with O'Neil on second. Jackson's home run in the eighth tied the score and Frisch's triple with Groh on base in the ninth inning turned the tide of victory. Judge Landis watched the game from a field box. The score:

ROCHESTER'S HIGH SCORE ALMOST A BASEBALL RECORD

New York, April 21.—Rochester's 30-2 victory over Newark in the International league today has been exceeded by only one major league team—Chicago—which defeated Louisville 36 to 7, on June 29, 1897, in the 12-club National league.

Cleveland's 27-3 win over Boston in July 7, 1923, is the nearest major league approach to the Chicago score, in the dim ages of baseball, 1862, the Niagaras won from Columbus at Buffalo, 209 to 10. In modern minor league history, Corsicana defeated Texarkana in the Texas league, 54-2, making 19 home runs in the game.

How It's Done In the Majors

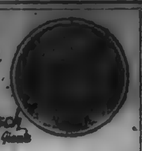
By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants



There is a runner on first and the batter singles so this runner makes the attempt to reach third.

What umpire should make the decision at third?

This play invariably causes more trouble in amateur baseball, and even in college baseball, so that it ought to be cleared before the season gets far under way, although it has nothing whatsoever to do with the actual playing of the game.

In major league ball where there is a field umpire and also a plate umpire, the latter should run down to third base as soon as the ball is hit in order to be there in plenty of time to give him a full view of such a play, should it occur. The field umpire should watch second and first bases, for many times the ball does not get to third. One such occasion is when the ball is played to second base. The field umpire must be on hand to judge such plays. When the umpires work together in this way little trouble is likely ot arise over decisions.

TILDEN'S RESIGNATION COMES AS SURPRISE TO TENNIS WORLD

New York, April 21.—William T. Tilden's announcement in Philadelphia of his withdrawal as a member of the 1924 American Olympic and Davis cup teams created a sensation in tennis circles here today, but officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association declined to comment upon the champion's unexpected decision.

It was pointed out, however, by a member of the Davis cup committee, which selected Tilden for this year's international contests, that the committee felt no embarrassment over the situation caused by Tilden's status as a player-writer, which the champion gave as the reason for his step. Had such been the case, it was said Tilden would have been advised of it without hesitancy.

Tilden, it was emphasized, is in good amateur standing this year, so far as the U. S. L. T. A. is concerned, although recently he was informed that under the player-writer rule which goes into effect next January he would be ineligible for amateur play in 1925 if he continued newspaper writing on his present scale.

At a conference with tennis officials on this point recently, however, Tilden, it was understood, came to an amicable understanding with the U. S. L. T. A. after a thorough discussion of his case. He announced afterward that he had placed himself at the disposal of the association for whatever events it desired him to compete in this year and, in outlining his plans, recently, added that he intended to center his attention on the defense of the Davis cup and his titles as national singles and doubles champion.

Thus, Tilden's announcement of his retirement from international play came as a distinct surprise, but it was generally believed it was prompted by publication yesterday of the report of Holcomb Ward, chairman of the amateur rule committee of the U. S. L. T. A. This report delved at length into Tilden's newspaper writing activities. Endeavored to show that he violated the spirit as well as the letter of the amateur interpretation by receiving "substantial emolument" for his work, chiefly because of his prestige as champion, and criticized his position as setting an undesirable example to the youth of the tennis world. Its purpose, however, it was said today, was simply to make the U. S. L. T. A. position clear.

So far as the Olympic team was concerned, opinion prevailed that Tilden would not join it, despite his selection recently, because the Olympic committee has passed a player-writer rule barring athletes at Paris from doing journalistic work. This was entirely apart from the U. S. L. T. A. ruling, however.

Tilden's withdrawal from Davis cup competition, however, would mean a serious blow to this country's forces which face an exceptionally strong challenge this year from more than a score of nations, with Australia, Spain and France looming as particularly powerful contenders. Since he and William M. (Little Bill) Johnston brought back the cup from Australia in 1920, Tilden has lost but one Davis cup match. That was in the doubles against Australia in 1922 with Vincent Richards. Last year he won both his singles matches and with R. Norris Williams II, of Philadelphia, won the doubles match in the challenge round with Australia. Still apparently in his prime, Tilden was regarded as the main hope of the defending forces again this year, particularly as Johnston, in the belief of some critics, is not able to withstand as rigorous a campaign as in former years. "Little Bill" was beaten last year by J. O. Anderson in the challenge round.

Walker Gets Decision.

Philadelphia, April 21.—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., welterweight champion of the world, gained a 10-round decision over Johnnie Gill, of York, Pa., here tonight in a hard contest.

Walker had the fight his way from the start, hitting Gill almost at will. The judges accorded the York boxer the honors in but one round. The title was not at stake.

Walker weighed 146 pounds and Gill 154.

LIEUTENANTS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT IN DUNGAREE LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Hackett's single through Mosier, scored Sandresser with the winning run that decided the First Lieutenants and the Submarine Division 2 ball game at the Submarine Base this afternoon. The final score which read 9 to 8 in the First Lieutenants' favor was the fourth straight victory for this team in regular games of the Dungaree league.

The game was full of hair raising plays and there were surprises aplenty for all that attended. First it was Submarine Division 2 team that was ahead and then up came the First Lieutenants to tie it and running away with the contest in the last frame by scoring the one run needed for a victory before the game was called on account of darkness.

The Submarine Division 2 boys, by hopping on Locke's delivery in the first inning and scoring five runs, gave that robust and happy-go-lucky gob a feeling that a dog has. Locke wished he had not taken up twirling when the submarine sailors pasted all he threw anywhere near the plate for a row of Abyssinian bath houses. It reminded Locke of the days when he was in a submarine base football uniform and playing fullback and being caught by the entire one side of the opposing side when he attempted to wend his way through for a gain. Locke will regret this day the longest day he lives, the undersea men treated him as an unfriendly dog and even would give a stranger at the game an impression that he did not belong at the government reservation and was not wanted. Accordingly he left the game flat at the end of the first inning—but not of his own accord, he was requested to do so.

After Locke was taken out, Blackwell replaced him and pitched for two innings, allowing the opposition two runs. Walmsley relieved him and pitched the remainder of the contest and when his team nosed out the sub chaser brigade, he was credited with the victory.

Mancinix pitched his second game in two days for the Submarine Division 2 and except for a few unlucky breaks would have come out the winner. As it was he held the first looeys well in hand, for they generally get rough in the early frames and maltreat a twirler bad. Laubaug replaced Mancini in the fifth and was charged with the defeat.

The teams lined up as follows: Submarine Division 2—Orfi ss, Prooks 1b, Durgen lf, Lauvaugo 3b., Nesbitt rf, Lyons c, Micheals cf, Mosier 2b, Mancini p, Laubaug p.

First Lieutenants—Hackett 3b, Anderson 1b, Ainckle c, Hawes ss, Sala rf, Davis ss, 2b, Christopher cf, rf, Sandresser 2b, cf, Hambsch lf, Locke p, Blackwell p, Walmsley p.

TILDEN WITHDRAWS HIS NAME AS MEMBER OF OLYMPIC TENNIS TEAM

Philadelphia, April 21.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, today announced his resignation as a member of the American Davis cup and Olympic teams.

In doing so, Tilden said that as his amateur status had been questioned he wished to relieve the Davis cup committee, which had named him, for both teams of any embarrassment that might arise over his position as an amateur player.

Tilden said he will continue to play as an individual in such tournaments as he may enter and will defend his title in the national championship next August.

Along with his announcement, Tilden made public a letter he sent today to Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis cup committee, in which he refers to the report of the amateur rule committee made public last Saturday. "I learn with astonishment," said Tilden in the letter, "that the player-write in general, and I in particular am regarded by the committee as not only go longer an amateur, but as an 'evil influence' in the game."

The letter is as follows:

"From the report of the amateur rule committee of March 25, 1924, made public on Saturday last, a copy of which was mailed to me, I learn with astonishment that the player-writer in general, and I in particular, am amateur, but as an 'evil influence' in the game.

"As my name is used in the report, there can be no doubt that I am regarded by the committee as such an 'evil influence.'

"Since it is inconceivable that the association would desire the presence on the Olympic or Davis cup squads for 1924 of such an 'evil influence,' I, although I do not for a moment concede either the fairness or correctness of the committee's interpretation of the amateur rule or of my standing thereunder, tender to you my resignation as a member of both squads.

"I do this to relieve the association of the embarrassment and to save them from the criticism which will be theirs if they take the initiative in the matter.

"I do not regard myself as violating either the spirit or letter of the amateur rule, and I certainly do not consider myself an 'evil influence' in the game, but your report clearly states that in the eyes of the committee, I am.

"Since the executive committee has already unofficially expressed itself in favor of professionalising me next year should the present conditions continue, they must clearly regard me as a professional now.

"I resign with regret, but self respect compels me to do so. I wish you and the committee to know that my services are at your disposal when my amateur status is clearly recognized.

"Trust that the cup will long remain on our shores, and wishing the committee and team all success in the 1924 challenge round, I am,

"Very sincerely,
WILLIAM T. TILDEN, II."

CHAPMAN TECH MEETS PRATT HIGH AT ESSEX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Chapman Tech will attempt to break its losing streak that has already reached two straight, when it stacks up against Pratt High at Essex, Tuesday afternoon. When the Red and Black were handed a 7 to 2 defeat at the hands of Old Saybrook High on Thursday, the losing streak of the team reached the alarming total of two straight in as many starts. The sooner the Tech outfit breaks into the win column the better it will be for this team. For the team is already drawing criticism from the local fans as to its ability as a baseball outfit.

Chapman Tech is playing in hard luck at present and as soon as the players get settled, the all round play of this team will be a decided improvement over the early season performance. As was expected, the Chapman Tech team is weak without Johnny Dwyer in the lineup. Dwyer proved to be the backbone of the Tech team for the past four years. His presence in the lineup instilled confidence in the team and made a winning team out of a losing nine.

On paper the two teams appear to be fairly even, both on the offense and on the defense. While Chapman Tech inflicted an easy defeat on the upstaters last year, with the recruit twirler in the box, the same is not expected when the two teams meet Tuesday afternoon.

According to advance information, Chapman Tech will have to have the nine best ball tossers in the school playing A-1 ball to repeat last year's defeat. After trying out numerous recruits in the earlier games, the Tech management has selected Cruise to baffle the opposition with his fast ball.

ROCKY KANSAS OUTPOINTS DUNDEE IN 10 ROUNDS

Buffalo, N. Y., April 21.—Rocky Kansas outpointed Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, in ten rounds here tonight. Dundee's titles were not at stake, Kansas weighed 134 1-2 and Dundee 133.

Dundee took a double knockdown in the seventh round. Kansas blocked a right swing to the jaw and they clinched. Rocky cuffed Dundee's head and they both missed right swings. Kansas landed a stinging left to the mouth, and crossed with a right that swept the champion from his feet. Dundee was up to go down again with a smacking right to the chin. He got to his feet at the bell, with Kansas standing over him.

The stocky Kansas, a trifle overweight for his supposedly best form, rushed the fighting strongly throughout and traded blows with impunity.

There was a possibility that a lightweight title match with Benny Leonard would result from tonight's encounter.

M'TIGUE OFFERED $35,000 FOR BOUT WITH STRIBLING

New York, April 21.—Negotiations for a 15-round fight to a decision for the light heavyweight champion of the world between Mike McTigue, the titleholder, and Young Stribling, who recently outpointed the champion in a 10-decision battle at Newark, progressed today when Paddy Mullins, manager of McTigue, was offered $35,000 for the bout at Atlanta, Macon or Columbus, Ga.

Mullins is considering the proposition which includes acceptance of a referee selected by the New York boxing commission.

GIBSON TO TRY TO LEGALLY STOP BOUT

New York, April 21.—Legal proceedings to prevent Georges Carpentier, French light heavyweight, from meeting Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, in Michigan City, Ind., on May 31, will be started in the courts of Indiana, immediately upon Carpentier's arrival in the United States, Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, announced today.

Gibson said he would base his application for an injunction on his contract with Descamps, the Frenchmans' manager for a Carpentier-Tunney match. This, he asserted, contains a clause prohibiting Carpentier from engaging in any other match in the United States before meeting Tunney.

A report that Carpentier would be brought into this country through Canada in an attempt to escape possible litigation in New York prompted Gibson's plan to seek his injunction in Indiana, the manager declared.

Gibson pointed out that Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Carpentier-Gibbons match, had recognized Gibbon's prior claim to the Frenchman's services when he offered $40,000 for the release of the Tunney-Carpentier agreement until after the Gibbons fight.

Descamps today cabled Gibson from Vienna that Carpentier would fulfil his agreement to fight Tunney after the Gibbons match. He predicted that the Frenchman would knock out Gibbons.

STRUNK IS RELEASED BY CHICAGO TEAM

Chicago, April 21.—Amos Strunk, one of the two surviving members of the former four time pennant winning Athletics today was released by the Chicago White Sox leaving only Eddie Collins, captain of the Sox as the only member of the 1910 Athletics in the game. Strunk, who came to Chicago five years ago, was unconditionally released.

Associated with Strunk in the days when Connie Mack's club was winning pennants were Danny Murphy and Rube Oldring, outfielders, Harry Davis, first, Eddie Collins, second "Home Run" Baker, third, and Barry, shortstop. Eddie Plank, Coombs and Bender, the Indian, were pitchers.

Although Collins and Strunk were the only members of the 1910 club which won the world's championship by defeating the Chicago Cubs four games to one a number of others including "Bullett" Joe Bush, Wally Schang and "Stuffy" McInnis later joined the club while Strunk was a member. They are still in the majors.

Because of his long service in the American league Strunk was declared a free agent and probably will sign himself up with a Coast league club.

NAITO WILL REPRESENT JAPAN AT OLYMPICS

State College, Pa., April 21.—Katsutoshi Naito, captain of the Pennsylvania State college wrestling team and intercollegiate 135 pound champion, will participate in the Olympic games at Paris this summer as a representative of his native land, Japan. His official appointment was conveyed in a letter received today by President John M. Thomas of the college, from the Japanese ambassador, M. Hanihara at Washington.

Naito has kept in training since the close of the wrestling season and will go direct from State College to the Olympics, where he will join the Japanese team. He will graduate from the Pennsylvania state school of agriculture in June.

LEONARD SIGNS MOVIE CONTRACT CALLING FOR $100,000

New York April 21.—Following the example of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, through his manager Billy Gibson, today signed a $100,000 contract to appear in a motion picture based on the titleholder's career.

Gibson said the screen agreement stipulated that the contract should in no way interfere with Leonard's pending ring engagements.

Hussey to Train in Quaker City

New York Apr. 21.—Francis Hussey, sensational New York school boy sprinter who expects to win a place on the Olympic team for the 100 metre dash, left today for Philadelphia to train during his Easter vacation under the direction of Lawson Robertson, head Olympic track coach, at the University of Pennsylv

FILLMORE TAKES LEAD IN BOWLING LEAGUE BY BEATING DUGAS SEVEN

Roy Fillmore, local bowling ace, swung into the lead in the Eastern Connecticut Individual bowling tournament Monday evening when he won seven out of 11 strings from Chig Dugas at Taftville. Dugas went into the match with a slight lead over the local boy, but Fillmore was in good shape and when the match was over Fillmore was leading the league.

Dugas, however, broke the individual singles record when he hit for 143 in the second string, passing Barber, who hung high single of 142 in his match with Fillmore last Thursday night at Danielson. The match was fairly close, Fillmore beating out Dugas by 10 pins in the total pinfall, Fillmore having a total of 1148, while Dugas had 1138. Fillmore's average was 104 and Dugas' was 103.

Both boys with the exception of two strings were fairly steady and rolled a consistent game. Fillmore had 22 more strings to roll while Dugas has ten more to roll. Fillmore must win 12 of the 22 to win the title.

The scores:

| Dugas. | Fillmore. |

| Morin | 32 | 24 | .485 |
| Barber | 29 | 37 | .439 |
| Dodge | 23 | 32 | .418 |

Frank Barber of Danielson after last night's match issued a challenge to the winner of the tournament to roll for a purse of $1,000. Barber says that the winner can make his own terms, whether it shall be home and home series or rolled on neutral alleys; whether it will be total pinfall or games won and lost. Anything is agreeable to him as long as he gets the match.

Barber will not be able to roll Dodge this week as Frank will be in New York until the first of next week, but will be able to roll the latter part of next week.

ROMMEL SHUTS OUT RED SOX WITH 5 HITS

Boston, April 21.—Rommel, of Philadelphia held Boston to five hits today, the visitors winning, 4 to 0. A pass, a bunt, singles by Strand and Simmons and a wild pitch by Quinn in the first inning gave Philadelphia two runs. In the ninth, off Piercy, Hauser and Simmons doubled and the addition of a bunt and a wild pitch gave the visitors two more runs. The score:

BULKELEY WILL HAVE TENNIS TEAM THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Plans are now under way for the introduction of a new form of sport at Bulkeley High school. In her struggle to place herself at the head of the high and prep schools in Connecticut, Bulkeley has added tennis to her growing list of athletic activities.

The idea has been sponsored by Headmaster Homer K. Underwood and the faculty in its endeavor to further the physical condition of the students. An odd situation arises in the fact that basketball, an old standby has been discarded temporarily, while tennis, a sport which in the past has been sadly neglected, is now open to any member of the student body. The idea thus far conveyed might mislead one into believing that nobody at Bulkeley has seen a tennis racket before. But it is interesting to note that several upper classmen wield a mean racket; in fact two of them entered the tournament at the Hotel Griswold last summer and lasted until the semi-final, when they were eliminated by the champion of New London, after a hard struggle.

With this material on hand the tennis team's prospects for its games with high schools are exceedingly bright. Wallace Wemple of the senior class will take charge of the first meeting, at which numerous candidates are expected to turn out.

CARDS WIN SLUGGING MATCH FROM PIRATES

St. Louis, April 21.—Pounding Wilbur Cooper, star Southpaw, the Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates today 11 to 9. The Pirate got six runs in the fifth on four singles and a triple. The Cardinals duplicated the feat in the seventh on five singles and Blades' homer. The score:

DODGERS TAKE EXTRA SESSION GAME FROM PHILLIES

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia today 7 to 4 in ten innings, the third extra inning game in the four played in this city this season.

Deberry, the Brooklyn catcher, hit a home run in the tenth inning with two one base winning the game and handing Carlson his second straight ten inning defeat.

Grimes and Carlson both were hit hard at intervals. Score.

ALEXANDER WEAKENS IN EIGHTH AND REDS WIN

Cincinnati, April 21.—Alexander, after pitching great ball for eighth innings, weakened, and the Reds tied the score in the ninth on Bressler's triple, and Burns sacrifice fly, and won in the tenth on hits by Duncan, Hargrave and Pinelli. Benton was in grand form, the only Chicago tally coming in the second on a three base muff of Grimes' fly by Duncan and a sacrifice by Friberg.

Roush, who strained his side while batted in yesterday's game, has been ordered by his physician to remain idle for at least a week. The score:

GIANTS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM BRAVES

New York, April 21.—The New York Giants continued their winning form today, defeating the Boston Braves 2 to 1 in the fifth straight triumph for the New York team.

Jack Bentley and Jess Barnes hooked up in a great pitchers' battle, the former allowing seven hits and the latter four. The Braves lone run was scored in the third inning when Bancroft singled with O'Neil on second. Jackson's home run in the eighth tied the score and Frisch's triple with Groh on base in the ninth inning turned the tide of victory. Judge Landis watched the game from a field box. The score:

ROCHESTER'S HIGH SCORE ALMOST A BASEBALL RECORD

New York, April 21.—Rochester's 30-2 victory over Newark in the International league today has been exceeded by only one major league team—Chicago—which defeated Louisville 36 to 7, on June 29, 1897, in the 12-club National league.

Cleveland's 27-3 win over Boston in July 7, 1923, is the nearest major league approach to the Chicago score. In the dim ages of baseball, 1860, the Niagaras won from Columbus at Buffalo, 209 to 10. In modern minor league history, Corsicana defeated Texarkana in the Texas league, 54-2, making 19 home runs in the game.

How It's Done in the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

There is a runner on first and the batter singles so this runner makes the attempt to reach third.

What umpire should make the decision at third?

This play invariably causes more trouble in amateur baseball, and even in college baseball, so that it ought to be cleared before the season gets far under way, although it has nothing whatsoever to do with the actual playing of the game.

In major league ball where there is a field umpire and also a plate umpire, the latter should run down to third base as soon as the ball is hit in order to be there in plenty of time to give him a full view of such a play, should it occur. The field umpire should watch second and first bases, for many times the ball does not get to third. One such occasion is when the ball is played to second base. The field umpire must be on hand to judge such plays. When the umpires work together in this way little trouble is likely to arise over decisions.

TILDEN'S RESIGNATION COMES AS SURPRISE TO TENNIS WORLD

New York, April 21.—William T. Tilden's announcement in Philadelphia of his withdrawal as a member of the 1924 American Olympic and Davis cup teams created a sensation in tennis circles here today, but officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association declined to comment upon the champion's unexpected decision.

It was pointed out, however, by a member of the Davis cup committee, which selected Tilden for this year's international contests, that the committee felt no embarrassment over the situation caused by Tilden's status as a player-writer, which the champion gave as the reason for his step. Had such been the case, it was said Tilden would have been advised of it without hesitancy.

Tilden, it was emphasized, is in good amateur standing this year, so far as the U. S. L. T. A. is concerned, although recently he was informed that under the player-writer rule which goes into effect next January he would be ineligible for amateur play in 1925 if he continued newspaper writing on his present scale.

At a conference with tennis officials on this point recently, however, Tilden, it was understood, came to an amicable understanding with the U. S. L. T. A. after a thorough discussion of his case. He announced afterward that he had placed himself at the disposal of the association for whatever events it desired him to compete in this year and, in outlining his plans, recently, added that he intended to center his attention on the defense of the Davis cup and his titles as national singles and doubles champion.

Thus, Tilden's announcement of his retirement from international play came as a distinct surprise, but it was generally believed it was prompted by publication yesterday of the report of Holcomb Ward, chairman of the amateur rule committee of the U. S. L. T. A. This report delved at length into Tilden's newspaper writing activities, endeavored to show that he violated the spirit as well as the letter of the amateur interpretation by receiving "substantial emolument" for his work, chiefly because of his prestige as champion, and criticised his position as setting an undesirable example to the youth of the tennis world. Its purpose, however, it was said today, was simply to make the U. S. L. T. A. position clear.

So far as the Olympic team was concerned, opinion prevailed that Tilden would not join it, despite his selection recently, because the Olympic committee has passed a player-writer rule barring athletes in Paris from writing journalistic work. This was entirely apart from the U. S. L. T. A. ruling, however.

Tilden's withdrawal from Davis cup competition, however, would mean a serious blow to this country's forces which face an exceptionally strong challenge this year from more than a score of nations, with Australia, Spain and France looming as particularly powerful contenders. Since he and William M. (Little Bill) Johnston brought back the cup from Australia in 1920, Tilden has lost but one Davis cup match. That was in the doubles against Australia in 1922 with Vincent Richards. Last year he won both his singles matches and with R. Norris Williams, II, of Philadelphia, won the doubles match in the challenge round with Australia. Still apparently in his prime, Tilden was regarded as the main hope of the defending forces again this year, particularly as Johnston, in the belief of some critics, is not able to withstand as rigorous a campaign as in former years. "Little Bill" was beaten last year by J. O. Anderson in the challenge round.

Walker Gets Decision.

Philadelphia, April 21.—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., welterweight champion of the world, gained a 10-round decision over Johnnie Gill, of York, Pa., here tonight in a hard contest.

Walker had the fight his way from the start, hitting Gill almost at will. The judges accorded the York boxer the honors in but one round. The title was not at stake.

Walker weighed 146 pounds and Gill 154

LIEUTENANTS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT IN DUNGAREE LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Hackett's single through Master, scored Sandreser with the winning run that decided the First Lieutenants and the Submarine Division 2 ball game at the Submarine Base this afternoon. The final score which read 9 to 8 in the First Lieutenants' favor was the fourth straight victory for this team in regular games of the Dungaree league.

The game was full of hair raising plays and there were surprises aplenty for all that attended. First it was Submarine Division 2 team that was ahead and then up came the First Lieutenants to tie it and running away with the contest in the last frame by scoring the one run needed for a victory before the game was called on account of darkness.

The Submarine Division 2 boys, by hopping on Locke's delivery in the first inning and scoring five runs, gave that robust and happy-go-lucky gob a feeling that a dog has. Locke wished he had not taken up twirling when the submarine sailors pasted all he threw anywhere near the plate for a row of Abyssinian bath houses. It reminded Locke of the days when he was in a submarine base football uniform and playing fullback and being caught by the entire one side of the opposing side when he attempted to wend his way through for a gain. Locke will regret this day the longest day he lives, the undersea men treated him as an unfriendly dog and even would give a stranger at the game an impression that he did not belong at the government reservation and was not wanted. Accordingly he left the game flat at the end of the first inning—but not of his own accord, he was requested to do so.

After Locke was taken out, Blackwell replaced him and pitched for two innings, allowing the opposition two runs. Walmsley relieved him and pitched the remainder of the contest and when his team nosed out the sub chaser brigade, he was credited with the victory.

Mancinix pitched his second game in two days for the Submarine Division 2 and except for a few unlucky breaks would have come out the winner. As it was he held the first looeys well in hand, for they generally get rough in the early frames and maltreat a twirler bad. Laubaug replaced Mancini in the fifth and was charged with the defeat.

The teams lined up as follows: Submarine Division 2—Orfi ss, Brooks 1b, Durgen lf, Lauvaugo 3b, Nesbitt rf, Lyons c, Micheals cf, Mosier 3b, Mancini p, Laubaug p.

First Lieutenants—Hackett 3b, Anderson 1b, Ainckle c, Hawes ss, Sala rf, Davis ss, 2b, Christopher cf, rf, Sandreser 2b, cf, Hambsch lf, Locke p, Blackwell p, Walmsley p.

The score by innings:
Submarine Div. 2 .. 5 1 1 1 0 0 0—8
First Lieutenants .. 0 0 0 7 1 0 1—9

TILDEN WITHDRAWS HIS NAME AS MEMBER OF OLYMPIC TENNIS TEAM

Philadelphia, April 21.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, today announced his resignation as a member of the American Davis cup and Olympic teams.

In doing so, Tilden said that as his amateur status had been questioned he wished to relieve the Davis cup committee, which had named him, for both teams of any embarrassment that might arise over his position as an amateur player.

Tilden said he will continue to play as an individual in such tournaments as he may enter and will defend his title in the national championship next August.

Along with his announcement, Tilden made public a letter he sent today to Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis cup committee, in which he refers to the report of the amateur rule committee made public last Saturday. "I learn with astonishment," said Tilden in the letter, "that the player-writer in general, and I in particular am regarded by the committee as not only no longer an amateur, but as an 'evil influence' in the game."

The letter is as follows:

"From the report of the amateur rule committee of March 15, 1924, made public on Saturday last, a copy of which was mailed to me, I learn with astonishment that the player-writer in general, and I in particular, am amateur, but as an 'evil influence' in the game.

"As my name is used in the report, there can be no doubt that I am regarded by the committee as such an 'evil influence.'

"Since it is inconceivable that the association would desire the presence on the Olympic or Davis cup squads for 1924 of such an 'evil influence,' I, although I do not for a moment concede either the fairness or correctness of the committee's interpretation of the amateur rule or of my standing thereunder, tender to you my resignation as a member of both squads.

"I do this to relieve the association of the embarrassment and to save them from the criticism which will be theirs if they take the initiative in the matter.

"I do not regard myself as violating either the spirit or letter of the amateur rule, and I certainly do not consider myself an 'evil influence' in the game, but your report clearly states that in the eyes of the committee. I am.

"Since the executive committee has already unofficially expressed itself in favor of professionalising me next year should the present conditions continue, they must clearly regard me as a professional now.

"I resign with regret, but self respect compels me to do so. I wish you and the committee to know that my services are at your disposal when my amateur status is clearly recognized.

"Trust that the cup will long remain on our shores, and wishing the committee and team all success in the 1924 challenge round, I am,

"Very sincerely,
WILLIAM T. TILDEN, II."

CHAPMAN TECH MEETS PRATT HIGH AT ESSEX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Chapman Tech will attempt to break its losing streak that has already reached two straight, when it stacks up against Pratt High at Essex, Tuesday afternoon. When the Red and Black were handed a 7 to 2 defeat at the hands of Old Saybrook High on Thursday, the losing streak of the team reached the alarming total of two straight in as many starts. The sooner the Tech outfit breaks into the win column the better it will be for this team. For the team is already drawing criticism from the local fans as to its ability as a baseball outfit.

Chapman Tech is playing in hard luck at present and as soon as the players get settled, the all round play of this team will be a decided improvement over the early season performance. As was expected, the Chapman Tech team is weak without Johnny Dwyer in the lineup. Dwyer proved to be the backbone of the Tech team for the past four years. His presence in the lineup instilled confidence in the team and made a winning team out of a losing nine.

On paper the two teams appear to be fairly even, both on the offense and on the defense. While Chapman Tech inflicted an easy defeat on the upstaters last year, with a recruit twirler in the box, the same is not expected when the two teams meet Tuesday afternoon.

According to advance information, Chapman Tech will have to have the nine best ball tossers in the school uniform and playing fullback and being caught by the entire one side of the opposing side when he attempted to wend his way through for a gain. Locke will regret this day the longest day he lives, the undersea men treated him as an unfriendly dog and even would give a stranger at the game an impression that he did not belong at the government reservation and was not wanted. Accordingly he left the game flat at the end of the first inning—but not of his own accord, he was requested to do so.

First Lieutenants—Hackett 3b, Anderson 1b, Ainckle c, Hawes ss, Sala rf, Davis ss, 2b, Christopher cf, rf, Sandreser 2b, cf, Hambsch lf, Locke p, Blackwell p, Walmsley p.

The score by innings:
Submarine Div. 2 .. 5 1 1 1 0 0 0—8

ROCKY KANSAS OUTPOINTS DUNDEE IN 10 ROUNDS

Buffalo, N. Y., April 21.—Rocky Kansas outpointed Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, in ten rounds here tonight. Dundee's titles were not at stake. Kansas weighed 134 1-2 and Dundee 133.

Dundee took a double knockdown in the seventh round. Kansas blocked a right swing to the jaw and they clinched. Rocky cuffed Dundee's head and they both missed right swings. Kansas landed a stinging left to the mouth, and crossed with a right that swept the champion from his feet. Dundee was up to go down again with a smacking right to the chin. He got to his feet at the bell, with Kansas standing over him.

The stocky Kansas, a trifle overweight for his supposedly best form, rushed the fighting strongly throughout and traded blows with impunity.

There was a possibility that a lightweight title match with Benny Leonard would result from tonight's encounter.

M'TIGUE OFFERED $35,000 FOR BOUT WITH STRIBLING

New York, April 21.—Negotiations for a 15-round fight to a decision for the light heavyweight champion of the world between Mike McTigue, the titleholder, and Young Stribling, who recently outpointed the champion in a 10-decision battle at Newark, progressed today when Paddy Mullins, manager of McTigue, was offered $35,000 for the bout at Atlanta, Macon or Columbus, Ga.

Mullins is considering the proposition which includes acceptance of a referee selected by the New York boxing commission.

GIBSON TO TRY TO LEGALLY STOP BOUT

New York, April 21.—Legal proceedings to prevent Georges Carpentier, French light heavyweight, from meeting Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, in Michigan City, Ind., on May 31, will be started in the courts of Indiana, immediately upon Carpentier's arrival in the United States, Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, announced today.

Gibson said he would base his application for an injunction on his contract with Descamps, the Frenchmans' manager for a Carpentier-Tunney match. This, he asserted, contains a clause prohibiting Carpentier from engaging in any other match in the United States before meeting Tunney.

A report that Carpentier would be brought into this country through Canada in an attempt to escape possible litigation in New York prompted Gibson's plan to seek his injunction in Indiana, the manager declared.

Gibson pointed out that Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Carpentier-Gibbons match, had recognized Gibbon's prior claim to the Frenchman's services when he offered $30,000 for the release of the Tunney-Carpentier agreement until after the Gibbons fight.

Descamps today cabled Gibson from Vienna that Carpentier would

TROUBLE IN CARROT CITY

You remember in the last story Uncle Lucky ran his Luckymobile into a pushcart, upsetting all the big, ripe tomatoes. But that wasn't the worst of it. Oh, dear me, no! The trouble commenced when a big soft tomato hit the Policeman Cat in the eye and the juice ran down his blue uniform.

"You're under arrest!" he shouted, and, jumping on the running board of the Luckymobile, he took the little rabbits and the frightened Guinea Pig to the Station House, where he led them before the Judge, and old gander with a quack in his voice.

"It seems to me a pity
When you come to Carrot City,
That you should act so very gay and free.
You've no regard for other people.
You might have climbed the big church steeple
Or knocked a blossom off my apple tree."

Recited that old gander judge, (who was a sort of poet) pushing up his spectacles and scowling at Uncle Lucky.

"I'm very sorry, very sorry indeed that this has happened, but the pushcart man turned the corner so quickly I never saw him," explained Uncle Lucky, taking out his blue silk polka-dot handkerchief to wipe his forehead. But, dear me! He was so excited that he placed it on his head and pushed his old wedding stovepipe hat into his pocket.

"How much are your tomatoes worth?" asked the judge, looking at the pushcart man with a grin.

And when poor Uncle Lucky took out his pocketbook he had to pay one million carrot cents. Wasn't that too bad?

"What about my uniform?" said the Policeman Cat, looking so cross that the Guinea Pig began to squeal.

"Get into the Luckymobile and I'll buy you a new one at the Three-in-one-cent Store," said Uncle Lucky, and off they went, and pretty soon generous Uncle Lucky picked out a lovely uniform that fitted the Policeman Cat like a tailor-made suit. After that everybody was happy.

"Well, I started out to find my fortune," said the old gentleman rabbit as he and his bunny nephew turned off for home after leaving the Guinea Pig at a little farmhouse, "but instead I've paid a fine and bought a uniform," and the old gentleman rabbit hit sighed, but not for long, for soon he began to whistle.

"Never worry, never worry,
Life's too short for sorrow;
Make today bright and gay,
Trouble never borrow;
Sing and dance, jump and prance,
Hopeful for tomorrow,
Don't be blue, 'twill never do,
Banish care and sorrow."

CAN PAY PART COST OF TRANSPORTING PUPILS

Doctor A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, has received under date of April 11, 1924, an opinion from Attorney-General Healy authorizing the state board of education to pay a portion of the cost of the transportation of pupils attending a state trade school in a town other than that in which the pupils reside.

This opinion was sought by action of the state board of education, in the absence of a specific statute covering trade school transportation, and to validate previous practices of the board. Significant parts of the opinion follow:

"About seventeen years ago the state enacted legislation allowing towns to maintain trade schools, and providing that the state should pay half the cost of not more than two of these schools thus established.

"Two years later the state assumed the entire supervision and cost of the maintenance of not more than two of such schools, with a limited appropriation to carry them on. These schools have now grown to eight in number and are so placed in the manufacturing centers of the state as to make them available to all sections of the state.

"The absolute management and control of all trade schools in this state is vested in the State Board of Education, except a limitation as to the age of admission to said schools, and that no money shall be expended in excess of the appropriation made for their maintenance.

"It has been the practice to pay the cost of the transportation of scholars attending these schools from towns noting having trade schools situated therein. The money so expended has come from a fund created by the profits derived from the labor of students attending said schools."

"There is no statutory authority for the making of such payments for the cost of transportation of these scholars unless the same can be inferred from the broad and comprehensive powers that the state has entrusted to the judgment and discretion of its State Board of Education."

"In my opinion, the State Board of Education is warranted in law in continuing its present practice of paying the transportation cost of scholars in trade schools who reside outside of the towns wherein such trade school is located from the profits derived from the labor of scholars attending them."

By this decision some 825 pupils in 190 towns will be affected, the largest numbers being those attending the schools at New Britain and Bridgeport. The estimated cost to the state is approximately $6,000,000 a year or about one-tenth of the year's receipts for work done at the trade schools.

HOW WASHINGTON DISCOVERED FIRST COTTON FACTORY

Many interesting facts dealing with the establishment and development of the cotton industry in New England will be brought out at the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, which is to be held at the Copley Plaza hotel in Boston on Wednesday, April 30 and Thursday, May 1. The general topic is to be 'Cotton and the Making of Industrial New England."

One of these features shows how George Washington "discovered" a cotton plant and the interest he evinced in it. This was a plant built by Thomas Somers, an Englishmen, in Beverly, early in the fall of 1787, and believed to be the first cotton factory opened in New England. A newspaper of that time, the Salem Mercury, describes the factory as a "plain three story building of brick, measuring about 60 by 25 feet with a pitching roof and a deep basement, in one end of which moved a heavy pair of horses to furnish rotary power."

Washington, in his tour of the North in 1789, makes mention of it in his diary as follows: "Friday, 30th October—A little after 8 o'clock I set out (from Salem) for Newburyport, and in less than two miles cross the bridge between Salem and Beverly. After passing Beverly two miles, we came to a cotton manufactory. In this manufactory they have the new invented carding and spinning machines. The latter seemed perfect, and the cotton stuff which they turn out excellent of their kind—warp and filling both cotton."

The "cotton stuffs" mentioned by Washington were corduroys, bed tickings, cotton velvets, sheeting, shirtings and table cloths.

WILHELMINA PORTER, OF NEW LONDON MAKES VARIOUS PUBLIC BEQUESTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 21.—Monday morning brought three drunks to the police court. Andrew Quinn, employed as a laborer removing the tracks of the old Shore Line street railway, and who by his own statement is receiving $5 a day for his work, wandered into the police station Sunday night under the impression that he could hire a room there. He was told that he was looking for a rooming house and not for the police station. Then he went away but he was back again in a few minutes when he was shown to a cell, where he made his bed the rest of the night. In court he admitted that he was drunk, but declared that such a condition was unusual for him. That he might keep on the track he professed to be on ordinarily judgment was suspended for 24 hours to allow him to return to his employment.

Clarence Abell was found intoxicated Saturday night. Complaint was made to the police of his condition so he was taken in for presentation in court. He was fined $1 and made arrangements to pay that and the costs of his trial.

Benjamin Ustach was fined for intoxication. He was on a spree Sunday.

James Kavalancha, operating an automobile up Bank street, ran his car into that of James J. Brennan, who was operating his machine from the railway station. The drivers became confused as to signals and Kavalanka's Ford smashed into the Brennan car, in which Mr. Brennan and Mrs. Brennan were riding. They were in court to testify against Kavalancka.

Glenville W. Goss has sold a house and lot on Vauxhall street to Julia V. Sauersopf.

The estate of James H. Hill has sold a house and lot on Broad street to Ida May Chute and Bessie Chute Beebe.

Bessie Chute Beebe and Ida May Chute have sold to Grace M. Little, a house and lot on Pacific street.

Ida L. Chittenden, administratrix of the estate of Elisa S. Norkett, has sold a house and lot on Williams street to Harry H. Walker.

Tony Stubelik, formerly of New London, at which time he was employed as chauffeur by the Standard garage and whose father resides on Potter street, died in New York yesterday following a few days' illness with pneumonia. It is doubtful if his body will be brought to New London for his father is understood to have refused to claim the body and his wife, from whom Stubelik has been estranged some time, also refuses to claim it. However, the American Legion officers have interested themselves in the case as he is a war veteran and the organization may take charge of the funeral and the disposition of the body. Stubelik had been employed in New York about three years.

S. S. Eurana arrived in port today with a cargo of lumber consigned to points north of New London. The steamer docked at the state pier and the transferring of the cargo to freight cars was started at once.

The father of Laura Ribando, 12, residing on the Bindloss farm in Waterford, complained to the New London authorities this afternoon that while his daughter and a girl companion were walking along the highway in Waterford an operator of an automobile endeavored to entice the girls into the machine, when he was unsuccessful the girls were treated to a volley of vile language. As the offense was committed outside the jurisdiction of the local police, Ribando was directed to the county officers' office at the court house.

Mrs. John Rose and infant daughter, of Huntington street, Mrs. Morris Bernstein and infant son of Montauk avenue, Mrs. Richard Morris and infant son of Mountain avenue, Mrs. John Halperin of Ledyard street, Gorgeo Manning of the U. S. S. Pequot, Master Wesley Beebe of Niantic and Mrs. Fred Byrne, of Norwich, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sharaf, of Fairs Harbour place are spending a few days in New York and Trenton, N. J., the latter city, being the former home of Mrs. Sharaf.

Honora M., 80, wife of Michael Murphy, died Sunday night at her residence, Fleming court, Groton. Mrs. Murphy had been in ill health a long time. Besides her husband, Mrs. Murphy is survived by 10 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren. She had resided in Groton 35 years.

The funeral of Mary K., wife of Patrick J. Corcoran, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by many mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John McGrath. The bearers were James P. Nellan, George Hendry, John Flanagan, John Connell, Michael Corcoran and N. McGrath. Burial was in St Mary's cemetery.

In the Groton town court today penalties were meted out to three automobile law violators. Chauncey G. House of Versailles, was penalized $25 and costs by Judge Cornelius C. Costello on the charge of operating an automobile equipped with improper markers.

Charles Apicelli of Poquonoc was fined $50 and costs for reckless driving. Apicelli was arrested Sunday night by State Policeman Fred Caron, of the Groton barracks when Caron detected Apicelli operating the latter's machine through Thames street, Groton, at a speed better than 45 miles an hour.

Joseph Dodo of Poquonnoc road, was fined $10 and costs for operating an automobile without obtaining an operator's license. Dodo was arrested by State Policeman Kenneth Ringrose as a result of Dodo's car becoming entangled with a team near Dodo's residence, a week ago, when Dodo was attempting to operate the machine clear of the vehicle.

At the adjournment of court Prosecuting Attorney Warren G. Burrows announced that in the future all violators of the automobile law would be dealt with severely if presented in the borough court.

Mrs. Mary I. Bucanno, 70, widow of Emanuel Bucanno, who died Sunday at her home, 474 Thames street, Groton, is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Sandora of Poquonoc road; Mrs. Lena Quiro of Thames street, Groton; Mrs. Louise Ligouri of Long Island and Mrs. Rose De Lura of Ledyard avenue, Groton. A son, Andrew Buoanno, of Benham road, Groton, also survives. Mrs. Buoanno was a native of Italy, but had resided in Groton 40 years.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Ganey of Williams street are entertaining Miss Ann Boyer of New York.

Miss Anna Fleming of Brattleboro, Vt., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Corcoran of Garfield avenue.

Miss Florence Nutcher of New Haven has concluded a brief visit with her aunt, Mrs. Lena Coombs of Pearl street.

Mrs. Elias Wentworth is confined to her home, 275 Huntington street ill with grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Smith and son, Richard of Watertown, this state, spent Sunday with relatives in this city.

An automobile owned and operated by Benjamin Akroyd, of 74 Tenth St., was in collision this morning with an automobile bearing Connecticut registration, N-2988, at the approach to the Thames river highway bridge. According to Akroyd the driver of auto 2988 refused to reveal his identity.

Frank Chapman, purser on ferry boat, Mohican, is confined to his home 13 Broad street, Groton and may be internally injured. Chapman was struck by one of the projecting handles of the wheel that operates the float at the Groton ferryslip, Sunday, being thrown to the float and so painfully bruised about the abdomen that he was compelled to obtain medical treatment.

Mrs. Catherine Tucker Lynch, 64, wife of John Lynch, died Saturday at her residence, Willetts avenue, death being attributed to a complication of diseases. She had been ill many weeks. Mrs. Lynch is survived, besides her husband, by a son, John Lynch, Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Harry C. Wilbur, B. Glenwood Wilbur and Mrs. Cecil B. Hamden. A sister, Mrs. Susan Egan and two brothers, David and Irving Tucker, all of New Haven, also survive.

An automobile, owned and operated by Arthur Kenyon, of Waterford, and a machine owned and driven by James Flanagan of 262 Vauxhall street were in collision Sunday afternoon, corner of Broad street and Connecticut avenue. Both cars were damaged.

Mrs. Gill, residing at Richards Grove, Waterford, reported to the police late this afternoon that her collie dog had been stolen by several youths, who were headed toward New London. Later Mrs. Gill reported that she had recovered the animal.

Two automobiles were wrecked late this afternoon when a public service car, owned and operated by James L. Gard, 32 Golden street, and a touring car, owned by Theodore Dixon of Waterford and operated by Thurston Howard, also of Waterford, were in collision on Bank street, at the corner of Pearl street. Howard, a minor, did not possess an operator's license, so Dixon, who does hold a license and who was riding alongside Howard, was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer a charge of reckless driving. None of the occupants of the machine was injured.

The machine operated by Gard was bound northward on Bank street and in passing Pearl street the car operated by Howard, which was headed in a southerly direction, attempted to pass a car ahead. As the machine operated by Howard started to drive around the car in the lead, it collided head-on with the public service machine.

Revenue cutter Seminole, which has been stationed in the sound several weeks in an endeavor to apprehend rum-runners, brought two alleged rum-running craft and their crews into port this noon. One of the boats, the K-13686, owned by Captain Henry Cooper of Greenport, was seized, while the other, the 2407, was released, as there was not sufficient evidence to show that the latter boat was engaged in the rum-running traffic. Captain Cooper was held in bonds of $1500 when presented before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich, charged with proceeding on a voyage without delivering manifest, and without obtaining clearance papers and proceeding upon a voyage without the craft being duly registered. When the boats were seized the K-13686 was moored alongside a British rum-laden ship at "Rum Row."

The will of Wilhelmina Porter was admitted to probate before Judge Arthur R. Caulkins this afternoon. The document was drawn March 22, 1924, and a codicil was drawn October 28, 1923. The will nominated Allen Wardwell of Lawrence, Mass., as executor.

The document provides for the following bequests.

To Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, $12,000 in memory of the testatrix's father.

To Second Congregational church, $5,000.

To the rector, church warden and vestrymen of St. James Episcopal church $5,000 for the benefit of societies connected with the church.

To missionary societies of Connecticut, $5,000 for missionary work connected with the Congregational Home Missionary society.

To the Y. M. C. A. $15,000.

To the Y. W. C. A. $11,000.

To the New London Day Nursery, $5,000.

To New London Visiting Nurses' Association, $5,000.

To Mary A. Caulkins of New London, $2,000.

To St. James' Episcopal church, large picture of Christ, the same to hang in the parish house.

To Gertrude England, friend of testatrix for fifty-one years, a sum sufficient to provide for an annuity of $1,000, payable in quarterly payments.

To Helen Rogers Wardwell, testatrix's cousin, diamond rings.

Other jewelry is bequeathed to a cousin, Helen Wright Davis, of Almeda, Cal.

All other personal effects are bequeathed to the testatrix's friends, Gertrude England and Mrs. Mary A. Caulkins.

All the rest, residue and remainder of the estate, of whatsoever nature, wherever located, is bequeathed to the Smith Memorial Home.

Simon L. Ewald, of the firm of Lyon & Ewald, is critically ill at his home, 320 Mohegan avenue, suffering from a shock. His left side is affected, although his condition was reported as slightly improved tonight. Mr. Ewald was at his business as usual Saturday but late at night, after he had reached home he was stricken.

EASTER MONDAY BALL OF K. C. A BIG SOCIAL SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 21.—San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, gave its twenty-fourth annual, Easter Monday concert and ball at the state armory Monday evening and the affair was an outstanding social success. About 125 couples were in attendance and the gallery was filled. The Peerless orchestra of 10 pieces played delightfully during the evening. A brief concert opened the festivities. The grand march was led by Grand Knight Gilbert T. Flynn and Miss Leona Normand. A pleasing feature of the march this year was the appearance of the fourth degree knights in full regalia. Beautiful gowns were worn by the women guests of the Knights. Arthur P. Bergeron Jr., and little Miss Esther Portelance distributed programmes. A fine programme of dancing was enjoyed until after 1 o'clock.

The hall was attractively decorated with the council colors and flowers. The ball committee comprised Edmund R. Portelance, chairman, chief of aides, Gilbert T. Flynn; aides, Francis Moriarty, Luke C. Hevlin, Eugene K. Moriarty and Arthur P. Bergeron; reception committee, Mayor Hormisdas Dion, chairman, Joseph P. Carter, John H. Morrison, James Courtney, Edward F. Casey, James F. Toomey, John McDonough, William J. Costello, James F. Lynch, Eugene E. Hickey, State Treasurer John M. Bransfield, District Deputy T. Frank Cunningham, William J. Grady, John W. Moran and Edward Ottenheimer.

THIS BRIGHT BABY GIRL

Brought Joy to Home. Mrs. Price's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scootac, Pa.—"I never felt like working, and when I would try to do any work standing on my feet, I would just drag around all day long. At times I would have terrible pains and would be in bed three or four days. I was in this condition about a year when I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers. I had heard different women say it was good for women's troubles, and my aunt thought it would help me as it had helped her. So I took the Vegetable Compound and it brought things right, and I was in good shape before I became a mother again. I believe it helps at birth, too, as with both my other babies I suffered a great deal more than with this one. I thank you a thousand times for the good your medicine has done me."—Mrs. ROBERT PRICE, Scootac, via Lockhaven, Pa.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use.

RECEIVED EASTER GREETINGS FROM ABSENT PASTOR

At St. Joseph's church, Sunday the gladness of Easter with its message of the resurrection was expressed in sermon and special music and symbolised by the beautiful floral decorations. The alters, adorned with lilies, palms, hyacinths and tulips were beautifully arranged by the Sisters. The thirty-seven acolytes who served at the three masses were also under their direction.

In the procession proceeding the 6 o'clock mass with all the church societies following and the children strewing their flowers, the singing of the combined choirs was beautiful and inspiring. Rev. Father Sroka was celebrant of the mass, and spoke of the significance of the day and the gladness and happiness that Easter brings to those that follow the Redeemer.

Father Sroka conveyed the wished for, holy and happy Easter, to the congregation from their pastor, Rev. V. Maciejewski, who, owing to illness was unable to be present. The singing at the masses was rendered in a very creditable manner. The violin and organ number, Miss Blanche Cwiklinska, violin, was softly and sweetly played during the communion.

At the 10 o'clock mass Rev. Father Taranowitch was celebrant and gave an eloquent sermon on the Resurrection. The music of the mass was sung by the senior choir, with exceptional merit. The glad strains of the Alleluia chorus, the sorrowful Morituri est followed by the joyous Et Resurexit were beautifully rendered by soloists and chorus.

New England

The hills of New England—
How proudly they rise
In the wildness of grandeur
To blend with the skies!
With their far pure outline,
And tall Ancient trees—
New England, my country,
I love thee for these.

The vales of New England
That cradle her streams,
That smile in their greenness
Like land in soft dreams;
All sunny with pleasure,
Embosomed in ease—
New England, my country,
I love you for these!

The woods of New England,
Still verdant and high,
Though rocked by the tempests
Of ages gone by;
Romance dims their arches
And speaks in the breeze—
New England, my country,
I love thee for these!

The streams of New England,
That roar as they go,
Or seem in their stillness
But dreaming to flow;
Oh, bright glide the sunshine
Their march to the seas—
New England, my country,
I love thee for these!

The homes of New England,
Free fortuned and fair,
Oh, many a heart treasures
Its seraphim there!
Than more than thy mountains,
Or streamlets, they please—
New England, my country,
I love thee for these!

God shield thee, New England,
Dear land of my birth!
And thy children that wander
Afar o'er the earth!
Thourt my country, wherever
My lot shall be cast—
Take thou to thy bosom
My ashes at last!

Easter Rain

I think the sap of every spray
Leaps to a hidden tune today,
Bursting in music green and gay;
For love is falling in the rain,
Drenching the world to life again,
Splashing through the April air
Resurrection everywhere.

O Magic of the humble shower!
Cup-bearer to the smallest flower!
Stooping to pour the gift divine
In living streams of dewy wine
Where honeysuckles leap and twine
Holding the cup to thirsty leaves
Of hawthorn bush and dogwood trees.
While little birds in every lane
Sing "Love is falling in the rain!"

O Mystery, to bend so low
That in a raindrop You might go!
O Love, so intimate and small,
The breath, the bloom, the gift of all!
The Very Heart of every heart,
The end, the middle, and the start,—
Above, below, within, without—
O April blossoms, laugh and shout!
And soul, sing forth a high refrain,
Lifting a mad and happy strain,
For Love is falling in the rain!

—Margaret Prescott Montague in American Review.

WESTERLY

At a nuptial high mass Monday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Michael's church, Pawcatuck, Miss Mae Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Bell of 15 William street, West Side, became the bride of Edmund O'Connell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas O'Connell, of Holyoke, Mass. The officiating clergyman was Rev. F. J. F. X. Quinn. During the service Martin Spellman sang O Promise Me and Ave Maria. Following the ceremony breakfast was served the 35 guests at the Elm Tree Inn. A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, 15 William street.

The bride wore a white brocaded satin gown with bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bridal bouquet of white roses with lilies-of-the-valley. Her sister, Miss Rose Bell, the bridesmaid, wore turquoise satin crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom had the same pair of gloves worn by his father at his wedding 45 years ago. The best man was Michael Griffin, of Holyoke. Numerous and pretty wedding gifts were received. The wedding was attended by relatives and friends from Bridgeport, Pawtucket and Holyoke. Mr. O'Connell is a foreman for the American Thread company in Holyoke, Mass., where a furnished home awaits him and his bride on their return from a wedding trip to New York city, for which city they took the 3.08 Shore Line express Monday afternoon.

The fifty-ninth annual convocation of Palmer chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch, Masons, of Pawcatuck was held in the Masonic rooms on High street Monday evening. Annual reports of the secretary, treasurer, finance committee and trustees of the permanent fund showed excellent progress during the year. The total membership of Palmer chapter is 341 with 21 new companions added during the past year and two more elected to membership. Most Excellent Arthur N. Nash, past grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Connecticut, presided at the election and installation.

He was assisted by Excellent Samuel Girvin, as acting grand captain of the hosts. Thomas McZeigh and Carl Crandall as tellers.

The election and installation resulted as follows: High priest, John A. Hogg; king, Arthur E. Thompson (who is holding over another year as he is in the commandery council); scribe, William M. Spencer; treasurer, Walter C. Hiscox; secretary Albert E. Barber; captain of the hosts, J. Ernest Young; principal sojourner, George Smith; royal arch captain, Robinson Hindle; master of the 3rd veil, Robert Vennard; master of the 2nd veil, Ernest F. Stenhouse; master of the 1st veil, Gordon F. Spencer; sentinel, William A. Stillwell; finance committee, Ex. Robert Hazard, Ex. David A. Lowry, Ex. Bourdon A. Babcock; trustees of the permanent fund, Ex. Robert E. Cole, (reelected for a term of three years); M. Ex. Arthur N. Nash and Ex. Thomas McKenzie.

At the close of the work for the evening salad, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee were served in the banquet. There were 44 members of Palmer chapter present.

Capt. and Mrs. James Holt, of West Mystic, were week-end guests of Mrs. Holt's parents in Westerly.

Miss Katharine W. Wheeler returned to Providence Monday morning after passing the week-end with her mother in Westerly.

LAFAYETTE MAIN, COUNSEL FOR WALTER TAYLOR, APPEALS

(Special to The Bulletin.

Westerly, April 21.—Walter Taylor, of the place known as the Henry Breed farm, Randall district, in the town of Stonington, which was raided by five Connecticut state police from Groton barracks Saturday night when 18 barrels of cider were taken to the Pawcatuck lockup, was sentenced in Stonington town court Monday noon to fines which totalled $1,000 and was given New London county jail sentences amounting to two months, by Judge William A. Wilcox. Notice of appeal was filed by Lafayette Main, Cranntown Hill, North Stonington, who appeared in court for Taylor, on Monday morning and he was placed under $2,000 bonds, which were furnished for his appearance at the next term of the common pleas court, criminal side, which convenes the first of May. His wife, Alzina Taylor, became his surety.

A considerable crowd gathered at Borough hall, Stonington, Monday morning, so the auditorium, decorated for the K. of C. Easter Monday ball, was used for the setting of the court in place of the usual court room. Appearing for the defendant was Lafayette Main of North Stonington, outfitted with a clean suit of blue overalls with turned-up trouser cuffs, a big pair of spectacles and a new pad. Main later stated to the court that "he had never smoked, drank strong liquors or chewed in his life" and that he considered himself "quite an authority on cider." In a professional way, Main, who said he was a farmer, "waived the reading of the complaint, entered a plea of not guilty and asked for an adjournment of the case for one hour." Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna of the town of Stonington said he had no objection and the accused was placed under a bond of $2,000 to return to the court room at 10.15, his wife, Alzina Taylor, becoming surety.

Clerk A. G. Martin then read the complaint in the second case to come before the court, in which Prosecuting Attorney McKenna presented Timothy Spellman, of Pawcatuck, charging that on April 19th he disturbed the peace by striking Henry Brooks, of 26 Noyes avenue, Pawcatuck.

Steilman pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs of $24.08, amounting to $29.08. In default of payment he was committed to New London county jail by Patrolman Francis McMahon.

On the resumption of court in the Taylor case, Attorney McKenna directed the reading of the complaint which alleged that on the 7th day of April, 1924, Walter Taylor of Stonington sold to Harry Malburson one gallon of fermented cider, not holding a permit to manufacture vinegar and not having a permit for the sale of cider. Similar charges were made for the 9th of April of one pint of cider, also on the 10th day of April of one pint of cider; complaint and information was given and on the 10th day of April Walter Taylor did keep an establishment resorted to for the sale of liquors; similar charges were made that Taylor sold Lewis Brown a pint of cider on the 7th of April, also on the 10th of April, but the last two charges were not pressed.

Judge William A. Wilcox found Taylor guilty on a charge of reputation and imposed a fine of $200; guilty on the charge for keeping for sale, imposing a fine of $200 and imprisonment for 30 days; guilty of actual sale, imposing a fine of $200 and imprisonment for 30 days and guilty on two other sales counts, imposing $200 fines on each.

LATER LANMAN PAPERS RECALL NORWICH EVENTS

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son, Joseph Lanman.)

Norwich 5th April 1854

My dear Son?

I thank you for your letter of the first, it affords me great pleasure to be remembered affectionately—it is to the soul like the dew of Hermon—softening and crowding out the rough points of a selfish & hypocritical World.

I had noticed the speech of the sage Mr. Benton, to which you allude—Mr. Benton is very learned, very able & I have no doubt, very honest—I have heard him in the Senate and when he plants himself on the battery of what he deems right, he never gives in, he never surrenders. As respects the Navy, he is resuscitating the old creed of what some fifty years ago we called the Tarapin creed: the China-Jefferson policy. The World must be greatly changed before we can see any fair chance of success in commerce & cast ourselves on the protection of either France or England. When we witness the Millenium we may leave our ships and all our commerce to the care of other nations for safety—but as the World now is & as it has been for some time we must take of our rights with a strong arm.

Were the present leading Powers of the World to adopt the creed of Mr. James Watson Webb—as he has recently declared it—in the London Times Newspaper it would be a sort of commencement of an era which might possibly lead to a state of things, in this Mundane Sphere, which Mr. Benton is dreaming about; but the truth is, all his notions were before us fifty years ago and the world is indebted to the officers of our little Navy for their noble conduct in battering down the Piratical Powers on the coast of Africa. The Navy must be increased in its strength, how we are to increase the class of first rate sailors will require much of the very best management of the business men of the Country.

We should all of us be very glad to see you, and we all unite in reciprocating the warmest regards to Captain & Mrs. Williams—kindest love to your Dear Wife & Daughter and when you see MR. Walley tender my kind regards to him. I cannot but hope that as the mild weather approaches it may bring with it his entire restoration to health.

Our cor. James Hubbard is very soon to lead to the Hymeneal Altar, Miss Learned & it is his intention to visit your City, I need not say that it will afford us all pleasure to hear of your kind attentions to them.

Affectionately Yours
P. Lanman.

(Written By David Lanman to his Brother, Joseph Lanman.)

Nueva York, June 19, 1861

My dear Brother,

We were glad to receive your letter of 20 May from San Francisco. Our next we hope will be from the Navy Yard. By the last steamer I had only time to communicate the Death of our Beloved Mother which took place on the evening of June 5th., the birthday of our Father, on Saturday we laid her by his side, our dear Mother suffered some distress 12 hours before her decease. Sister telegraphed to me but I was then on my way up to Norwich and did not hear of it until my arrival at the Depot at Norwich. Sister Mary & her Son Fred & Margaret & jonathan came up the next day. Mother had been for some days at times Wandering, but would not let Sister send for us—she spoke of all most kindly an affectionately. MR. Bond was too ill to attend the funeral, the services were performed by Mr. Arms from Brother Peter's House. Mr. & mrs. Silliman came on from New Haven & Cousin Edmund from Boston; at the same time he attended the funeral of Cousin Jedadia's Daughter who died the 5th. last of Consumption.

Mr. Arms spoke very handsomely of the Virtues of our beloved Mother. Mr. Ebb Learned assisted in doing the honry duties of the funeral Monday, returning by way of Hartford, we stoped to pay our respects to Uncle Joseph, his Wife has but a short time to live—it was some time before she recognized me but afterwards on taking Margaret's hand in her own, she talked for a few minutes Very rationally. Uncle was very kind and said he was the last of his generation. Cousin Eliza was very calm & said she was sorry not to have seen you—she spoke of her Husband, she has removed to her Father's house and it was pitiful to see the poor old Gentleman helping the three orphan little girls at the table. We dined with them & left for home at 3 p. m.

We shall go to Norwich again in July but the pleasant face of our beloved Mother we shall miss—she looked in death as though she was asleep and much younger than she had done for years. Dear Old Lady, her children rise up and call her blessed, long may her memory be embalmed in our recollection and affection. She was much pleased to look upon your Photograph, one of which I sent to her after you left; she told Aunt Abby she should never see you again in this world. I suppose Sister Abby will go to Hartford for a day or two she will then come to see us & Sister Mary.

Margaret is now at Chestnut Hill with Mary & Anna. Downing Sanford is at Washington, there most of the time and not much time to enjoy his beautiful place. I expect a letter for you tomorrow from Abby & Cornelia. I enclose the latest recd from Sister Elizabeth, David's Wife & William passed a delightful week at Erie & she says Joe & Nelo had a nice time.

Congress is to meet soon—I don't think anything can be done in the way of Compromise, it would be better for us to part, but we are now in the hands of two parties & no one can predict the result—both are sanguine of Success.

I call your attention to the letter of Lathrop Motley, Mary Benjamin's husband published in the Evening Post—sent you also an extract from a french paper called the Up-Rising of a great Country—both Republican papers. You will see that our troops, that is the Federal, have twice blundered on Beauriguard's Batteries and have both times been repulsed. Our office Boy, Thomas Cartwright of Durcey's Regiment was Wounded—he is the boy I blew up about not taking the letter to the Post office. Our Man commends what was Bartlett's Naval Brigade—Bartlett having succeeded as usual, the first privateer out of Charlestow—C. is in Port. I doubt if the crew of 20 men will be hanged as they deserve. The Starr King did not leave Port with your Traps for 20 days after you left I did not get them insured as they would charge a Very heavy premium.

NORWICH TOWN

Miss Mary H. Paddock of Washington street, has as guests over Easter her nephew Charles Paddock Johnson, also her niece, Miss Olivia Johnson of Princeton.

Having been absent from Norwich since Thursday March 6th, on a trip to Havana, Florida, New Orleans, and Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon returned Saturday to their home 327 Washington street. Mr. and Mrs. Hitchon stopped enroute at Houston, Texas, where for a few weeks, they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Costello. Mr. and Mrs. Hitchon had as guests over Easter, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Edwin Gay, of North Waterford.

At the Methodist church, Sunday morning, the choir sang two anthems. Under direction of Miss Florence M. Bennett chairman of the flower committee, the church was attractively decorated, one corner being banked with flowering plants and on the table in front of the pulpit were Easter lilies.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service, and the evening sermon, were omitted, because of the Easter concert.

Following the Easter service at the First Congregational church, the flowering plants were distributed by the minister and others among elderly people and those shut in by illness.

Mrs. Burton Jopson was the leader at the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the topic assigned was Easter, A Time of Joy.

Fearless Trust in God, is the subject for the Congregational church night service Thursday evening, in the chapel, when the meeting is for prayer and conference.

The congregation of the First Congregational church has been invited to attend the exercises commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Park Congregational church Sunday evening, April 27th, at 8 o'clock. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, and there will be a special musical programme by the quartets of Park and United churches.

Olmstead S. Peck of Hartford was a guest over Easter at the home of his mother, Mrs. George Peck of Plain Hill.

The program of Norwich Town M. E. church (Easter Sunday evening) was as follows: Anthem by choir, prayer, pastor; recitations, The Flowers' Welcome, Blossom Ward; The Welcome, Marion Miller; Well-Prepared, Clayton Rose; anthem, choir; recitation, Easter, Arthur Bennet; A Message, Virginia Ward; recitation, Winter Glory, Ralph Mitchell; musical dialogue, We Would See Jesus, three girls and Blanche Wheeler; recitations, News of Easter Bells, Florence Fowler; The Light of Easter, Mildred Carter; Keeping Easter, Edward Myers and Clayton Rose; recitation, The Coming Life, Helen Rudd; anthem, choir; recitations, Robin is Here, Ruth Miller; Have Ye Seen the Saviour?, Grace Mitchell; Heralds of Spring, Doris Rose; anthem, choir; exercise, King of Glory, five girls and four boys; recitations, His Easter Hat, Ralph Judson; Lilies of Easter, Dorothy Miller; collection speech, Be Glad, Woody Sullivan; collection; anthem, choir; Miss Hazel Cruthers was organist.

Allison Rogers of Boston, spent the Easter recess at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury O. Rogers of Upper Washington street.

Callers Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street, included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rhinehart and little daughters, Ruth and Jean Rhinehart of Englewood, N. J. also Mrs. William Frasier [illegible] brother, of Norwich.

Miss Gladys Belle Beebe, R. N., of Hartford, was a visitor over the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Beebe, of Scotland road, who also had as their guest Frederick Millard of Philadelphia.

Elmer Browning, a student at Brown University, Providence, was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Browning over the Easter recess.

Having investigated cases in New London, Good Friday, in the interests of the Connecticut Humane society, General Agent Walter H. Phelps and Agent Churchill, of Hartford, while en route to Colchester, were callers in Norwich Town.

Miss Augusta Learned, of Wightman avenue, is moving her household goods to Versailles.

HAMILTON HOLT, WOODSTOCK, STATES JAPANESE ISSUE

Hamilton Holt, Vice Chairman of the National Committee of American-Japanese Relations, who is at his summer home at Woodstock, writes: The American people can hardly realize how Japan is smarting under the senate's entirely unnecessary, and therefore gratuitous, insult unless they understand the two great policies that Japan has pursued since the restorations of 1868. First, Japan has tried to make herself safe from all foreign invasions or absorptions, thus avoiding the fate of India and China. Second to make herself the equal of any nation on earth in the art of peace.

Japan has fully achieved her first aim. She is safe from attack by land, for she owns "the dagger pointed at the heart of Japan," as Marquis Ito termed Korea, and the railroad approach into Korea, with a treaty with China by which it cannot be duplicated. She is safe from attack by sea, for her navy in her own waters is the equal of any.

Her second aim is nearly accomplished. Measured by any qualified standards Japan is one of the five great powers of the world, but she has not been quite taken into the society of nations as a social prestige, is very quick to fancy a slight. Thus we have the most galling insult to Japan that could be devised. No man knows what the consequences will be.

We have grown to expect the worst of the senate. The senate is not only wrong on the merits of the issue—imagine a Japanese menace with Japanese male laborers steadily decreasing in the United States since the Government's agreement, and the net increase being only 16,000 in fifteen years, mostly made up of wives and dependents of laborers already here—but also the senate is completely wrong on the method employed.

When the Japanese Ambassador writes a most courteous note saying that Japan would agree to anything in the way of exclusion but only hoped that there would be nothing done to wound the pride of the Japanese people, the senate did precisely what he asked them not to do, because they alleged two words of the Ambassador's letter, though he was writing in a foreign language, were susceptible of a meaning that the Japanese Government has since repudiated.

The issue is now up to President Coolidge. One can scarcely believe the report is well founded that the president like Pontius Pilate, will wash his hands of the whole affair. Mr. Coolidge has scarcely forgotten how the whole country rang with praise for a certain Governor of Massachusetts who took his political life in his hands at a great moral crisis and stood steadfast for the right. Surely the president will not fall where the Governor succeeded.

ATTORNEY STEFFERSON WINS IMPORTANT COURT CASE

Raymond E. Stefferson, a former Norwich boy, who is now attorney for the Luckenbach Steamship Co., of New York, has just successfully argued before the United States district court for New York an important point involving construction of certain treaty rights between this country and Great Britain, also Italy. A longshoreman who was killed in Seattle had parents residing in Ireland who sued for damages for his death. The question was raised in respect to the rights of foreign resident British subjects to recover for the wrongful death of certain relatives in this country after the "most favored nation" clause of the British treaty. The question raised was whether the "most favored nation" clauses went merely to commercial and trade matters, or included personal rights in suit as well.

The court ruled that it was without jurisdiction to do more than dismiss the summons and complaint and gave costs to the defendant, represented by Attorney Stefferson. The case is regarded in New York as a very important one and it is expected that it will go at once to the U. S. supreme court for final decision.

EASTER PAGEANT GIVEN AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

The Young People's Christian Union of the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) held an Easter morning service Sunday at 4.30 o'clock in the Sunday school room as the sunshine illumined the memorial window there. Harold Cobb led the meeting and Elizabeth Hartley sang the solo, Calvary, accompanied on the piano by William Huber. Twenty-four were present.

At the morning service in the church the following musical program was given: Organ prelude, Kammenoi Ostrow, Rubinstein; five carols, Chime, Chime, Chime, Loud; Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today, Manney; Soft and Sweet the Bells, Deis; God Hath Sent His Angels, Ohl; The Three Days, Llewellyn. The choral service was arranged by William Huber, organist; anthems, Alleluia! Death Is Conquered, Thompkins; They Have Taken Away My Lord, Stainer.

The pageant, The Cross and the Tomb, was given by the choir and the school at noon under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Foster, and the message which Christianity offers to the world was very prettily portrayed by participants in costume.

Michael Polk, of Bridgeport, 22, and Miss May Monetta, 23, of Stratford, were killed Sunday night when their machine skidded off the road at Durham and overturned in a field.

I Use a Cream

Which France perfected—the finest ever known
By Edna Wallace Hopper

France gave to me, many years ago, the finest cold cream in existence. It helped to make me a famous beauty—the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years as a stage star, it keeps me a beauty still.

Many young girls envy my complexion. And my youthful bloom at my age is the marvel of millions of women. Now I have arranged to supply to all the very helps which made me what I am.

A fruity cream

My Youth Cream contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, feed and smooth the skin.

No woman I know has ever found anything to so foster the fine texture of the skin. Whatever cream you have used before, my Youth Cream will amaze you.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c per jar. It comes in two types — the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing type. Be sure to get the type you want. Both have the same essential constituents. Neither grows hair on the face. Also my Facial Youth — my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Now every girl and woman may enjoy the benefits I get. The multiplied beauty, the perennial youth. The greatest beauty helps that science knows are at your call. Let my Youth Cream shows you how much they mean to you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 535 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

The total membership of Palmer chapter is 341 with 21 new companions added during the past year and two more elected to membership. Most Excellent Arthur N. Nash, past grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Connecticut, presided at the election and installation.

He was assisted by Excellent Samuel Girvin, as acting grand captain of the hosts. Thomas McZeigh and Carl Crandall as tellers.

The election and installation resulted as follows: High priest, John A. Hogg; king, Arthur E. Thompson (who is holding over another year as he is in the commandery council); scribe, William M. Spencer; treasurer, Walter C. Miscox; secretary Albert E. Barber; captain of the hosts, J. Ernest Young; principal sojourner, George Smith; royal arch captain, Robinson Hindle; master of the 3rd vail, Robert Vennard; master of the 2nd vail, Ernest F. Stenhouse; master of the 1st vail, Gordon F. Spencer; sentinel, William A. Stillwell; finance committee, Ex. Robert Hazard, Ex. David A. Lowry, Ex. Bourdon A. Babcock; trustees of the permanent fund, Ex. Robert E. Cole, (reelected for a term of three years): M. Ex. Arthur N. Nash and Ex. Thomas McKenzie.

At the close of the work for the evening salad, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee were served in the banquet. There were 44 members of Palmer chapter present.

Capt. and Mrs. James Holt, of West Mystic, were week-end guests of Mrs. Holt's parents in Westerly.

Miss Katharine W. Wheeler returned to Providence Monday morning after passing the week-end with her mother in Westerly.

Miss Marjorie D. Barber returned to North Attleboro, Mass., Sunday afternoon to resume her duties as teacher in the public schools after a week's vacation passed in Westerly with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Barber.

Mrs. Mary E. Arnold was a Monday business caller in Providence.

George A. Golden was a week-end visitor with relatives in Massachusetts, near Springfield.

Edward M. Brown has completed his work at the Smith shop, where he was engaged during the Easter rush.

Charles E. Champlin of Bridgeport was the guest Easter of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Champlin.

Henry H. Metiver has returned to Boston after being the week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metiver, on the West Side.

J. Raymond Burke has resumed teaching in Stoughton, Mass., after passing the schol recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Burke.

George A. Phillips of Providence was a business caller in Westerly on Monday.

Capt. and Mrs. Walter D. Slyne of Newport, R. I., have been week-end guests of Westerly relatives and friends.

Athletic Instructor James Nelson, of Waterbury, arrived in Westerly on Friday evening. Saturday Mr. Nelson was the guest of friends in Norwich, returning to Westerly to take up his residence previous to coming here for the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Rich of Boston were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Cook on the West Side.

Patents on inventions were granted in Washington during the past week to Thomas Moore, Westerly, on elastic web, and to Giacomo Pucci, also of Westerly, on clearer for drawing rolls.

Alvin W. Mawson left Westerly on Monday morning for Boston, to resume work following a short visit with his mother in Westerly.

LAFAYETTE MAIN, COUNSEL FOR WALTER TAYLOR, APPEALS

(Special to The Bulletin.

Westerly, April 21.—Walter Taylor, of the place known as the Henry Breed farm, Randall district, in the town of Stonington, which was raided by five Connecticut state police from Groton barracks Saturday night when 18 barrels of cider were taken to the Pawcatuck lockup, was sentenced in Stonington town court Monday noon to fines which totalled $1,000 and was given New London county jail sentences amounting to two months, by Judge William A. Wilcox. Notice of appeal was filed by Lafayette Main, Pawcatuck Hill, North Stonington, who appeared in court for Taylor on Monday morning and he was placed under $2,000 bonds, which were furnished for his appearance at the next term of the common pleas court, the criminal side, which convenes the first of May. His wife, Alsina Taylor, became his surety.

A considerable crowd gathered at Borough hall, Stonington, Monday morning, so the auditorium, decorated for the K. of C. Easter Monday ball, was used for the setting of the court in place of the usual court room. Appearing for the defendant was Lafayette Main of North Stonington, outfitted with a clean suit of blue overalls with turned-up trouser cuffs, a big pair of spectacles and a new pad. Main later stated to the court that "he had never smoked, drank strong liquors or chewed in his life" and that he considered himself "quite an authority on cider." In a professional way, Main, who said he was a farmer, "waived the reading of the complaint, entered a plea of not guilty and asked for an adjournment of the case for one hour." Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna of the town of Stonington said he had no objection and the accused was placed under a bond of $2,000 to return to the court room at 10.15, his wife, Alsina Taylor, becoming surety.

Clerk A. G. Martin then read the complaint in the second case to come before the court, in which Prosecuting Attorney McKenna presented Timothy Spellman, of Pawcatuck, charging that on April 19th he disturbed the peace by striking Henry Brooks, of 26 Noyes avenue, Pawcatuck.

Stellman pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs of $24.08, amounting to $29.08. In default of payment he was committed to New London county jail by Patrolman Francis McMahon.

On the resumption of court in the Taylor case, Attorney McKenna directed the reading of the compainnt which alleged that on the 7th day of April, 1924, Walter Taylor of Stonington sold to Harry Malburson one gallon of fermented cider, not holding a permit to manufacture vinegar and not having a permit for the sale of cider. Similar charges were made for the 9th of April of one pint of cider, also on the 10th day of April of one pint of cider; complaint and information was given and on the 10th day of April Walter Taylor did keep an establishment resorted to for the sale of liquors; similar charges were made that Taylor sold Lewis Brown a pint of cider on the 7th of April, also on the 10th of April, but the last two charges were not pressed.

Judge William A. Wilcox found Taylor guilty on a charge of reputation and imposed a fine of $200; guilty on the charge for keeping for sale, imposing a fine of $200 and imprisonment for 30 days; guilty of actual sale, imposing a fine of $200 and imprisonment for 30 days and guilty on two other sales counts, imposing $200 fines on each.

LATER LANMAN PAPERS RECALL NORWICH EVENTS

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son, Joseph Lanman.)

Norwich 5th April 1854

My dear Son?

I thank you for your letter of the first, it affords me great pleasure to be remembered affectionately—it is to the soul like the dew of Harmon—softening and crowding out the rough points of a selfish & hypocritical World.

I had noticed the speech of the sage Mr. Benton, to which you allude—Mr. Benton is very learned, very able & I have no doubt, very honest—I have heard him in the Senate and when he plants himself on the battery of what he deems right, he never gives in, he never surrenders. As respects the Navy, he is resuscitating the old creed of what some fifty years ago we called the Tarapin creed: the China-Jefferson policy. The World must be greatly changed before we can see any fair chance of success in commerce & cast ourselves on the protection of either France or England. When we witness the Millenium we may leave our ships and all our commerce to the care of other nations for safety—but as the World now is & as it has been for some time we must take of our rights with a strong arm.

Were the present leading Powers of the World to adopt the creed of Mr. James Watson Webb—as he has recently declared it—in the London Times Newspaper it would be a sort of commencement of an era which might possibly lead to a state of things, in this Mundane Sphere, which Mr. Benton is dreaming about; but the truth is, all his notions were before us fifty years ago and the world is indebted to the officers of our little Navy for their noble conduct in battering down the Piratical Powers on the coast of Africa. The Navy must be increased in its strength, how we are to increase the class of first rate sailors will require much of the very best manggement of the business men of the Country.

We should all of us be very glad to se you, and we all unite in reciprocating the warmest regards to Captain & Mrs. Williams—kindest love to your Dear Wife & Daughter and when you see MR. Walley tender my kind regards to him. I cannot but hope that as the mild weather approaches it may bring with it his entire restoration to health.

Our cos. James Hubbard is very soon to lead to the Hymeneal Altar, Miss Learned & it is his intention to visit your City. I need not say that it will afford us all pleasure to hear of your kind attentions to them.

Affectionately Yours
P. Lanman.

(Written By David Lanman to his Brother, Joseph Lanman.)

Nueva York, June 19, 1861

My dear Brother,

We were glad to receive your letter of 20 May from San Francisco. Our next we hope will be from the Navy Yard. By the last steamer I had only time to communicate the Death of our Beloved Mother which took place on the evening of June 5th., the birthday of our Father, on Saturday we laid her by his side, our dear Mother suffered some distress 12 hours before her decease. Sister telegraphed to me but I was then on my way up to Norwich and did not hear of it untill my arrival at the Depot at Norwich. Sister Mary & her Son Fred & Margaret & jonathan came up the next day. Mother had been for some days at times Wandering, but would not let Sister send for us—she spoke of all most kindly an affectionately. MR. Bond was too ill to attend the funeral, the services were performed by Mr. Arms from Brother Peter's House. Mr. & mrs. Silliman came on from New Haven & Cousin Edmund from Boston; at the same time he attended the funeral of Cousin Johnson's Daughter who died the 8th inst of Consumption.

Mr. Arms spoke very handsomely of the Virtues of our beloved Mother. Mr. Bob Learned assisted in doing the heavy duties of the funeral. Monday, returning by way of Hartford, we stoped to pay our respects to Uncle Joseph, his Wife has but a short time to live—it was some time before she recognised me but afterwards on taking Margaret's hand in her own, she talked for a few minutes Very rationally. Uncle was very kind and said he was the last of his generation. Cousin Elihu was very calm & said she was sorry not to have seen you—she spoke of her Husband, she has removed to her Father's house and it was pitiful to see the poor old Gentleman helping the three orphan little girls at the table. We dined with them & left for home at 3 p. m. We shall go to Norwich again in July but the pleasant face of our beloved Mother we shall miss—she looked in death as though she was asleep and much younger than she had done for years. Dear Old Lady, her children rise up and call her blessed, long may her memory be embalmed in our recollection and affection. She was much pleased to look upon your Photograph, one of which I sent to her after you left; she told Aunt Abby she should never see you again in this world. I suppose Sister Abby will go to Hartford for a day or two she will then come to see us & Sister Mary.

Margaret is now at Chestnut Hill with Mary & Anna. Downing Sanford is at Washington, there most of the time and not much time to enjoy his beautiful place. I expect a letter for you tomorrow from Abby & Cornelia. I enclose the latest recd from Sister Elizabeth, David's Wife & William passed a delightful week at Erie & she says Joe & Nelo had a nice time.

Congress is to meet soon—I don't think anything can be done in the way of Compromise, it would be better for us to part, but we are now in the hands of two parties & no one can predict the result—both are sanguine of Success.

I call your attention to the letter of Lathrop Motley, Mary Benjamin's husband, published in the Evening Post—sent you also an extract from a french paper called the Up-Rising of a great Country—both Republican papers. You will see that our troops, that is the Federal, have twice blundered on Beauriguard's Batteries and have both times been repulsed. Our office Boy, Thomas Cartwright of Durcey's Regiment was Wounded—he is the boy I blew up about not taking the letter to the Post office. Our Man commends what was Bartlett's Naval Brigade—Bartlett having succeeded as usual, the first privateer out of Charleston, S. C., is in Port. I doubt if the crew of 20 men will be hanged as they deserve. The Star King did not leave Port with your Traps for 20 days after you left I did not get them insured as they would charge a very heavy premium.

The South seem to be very inveterate against the North, classing all of us as Abilitionists.

My health is only tolerable, in fact I am Nervous and low spirited. I hope you may find it More Comfortable at the Yard than you anticipate. I will send you the latest paper and

With Much love am affectionately
Yours
D. Lanman.

NORWICH TOWN

Miss Mary H. Paddock of Washington street, has as guests over Easter her nephew Charles Paddock Johnson, also her niece, Miss Olivia Johnson of Princeton.

Having been absent from Norwich since Thursday March 6th, on a trip to Havana, Florida, New Orleans and Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon returned Saturday to their home 327 Washington street. ## HAMILTON HOLT, WOODSTOCK, STATES JAPANESE ISSUE

Hamilton Holt, Vice Chairman of the National Committee of American-Japanese Relations, who is at his summer home at Woodstock, writes: The American people can hardly realize how Japan is smarting under the senate's entirely unnecessary, and therefore gratuitous, insult unless they understand the two great policies that Japan has pursued since the restorations of 1868. First, Japan has tried to make herself safe from all foreign invasions or absorptions, thus avoiding the fate of India and China. Second to make herself the equal of any nation on earth in the art of peace.

Japan has fully achieved her first aim. She is safe from attack by land, for she owns "the dagger pointed at the heart of Japan," as Marquis Ito termed Korea, and the railroad approach into Korea, with a treaty with China by which it cannot be duplicated. She is safe from attack by sea, for her navy in her own waters is the equal of any.

Her second aim is nearly accomplished. Measured by any qualitated standards, Japan is one of the five great powers of the world, but she has not been quite taken into the society of nations as a social prestige, is very quick to fancy a slight. Thus we have the most galling insult to Japan that could be devised. No man knows what the consequences will be.

We have grown to expect the worst of the senate. The senate is not only wrong on the merits of the issue—imagine a Japanese menace with Japanese male laborers steadily decreasing in the United States since the Government's agreement, and the net increase being only 16,086 in fifteen years, mostly made up of wives and dependents of laborers already here—but also the senate is completely wrong on the method employed.

When the Japanese Ambassador writes a most courteous note saying that Japan would agree to anything in the way of exclusion but only hoped that there would be nothing done to wound the pride of the Japanese people, the senate did exactly what he asked them not to do, because they alleged two words of the Ambassador's letter, though he was writing in a foreign language, were susceptible of a meaning that the Japanese Government has since repudiated.

The issue is now up to President Coolidge. One can scarcely believe the report is well founded that the president like Pontius Pilate, will wash his hands of the whole affair. Mr. Coolidge has scarcely forgotten how the whole country rang with praise for a certain Governor of Massachusetts who took his political life in his hands at a great moral crisis and stood steadfast for the right. Surely the president will not fail where the Governor succeeded.

ATTORNEY STEFFERSON WINS IMPORTANT COURT CASE

Raymond B. Stefferson, a former Norwich boy, who is now attorney for the Luckenbach Steamship Co., of New York, has just successfully argued before the United States district court for New York an important point involving construction of certain treaty rights between this country and Great Britain, also Italy. A longshoreman who was killed in Seattle had parents residing in Ireland who sued for damages for his death. The question was raised in respect to the rights of foreign resident British subjects to recover for the wrongful death of certain relatives in this country after the "most favored nation" clause of the British treaty. The question raised was whether the "most favored nation" clauses went merely to commercial and trade matters, or included personal rights in suit as well.

The court ruled that it was without jurisdiction to do more than dismiss the summons and complaint and gave costs to the defendant, represented by Attorney Stefferson. The case is regarded in New York as a very important one and it is expected that it will go at once to the U. S. supreme court for final decision.

EASTER PAGEANT GIVEN AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

The Young People's Christian Union of the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) held an Easter morning service Sunday at 6.30 o'clock in the Sunday school room as the sunshine illumined the memorial window there. Harold Cobb led the meeting and Elizabeth Hartley sang the solo, Calvary, accompanied on the piano by William Huber. Twenty-four were present.

At the morning service in the church the following musical program was given: Organ prelude, Kammennot Ostrow, Rubinstein; five carols, Chime, Chime, Chime, Land; Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today, Manney; Soft and Sweet the Bells, Dale; God Hath Sent His Angels, Old; The Three Days, Llewellyn. The choral service was arranged by William Huber, organist; anthems, Alleluia! Death Is Conquered, Thompkins; They Have Taken Away My Lord, Stainer.

The pageant, The Cross and the Tomb, was given by the choir and the school at noon under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Foster, and the message which Christianity offers to the world was very prettily portrayed by participants in costume.

Michael Polk, of Bridgeport, 22, and Miss May Monetta, 22, of Stratford, were killed Sunday night when their machine skidded off the road at Durham and overturned in a field.

I Use a Cream

Which France perfected—the finest ever known
By Edna Wallace Hopper

France gave to me, many years ago, the finest cold cream in existence. It helped to make me a famous beauty—the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years as a stage star, it keeps me a beauty still.

Many young girls envy my complexion. And my youthful bloom at my age is the marvel of millions of women. Now I have arranged to supply to all the very helps which made me what I am.

A fruity cream

My Youth Cream contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, feed and smooth the skin.

No woman I know has ever found anything to so foster the fine texture of the skin. Whatever cream you have used before, my Youth Cream will amaze you.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 60c per jar. It comes in two types — the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing type. Be sure to get the type you want. Both have the same essential constituents. Neither grows hair on the face. Also my Facial Youth — my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Now every girl and woman may enjoy the benefits I get. The multiplied beauty, the perennial youth. The greatest beauty helps that science knows are at your call. Let my Youth Cream shows you how much they mean to you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 535 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

BREAK IN STOCK PRICES.

New York, April 21.—Stock prices broke sharply today under the weight of the large volume of selling for both accounts. Selling pressure extended over a wide list but was most effective in the steel, oil, sugar and textile issues.

A break of more than 17 points in Congoleum, believed to represent the enforced liquidation of a bull pool, unsettled the general list soon after the opening. The first sale of this stock was a block of 12,000 shares at the "spread opening" price of $49 to $35 a share, as against $52.25, the closing price on Saturday. Total transactions in this issue exceeded 100,000 shares.

Selling became more active after mid-day as a result of the pessimistic interpretation placed by traders on Chairman Gary's remarks at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the U. S. Steel corporation. His statement that further recessions in business activity are likely because of the fact that this is a presidential year was seized upon by bear operators as an excuse for an attack on the steel shares. U. S. Steel common was hammered to within 1-4 of a point of the year's low at 95 5-8, but it rallied later to 96 1-8, off 3 1-8. Republic and Gulf States Steels dropped more than 2 points each.

Heavy liquidation of the oil shares sent practically all of the active issues, including Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Maryland, Cosden and Pacific, to new low prices for the year.

In all, 66 stocks established new low records for the year during the session, which was one of the most active in the last two months. So great was the decline in industrials that it sent the average of 20 leading railroad stocks in that group to a new 1924 minimum. The average of 20 leading railroad stocks is now about 1-2 a point above the year's low.

Included in the list of new lows were Baldwin, American Sugar Refining, American Can, Dupont, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, General Motors, American Woolen, National Lead and Baltimore and Ohio.

Outstanding strength was shown by Chesapeake and Ohio which crossed 75 for a net gain of nearly 3 points on reports that the proposed merger of the road with "Nickel Plate" would result in the common stocks of each being placed on a seven per cent. basis. Pere Marquette advanced 1 1-2 points, but Norfolk and Western fell back nearly 2 points to 125 1-8.

Call money held at 4 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with 4 1-2 per cent. the ruling rate.

Owing to the observance of the Easter Monday holiday abroad, trading in the foreign exchanges was rather recorded new 1924 highs at quiet. Demand sterling and French $4.33 5-8 and 5.36 1-2 cents, respectively, but eased off in the late trading.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 21.—Bond prices today developed an uneven trend, with U. S. government issues attaining new high levels for the year, rail liens displaying moderate strength and industrial mortgages yielding readily to selling pressure.

Continued diversion of banking funds into Liberty bonds attracted attention in an otherwise dull trading session. Four of the 4 1-4 per cent. issues sold at par or higher, while the treasury 4 1-4s established a new record at 101.19-32nds. Closing prices were at somewhat lower levels, but showed substantial net gains for the day.

The reactionary tone displayed by leading industrial issues resulted from liquidation of a number of convertible bonds accompanied the break in stock prices. Independent Steel, Chemical and Oil company obligations reflected the attack on these shares in the stock market. Wilson and company liens continued to slump, the convertible 6s dropping 4 points.

Unconfirmed reports that the Dutch government was planning to float an 85,000,000 guilder loan caused a slight decline in Netherlands 6s. Other foreign issues however, were steady, with Japanese obligations making moderate recovery.

The New York Central railroad, it was reported, was preparing to offer shortly an equipment issue totalling from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago April 21.—Wheat underwent a material setback in price today, owing more or less to reports of delay of the McNary-Haugen bill at Washington. The market closed heavy 5-8c to 1 3-4c net lower, May 102 7-8 to 1.04 and July 1.05 7-8 to 1.05 7-8@ 1.06. Corn finished 5-8 to 1c down, oats 1-4 to 3-4c off and provisions showing 7c to 15c decline.

Downturns of wheat values took place chiefly in the last half of the board of trade session, and accompanied gossip that the McNary-Haugen bill would have no chance to come up in the senate until after the tax reduction bill was passed. Subsequently there was talk that indefinite postponement was awaiting the McNary-Haugen measure and in any event that extensive changes of the provisions of the bill were under consideration. Inasmuch as the wheat market advances of late have been largely based on predictions that the bill would soon become a law the supposed change of outlook led to a good deal of selling and to dearth of fresh demand.

Announcement that considerable wheat was being sent into storage here for delivery on May contracts had a further depressing effect. Meanwhile, little notice was taken of a liberal decrease of the domestic visible supply, the decrease being about what most traders had looked for. Opening of lake navigation failed also to act as any special stimulus to buyers. On the other hand, declines in stocks and cotton contributed to weakness of wheat as well as of other grain.

Northward progress of corn planting, evidence of increased acreage and slowness of shipping call here tended to force corn prices down. Oats gave way with other cereals.

Lower quotations on hogs pulled down provisions.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 21.—Acute weakness of the Standard Oil issues, which recorded extreme breaks of 2 to 18 points, was the outstanding feature of today's reactionary curb market. Standard Oil of Ohio sustained the largest loss with Standard Oils of Indiana, Kentucky and Nebraska, Solar Refining, South Pennsylvania Oil, Prairie Oil, and Gas, Humble and Imperial of Canada, closing 2 to 10 points lower. Revival of activity in Woodley Petroleum was based on the report of its president that the value of its oil in storage had more than doubled since the publication of the last annual report.

An advance of 2 1-2 points to 89 by Glen Alden Coal stood out in the industrial list. National Tea, which sold as high as 370 last week, dropped back to 352. Hudson Company Preferred touched a new high for the year at 36, up 2 3-4, but losses of 1 to 2 points were recorded by American Light and Traction, Durant Motors, Lehigh Power securities, Kresge and Ward Baking Class "B."

Steadiness and strength of the copper shares was the feature of the mining list.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building operations in Norwich still hold up to the normal for the month and if anything are a little ahead of previous years. The opinion of several trade magazines regarding the building trade throughout the country is very optimistic and all predict a record year in 1924. One magazine says "Building operations have been more active during the past winter than usual and there is every indication that during the rest of the year they will increase and show a marked improvement over previous years."

The National Monthly Building Survey says:

Building permits issued in 311 cities during the first quarter of the present year were 11 per cent. ahead of the first quarter of 1923, which was about 49 per cent. ahead of the first quarter of 1922. There was also an increase for March in the same cities of 9 per cent. over March of last year, when the gain over March 1922, was 60 per cent. While the March increase this year was not great by comparison with March 1923, it must be remembered that that month was an abnormal month, being by far the largest in the history of the country in the volume of permits issued.

The 311 cities reported permits issued amounting to $984,055,103 for the quarter and $454,897,201 for March.

Building labor conditions throughout the country may be epitomised as follows:

(1) Wages generally well stabilized with slight upward tendencies in larger cities where prospective building operations are large.

(2) General employment at peak wages with especially pressing demands for bricklayers and plasterers.

(3) Possible shortage of common labor with the development of activities now indicated by unprecedented volume of building permits.

(4) Possibility of ensuing difficulties through jurisdictional dispute between Carpenters Union and Sheet Metal workers over installation of metal trim work.

(5) Successful and significant cooperation of building trades, unions and contractors in establishing building trades apprenticeship schools to help relieve labor shortage.

One of the important factors in the situation has been the unusual amount of employment throughout the building crafts during the winter months. These conditions were partly due to mild weather in some sections of the country, but it is voted that efforts to increase the volume of construction in the so-called off-season have been successful. It is significant that the government through Secretary Hoover has seen fit to take up this important phase of the building situation semi-officially through the formation of the Committee on Seasonal Operations in the Construction Industries.

Despite an increase in demand, building material prices showed but little change during the month. With the exception of common brick, which was somewhat firmer, New York City witnessed a drop in most starting materials. In a few Middle Western cities cement was quoted at slightly higher prices. While the demand for steel has been strong, it has not come up to expectations and as a result there has been some softening in Pittsburgh prices. Except for a slight flurry in the Dallas market, lumber has been unchanged.

At the office of Fire Marshall Howard L. Stanton there were 6 permits issued during the past week. The total valuation placed on the new building by the owners is approximately $20,000. Included in these permits is one for a large brick garage on North Main street for Jacob Slosberg and a two-story house on Johnson place for Ivan Johnson. The permits issued by Fire Marshall Stanton during the past week are as follows:

To Jacob R. Slosberg to erect a frame garage at 88 No. Main street. The garage will have a stone foundation and the floor will be of concrete. The walls will be of brick and the frame work will be of steel. The roof will have a steel frame covered with planks and finished in tar and gravel.

To Alfonzo M. De Sio to add a frame piazza to the present house at 122 High street. The piazza will be 7x7 feet.

To R. G. Hinckley to erect a frame garage at 28 Maple street for Hyman Schwartz. The garage will be of frame construction covered with matched boards and composition shingles.

To Ivan Johnson to build a 2-story house on Johnson Place. The house will be of frame construction with stone and concrete foundation and will be 27x26 feet. The exterior will be finished in cedar shingles. The interior will be finished in plaster and cypress trim with all hardwood floors. There will be seven rooms and bath.

To Stanley Przekop to erect a frame barn on Howard street. The barn will be 18x24 feet.

To Wladyslaw Marchniak to erect a frame house on Mohegan Avenue. The house will be 24x26 feet with stone and cement foundation. There will be eight rooms and bath and the interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and cedar shingles.

NEW LONDON

Plans are being figured for a residence to be erected on Ocean avenue for Dr. Ralph H. Keeler, Manwaring building. The plans call for a frame dwelling, 42x39 feet, arranged for nine rooms, with three baths. The interior finish will be in N. C. pine, and there will be fireplaces, hot water heat, inclosed sun parlor and other improvements.

Contractors bidding for the erection of the dormitory at the Mystic Oral school for the Deaf, Mystic, have been asked to submit new figures based on slight revisions to the plans. The final date for the opening of the bids is April 21. Bidders for the general contract were: T. J. Pardy Construction Co., Bridgeport; Arthur Jackson & Co., 108 State street; Miller & Symington, 48 Main street, and Doyle & Murphy, Willimantic. The building will be 70x150 feet, three stories high and basement, of brick construction.

A local architect has prepared plans which are now being figured for Barnett Lubow, 121 Bank street. The proposed house will be 44x29 feet, arranged bungalow style for six rooms. The interior will be finished in hard wood, and there will be tile baths, hot water heat, fireplaces and other conveniences. The exterior will be of stucco. The owner is receiving the bids.

The frame is up for the dwelling on Gorton street for Ralph Briggs. The excavation and concrete work has been completed and the sub-contract for the plumbing and heating has been awarded. The house is 24x28 feet, and will be arranged for one family.

Applications for Building Permits

TOWN OF KILLINGLY
SPECIAL TOWN MEETING
The legal voters of the Town of Killingly are hereby notified and warned to meet at the TOWN HALL, DANIELSON
in said Killingly on THURSDAY, APRIL 24TH, 1924
At 7.30 P. M.
for the following purposes, to wit:
On petition of C. D. Mowry, and twenty-two other legal voters, to consider the following matters:

Article 1—To see if the Town will appoint a committee for the purpose of engaging a public accountant to audit the accounts of all Town officials of the Town of Killingly for the period of the last five years.

Article 2—To see if the Town will appropriate the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) or so much thereof, as may be necessary for the purpose of paying for the services and expenses of such accountant.

On petition of William M. Franklin and thirty-six other legal voters of the Town of Killingly, to consider the following question:

Article 3—To see what action the Town will take in regard to improving the highway known as Broad street in the Borough of Danielson, and to make an appropriation therefor.

On petition of Nelson Gauthier and twenty other "property taxpayers" in the Town of Killingly, to consider the following question:

Article 4—To see what action the voters of the Town will take looking toward accepting and laying out the street running east from Broad street, said street having been deeded to the Town of Killingly, but up to the present date no action has been taken by the voters of the Town looking towards accepting thereof. Street now known as Danielson, or Dennison;

Article 5—To do any other business necessary and proper to be done at such meeting.

WEATHER

Conditions

Fair weather has prevailed during the last twenty-four hours except for local rains in north New England and southern New York. Another disturbance was central over British Columbia Monday night and moving east-southeastward and pressure was falling generally west of the Rocky Mountains while high pressure prevailed from New England southeastward Sunday.

The indications are for showers almost generally in the Washington forecast district within the next 24 hours.

No unusually cool weather is predicted for any section within the next two or three days.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Maine.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Strong southeast and southy probably gale force and weather overcast and thick with rain Tuesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Strong southeast and south, probably of gale force and shifting to southeast and west, weather overcast and showery Tuesday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Eastern New York and New Jersey; rain Tuesday; Wednesday generally fair and cooler.

Observations in Norwich

R. C. PLAUT WRITES OF SIGHTS AND EXPERIENCES IN INDIA

Rutherford C. Plaut and the other members of the Norwich party, which included Julius W. Cadden, the Misses Carrie and Minnye Cadden, who are on a voyage around the world, reached India about the middle of March, whence he writes of unusual experiences as follows:

Indian Ocean from Bombay to Ceylon
March 11, 1924.

My dear Ones All: I think the last time I wrote to you was when we had left Cairo for Port Said, on our way to India. It would not be fair if I did not dwell a bit on the Suez Canal. What we saw of the canal was the Suez end, as we left the boat at Port Said so that we could visit Cairo and meet the boat at the other end of the canal. The Suez Canal proved interesting to us. Long rows of pampas grass fringed the shores and men in white garments with shrouded white heads squatted on platforms before their rush houses. Some were at work at their trade, some making mats and some otherwise occupied. The canal belongs to an English company and our boat paid over $13,000 to go through. Years ago before the birth of Christ, men were considering the uniting of the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. A Persain king, named Necho, came near undertaking it but superstitious predictions frightened him and the plan was abandoned. When Ferdinand De Lessuph opened it to the world the Suez Canal prospered beyond the dreams of the most sanguine. Then India became easy to get to. Swarms of tiny flies and gnats boarded the ship occasionally but did not bite. It was very warm and sunny, and peculiarly enough, the Red Sea was exquisitely blue; but I can see now why it was called the Red Sea. I think originally it was the Red Hot Sea and in time they eliminated the word "Hot." After the first day the cool breezes were delightful as we had anticipated intense heat. It was quite thrilling to realize that Mount Sinai, where Moses received the ten commandments, was near at hand and could be plainly seen. We passed by Aden in the evening and could see the lights of the town. When we passed the Cunarder steamship Franconia, 200 yards to our port side, in the Red Sea, we received a wireless message from Wyman Carroll, which read, "You've a wonderful trip ahead. Bon Voyage."

Rules For Tropical Countries.

It was on the 4th of March that we reached Bombay. Here we were simply prostrated with the heat. We had to wear our sun topees which we had purchased in Cairo. Cadden and I left the ship on its first tender for the shore and with my lunch I had two bottles of cold beer. After walking around a bit I was almost prostrated by the heat, but after taking it easy for a while and bathing my head with bay rum, I felt better. After that I was careful about cold liquids and the sun. Friends meeting us told us we must wear colored glasses. We procured them and have never suffered since. But if one follows the directions or suggestions that the boat doctor gives you, I think one would avoid a lot of uneasiness. I will attach our instructions.

Suggestions to passengers while in India and other tropical countries:

Always wear a sun-helmet (topee) or carry a thick sunshade when exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Particularly protect the back of the neck.

Avoid drinking plain water unless satisfied it has been boiled recently. It is much safer to drink only bottled waters — Fulgit, Tansan, Poland or Evian—ashore. Water on the ship is taken only from ports where our agents report it safe, then double filtered before using.

Avoid milk except in cooked puddings and the like.

Avoid salads and uncooked vegetables.

Avoid shellfish and ice cream in any form. All foods on the ship, however, are carefully selected and prepared. They are free from danger.

Any fruit with a peel is safe, but if the peel is cracked or broken do not eat it.

Spend as little time as possible in the native quarters.

Keep out of the sun in the middle of the day and never walk when you can ride.

A least abrasion of the skin should be coated with iodine as soon as possible. Mosquito bites may be relieved by applying a thick solution of bicarbonate of soda or ammonia.

Take a light overcoat and wraps ashore as the evenings are sometimes cool and every precaution should be taken against contracting a cold in these latitudes. Lightweight clothing (linen or thin silk) and walking shoes should be worn. Take as little baggage as possible. No evening clothes will be needed. Firearms are positively prohibited.

IMPORTANT

In sleeping, whether on land or sea, care should be taken to have the abdomen well covered as a preventive against chills which may cause dysentery.

Please keep this for ready reference.

Bombay with its million or more inhabitants, is one of the handsomest cities we have seen. Buildings are of sandstone. On a pretty bay overlooking the ocean, the first view impresses one most favorably. Malabar Hill is where the governor has his residence and at the extreme other end of this hill is the burying ground of the Parsees, the celebrated Towers of Silence. The Towers themselves are most impressive, one of them having been in use continuously for three hundred years. Within it are three compartments, one for men, one for women and one for children. It is built in a circle from the model which we saw and had explained to us by a venerable Parsee. The affair put me in mind of the Yale Bowl on a small scale. There were niches for the bodies. When a body is brought to the tower, two men, employed for the purpose, (none others enter there) bear it through a small opening. All ornaments, all garments are removed. Having placed the body inside the tower, the bearers retire. Within one hour every vestige of flesh is removed from it by vultures. The bones slip down into a vat of acid which destroys them also. We were there in the afternoon and already many of these mournful birds were perched on the tower awaiting the daily funerals which take place. We were told that these birds live in the jungle many miles away, but that every morning from fifteen minutes to a half an hour before the bodies begin to arrive they line the tower awaiting their gruesome feast. Horrible as the idea is, it is the Faith of the Parsees. We learned, however, that the modern Parsee millionaire, with his 20th Century education, is beginning to dislike this method. The Hanging Gardens of Bombay, which are built over the water supply and which are so celebrated, were constructed because of these horrible vultures. The gardens are beautiful.

Parsees Are Dominant.

The Parsees are generous and everything in Bombay is dominated by the Parsee element. Every charitable institution, every public statue, seemingly is maintained or has been presented by them. They are enormously wealthy, the richest of all Indians. In the financial and social world they are the top notchers. We met a few. Carrie and Minnye had the good fortune to be entertained in one of their homes. I hope she writes you a description of it. They are superbly educated and very accomplished. Their homes are palaces. The smartest motors are driven by them. The women are pretty, charming and cultivated and they do not wear a "purdah" (a veil used in India to screen women's faces) They mix rather freely with the English. The Parsee man is always recognized by the type of hat he wears—a sort of patent leather stove pipe hat and the top looks as if a cow had stepped on it. In other words the hat looks like a cloven foot of the cow upside down. While in Bombay, we were constantly learning singular things. One of these was that more sunstrokes occur on cloudy days than on clear ones. The explanation is that in India the clouds, although wonderfully beautiful, are dazzling white. They darken the skies very little. Sunstroke comes through the eyes, and, because of the intense brilliancy of the light, glasses must be worn. From nine to eleven and from three to five are the worst hours of the day, so far as the heat is concerned. Whether these statements are true or not, we wore the sun topees all day. We decided to take no risks. The hat will come in handy fishing off the deck of the "Caroline" next summer. Daily we saw fatigue—almost insufferable—on the part of the native women, who, though delicate in form, often carried huge baskets of stone on their heads, to be used in building. The legs on the men look like pipe stems and you would not believe that they would hold up the burdens they carry. I used to say, "look at them and weep."

The Hindu Burning Ghats was repulsive, but far less objectionable than the Parsees in my estimation. They are used for the Hindu custom of burning the dead. No one ever sees the Parsees' burial, but we saw the Hindu's. A clatter of cymbals announces that a funeral procession is approaching. The corpse, fastened on a simple bier made of bamboo sticks, is carried on the shoulders of four male relatives. No women ever come to these funerals. If it is a man, the body is swathed in white, if a woman, it is in red. The body is immersed in holy water. A fire is now built of logs about three feet high and about two feet wide and seven feet long. The body is placed upon it. The chief mourner lights a torch, walks seven times around the body and then lights the wood. The mourners then retire a short distance and watch it burn. It is a horrible sight. If the people are poor the body is usually only half burned, because they have been unable to buy sufficient wood.

Visit to Delhi.

Other places in Bombay that were remarkable was a trip to the Caves of Elephants, The Cloth Bazaar and Victoria Gardens. Here we saw a lioness with a litter of four cubs, four days old, and woe to him who would chance to disturb her and her young. We had lunch at the new and famous Tag Mahal hotel. Cadden and I decided to go inland to visit Delhi and Agra, a distance of 74 miles each way by rail, sleeping for five consecutive nights on an antiquated train of The Great Indian Peninsular Railroad. I don't want you to get the impression that they do not have up to date sleeping cars in India because they sure do have them, but we did not get one of the good ones. We left for Delhi at eleven p. m. on Wednesday from Ballard Pier. We tossed a coin and Cadden as usual drew the lower choice berth of our dog kennel, which was to be our home for five nights. I had to climb to the one above—a very crude affair. The railroads furnish no bedding, soap, etc. The steamship people did that. After riding all night on Wednesday and all day Thursday, we arrived in Delhi Friday at eight forty-five a. m. All day Thursday Cadden amused himself by rubbing citronella on his legs to keep the mosquitoes away. Oh! I had my troubles with him. There was an electric fan in our compartment and he would continually hit his head on it, and the last day we found that you could tip it out of the way, and, can you imagine it, he put his finger in the fan while the said fan was in motion. Then you should see the display of iodine, cotton, bandages, etc., that were immediately forthcoming from his treasure chest. As we arrived in Delhi, we came upon a funeral. Four men bore the body, which was swathed in bandages like a mummy. They carried it uncoffined high above their heads to the jungle where it was left to be devoured by wild animals. This is the burial custom of the Mohammedans in this section of the country. While in Delhi, we saw a different style of horse-drawn carriage called a Tonga, in which one sits with one's back to the driver and is then enabled to enjoy the sights, and, speaking of sights, we were much amused to see men with their beards dyed red. Such decorations are regarded as a mark of esteem among the Indians. One in particular was a fortune teller. A repitition of the beautiful temples was to be seen in Delhi, of course. They all fascinated us. In one of the Mosques was shown the coffin where Dargah an emperor, who died six hundred years ago, still lies in state, buried under fresh flowers which are brought daily by devotees. The Janie Masjed and the Pearl Mosque, and the Ivory Carving Shops finished our sightseeing here. But was it hot? Can you imagine 110 degrees, and I still have woolens on. At five p. m. we had tea at Kingsway Station. Here, while enjoying our tea, we were entertained by a troupe of Hindu dancers. One was flat on the floor, his stomach bare and his face covered. A carrot was put on his stomach and while dancing, one of the others with sword in hand gave a slash through the air and the carrot was sliced in half and the boy unharmed. There were three snake charmers with their huge cobras that dance to their bidding. A good magician did several clever and new stunts, followed by dancing bears, monkeys and goats, and as a final treat they did the basket trick. This is done with a boy in the basket, while a knife or sword is thrust all the way through.

We had our dinner at the Maidens hotel and left Delhi to sleep for the third night on that horrible train. We arrived at Agra at 6 a. m. and motored to the Hotel Laurie for breakfast. One of the high lights in the experience of every traveler to the Orient is of course the day when he or she looks for the first time on the Taj Mahal. Words are too feeble to describe the beauty of the Taj, so I have bought a very fine picture of it so you can at least see that. It is difficult to say from which side, or from which position, it is the loviest, although the proprietor of the hotel told us that the time to see it is when the moon is out. We were unfortunate, however. There was no moon for us.

We saw the tomb, into which is written the greatest love story of the world that of Shah Hahn and his adored and beautiful wife Montaz Mahal. It stands like a frozen pearl on the banks of a river in the midst of a lovely garden. It is guarded by four minaretted towers and it is the one work of art in the whole world which has never been criticized. Ever since the Taj was built the stream of visitors has been constant in Agra. We saw the wonderful Fort and Palaces, Akbars tomb and Mosques. The merchants in these towns are very much alive and do not let an opportunity go by if there is a chance to sell. Cadden looked at pearl necklaces as high as $200,000. We went to a marble factory where the motive power was a youth of about twelve years turning a wheel which kept the shafting, etc., going. At eleven o'clock at night we left Agra for Fatipur Sikri and my fourth night in the dog kennel. We arrived at 6 a. m. and at 7.30 were on our way on foot to the city builded by Akbar but deserted soon because of malaria, fogs and lack of water. This tomb was superb. But I am sick of tombs and mosques and am now ready to start for Bombay and our good boat where we will arrive after a hot ride of 29 hours, my fifth and last night in that upper berth. You can't imagine the hollow in my back. I liked what I saw of this expedition but did not like what I felt. I had a very novel experience with a barber at Agra. I asked the clerk where I could get a shave and he said "right away." He ushered me into a bedroom and told me to sit on the floor, which I did with my legs crossed tailor fashion. Then in walks the barber, a big, black Indian, with a beard. He handed me a small hand glass and then he went to work and lathered me. The brush was hard and hurt, but I was afraid to move least the said barber would cut my throat. He honed or stropped his razor on his bare arm. Well, I stood it to the finish and was relieved when I had paid him and dried my face with my handkerchief. Then I began to worry about the unsanitary condition of it all and went to get some alcohol or some antiseptic to clean my face with but you could get no alcohol without a doctor's prescription. It sounded like Norwich. So I got some Haig and Haig and washed with that. I guess I'll be all right.

Cadden's Horseshoe Luck.

Cadden has won several of the pools on board for the day's run in miles. If he keeps on winning, his trip will cost him nil. Again "he who has gets." You can't beat the horseshoe luck. We were all pleased with the mail we received in Bombay and the papers we almost ate up. How good a Boston Globe Sunday paper or a New York Sunday paper would look to us all. I bought several puzzles and tricks from the Indian fakers and you will all have a chance to work them out if you are able to. We are in the Indian Ocean now and it is very smooth but there isn't much air. I don't think we will have much relief from this hot weather until we get to Hong Kong in April. I will spend my birthday in Colombo, Ceylon, a thing I never anticipated in my life. It sure is a pleasure to have a fully equipped soda fountain to walk up to on this boat and say, "Coco Cola, please," and get just what you want.

I read in The Bulletin today that the hands on the town clock in Norwich were frozen. Ye Gods! We could use a bit of that here in this writing room.

Tell the children that in Agra I saw trained birds that could string beads with a needle and thread and they also could find a coin, if you would hide it.

Tomorrow we will see jungles, elephants, etc.

Well, the next time I will write you it will be about Ceylon and perhaps Calcutta.

I will close this and mail it.

Regards to all from all of us.

DELTA SORORITY IN 18TH ANNUAL BANQUET

The eighteenth annual banquet of Delta Upsilon Phi, an Academy sorority, was enjoyed Saturday evening at 6.30 at the Wauregan house by active and alumnae members, about twenty-five attending. The tables were prettily decorated in the sorority colors and the following menu was served:

Grapefruit Natural
Fresh Vegetable Soup
Celery Olives
Roast Native Chicken, Stuffed
Giblet Gravy, Apple Sauce
Rosette Potatoes Green Peas
French Bread
Neapolitan Ice Cream
Assorted Cakes.

Miss Esther Bixby was toastmistress for the post prandial part of the evening and entertaining responses were made as follows: Our Sorority, Miss Phyllis Brewer; Loyalty, Miss Louise Jerome; Initiations, Miss Harriet Geer; Reminiscences, Miss Gertrude Avery

Dancing, for which friends of the sorority members were invited, was enjoyed from 8 o'clock until midnight, the arrangements for the evening having been successfully carried out by the committee consisting of Miss Anna Rodier, chairman, Miss Carolyn Hanover, Miss Phyllis Brewer and Miss Louise Jerome.

WILL IMPROVE ROAD, COLCHESTER TO AMSTON

That stretch of highway between Colchester center and Amston, Colchester's railroad junction, three and a half miles away in the town of Hebron, is to be fixed up with state aid.

There was a conference the other day between the selectmen of this town and the selectmen of Hebron, with State Commissioner John A. MacDonald in attendance.

When the talk was over the state had agreed to do its part and the towns to attend to their duties, with an expenditure of $100,000 to follow.

Colchester profited by the improvement of the great Hartford to New London military turnpike, which passes through the town center. But when it came to going east to Willimantic, it was a long way around when the motor vehicle driver wanted a good road.

Now it is proposed to finish this highway through and beyond Amston in Hebron to connect with the trunk line on to Willimantic.

There is another stretch of trunk line highway in which Colchester is much interested. That is the connecting branch of the route from Colchester center to Norwich. The incompleted part of this line is from the Colchester town line through South Lebanon to Bozrahville in Bozrah which connects with the main trunk from Willimantic to Norwich at Yantic.

EASTER MONDAY DANCE ON LEAP YEAR PLAN

The ballroom of the Wauregan House was the scene of one of the largest Easter Monday night dances in recent years when a Leap Year was given under the auspices of the S. S. Club. Over 100 couples enjoyed the evening with music furnished by Herb Smith's orchestra of seven pieces. The dance was a card dance and owing to the year 1924, a leap year, the sixteen numbers on the dance card were filled out by the ladies. The decorations were in keeping with the occasion and had been tastefully arranged by Hawkins the florist. Furnishings for guests of the club members were arranged by Schwarts Brothers.

The patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. George A. Finn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frink, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murtha, Mr. and Mrs. George Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bean and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kennedy. The committee in charge comprised Miss Yvonne Sabourin, chairlady, Miss Mary Canty, Miss Rita Foley, Miss Retta Sheehy and Miss Sadie Kilroy.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE GIVES COUNSEL ON DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

At Annual Luncheon of the Associated Press in New York Mr. Coolidge Condemned "Determined Assaults on the Public Treasury" by Minority Groups—Denounced Extravagance and Reiterated His Advocacy of Tax Reduction—Advises That While America Had Determined to Maintain Her Political Independence, We Should Not Be Indifferent to Affairs in Europe—Declares That Economic Stability in Europe Would Create Markets For American Products—Urges Private American Capital to Participate in Proposed Loan to Germany—With Reparation Problem Settled, President Favors New World Conference to Take Steps For Limitation of Armaments.

New York, April 22.—The promise of efforts to bring about another world conference to attempt further limitation of armaments was given by President Coolidge in an address today at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

Such efforts, the president declared must be predicated upon the firm establishment of a definite settlement of German reparations. With this effected, America would well be in a position to take the lead in promoting an international conference.

The president expressed the belief that the proposed conference might well be based on the theory of the Washington conference of a few years ago, which, he called to mind, had to leave unsolved the question of submarines, aircraft and land forces. The conference, he asserted, might also well take up the codification of international law with an attempt to establish rules of warfare and to determin the rights of neutrals.

While emphasizing that Europe must first set her economic house in order, Mr. Coolidge declared there appeared to be every reason to hope that the report of the reparation commission's committee of experts "offers a basis for a practical solution of the reparations problem." He hinted that "the allies are looking upon it with full sympathy and Germany has expressed a willingness to cooperate in the execution of the plan," and added:

"I trust that it may commend itself to all the European governments interested as a method by which, through mutual concessions, they can arrive at a stable adjustment of the intricate and vexatious problems of reparations, and that such an outcome will provide for the restoration of Germany and the largest possible payments to the other countries."

The president declared that while America had determined to maintain her political independence, the country's economic independence would be strengthened and increased when the economic stability of Europe is restored." America already had done much toward such restoration by the work of the three American experts on the reparation commission's committee, he added, and as a further step he proposed that private American capital participate in the loan to Germany contemplated in the committee's report. Such participation, he suggested, would benefit American trade and commerce and provide a market for American agricultural production.

The president spoke directly to 1,000 persons, including the editors and publishers of most of the country's leading newspapers, and to unnumbered millions through eleven of the most powerful radio broadcasting stations, linked directly through wire with the ballroom of the Hotel Waldorf Astoria, where the luncheon was held.

Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star, introduced Mr. Coolidge as one possessing to "a superlative degree the faculty and the desire to make absolutely clear his matured judgment on the subjects that engage the attention of our people" combined with an expression of "that judgment with no unnecessary words." Mr. Noyes outlined the founding principles of the Associated Press and Mr. Coolidge introduced his discussion of the national problems with an appreciation of the work of The Associated Press as a demonstration of the law of service and "one of the eyes of mankind that never slumbers."

"Faith in the American people" the president said, "means a faith in their ability to form sound judgments, when once the facts have been presented to them clearly and without prejudice. It is this educational work, national in its scope, that the Associated Press performs, and upon its integrity and fairness depends in large measure the course of public opinion in the United States."

The president's address was devoted in the main to foreign relations but he touched on several other topics. He referred in passing to the senate investigation revelations and renewed his declaration of determination to punish the guilty. He condemned "determined assault on the public treasury" by minority groups and reiterated his advocacy of tax reduction.

(Text of the Coolidge address is printed on Page Nine.)

The applause that greeted his arrival was prolonged, lasting long after he had taken his place between Mr. Stone and Mr. Noyes.

At 2 o'clock, shortly before the introductory remarks of Mr. Noyes, Mrs. Coolidge entered a box directly opposite the president at the further end of the ballroom. She was accompanied by Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Butler.

The speech required 41 minutes for delivery. Mr. Coolidge talking directly into a microphone that carried his remarks, through a system of radio relays, to the country at large, was frequently interrupted by applause. His reiteration of his intention to punish the guilty in frauds revealed by the senate investigations, his assertion that he regarded "as final" the refusal of the country to enter the league of nations, and his declaration for economy in government, brought expressions of approval.

The departure of the presidential party was witnessed by thousands who stood for more than an hour in a light spring drizzle to watch Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge enter their car, escorted by a dozen motorcycle police, the motor sped across West Thirty-third street the station between lines of pedestrians and automobiles.

The great concourse in the station was crowded as the president and his wife walked to the stairway leading to their train. Mr. Coolidge doffed his hat to the cheerers, and Mrs. Coolidge bowed. They went directly into their car and fifteen minutes later the train pulled out.

The address was the main feature of the president's flying visit to New York. Accompanied only by Mrs Coolidge and Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, he arrived shortly before 6 o'clock this morning, remaining aboard his train until 9 o'clock when he motored to the Waldorf-Astoria.

Breakfasting in the presidential suite with a party of friends, Mr. Coolidge remained in seclusion until the luncheon hour—one o'clock—seeing only a few persons. Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, took a brief motor drive through Central Park in the afternoon.

When he had completed his address the president went directly to his suite and ten minutes later was returning to the Pennsylvania station. His train left for Washington at 3.32 p. m.

The presidential breakfast party, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, included William M. Butler, manager of the Coolidge campaign, Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman from New York; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Michael Friedsam, a New York business man; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns.

Among those who visited the president's suite during the morning were Frank A. Munsey, George Harvey, and John T. Adams, chairman of the republican ational committee.

Mr. Coolidge was formally greeted on behalf of the Associated Press by a committee comprising Frank B. Noyes, president and director; Melville H. Stone, counselor, and Adolph S. Ochs, director and publisher of the New York Times, and at one o'clock was escorted into the grand ball room.

FUNERAL OF JUDGE JAMES HENRY WEBB

Hamden, Conn., April 22—In the little church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, almost within shadow of the Sleeping Giant, a distinguished gathering of citizens today paid their last tribute of respect to the mortal body of Judge James Henry Webb, jurist, citizen and gentleman. The solemn high mass of requiem was pontificated by the Rt. Rev. Bishop John J. Nilan of the diocese while many priests assisted in the service either in the altar or in giving the responses. The courts of the state were represented by many of the judges, the New Haven County and the State Bar was represented by delegations, and the town in which Judge Webb had spent most of his life sent a large number of its best known residents.

The service for the family was held at the judges' late home before the body was taken to the church. The floral tributes were many and of striking beauty. Many of these were taken to the cemetery in the village and placed on the grave.

The honorary bearers represented the courts, the bar and the town. Former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb and Mayor David E. Fitzgerald being among the number.

The eulogy was given by Rev. Francis May, pastor of the church, who spoke of the Resurrection, and of the life of Judge Webb and of the sincerity of his belief. He also touched upon the liberality of thought and tolerance of other creeds of Judge Webb and of his own positive faith in his own church.

The Gregorian mass was sung by the choir with the addition of hymns which were liked by the deceased, such as "Abide With Me," and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Former Governor Simeon E. Baldwin was unable to attend owing to the weather conditions.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED AGAINST ROTHSTEIN

New York, April 22.—Two indictments returned today before Federal Judge Winslow named Arnold Rothstein, race track follower, a defendant in connection with the bankruptcy of E. M. Fuller and company, stock brokers. In the first indictment Rothstein was charged with being an accomplice in the concealment of Edward M. Fuller's high priced automobile from the trustee in bankruptcy; in the second he was accused of perjury and attempting to defeat the federal income tax law.

Judge Winslow fixed Rothstein's bail at $10,000 and released him pending completion of arrangements to furnish the bond.

Fuller's car, the government contends, was the property of the bankrupt estate and Rothstein was aware of this fact when he subsequently sold it. Fuller was named co-defendant in the automobile indictment.

The perjury indictment was based on the charge that Rothstein swore his annual net income was $7,257.29, whereas the government claims it exceeded $45,949.82.

Japanese Regret Exclusion.

Kyoto, Japan, April 22 (By the A. P.)—The Federation of the Chambers of Commerce of Japan, at their annual meeting today passed resolutions regretting the passage by the American congress of the Japanese exclusion bill and the proposal to make effective Article 25 of the American merchant marine act, which it is alleged would disturb international trade relations.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The day in Washington.

Vice Chairman Plummer of the shipping board occupied the stand in the house investigation of the board.

The senate devoted the day to debate on the soldier bonus bill but failed to reach a vote, on the measure.

A bill to carry out work recommended by the special advisory commission on reclammation was introduced in the house.

The department of agriculture announced it would take full charge of the foot and mouth disease situation in California.

A department of justice explanation of how seized liquor disappeared through "petty graft" was placed before the Daugherty committee.

An attack on the packers consent decree was made in the District of Columbia court of appeals by the California co-operate canneries.

Advocates of a modification of the Volstead act offered medical testimony in favor of 2.75 per cent beer in the hearing before the house judiciary committee.

Democratic members of the senate finance committee submitted a minority report on the revenue bill attacking the Mellon rates and other features of the majority report.

HOUSE COMMITTEE HEARS PLEAS FOR RETURN OF BEER

Washington, April 23.—Proponents or 2.75 per cent beer today continued their advocacy before the house judiciary committee of modification of the Volstead act to legalize a beverage of that alcoholic content.

Representatives of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment coupled their testimony with that of the Rev. Roland W. Sawyer, a Congregational minister of Ware, Mass., in an exhaustive resume of undesirable conditions which they said resulted from the alleged inability to enforce the prohibition laws.

Grandmothers' pumpkin pie was brought under the suspicion by Dr. J. C. Vorbeck, of St. Louis, who testified the sugar, water and yeast in this delicacy might produce a "heavier kick" than permitted under the one-half of one per cent standard, which he declared should be raised to 2.75 per cent.

"The divine law of fermentation," Charles A. Windle of Chicago, representing the Illinois division of the association said, has given grape growers $1,600,000,000 since the "Volstead era" began. He urged modification of the act to legalize beer and light wines.

Reverend Mr. Sawyer, who is a member of the Massachusetts legislature, said the "jolly and jovial exhileration of the old days" has departed and left an undesirable substitute in its place. He charged those who were responsible for the Volstead act with not keeping faith with those who voted for the eighteenth amendment. Those who wanted the amendment, he asserted, did not contemplate such rigid enforcement as the amendment provides.

"You have sought to make a crime" he declared "of what is not a moral wrong and that which common sense and conscienceness does not believe a moral wrong."

In countries where both "hard and soft" liquors were sold he contended that drinking of "soft" intoxicants had acted as a check upon the "hard." Conditions, he asserted, are growing worse and something must be done.

"It is about time," he said, "that the great mass of common people who have no desire to put over some fanatical idea got together and passed a sane law."

The committee deferred further hearings until April 30.

BRISK RALLIES CONTINUE IN FOREIGN CURRENCIES

New York, April 22.—British, French and Belgian currencies today achived new high levels for the year on brisk rallies which followed reopening of the European markets after the Easter holidays. With the advance of more than 2 points, sterling ran up to $4.39 7-8, closing at the top, while French francs touched 6.80 cents before falling back at the close to 6.78 cents, a net gain of 44 points for the day. Belgian francs kept pace with the French, jumping 40 points to 6.74 cents. Japanese yen, however, broke 50 points, dropping below 40 cents to a new 1924 low mark.

Removal of minor obstacles to the success of the Dawes plan stimulated buying of the allied exchanges, which also profited by the release of orders accumulated over the holidays.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Rosalind R. Beazley.

Berea, Ky., April 22.—Mrs. Rosalind R. Beazley, author of "the Virginia Rose," and other books died today here from paralysis. She was a relative of the late President Harding, their mothers being first cousins.

Rev. John R. Nelson.

Memphis, Tenn., April 22. — Rev. John R. Nelson, 82, presiding elder of the Memphis district, of the Methodist Episcopal church south, died late today. He had been ill several weeks.

The actions of a phonograph make a lot of unnecessary talk.

Final Vote on Bonus Bill in Senate Today

Stormy Session Yesterday as "Die Hards" Attacked the Pending Insurance Bill.

Washington, April 22.—A gale of oratory swept the soldier bonus bill throughout a stormy session of the senate today and was not checked until adjournment when agreement was reached to limit debate tomorrow so that a final vote on the measure could be taken early in the afternoon.

Howeve while proponents of the cash option amendment and the "die-hard" opponents of any bonus unloosed an attack on the pending insurance bill, advocates of this measure conducted a poll which they said showed it would be passed tomorrow, without the cash amendment.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, picturing scenes of distress in the farm areas and the growth of public indebtedness sounded the opening attack on the bonus and declared, "it is time to take stock and turn the corner." He, like Senators Fernald, republican, Maine, and Bruce, democrat, Maryland, who also spoke against the bonus, prefaced their remarks with the assertion they expected the pending bill to be passed.

Likewise, most of the democratic speakers of the day, although declaring in favor of the cash option amendment proposed yesterday by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, said they expected to vote for the straight insurance bill and attempt if it became law to amend it later to include the cash option. Such a policy was advanced yesterday by the democratic leaders but Senator Copeland, offered the amendment regardless.

Between speeches, senators constantly sought permission to insert in the record messages from American Legion posts of their states requesting that support be given the pending straight insurance bill. Senator Borah warned that even as a political proposition the passage of a bonus bill was questionable policy. "While we here may be reluctant to admit it," he continued, "party lines have fallen in the regard of the people. Principles on which we base our party contentions I am convinced are beneath the ideals and reasoning of the average voter."

Referring to the recent senate investigations, Mr. Borah declared Washington stands out as a city "conspicuous in crime and contempt."

"However, this situation calls for something more than the cancellation of a few contracts," he said. "It calls for more than the punishment of a few individuals. Extravagance is but a spot on the growth of corruption. They are both plants of the same dutch soil.

"It matters little to the taxpayers whether they are exploited through individual corruption or through disregard of the sane and sound laws of economy upon which depend their happiness and the perpetuity of their institutions."

EXCLUSION BILL BEFORE THE JAPANESE CABINET

Tokio, April 23.—The cabinet which met today to discuss action to be taken by the American congress in passing the Japanese exclusion bill, received a lengthy report from Foreign Minister Matsui. It "improved of Matsui's manner of handling the problem and Ambassador Hanihara's second letter to Secretary Hughes.

Members of the Kenkyukai, the majority party in the house of peers, at a meeting this afternoon resolved to call on Matsui for an explanation of the exclusion questions.

The municipal commercial hall was filled to overflowing today for a meeting held under the auspices of the newspaper Kokumin, at which leading nationalist publicists attacked the action of the American congress in passing the exclusion measure.

KINSELLA AND SPELLACY ENDORSED AS DELEGATES

Hartford, April 23.—Mayor Richard J. Kinsella, of this city and Mrs. John J. Kennedy of West Hartford, were endorsed as candidates for delegates from the first congressional district, and Thomas J. Spellacy, of this city, as a candidate at large to the democratic national convention, at a meeting of the Hartford delegation to the democratic state convention held tonight at the Heublein hotel. Sentiment for the nomination of Governor Smith, of New York for president overwhelmingly predominated, but neither Mayor Winsella or Mr. Spellacy, who were present, committed himself.

The endorsement of Kinsella and Spellacy was unanimous. All but three of the forty-one delegates were present, and thirty-one of them voted to support Mrs. Kennedy for district delegate, as against State Central Committeeman Edward G. Dolan of Manchester.

Strassburger Has Big Lead on Pinchot

Early Returns Indicate an Overwhelming Defeat For Pinchot and "Dry" Issue.

Philadelphia, April 23.—Early returns from the state-wide primary in Pennsylvania today showed Ralph Beaver Strassburger, of Morristown, leading Governor Gifford Pinchot for delegate at large to the republican national convention.

Returns from 2,446 districts out of 8119 in the state gave Strassburger 217,729 and Pinchot 72,596. These figures included returns from 850 districts in the city of Philadelphia. Mainly districts regarded as organization strongholds.

COOLIDGE TO THE FRONT IN NEW JERSEY PRIMARY

Newark, N. J., April 22.—Two hours after the polls had closed in New Jersey's primaries to elect delegates to the republican and democratic conventions and express presidential preference, 57 of 2,514 election districts in the state reported a republican preferential vote of 3,364 for Coolidge and 241 for Johnson.

In some districts the name of Governor Al Smith of New York was being written in the democratic ballot in place of Governor George S. Silzer, whose name was the only one printed on the ballot for the democratic presidential nomination.

Returns from 295 of the 2514 election districts gave Edge a lead of 214 votes over Frelinghuysen for Coolidge delegate at large, the Frelinghuysen strength of the rural counties being drawn by Essex and Camden counties in which the cities of Newark and Camden are located.

DELAWARE DELEGATES INSTRUCTED FOR COOLIDGE

Dover, Del., April 22.—The republican state convention today upset all caucus slates in naming delegates to the national convention. The delegates are all favorable to General T. C. DuPont as national committeeman, and the platform adopted called for the nomination of President Coolidge.

The delegates chosen are: General DuPont, Wilmington; Mrs. Julia H. Ashbrook, Wilmington, and former Governor John G. Townsend, Jr., of Selbyville, for delegate at large.

Mrs. Ashbrook, earlier was decisively defeated in the Wilmington caucus for national delegate, but in open convention she defeated Dr. Samuel G. Elbert, negro, of Wilmington, for delegate at large by a vote of 34 to 36. Dr. Elbert was the choice of the Wilmington caucus for national delegate.

CONSIDERING OFFICIALS FOR REP. NATIONAL CONVENTION

Washington, April 22.—President Coolidge, as the result of conferences during his visit today to New York, is expected before the end of the week to indicate his preferences with regard to the temporary and permanent chairmanships of the republican national convention.

The republican national committee's sub-committee on arrangements for the convention will meet in Cleveland next Wednesday and its members have indicated a desire to obtain an expression of view from the president on the chairmanships prior to their session. Mr. Coolidge today before delivery of his address at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press went over the matter with several of his political advisers and gave the subject additional thought during the return trip to Washington.

Conferences bearing on the selection of presiding officers for the Cleveland convention were held by the president with William M. Butler, the manager of his campaign; John T. Adams, chairman of the republican national committee; Charles D. Hilles republican national committeeman from New York; George Harvey, Frank W. Stearns, of the Coolidge campaign directorate, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who long has been prominent in republican politics. Efforts were made to get in touch with Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican national committee during the last campaign, but he was out of the city.

JUMPED FROM CENTER SPAN BROOKLYN BRIDGE

New York, April 22.—Joseph Burke, who leaped from the center span of Brooklyn bridge into the East river today because, he said, he was out of work and down to "his last five cents," suffered only internal injuries and is expected to recover.

JURY DECLARES HARRY K. THAW SANE

Philadelphia, April 23.—Harry K. Thaw was declared sane tonight by the jury that had been hearing testimony to determine his mental condition.

The jury declared him fully capable of looking after his estate.

The jury deliberated seven hours, and the verdict was reached when some of those waiting in the court room had about abandoned hope that an agreement would be arrived at.

William A. Gray, counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, said that a motion probably would be filed for a retrial of the case.

Thaw was not in court when the verdict was announced.

Only a fair sized crowd was in the court room when the jury, led by Joseph Plunkett, the aged foreman filed in with its verdict. Judge Monaghan had warned the spectators against any demonstration and the spectators received the verdict in silence. Thaw's friends, however, showed elation over his winning his freedom after having been confined in the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases in West Philadelphia for seven years.

Attorney Gray later announced definitely that he would file a motion for a new trial. Pending action on this motion, which probably will be made within four days, Thaw will remain in the asylum in custody of the court.

Thaw was committed to the institution after he had been indicted in New York for an alleged whipping of Frederick Gump, Jr., a high school boy, New York police were searching for him when he was found in a West Philadelphia apartment house with his throat cut. His family intervened to have him declared insane by a Philadelphia court in which they were successful and he was committed to the asylum despite the efforts of the New York authorities to extradite him.

Thaw received the news at the Ritz-Carlton hotel where he had taken dinner with his mother. He declined to receive newspaper men, but said he might have a statement later regarding his plans for the future.

Thaw said he felt confident that Mr. Gray's motion would be denied, but that he could make no definite plans until the case finally had been decided. Should the court grant the motion for a new trial he would be compelled to remain in the asylum until his mental condition is determined by another jury.

Thaw has been confined in the Pennsylvania institution since May, 1917, except for occasional vacations of short periods to visit his mother in Pittsburgh.

DEMOCRATS IN THE SENATE TO CONTEST REVENUE BILL

Minority Report of the Finance Committee Has Been Filed by Senator James—Will Demand the Simmons Income Tax Schedule in Place of the Mellon Rates and Modification of the Forms of Corporation and Estate Taxes—Democrats Also Will Contend For Opening of Tax Dispute Hearings to the Public.

Washington, April 22—A four-fold attack on the revenue bill sent to the senate by the finance committee was outlined today in the minority report of the committee filed by Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico.

The democrats, the report showed will demand the Simmons income tax schedule in place of the Mellon rates, modification of the forms of corporation and estate taxes and opening of tax dispute hearings to the public.

The report characterized the committee bill as "fundamentally defective and unscientific," and directed a particular assault on the Mellon income tax rates reinserted in the measure in lieu of the Longworth compromise schedule adopted by the house.

Reviewing the recent history of federal taxation, the report claimed democratic attempts to curtail the high war taxes were frustrated by the republican majority, while when a revision of taxes was ordered in the revenue act of 1921, "the democratic minority urged greater reductions downward, particularly in the normal tax."

In proposing the income tax plan of Senator Simmons, North Caorlina, ranking democrat on the committee, calling for higher surtaxes and lower rates than provided in the Mellon schedule, the minority disclaimed any purpose "to soak the rich," adding it "profoundly believes that invisible wealth, the prosperous, and those with real ability to pay should bear a greater share of the burdens of the government."

The Simmons plan calls for a maximum surtax of 40 per cent. applicable on incomes of $500,000. The Mellon maximum surtax would be 25 per cent. on incomes of $100,000 and over; whereas the present law calls for a maximum surtax of 50 per cent. incomes of $200,000 and over.

Considerable support is anticipated for the Simmons plan from republican insurgents, while Senator Jones, author of the report predicted it would be backed by all but two or three of the democratic senators.

Referring to the reductions made in the excise tax the report declared all changes were made by the majority members while the minority does not deem it necessary to take any other position in this brief report than one of general policy of disapproval of all special excise taxes originally imposed for raising war revenue."

As regards the estate tax, the democrats declared in favor of an inheritance tax, thus shifting the tax from the estate itself before distribution to a direct tax on the beneficiaries, after deducting all estate and inheritance taxes imposed by states.

"This plan," the report said, "would carry into this field of taxation the principle of a graduated tax in accordance with ability to pay. While under the present law the rate of taxation is the same whether there be one or many beneficiaries. This is unjust."

Declaring the flat tax of 14 per cent. on corporation incomes "unjust and inequitable," the report declared this "wholly ignores the principle of a graduated tax in proportion to real ability to pay." The report did not indicate whether a graduated tax would be proposed on the floor, merely pointing out that such a proposal was defeated by the majority members in committee.

In connection with the corporation tax in the bill as reported, it was declared that corporations by purchase of federal bonds, $18,000,000,000 of which now are outstanding, could escape entirely the normal tax because the bonds are exempt.

"It would seem, therefore," the report added, "that before anyone connected with the administration should denounce the issuance of tax exempt securities by states, he should first suggest such change in the law as would permit the federal government to tax federal securities in accordance with the intent of the law which authorized their issuance."

Adjudication of tax disputes in secret as at present, the report declared, "affords an opportunity for favoritism, arbitrary action, fraud and collusion." An amendment it will be proposed, it was said, providing that all disputes proceedings, records and evidence in connection therewith shall be public. The "undesirability of secret hearings is shown, according to the report, "by the fact that more than 500 employes have been discharged from the internal revenue service because of their having been guilty of one or more offenses."

Reviewing the recent history of the federal taxation, the report pointed out that while President Wilson in a special message to congress in 1919, urged tax reduction, "not until November 23, 1921, was any such action taken by the republican majority, when the revenue act of 1921 was passed."

The report assails Secretary Mellon's arguments for reductions in the maximum surtax from 50 per cent to 25 per cent, declaring "the minority proposes to reduce the present maximum surtax of 50 per cent to 35 per cent on incomes above $200,000 and to a maximum of 40 per cent on incomes above $500,000, not because of any supposed deterring effect upon large business but because we earnestly believe that all taxpayers are entitled to a substantial reduction whenever the financial condition of the government will permit."

Secretary Mellon's argument that high surtaxes are being evaded by investment in tax-exempt securities is "not considered in accordance with the facts," the report declared.

"Mr. Mellon's argument that high surtaxes withdraw capital from productive enterprise and tend to destroy the prosperity of the country," the report added, "is not convincing."

It must be born in mind that the democratic proposal on the high surtaxes reduces greatly the rates carried in the present law, and the rates carried in the democratic proposal on incomes not greater than $67,000 is much less than the proposal of the Mellon plan and above that amount they are carried on a scientific and equitable basis on the theory that the very large incomes are better able to bear the burden, and that the individual having an income of over $500,000 should pay a greater percentage of the tax than the man with $100,000.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY HARRY M. DAUGHERTY

Washington, April 22—Harry M. Daugherty in a statement issued here tonight declared that "President Harding was nominated and elected the freest man that ever stepped across the threshold of the white house."

"All the cheap, sensational talk by a partisan committee and others in regard to the manner in which President Harding was nominated and elected is false," the former attorney general declared. "There was no oil discussion at the convention or during the Harding campaign. No promises were made by him to any man, nod did I make any promises for him and nobody else was authorized to make any promises, and if they were made they never came to our ears."

The assertion with reference to the late president was made in the course of a defense of his position in connection with the senatorial investigations, and he touched explicitly upon a number of subjects to which witnesses have alluded in the hearings of recent weeks.

"The accomplishments of the department of justice," he declared, "will be one of the great issues upon which the republican party will win the next election. That is one of the reasons for the attacks that have been made upon me."

Discussing the conduct of the hearings, he charged that "no opportunity had been afforded to cross examine the star witnesses," and he added that "no opportunity will be afforded now although I have statements and affidavits from those who were procured as witnesses testifying to falsehood, asserting that words were put into their mouths and that they were corruptly influenced to tell untruthful stories of a character injurious to me."

30,000 UNION WORKERS ON STRIKE IN HAVANA

Havana, April 22—(By the A. P.)—Thirty thousand union workers, including 23,000 cigar and cigarette makers, were idle in Havana today. They are supporting the striking dock workers.

Street car men and taxi and bus drivers have abandoned their posts and joined the strikers. Nails, tacks and broken glass on the streets made the driving of private automobiles hazardous.

No ice was delivered; no newspapers were published except the three English language papers, the drivers of the brewery wagons quit, and few men were willing to deliver gasoline to the filling stations, and thereby both beer and gasoline went up in price.

The union leaders predicted that by tomorrow the garbage men and street cleaners would be out and that the railroad workers would refuse to handle freight. Only a few street cars were operated today, and these for the purpose of carrying policemen to their beats.

The government yesterday had the police protecting nearly one hundred carts which were hauling freight to the wharves, and today ordered one hundred convicts under soldier guard to handle freight on the docks. President Tayas conferred again with the leaders of hte two sides in tha dock strike.

The question at issue hangs largely on recognition of the union and of its rules and regulations as to handling cargoes.

SIR RICHARD SQUIRES CHARGED WITH LARCENY

NORWICH BULLETIN

The street committee of the common council held an adjourned meeting this week to make a decision on awarding the contract for the construction of concrete sidewalks in the city during the present year.

David P. Ahern who held the contract last year was successful in securing the contract this year, he being the choice above two other bidders, Merrill H. Jones and Samuel Porcaro. The figures of all three were carefully gone over by Aldermen George W. Hickey, William A. Buck and Charles H. Beebe of the committee. Ahern and Jones were nearly neck-and-neck on the bidding, the former having bid one cent more than Jones on the matter of sidewalk construction property, and five cents less than Jones on resetting curbing. For laying new concrete curbing the figures were the same. Following are the figures:

David P. Ahern: Sidewalk [illegible] square foot, 27 cents; resetting curbing, per lineal foot, 30 cents, new concrete curbing, per lineal foot $1.80 combination curbing $1.10 a foot: concrete gutters, per square foot, 35 cents.

Merrill H. Jones: Sidewalk per square foot, 26 cents; resetting curbing, per lineal foot, 35 cents; new concrete curbing, per lineal foot, $1.80; combination curbing per lineal foot, $1.10; concrete gutters, per square foot 35 cents.

Samual Porcaro: Sidewalk per square foot, 35 cents; resetting curbing per lineal foot, 45 cents; new concrete curbing per lineal foot $2; combination curbing per lineal foot, $1; concrete gutters per square foot, 35 cents.

Mrs. William Hassig was discharged late Monday from the Litchfield county hospital at Winsted where she has been for the past six weeks as a result of being struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Josephine Marino, of Coventry, now serving a sentence of four months in the Tolland county jail for violation of the liquor law.

Following a short lull during Holy Week in activities at Wood's, the tourneys were resumed this week. Amos Barber was again defeated by John Kroog. The score was 75 to 44. The loser made the high run of the encounter, ten balls.

Boys' Week was the subject of a lengthy discussion at the weekly session of the Willimantic Rotary club, Tuesday noon. The attendance of members was large. President Harry W. Standish presided. Professor Richard E. Dodge, of Storrs, general chairman of the boys' work committee read an outline of the programme to a receptive audience. The week starts Sunday next and concludes with three days of activity, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. On the last mentioned day a programme of sports will be carried out at Recreation Park for the boys. Preparations for the week are progressing stedily as evidenced by the reports of the various sub-committees.

It was announced that the local lodge of Elks had appointed a committee of six to co-operate with the club in assisting to make and carry out the plan for boys' week. It is expected that other organizations in the city will take similar steps within a few days. Considerable emphasis was laid on the fact that although the Rotary club was sponsoring the movement here for Boys' Week and was concentrating every effort toward making it a success, this did not prevent receiving the full support of all organizations and every resident of the city. The programme in detail will be announced later. Leroy A. Dissinger physical director at the local Y will have charge of the sports and games at Recreation Park on the final day of the event.

Thursday evening at 6.30 a banquet for the employed boys, eighteen years of age or under will be held, probably in the Chamber of Commerce parlors.

The club voted to stand the expense of providing milk for the children at the Windham Street Model school during May.

A vote of congratulations was tendered James F. Bath on the observance of his twenty-fourth wedding anniversary.

James F. Mustard will attend the international convention at Toronto, as the delegate of the club and his expenses will be met with funds from the club treasury.

Adjournment was taken at 1.30 o'clock.

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Sparks King were held at 10.30 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Willington Hill cemetery. Prayer was offered by Rev. Leonard Smith. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

Irving W. Hammond, 69, who died at his home in Hampton Monday night was born in that town August 7, 1854, a son of Alfred and Cynthia Storer Hammond. He leaves a son, John, of Clark's Corner; a daughter, Marian, of Hampton, six nephews, Charles Hammond of Springfield, Harry Fuller of Boston and George Fuller of Norwich, Alfred Fuller of Abington, M. Fuller of Talledega, Ala., and Ray Fuller of Hampton, also three nieces, Mrs. George L. Ingalls of Norwich, Mrs. Dwight Lewis of New Haven and Mrs. Priscilla Snow of Rochester, N. Y.

The criminal session of the April term of the Windham county superior court, which adjourned Thursday of last week, will be resumed this (Wednesday) forenoon in this city, at 11 o'clock, Judge John P. Kellogg on the bench.

One case of local interest listed for the session is that of William K. Horton, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Horton is now a resident of Providence, R. I. Witnesses in the case have been summoned to appear in court today.

At a supper to be given at Windham Center church a programme of entertainment is to be furnished by the younger members of the force of the Windham National bank. The programme will include vocal solos, duets, and quartet numbers, saxaphone solos and readings. The officers of the society are in charge of the supper.

In the police court Tuesday morning, Thomas Pageau, charged with intoxication, pleaded guilty. Pageau was arrested Monday night on Main street after he had been warned to go home by an officer. Deputy Judge Dean imposed a fine of $10 and costs amounting to $18.15, which was paid.

Commander A. P. Benner, Vice Commander Timothy Gillen, Officer of the Day Adam Dantz and Adjutant James Haggerty of Francis S. Long post, G. A. R., are to attend the annual state encampment of the G. A. R. at Waterbury Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Some three hundred and twenty-five fishing licenses have been issued up to the present time at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, to residents of the town of Windham. Thirty-five others have been granted to non-residents and about an equal number to alien applicants. It thereby appears that the sport of fishing is popular in this section and reports have come in that the anglers have met with considerable success.

After a programme in the gymnasium and swimming pool, Saturday morning, members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. plan to hold an indoor picnic at noon and will then participate in a hike to the pumping station at Mansfield. They will be in charge of Physical Director Dissinger.

Continuous lightning and rumbling thunder with a heavy downpour of rain awakened many local residents between 5 and 7.30 o'clock Tuesday morning. No damage has been reported to property but the back country roads are said to be practically impassable, some sections having been washed out.

When the Sachem club is held by the class of 1926 of Windham High school in the school gymnasium on Friday evening the programme will include dancing, specialty numbers and refreshments.

Among the Norwich residents who attended the Easter Monday ball here Monday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chivers and Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kwasnick, who were married at the Elks' County Fair three years ago, were remarried Monday afternoon at five o'clock at St. Joseph's church by Rev. John E. Clark. The attendants were Miss Bridget Dumaub and Edward Alibozek. Following the ceremony they returned to the home of the bride's parents at 620 Jackson street, where a supper was served to relatives and other guests.

A number who attended the K. of C. ball Monday evening were attracted to a closed automobile parked under a light on Lebanon avenue near the hall. Plainly visible through the glass doors was a beautiful painting entitled "Love," which was propped in a corner of the rear seat of the machine.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Fournier of Summit street for the Easter Monday ball were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Melbert of Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Faucher of North Grosvenordale, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy, Mrs. Clara Nabeau, Mr. and Mrs. Frank German, Mr. and Mrs. George Nehault and Miss Nellie Sullivan of Danielson.

James Nealy and family, of South street recently entertained Miss Evelyn Pretzner and William Nagle, of Hartford.

COLUMBIA

The pupils of Miss Marion Holmes, at the Center school, held a very interesting speaking and spelling contest Thursday afternoon. Mrs. H. W. Porter, Mrs. Alonzo Little and Mrs. Howard A. Rice, judges of the contest, declared that Miss Barbara Whitney was entitled to first honors in both speaking and spelling, Frederick Bertsch second in speaking and Frederick Hunt second in spelling.

Mrs. Willard Clarke who has passed the winter with members of her family living in New Haven and recently arrived at her home on the green, Friday morning.

Miss Ruby E. Williams of Lebanon, formerly teacher at the school on Chestnut Hill, has been the guest of Mrs. Kate Wolff during the past week.

John Mitchell and Clinton Loveland of Hartford, former residents of Columbia, were in town during the past week, visiting friends and relatives.

The lawn in front of the residence of Mrs. Luis McCorkie, on the green, which has been covered with a large amount of rubbish and dead grass during the spring, was burned off Saturday.

The first ball game of the season on Columbia Green was played Saturday afternoon between teams from the Pine street and West street schools. The West street team was evidently out of practice as it was overwhelmingly defeated by Pine street. In the absence of a competent umpire, Mr. Cummings, the Pine street teacher, filled the position with ability and fairness to all.

The elms on the green have had many dead limbs this season, which were dangerous in the heavy rains that have been numerous lately, so they were trimmed by linemen Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cummings has purchased another horse, owing to the death of her former horse, following an accident last week on the trip from her home to the Pine street school.

Sunday, Mrs. Lester Hurlbut, sister of A. E. Lyman and Mrs. Hubert P. Collins, was reported to be slightly improved, although still in a precarious condition.

Mrs. Edith Little, daughter of Mrs. Willard Clarke and Miss Lenore Little, are expecting to take a trip to Europe shortly.

Mrs. Mortimer Dowd and her sister, Miss Haywood of Hartford were in town last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter, for a short time.

The addition of two bay windows on the Pine street frontage of the store of Clinton Lewis, has been completed, furnishing much additional floor space and cozy corners.

Miss Esther Kemp of Brooklyn, N. Y., also Miss Perkins, have arrived for a vacation at the home of Mrs. R. G. Proctor, near the green.

Easter Sunday morning Mrs. J. N. Clarke also Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Hitchcock, went to Willimantic with Raymond Clarke and attended very impressive services at St. Paul's Episcopal church, where they are canonically connected.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collins, Cleveland, and Miss Lura Collins spent the week-endw at the home of Mrs. Warren Collins, at the Center.

The Easter services Sunday morning at the Columbia Congregational church were well attended, many visitors being present. During the services an Easter anthem was sung, the solo parts being finely carried by Miss Beatrice Collins.

The following persons were admitted to membership in the church, William Vanesse, Howard Squier, Clarence Carpenter, Eraine Neupbir, Margaret Blakeley, Donald Woodward and Barbara Whitney. The Resurrection of Christ was the subject of the pastor's sermon, the different accounts of which in the gospels were read by him. At the invitation of the Andover Christian Endeavor society the Columbia Christian Endeavor society members visited them on Sunday evening, when an Easter cantata was finely given.

The Hebron Christian Endeavor society members are to be the guests of the Columbia Christian Endeavor society Friday evening at Yeoman's hall.

SOUTH COVENTRY

Miss Doris Daniels and Miss Mary Koval spent the week end in South Manchester, guests of Miss Koval's aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Kingsbury was called to Boston last week by the death of the former's aunt.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brickmore are recovering from chickenpox.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron E. Dunham and Miss Julia Colman arrived home last week after spending five months in Winter Haven, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Huffer have moved to the house which they recently rented from Judge Eugene Latimer.

Mrs. Malcolm Brainerd and two children of Hartford spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tisdale.

Miss Esther Clark, a student at Pay Path institute, Springfield, Mass., and Miss Annie Clark of Flushing, N. Y., were at the home of their parents for Easter.

There was an Easter concert in the Congregational church Sunday morning with the reception of ten members. There was a cantata in the evening.

Miss Eleanor Kingsbury, who is studying music in Boston was at the home of her parents for the week end.

ANDOVER

The Grange held a very interesting meeting Monday night, in the town hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson and little daughter and Mrs. J. C. Felton were visitor Easter Sunday at the home of Mr. Thompson's parents in Springfield, Mass.

Miss Hazel Carey is boarding at Mrs. G. M. Bartlett's and commuting by train to her school in Hartford.

Miss Most was the guest of Mrs. Ralph Bous over Sunday.

Mrs. J. C. Murphy of Bristol, was with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink on Eastern.

Dorothy Jewett has returned to her home from a training school in New Jersey.

Beautiful flowers used Sunday in the Easter decorations in the church, and the evening were given to the sick and shut-ins.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Newton, their son Kent, and daughter Katheryn of Hartford were in town on Sunday and attended church.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fredericks have been spending a few days in Columbia.

Mrs. Charles Fredericks sister and the latter's children from New York, are visiting her.

L. H. Porter of the Ridges, South Coventry was in town Monday.

STAFFORD

The Parent-Teachers' association meeting was held in the grammar school hall, Tuesday evening. Miss Buckley of the extension department of Connecticut Agricultural college, lecutred on health. She illustrated her lecture with stereopticon slides. A musical program much enjoyed included vocal and instrumental selections.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Phillips and child of Longmeadow, have been guests of Mr. Phillips' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips.

The funeral of Mrs. Carl Green was held Wednesday at her home at 10 o'clock. Rev. F. W. Tholen officiated. Burial was in Stafford Street cemetery. She is survived by her husband and brother, Alva S. Brown. Mrs. Green's early home was in Columbia, where her father, Alva Brown died as did her only sister, leaving her mother and brother. Soon after this her mother moved with her two children to Westford, where they lived until they came to Stafford. Since her marriage with Carl Green she has lived in Stafford and on Stafford street. Their only child died when a few months old. For many years Mrs Green was an interested member of the Baptist church.

BOLTON

Special exercises were held in the morning services at the Congregational church. The following pupils were given Bibles and New Testaments for good attendance at Sunday school since the first of January: Catherine Lee, Evelyn Lee, Winifred Lee, Edna Massey, Ruth Lee, Edna Lee, Hattie Lee, Ruth Finley and Junior Jones.

Lawrence Rose and Elizabeth Rose are in Baltimore, Md., where they went to attend the wedding of their brother, Roger Rose, and Miss Cora Steele on the 21st.

Bolton schools were closed Fast day.

School Supervisor W. G. Dakin of West Hartford and the school nurse, Miss Margaret H. Danehy, visited the Bolton schools last week.

Prof. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord of Hartford have come to their Bolton home, "Alvord Acres," for the summer. Morgan Alvord of Yale university spent last week with his parents, Prof. and Mrs. Alvord.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loomis and son, Robert Jr., of Westfield, Mass., visited the former's mother, Mrs. William H. Loomis, the first of the week.

BETTER WIVES AND MOTHERS

The emancipation of women as evidenced by the evolution in dress from steel stays that made a twenty inch waist and the long street sweeping skirts to the sports clothes of the present day has certainly had its effect upon the health of women. With proper attention to diet and exercise a race of better wives and mothers is assured by it. However, ailments develop as evidenced by irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness and irritability. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to overcome them. Thousands of women testify to its success.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

According to arrangements Tuesday, the work of excavating for the installation of a high pressure gas main between Danielson and Putnam will start here tomorrow (Thursday) morning. This work will begin at the gas plant of the People's Light and Power company here and will proceed northward over a route of nearly ten miles to Putnam, following the state highway for the greater part of the distance between this place and Dayville, thence northward by Alexander's lake, to a point near White's crossing in Putnam and past the grounds of the Putnam Country club, to the gas station of the Putnam Light and Power company.

The main to be put in is a 4-inch type, the pipe lengths to be welded to insure against leakage. Modern excavating devices will be used in the work of making the rather shallow trench in which the pipe is to be put ready and it is possible that the line will be finished in from eight to ten weeks.

When the new high pressure line is in service the gas plant here is to be abandoned, in so far as gas-making activities are concerned. Both the Danielson and the Putnam light and power companies are owned by the Eastern Connecticut Power company with headquarters in Norwich. Last year a great new gas container was erected in Putnam. Its storage capacity and the gas-making facilities in that city are ample to meet the requirements of both Danielson and Putnam, so the installation of the new high pressure line will represent an ultimate economy in supplying gas to both communities.

Incidentally, Dayville and Elmville will get gas service for the first time in the history of these places, and there is already ample evidence that it will be appreciated.

The gas station to be abandoned here, excepting for emergencies and for storage purposes, has supplied gas to Danielson for between 35 and 40 years. Electricity formerly was generated there, but the coming into being of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company, which was affiliated with the People's Light and Power company of this place, both now owned by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, resulted in generating electricity from a plant in Plainfield, also now closed under the more recent consolidation program.

The new gas main between Putnam and Danielson will give Danielson an improved gas service. The gas will be forced through under pressure, the equipment to be installed being the most modern that has been devised.

Woof! Woof! Woof! Another strange animal is reported in nearby territory. This certainly is getting to be a fearsome season! Five trout fishermen, Danielson residents, en route from Brooklyn to Canterbury Green, tell of having seen, just as day was breaking, some faunal curiosity not hitherto reported in this neck o' woods.

The animal, they relate, crossed the road about 75 feet ahead of the automobile in which they were riding. Three of the party saw the thing distinctly. This they vouch for themselves. The two other men in the party were not in the range of vision.

This animal is said to have the body of a red fox and a large black head resembling that of a raccoon. The strangest thing about this animal was its walk. It walked erect on its hind legs as it crossed the road and dropped on all fours as it reached the edge of the woods, at this time making a peculiar noise somewhat like the quack of a duck. The estimated weight of the animal was 50 pounds.

There's the story as one of the fishermen told it. If things like that are to be seen in this territory on a one-half of one per cent. diet, there is not another remaining reason for wishing for the "good old days."

Taxpayers who make much ado about how town meetings appropriate money, should be at the town hall Thursday evening to have their say about three different propositions involving expenditures that will come up for consideration at the special town meeting.

These matters are all important enough to command the attention of any taxpayer. They involve a program of spending money for auditing the books of the town over a period of five years past, for improving Broad street its entire length and for the acceptance of a street building program in the Dennison street area, in the rear of the Broad street properties of E. B. Wilbur and Nelson Gauthier. This street, if authorized, would open up considerable property for sale as house lots.

All the electors have their say as to what shall be done about these matters. Attendance at the meeting and participation in it will leave no serious grounds for objection over what the meeting may do with any one of the projects. Killingly has heard much of the post-meeting objectors. The most effective advocacy of any measure or the strongest opposition to it really is to be made in open meeting. That's why an effort is being made to get out a large attendance Thursday evening.

Mrs. Caroline Cloutier, 56, wife of George Cloutier, is dead at their home on the West Side. Mrs. Cloutier was a native of Canada. She had been a resident of Danielson for about 40 years. Mrs. Cloutier is survived by her husband and several children.

The Catholic Woman's Welfare council has a meeting scheduled for Thursday evening of this week for the consideration of routine business. Among recent benefactions of the club are donations of $25 toward the support of the vacation house maintained during the summer period by the Catholic Welfare councils of the state of Lakeville, and $10 to a special fund of the Catholic university, at Washington.

In the town court Tuesday morning Philip Garceau, of New Haven, was fined $100 and costs for operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of an intoxicant. Garceau was arrested by a state police officer last Friday after word had been received here that he and a companion had been sitting beside the highway at South Killingly in their car for about three hours. Upon being placed under arrest, Garceau was taken to the office of a local physician and a certificate obtained to the effect that he was intoxicated at the time. Two bottles of some kind of hooch and a bottle containing tokay grape juice were taken from the car. Garceau's companion was not placed under arrest. The pair left New Haven last Friday morning at 7 o'clock and Garceau was arrested at South Killingly about 4 in the afternoon.

Miss Nellie Sullivan, who has been in California the past year, is visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Miss Dorothy Blake, of the force at the Windham County National bank is improving slowly after undergoing an operation for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

The finding of Coroner Arthur G. Bill in the inquest relative to the death of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance in Plainfield the past month is not yet complete.

Bernard Smith, who has been in the employ of M. H. Berthiaume here, is now at work in his home town of Whittinsville.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good, healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with a fishy taste, because the McCoy Laboratories, of New York, are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar-coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Lee & Osgood Co. and every druggist worthy the name sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in thirty days, or the money paid for the tablets will be refunded.

One woman put on fifteen pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet.

PUTNAM

Progress is being made toward the end of putting the big plant of the Manhasset Manufacturing company in operation again. Definite developments may be expected within the next two weeks, as the following from the current issue of a textile journal indicates:

The American Rhea Spinning Co., Providence, R. I., has been incorporated under the laws of that state with authorized capital of $500,000 preferred and 10,000 shares common stock of no par value, incorporators being W. Eccleston, R. G. Hicks and M. Briman. The company will be controlled by the Putnam Land and Mills Co., that has also been incorporated under Rhode Island laws with capital of $500,000 preferred and 1,500 shares of common stock of no par value, the incorporators being William Muir, C. Knowles and R. G. Hicks. The latter company will take over the Manhasset mills property at Putnam, Conn., recently purchased at auction by William Muir and William S. Cherry of Providence, and will lease it to the American Rhea Spinning Co., and the latter will equip the plant with special machinery for the spinning of rhea or ramie furnished under contract by the Rheabat Corp. of East Pepperel, Mass. The authorized capitalization of the Rheabat Corp organized under Massachusetts laws has been increased to $1,500,000 by the addition of 10,000 shares of preferred, the company also having 35,000 shares of common of no par value. H. G. Beede of the Fales & Jenks Machine Co., and the Woonsocket Machine Press Co., is president of the corporation and among the new directors are Edward G. Chace, treasurer of the Fort Dummer Mills, Brattleboro, Vt., and R. S. Milliken, formerly agent of the Nashua Mfg. Co., Nashua, N. H.

Booze figured predominantly, as is regularly the case, in matters that the city court had to consider Tuesday morning. Incidentally, the cases heard and the fines imposed gives the revenues of the city court for the month another fat boost, and April now looks like a record-making month in this respect.

Anna Frenczek of Mechanic street, pleaded guilty to a charge that she had made a sale of liquor and Judge M. H. Geissler imposed the standard fine of $200 and costs for such an offence, a total in this instance of $319.14.

Another charge of keeping with intent to sell, filed against Joseph Frenczek, husband of Anna, was placed on file, circumstances warranting that disposition of his case.

John Bayer, of Thompson, pleaded guilty to having been intoxicated and was fined $20 and costs. He was warned that another appearance on a like charge would result in more serious punishment.

Charles Rakusz, a man to whom Mrs. Anna Frenczek sold liquor, was fined $100 and costs, a total of $115.11, for operating a car while he was under the influence of an intoxicant. Antonio Rakusz, also charged with having been intoxicated, had his case nolled.

As a means of acquainting people with the methods employed in training boys in the methods and practices of the various trades and girls in the arts of home making, it is the policy of the state trade school to hold an annual open night at which time the public is invited to visit the various departments, noting the quality of instruction and type of work performed in the school. Tuesday the 15th this annual exhibition was held at the local trade school.

Special lighting effects were arranged from the building to the street and an illuminated sign stating the object of the school in the educational field was erected on the lawn reading —"A free public school promoting good citizenship by training in the habits of industry, free instruction to any boy or girl over 14 years of age, resident in Connecticut."

The visitors on entering the school came into the machine department where the boys under the instruction of K. J. Bogardus were busy learning the methods and procedure in machine shop practice by applying themselves to various tasks such as making machine parts, special tools, and machinery. An exhibit of finished products was shown in this department comprising small tools and special machine equipment and some jobs made for local customers.

On the same floor on the east end, the carpentry boys under the guidance of Ernest Stary were being instructed in the arts of their trade. The visitors inspected samples of work performed by the students during the past year and charts were shown outlining the educational content of a number of jobs. Many people were surprised at the amount of academic knowledge contained in some of the more or less seeming simple manual operations.

On the second floor where the textile industry is represented in charge of C. S. Blossom the boys are engaged in the making of cloth, devoting themselves to the various operations necessary in this work such as carding, drawing, roving, spinning, winding, warping and weaving. A very fine display of finished work was made in this department including samples of cloth made for local stores. Also finished garments were shown made from cloth designed and woven by the trade school students. The latest policy of this department is to emphasize the broader training in the textile work by requiring the boy to carry the cotton from the raw material through all the processes to the finished cloth. This together with the academic knowledge necessary in an analysis design, and calculation comprises the training here.

On the third floor, the east end, the drafting department under C. L. Ranson had an excellent display of academic subjects, and correlated with the various trades. An especially large number of drawings made by the boys were also shown. These drawings include mathematics, calculations, and technical knowledge and are so worked out as to be of definite value in supporting the boys' practical experience in the shops.

In the west end of the building the electrical department boys were making things hum, under the direction of James R. McCormick, by operations and experiments in the various phases of electrical work. A nice display of fixtures was here shown, these being contributed to the school for exhibition purposes by the Bates Electric shop. An interesting phase of the electrical work was re-winding of motors This has come to be a very beneficial part of the boys training. Motor re-winding is considered a special phase of electrical work but it is the aim of the school to give as full and complete training in the trade as is possible for the preservation of the entire art.

The Home Economics exhibit, in charge of Miss Hnnah Pease and Mrs. Amy Yale was fitted up with displays of work performed by the various classes in this department during the past year. This included exhibits of dressmaking, millinery, cooking, sewing, embroidery, crocheting, tatting, etc. Booths were arranged to show suitable placing of house furnishings. The furnishings were loaned by the following merchants—A. Gilman and Co., E. L. Prince & Son., Wm. St. Onge, George E. Shaw, Bugbee & Wulf, the Byrne Co., Chandler and Morse.

F. J. Trinder, state director of vocational education, was on hand to talk with old friends and to inspect the work of the school. He was pleased with the general sentiment and the service the school is rendering in the community.

The favorable weather brought out a large number. It was estimated that about 1500 people visited the exhibits.

James H. O'Brien, special police officer, will enter St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester this (Wednesday) morning as a patient for observation.

Frank Whitman is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where he has undergone an operation for appendicitis.

At St. James' church in Danielson next Monday morning Miss Rose La Boute of that place and Omer Durand of this city will be united in marriage. There will be a reception later in St. John's hall, Danielson, for the newly wedded pair.

Committee of arrangements for the state convention of Franco-American societies to be held in this city during the first week in June are now engaged with preparations for the event.

Tomorrow (Thursday) morning work will begin in Danielson on the contract of laying a high-pressure gas main between that place and this city, from which illuminating gas will be supplied to Danielson when the work is completed. The Putnam and the Danielson lighting companies are subsidiaries of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, with headquarters in Norwich.

Trees and branches weakened in storms of the past winter came toppling down in the heavy southerly gale of Tuesday afternoon. More damage has been done to trees in this territory during the past three months as the result of storms than in any period, excepting those of ice storms, in many years.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Miss Annie Shippee of Hartford, spent the week end with her parents.

The Ladies' aid society met in the vestry Thursday afternoon. The members plan to serve a salad supper.

Chepachet and Plainfield granges, neighbored with Somerset grange on Wednesday, April 16th. Each gave an excellent programme.

Miss Anna Nelson of Hartford was at home over Sunday.

Mrs. Ericson of Lakeside is at home, after spending the winter in Worcester.

Mrs. Lucina Lon who has been spending the winter with her son in Dedham, Mass., has returned home.

PLAINFIELD

Preparations have been completed for the individual swimming meet, to be held at the Community house this (Wednesday) evening. The meet is to be open to all members of the Community Association who wish to participate, events having been arranged for men, women and boys. The prizes will be awarded to the winners in each event, the prizes being on exhibition at the Plainfield market.

The last cottage service is to be held at the Congregational parsonage, this (Wednesday) evening. Roy Harstow will be the pianist, and a social hour will be enjoyed after the meeting. A large number of these cottage services have been held at different homes about the parish, and the attendance at all of them has been very large.

Elton Nolan, having spent Easter Sunday at his home here, returned Tuesday to New York, where he has a position. Theodore Peltier and Richard Provost, who are working in Stamford, also spent the week end at their homes here, returning to Stamford Tuesday afternoon.

Frank Wood spent Sunday in Worcester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Donais Genars, of Lowell, Mass., spent Sunday at the home of Adelard Lafiash, returning to their home in Lowell Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner were callers in Willimantic Sunday.

Plainfield High meets Bartlett High baseball team, of Webster, Mass., at Webster this (Wednesday) afternoon, the game being Plainfield's sixth of this season. Plainfield is out to retrieve its reputation, after the terrible blow given it by the Bulkeley High team last Saturday, when Bulkeley team won, 16-2. It is hoped that Bibeault, the regular Plainfield pitcher, will be able to resume his position on the mound for Plainfield, in today's game, after having had a lay-off of a week, due to injuries received in the game with LaSalle last week. If Bibeault is not in condition to pitch today, Belknap, the substitute pitcher will probably hurl for the local team, with Allard on the receiving end, and the rest of the team in the same positions as in last week's game.

Plans are under way for a Windham County school and Y. M. C. A. track meet to be held on the Brooklyn fair grounds, Saturday, May 10. This meet will be similar to the one held there last year, persons who are members of the Y. M. C. A., or who attend a school in the county being eligible. Plainfield hopes to send a number of its picked athletes from the high and grade schools this year, also hopes to carry off some of the honors.

SET OUT OVER 22,000 TREES IN MOHEGAN PARK

In a letter to a Connecticut paper in which he pleads that farmers give greater heed to measures of protection against the small pasture fires and urges that work in reforestation be carried on in all cases where possible, Ozias Dodge of this city describes what was done in Mohegan Park as an example of what can be done to restore the ravages of fire of other destructive causes in forest land. The work in the Norwich park was undertaken because of the destruction wrought by chestnut blight.

Mr. Dodge's letter says in part:

This park of 300 acres of natural woodland was nearly half made up of chestnut trees which eight years ago were so blighted that it was decided to cut them all down. This was done with the greatest care given other standing trees. Whenever other trees were trimmed and the dead wood removed, 735,736 board feet of lumber was cut, averaging above all operating expenses $10 per thousand, giving a total of $7,387.26.

All brush was burned or utilized on areas where the soil needed more humus. The sawdust from the sawing was made into bridle-paths through unfrequented parts of the park, which would serve the double purpose of fire lanes and bridle paths.

The fund obtained by this park's lumbering operation has been devoted to reforestation of the park. More than 22,000 trees have been set out. As there was an abundance of oak, maple, birch and other hardwood trees throughout the park, and no conifers, the trees set were largely red and white pine in the open spaces. Along the paths and at especial points of interest, arborvitae, spruce, douglas-fir, hemlock and other trees were used. On one barren area that had repeatedly been burned over a solid plantation of pine was made which will become a valuable asset to the park in years to come.

It is not necessary or expected that the private owner cutting out blighted chestnut will make a reforestation on this scale. Pure stands of chestnut were rare. The trees were usually interspersed with oak, maple and black birch and only a few open spaces would have required replanting.

However, with the usual practice of the portable saw-mill gang, the young hardwood growth mixed with the dead chestnut is slashed right and left and broken down, even trees twenty or more years of age.

No attention is paid to thinning out and leaving in good condition the thrifty young trees, that had the dead chestnut only been carefully taken out would soon have matured into timber trees.

The chestnut tops are often left without cutting out the wood, and then sooner or later fire sweeps over it and every young tree that would have amounted to something is burned around its roots and will always be an inferior tree.

We mourn over the loss of our chestnut and we blame the sawmill man and forget that the former was inevitable and the latter a necessary enterprise of development.

The farmer and the public generally do not consider the woodlot and timber as a growing crop.

They do not consider a fire which burns the leaves and underneath only as serious or know that these little fires are responsible for waste land and scrub growth. As long as it did not kill the tall trees it was thought to do little harm, when the truth of the matter is, the soil is exhausted, the young growth killed and all the trees scarred.

The state is doing splendid work with its fire warden system and it is now up to the farmer to look out for the little pasture fires. The farmer never thinks of fencing off his woodlot and keeping his cattle out of it, when they get next to nothing to eat and break down and injure the young growth. He weeds his garden and plants his crops, but he never thinks of putting in a day in his woodlot weeding out the worthless trees and adding a few good ones. A woodlot that has had intelligent treatment of this kind will yield from two to ten times as much timber in the same number of years as a wild woodlot.

Forestry is being pushed by the state vigorously, both through its chief and his staff and the Forestry association, but the private land owner of a few acres has got to do this part if we are again to have wood and timber for our own industries and use as we had a few years ago.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Devoting his address at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press chiefly to international affairs and the part which this country can play therein, President Coolidge dealt with several matters which are vitally connected with world peace. Upon these he was clear and emphatic, but he was none the less solicitous for the maintenance of American standards and the preservation of American institutions.

As if to reply to the request which was made but a few weeks ago that this country call another conference for the further limitation of armament, President Coolidge set forth that conditions were not ripe for it, but he directed attention to the fact that if there is a satisfactory settlement of the reparations question he would favor such a conference for the furtherence of the work of the Washington conference by reducing the burden of military armaments. The situation which the reparations agreement would overcome now stands in the way of reaching an understanding, but through possible changes this country can and should take a leading part in sounding other nations and bringing them together.

Quite natural was it that he should display elation over the work of the Dawes commission for that must be regarded as the outcome of the suggestion that was made by Secretary Hughes some time ago. It took a long time to get action on it but it has been put through in such a manner that the president well says that there is every reason to hope that the report offers a basis for a practical solution of the reparations problem."

As to the matter of a German loan the president advances such sound reasons as to why American [illegible] should participate therein as benefitting of our trade and consequent increased market for our agricultural products, the aiding of a humanitarian cause and responding to a duty which means the promotion of peace.

President Coolidge took occasion to send home the demand for sound business administration when he urged resistance to the most determined assaults upon the public treasury by "minority groups of one kind or another, and organizations, sometimes almost nationwide in their ramifications." At this time when the cry is coming from all parts of the country for reduction of taxation he hits hard when he says "the success of the government does not lie in wringing all the revenue it can from the people but in making their burden as light and fairly distributed as possible."

He dealt with the congressional investigations by pointing out that the war caused many of the old standards to be suspended or cast aside leaving "a trail of vicious and criminal carelessness" and "From all of this carelessness the affairs of the government suffered. In some of it a few public officers were guilty participants. But the wonder is not that this was so much or so many, rather that it has been so little and so few. The encouraging thing at present is the evidence of a well nigh complete return to normal methods of action, and a sane public opinion. The gravity of guilty of this kind is fully realized and publicly reprehended. There is an exceedingly hearty disposition to uproot it altogether, and administer punishment wherever competent evidence of guilt can be produced. That I am doing and propose to do."

It is a characteristically clear cut Coolidge address. It appears elsewhere in this issue and is worth reading.

INSANE ALIENS.

States have their troubles because of the alien insane. That there should be some benefit in this direction from the further restriction of immigration is evident, since reduced admittances will mean a corresponding reduction in the number mentally deficient.

New York has been giving much attention to this problem of the alien insane because of the expense that is involved, and well it may when it is realized that 25 per cent of its 41,000 insane are aliens, who do not belong there but who are a burden upon the state to the extent of $4,000,000 a year. Not only is it the cost of maintenance and treatment that is involved but it forces that state to undergo great expense for proper buildings to house them.

There are provisions whereby those who display insanity within a certain period can be deported, but in the opinion of Dr. Spencer L. Dawes, medical examiner of the state hospital commission of New York that, too many are being admitted who ought never to be allowed to land, and that this is due to the fact that inadequate attention is given to the mentality of the immigrants. His reference to the fact that it required 37 minutes for the examination of the baggage of one immigrant, but that he was passed by the doctors in seven seconds indicates more too much stress upon locating dutiable goods, but it also shows a lack of sufficient doctors to look into the mental condition of the aliens when they land.

It isn't a question of the relative amount of insanity among Americans and aliens. It is a question of keeping out those who are likely to be a burden. However much we may refer to the fact that we are an asylum for the oppressed it is not to be interpreted as meaning that we hold open the doors of our insane institutions for all those of other countries who can get here and who need the treatment that can be obtained therein.

The enforcement of the provisions of the immigration laws is by no means an easy job, but the weakness of the laws or the handicaps of the service should be taken into consideration when changes are being made.

THE BONUS BILL.

In connection with the coming vote in the senate on the soldiers' bonus, reference has been made to the impression which someone has gained that if the bill carrying the insurance provision is voted it will not draw a veto from the president. Just what the basis for such a belief is is not stated. It is open to the assumption that it is being used as a bait for hurrying favorable action upon the bill.

Whenever President Coolidge has given expression to his views regarding a bonus he has been emphatically against it. The bill under consideration differs somewhat from others that have been considered but it does not eliminate the fact that there are billions involved which must come out of the pockets of the taxpayers. It does not eliminate the fact that the United States treasury is to be tapped over a long term of years to pay the terms of the bill. It means an additional large federal expenditure, when the demand is for curtailment expenditures and a reduction of taxation.

The president has said that he does not favor bonus legislation. He has declared his belief that there is no sound reason for such a measure and that the payment of a bonus to millions of our former soldiers would be placing an expense upon the whole people, including the soldiers, and would far outweigh the benefits intended. Unless the president takes a decidedly different view than he has given expression to he has not been converted to a bonus bill. He hasn't said that he would veto any such measure, but that is the action that could be expected after what he has said against such legislation. The senate must be questioning the justification for its action when it fears a presidential veto.

ARIZONA'S EXPERIENCE.

Many sections of the country have experienced the effects of hoof and mouth disease. None are anxious for such an experience and none wants a repetition. It can be appreciated therefore that the people of the southwest are no more upset over the danger of having it brought into their communities than would be those of other sections under similar conditions.

The scourge is easily carried so when the authorities of Arizona undertook to prevent automobiles entering the state from California it may be appreciated that they were acting in the interest of self protection rather than with a view to causing hardships to those affected. To hold 200 travelers at one point would not prevent the bringing of the disease within the state. There was in fact no assurance that any of those held up were carrying the disease. It was a case where the tourists might be subjected to certain delay but where they were entitled to either be passed or rejected. It was therefore a happy solution that was hit upon of requiring all to be subjected to fumigation and inspection. That required time but it relieved the jam and overcame the hardships that were threatened.

When a disease that spring such great havoc and spreads so quickly is prevalent in adjoining territory, no one can blame the people of Arizona for desiring to keep it outside of its borders. Prompt and effective measures are required. Much may be done as a precautionary measure that is not required but it is far preferable that such should be done than that the disease should be introduced and get a foothold through neglecting to take immediate and adequate preventive measures. Lifting the bars in the manner it has been done for motorists maintains safeguards without seriously interfering with the great number traveling by automobile.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When thoughts are being turned to clean up efforts, why not keep it in mind to prevent getting so dirty?

An Alabama veteran has coughed up a bullet received in the battle of Vicksburg. That's hanging onto a war relic well.

It is hard to reconcile the fact that we are having thunder storms and yet the heater fires haven't been permitted to go out as yet.

Rumania is now showing a disposition to arrange for the payment of its debts. It is an inclination that deserves encouragement.

How many of the children of this country will cry for the 27,000 gallons of cod liver oil that have been sent to the German children?

The Japanese show a better temper over the loss of the "gentlemen's agreement" than Hiram Johnson has over the results of the last several primaries.

The man on the corner says: Me, they haven't established a white way on Franklin street. It's just the replacement of worn out lights with new ones.

When Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania dips into federal politics he weakens his own state organization. He should stick to coal and complete that job which rests so heavily on his state.

Still the evidence continues to pile up of the need of a deeper and wider channel in the Thames. When it is necessary to lighter cargoes destined for Norwich we are being deprived of the benefit of natural facilities through neglected attention.

The employment bureau is assured of careful and conscientious administration under the direction of the new appointee. The community has confidence in Mr. Carpenter and knows he has the qualifications to successfully meet the requirements.

INDISPUTABLE PROOF.

"Well" said the paternal grandmother with a faint trace of distance in her tones as she straightened up from coming over the crib. "She certainly is a lovely baby! I don't know when I've seen a young baby so wonderfully developed and so intelligent! Just exactly the way his father was when he was little! Why, many's the time I've had strangers stopping as I was wheeling Lester in his crib and exclaim over his forehead and eyes! And little Lester certainly looks precisely like him! The resemblance is most marked—"

"Marilla's baby looks like Lester!" inquired the maternal grandmother in helpless amazed tones. "Why, I never heard of such a thing! In the first place boy babies always take after their mother's side and anybody there never was anything so much like Marilla as that baby's chin, nose, eyes and cheeks! Why, even his smile is like hers!"

"When she was little every one always admired Marilla's smile and I am so glad little Lester has it. Marilla's mouth is so pretty and while your Lester is a fine boy you must admit that nobody would choose a mouth like his if it were to be avoided, dear Mrs. Papershell! I am sure little Lester is going to be the exact image of my sister's son Henry. Henry is a tall, handsome boy with the most striking profile and combined with Marilla's smile the effect would be irresistible. All the Orlands are tall."

"My Lester is the average height," the paternal grandmother objected with a hint of ice. "These peanuts men never carry themselves well and I am glad little Lester takes after his father. Give me a strong rugged face like Lester's every time! And if you will notice the baby's ears you can see that they are the exact copies of his father's!"

Here some petty exchanges the maternal grandmother is going to the crib and [illegible] sleeping babies heads with considerable acrimony. "I certainly would be a pity if his ears didn't grow that way! Why, they don't stick out! They are nice and close to his head, not like his mother's! Mean Marilla was a girl and wore her hair in front every one always admired her ears! They were the little pink shells of the baby! Why, he has no smell for a man but it is nice that they are shaped like Marilla's anyway! Appearance means so much to a man later on in life. He knows that he is good looking it gives him so much more confidence in himself and I have always thought your Lester deserves a lot of credit for making as much of himself as he has, not being handsome at all."

"Lester is looking very bad these days!" the maternal mother informed her with a little sniff. "He is working too hard. If these modern wives would consider their husbands' health a little more and be content with less their husbands wouldn't die quite so young. I don't like to say anything, but the very idea of Marilla getting a fur coat this year!"

I gave Marilla the money for her coat!" the maternal grandmother stated triumphantly. "My daughter always has had things and I wasn't going to see her do without just because she had married a young man who is still struggling! Why, Marilla had several splendid chances and why she didn't—"

"There was a girl crazy about Lester who had a couple of million left her," Lester's mother murmured reminiscently. "It certainly hope he never will be sorry for the indifferent way in which he treated her! She was a lovely girl and just because she didn't have a pretty face was no reason—of course I am very fond of Marilla, only it is just as well little Lester shows so plainly that he is a throwback through Papershell. All the Papershell men amount to something in the world and have aspirations beyond mere money. I am glad the baby has Lester's nose, for while of course Marilla's nose is cute on her, nobody would want a man to grow up with a cute nose. He could never be a judge or the president with such a handicap—"

"Little Lester's nose is exactly like Marilla's brothers!" declared Marilla's mother warmly. "It is no more like Lester's than—than mine is! I am sure I don't see where your eyes are! Every act and move and look of that baby is like Marilla's side of the house! It is most distinct and pronounced and—"

"His resemblance to Lester is so strong," said Lester's mother hotly, "that a blind man could—"

"Yah-h-h-! Wah! Essence-ow!" yelled little Lester shrilly waking up at this inopportune moment. "Eowwwwwwl"

"There!" both grandmothers cried simultaneously with great satisfaction. "Hear him! That proves what I've been saying! He cries precisely the way my baby cried at his age! I guess I know a resemblance when I see it!"—Chicago News.

J. J. HILL'S HOPES WERE BLASTED

James J. Hill wanted to be a doctor, and he had dreams of life in the Orient—but all were shattered when his father died and he had to leave school to support his mother.

He was born in a log cabin in the lonely forest near Guelph, Ontario, Canada, and, when a boy, learned from the few books at home, and worked in the woods.

His studies at Rockwood Academy were stopped, when he was 14 years old, and he clerked in the village store. He had lost an eye in an accident, was undersized, and the work was hard, but he earned enough to help his widowed mother.

When 18, without money or friends, he made his way to St. Paul, and found work as shipping clerk for a steamship agent. He studied and saved, and when 27, was married. Later he became agent for the Northwestern Packet Company, but resigned when it was merged with the Davidson Lines, and went into the warehouse and fuel business for himself. Within ten years he had a line of boats and carts operating to Winnipeg.

Plans and hopes of 17 years were fulfilled when he headed those who took over the wrecked St. Paul & Pacific Railroad, 817 miles long, and its $33,000,000 debt. Fourteen years later, it, as the Great Northern Railway, reached the Pacific coast, and had 6,000 miles of track. That year added the Northern Pacific Railroad.

His dreams of the Orient were revived, when he was 65, in the Great Northern Steamship Company, with its palatial vessels, but killed when the government's policy necessitated withdrawal of the service.

Plans for a mighty railroad system of the West, to include the Burlington lines, were started with the organization of the Northern Securities Company and stopped when the government dissolved it.

When he died, Hill was honored as the "Empire Builder," because of the great territory he developed, as a railroad king, as a multi-millionaire and as a public benefactor.

Tomorrow—Hoover, the Orphan Boy.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Still active as a man of affairs and in the enjoyment of excellent health for one of his years, Chauncey M. Depew, one of the most widely known and most popular men in America, will celebrate today the nineteenth anniversary of his birth. For 14 years senator from New York, and for a much longer period he occupied a prominent place at the council table of the republican party. He headed the New York delegation to numerous republican conventions and at the convention of 1888 he received 67 votes for the presidential nomination. As an orator and after-dinner speaker he has likewise enjoyed a national reputation. As chairman of the board of the New York Central railroad he has for years directed one of the biggest corporations in the country. As a lawyer he stood for years at the head of the New York bar, and as attorney for great corporations he held his own against Roscoe Conkling, William M. Evarts, David Dudley Field and other great lights of the metropolis.

Stories That Recall Others

"No," Not Discussed.

Three year old Bobby was very much elated over the fact that he had been promoted by the teacher to visit the sister's cooking class while his mother attended the millinery class in the annex [illegible] hall.

The following week while they were getting ready to go to the cooking class, Mary asked Bobby whether Mary should go to the cooking class or not.

Bobby: "Yes, Mary, but let the teacher ask you and pass you, you may play, but if she don't pass you you must go back into the millinery room. Very quietly and emphatically Bobby replied: "Mary, there you go talking about no."

The Point of View.

A woman had been having a terrible time trying to memorize an excerpt from one of Daniel Webster's speeches, after a time she told a friend it was impossible for her to memorize anything, as she had not done such a thing in a long time. The friend urged her to go on and she tried earnestly, but still she stumbled through the difficult passages.

At last with a sigh of hopeless despair, she cried: "Oh, it is very easy, the thing would purely drive me were absolutely dumb and hopeless—but since I'm the one at fault I shall let you think it!"

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

PUERTO MEXICO

"It is Puerto Mexico now; but not long ago its mouth-filling name was Guatzacoalcos," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society dealing with the town which dominates Mexico's Panama, just recovered by Federal forces.

"The change of name reflects the tremendous change in the community itself," continues the bulletin, "for where once a negligible little village slumbered there is now a twentieth century port.

"The town and port lie on the Atlantic side of Mexico's waist line, the isthmus of Tehuantepec, where the two great oceans approach to within little more than a hundred miles of each other, and where the mountain backbone of the country dips to its lowest point. Cortes recognized the possibility of transporting goods or ships from ocean to ocean in this region, and was farsighted enough to induce the King of Spain to grant him lands in the neighborhood. A few years ago some of his descendants still held the lands.

"Half a century ago the first attempts were made to dig a canal and many railroad schemes were proposed from time to time, including a ship railway for the transportation of vessels. The first work on a railroad was undertaken by the Mexican government in 1850, but it was not until 1907 that the Tehuantepec Railroad was formally opened, after a succession of failures and after years of unremitting labor.

"The road as it now exists is a well-constructed line about 190 miles long. It is in passable condition even after years of revolution and practically in Mexico but the bulk of its business has departed. Salina Cruz, the Pacific terminal was given excellent modern port facilities by the first regime, and possess probably the best port on the Mexican west coast. Loading and unloading machinery of the latest type was installed and until the Panama Canal was opened it throve. Puerto Mexico, at the Atlantic end, had in the mouth of the Coatzacoalcos river an excellent natural harbor in which ships drawing even as much as 30 feet could be accommodated.

"Along the Coatzacoalcos river is a Mexican oil field rivaling that of Tampico. Derricks pierce the sky on every hand. The hustle about wells and loading tankers gives an unexpected Yankee touch to this otherwise sleepy tropical region.

"Before the days of the pioneer and forest roads, the Coatzacoalcos river (the River of the Winding Snake), emptying into the Gulf of Mexico, was the favored highway and dug-outs poled by dusky natives carried freight and a few passengers up and down the river and its tributaries. Here and there a narrow mule-path trailing away from the banks marked the entrance to some lonely plantation or village. Today, however, the new stands side by side with the old. Fine steel boats run on the river—between revolutions—but the native still poles up and down in his dug-out canoe. Good roads and mule-paths were made from one plantation to another, but they have gone down in recent years, and the old-time arcarts have not yet been discarded.

"The town of Coatzacoalcos rechristened Puerto Mexico, at the mouth of the great river, has undergone the greatest change. Once a veritable fever hole, it now has by contrast marked modern touches and it is being brought into some semblance of sanitation. Long wharves jut out from its shore, and fireproof warehouses and electric cranes give the water front a businesslike appearance.

"From the port the Trans-Isthmian railroad gradually begins to climb the Cordillera, which divides the Gulf slope from that of the Pacific. Much of the route lies through wild and beautiful country, with tall mapacco palms (Attalea cohune) and forest trees topping a thick matted jungle, and here and there a quaint little Indian village on the banks of a shaded, shallow river. The picturesque Malafengo Canon, with its rocky chasms, is followed by the Chivello Pass, entered at a height of 735 feet above sea-level, the highest point on the isthmus.

"Leaving the pass, the train crawls down the Pacific slope of the Sierra Madre, running along for some distance by the banks of the Rio de Tehuantepec, then cutting off across to Salina Cruz, the Pacific port."

A Little Talk on Thrift

USING THE FORCES OF NATURE

It is interesting to note the many experiments now being made by scientists to utilize the forces of nature that have for centuries been wasted. The successful outcome of these efforts will effect important economic changes in the future. They involve gigantic problems in thrift, for, just as a successful business concern is constantly seeking to eliminate unnecessary expense, so these efforts represent the endeavors of mankind to live more efficiently and economically.

Eighteen years ago an Italian manufacturer, noting the steady column of volcanic steam coming from the ground in an Italian mountain valley, conceived the idea that this steam could be made to drive an engine. He set up the necessary equipment and soon was running the machinery in his plant with power which nature had been wasting.

This experiment in the utilization of volcanic steam has been successfully followed in many parts of the world. In Bolivia the government has granted a concession through which steam from Mt. Tatio will be made use of in generating electrical energy for Bolivian railroads.

Engineers state that our own country, particularly Yellowstone Park, possesses untold sources of wealth of this description.

Mechanical engineers are becoming more and more interested in the problem of utilizing the tides of the sea for generating electric power. English engineers have stated that it is only a matter of time until the tidal activities in the harbors of Southern England will be made use of, while engineers in the United States and Canada are interesting in studies being made of the problem of making use of the tides in the Bay of Fundy.

The development of hydro-electric power, which in recent years has reached large proportions, is, in the opinion of many experts, only in its infancy.

Scientists are experimenting, with apparent hope of success, in utilizing the sun's rays and the wind as sources of power.

The development of these projects not only provides an interesting study as to what the next 50 or 100 years will bring in the daily lives of the people, but they illustrate the great fundamental truth that thrift, conservation and efficiency are among the impelling factors in all human progress.—American Society for Thrift.

CHILD TRAINING

CHILDREN AND THE WORLD TODAY

By Florence Bascom, Educational Director, National Council for Prevention of War

"I don't care what you are training your children to do, but what do you think is the most important thing to teach them to be—?"

That question, from a woman whose children are brought up and established in the world, dropped into the midst of a group of mothers whose boys and girls are in the process of being brought up, threw a recent pinochle tea-party into dispute and consternation.

It was soon clear that not a mother had any plan reasoned out in the light of the modern world and of what a man or woman needs to be to live usefully and happily in it. There was much talk of strength of will, of love of truth, of power of concentration, of loyalty and bravery; but of all the things that were said it was the idea of the youngest mother of them all which interested me most.

This young mother said: "If I knew how, the thing which I should like more than anything else to give my children is the power to get into real touch with all sorts and kinds of people in all parts of the earth; to feel themselves neither better nor worse than any other; to realize how much alike all people are, and still to value and enjoy all their superficial differences."

I believe it was because this mother was young that she felt accurately the great need of the world today. Year by year men are being brought closer together, having more influence and wielding more power over the lives of each other; what happens to one happens to all, and so the importance of their understanding each other, of their being able to get into real communication, grows greater. It is partly because of this that people everywhere are struggling to find out how to do away with war and establish peace. The world has become so closely knit that war is intolerably destructive.

And yet, the very fact that the world is close-knit makes war more likely, unless the spirit of men toward each other can be changed. The old attitude toward the barbarian and the foreigner must give way to a new sense of unity in a world in which no people is any longer "foreign" to another.

That mothers are coming to realize the need of children to know and feel at home in all the world is evident in the books and toys and games that are being made for children nowadays. Each year there are more and more stories of the children of other lands, and fairy tales and games and songs of other lands.

I have even heard a sort of little international prayer for children, which runs like this:

"Father, bless all the little children who are now going to bed, and help all the little children who are now playing in the sunshine while we sleep, to have a happy day."

And not long ago I came unexpectedly to the house of a friend for dinner and was greeted at the door by her little daughter in a gay kimono, who said something which meant, "How do you do?" in a language I had never heard. For dinner I was fed with rice and various delicious mysteries. It turned out that I had arrived on Japanese day! From early morning, this little girl had lived as nearly as she could like the little girls of Japan. She had eaten something approaching the kind of food they eat; she had learned a phrase or two of their language; she had invited her little friends to lunch and played the games of the children of Japan; and when she went to bed I listened to a delightful story in which cherry blossoms and kites were mingled. And she told me that whenever I came to her house on Saturday I should find she was some other little girl altogether. She expects that by the end of the year she will have lived around the world.

Taking hints like these from one mother here and another mother there, and with the idea of helping yet other mothers bring up their children to feel at home with any people and in any land, I have collected as a part of the educational material of the National Council for Prevention of War, the stories, songs, pageants and games of other lands, bibliographies and collections of posters. This is a part of the catalogued folder of material which the National Council sells for one dollar, but the material for children is sent free to any one who wishes it, from the Council headquarters at 532 17th street N. W. Washington, D. C. Not only are we eager to send out the material which we have, but we are eager also to have criticisms and suggestions for new material, and we will put to good use any ideas that mothers who are working along this line will send us.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Planting the Garden

"Well soon be home," said dear Uncle Lucky, who, you remember in the last story had run into a pushcart.

Just then they passed the little house by the roadside in which the Old Red Rooster lived. There he sat on the front porch, but, on seeing the little rabbits with a flap of his wings, he emptied the ashes out of his old corncob pipe and shouted:

"Cock-a-doodle-do,
How do you do, you do?
I hope you're feeling at and doo,
And that you haven't come to dine,
For I have nothing left to eat
Except a little wrinkled beet."

"We're going home for dinner," answered the old gentleman rabbit.

"Will you speak the garden for me this spring?"

"All right," answered the Old Red Rooster, "I'm looking for a job."

"Well, hurry up and get in the Luckymobile," answered Uncle Lucky.

Carefully locking the front door, the Old Red Rooster jumped in and away they all went to the old gentleman rabbit's little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street. As soon as the Luckymobile was in the garage, Uncle Lucky led the Old Red Rooster out to the garden, telling him to scratch up the ground when he opened the little seed envelopes.

"Along here, we'll have a row of lettuce, over there carrots and cabbages, but by the garden wall, sunflowers," laughed the dear old gentleman rabbit. "I love to see them turn their great yellow faces toward Mr. Merry Sun."

As soon as Uncle Lucky planted the seed, Old Red Rooster covered them over with dirt. Then, pushing in the little sticks, he hung the envelopes on them so as to tell just where the different vegetables were planted. When this was done, they washed their hands under the pump.

"Goodness gracious me, sakes!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky, "I'm tired," and, hopping over to the front porch, he lay down in the hammock.

"I'll sing him to sleep," thought the little sparrow who each year built her nest under the eaves.

"Under the roof, I've a nice little nest
To keep my dear birdies warm under my breast.
And as dear Uncle Lucky never charges no rent,
I twitter and chirp and am always content."

But although the nice old gentleman rabbit had closed his eyes, he was thinking how, when a boy, he had listened to the robins overhead singing in the apple tree. Yes, he could almost smell the apple blossoms.

GRIFFITH'S AMERICA THRILLS AT BROADWAY THEATRE

D. W. Griffith's stupendous picture, America, is holding the screen for the first three days this week at the Broadway theatre and thrilling those who see enacted with all the Griffith art the historic events that are the imperishable legacies of the story of the American Revolution. Paul Revere's ride, Valley Forge, Concord and Lexington and Bunker Hill are among the few that may be mentioned, each given with historic accuracy. The audiences are introduced also to characters of the first historical importance, George Washington, Samuel Adams, John Hancock, George III, the elder Pitt, Edmund Burke, Jefferson, Patrick Henry. He has concentrated attention upon military engagements which were vital to the first phase of the Revolution.

A splendid 20-piece orchestra, well directed and carefully trained, plays incidental music that is a highly important feature in the completeness of the whole production.

OBITUARY

Miss Margrette O. Stearns.

Miss Margrette Oliphant Stearns, aged 20, eldest daughter of the Rev. John Hunter Stearns, pastor of the Union Baptist church of Montville, died Monday morning after a brave fight against pneumonia, through almost five weeks of illness.

Miss Stearns, a junior at Northfield seminary, was an active, earnest Christian. She, with her sister, June Creigh Stearns, came home to be with her family over the spring vacation.

Although a Christian for some years, she was baptised a year ago by her father in the Baptist church at Montville, of which she was a member.

The funeral services which will be held at the Baptist parsonage in Montville, will be conducted by her father and the Rev. George H. Strouse of the Jordan Baptist church, Waterford, assisting.

The family received many expressions of condolence and regret over the passing of Miss Stearns, who, since her father's pastorate in Montville, had endeared herself to those of the parish and the neighborhood.

Mrs. H. Singlewood Bisbing

Amelia Coryell Bisbing, wife of H. Singlewood Bisbing, entered into rest, at her home, near Red Top, Gales Ferry, at ten o'clock, Easter Monday morning, Mrs. Bisbing had been an invalid for some years and had lived very quietly. Mr. and Mrs. Bisbing came to Gales Ferry from Philadelphia, about fourteen years ago, and purchased a number of acres of land of the state of the late Julia A. Adams, where they built a fine residence. They have greatly enjoyed their home. Mr. Bisbing was an artist of note for thirty-five years in France, where he received the Legion of Honor medal. Mr. Bisbing's specialty in painting was animals.

Mrs. Bisbing was a member of an Episcopal church in Philadelphia, as all her family were for generations. She was devoted to all its work and missions.

Burial is to be in Philadelphia.

CLOWNS AT Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTS AND CLOWNS APPEAR IN CLEVER CIRCUS STUNTS

Circus day, over a big day in any city or town proved to be no exception in Norwich Tuesday when Barnyard & Balehay's circus, comprising several hundred noted acrobats, clowns, magician's and novelty actors played its opening performance Tuesday night in the big tent on Y. M. C. A. gymnasium floor.

As advertised the circus had been secured by the Y only at a great expense, (mostly time) and to say that the crowd of over 800 which stormed the entrances to the main show were more than pleased, would be putting it mildly. The whole show was run off in smooth style the participants performing their stunts to perfection, to their credit and also to that of Physical Director E. J. Fritz of the Y, under whose direction the big Y circus was presented.

Aside from the big show the attraction was the side show where such freaks as Charles Paliocha, the man who bends nails, Jo Jo, the boy with the original teapot dome, Blubber the fat boy, Percy, the wild man, and others were doing their stuff under the careful watch of Richard Holden, barker, and Percy Chapman.

Shortly after 8 o'clock there was the blare of the circus orchestra (Swahn's orchestra) which furnished in fine style the musical numbers of the programme. Led by Ringmaster John Salloway, the grand entry of the performers began, the opening march being enlivened by the antics of the following clown, Stanley Henschel, Louis Tempesta, Gerald Goldfadden, Percy Chapman, Herbert and Louis Charnetski, Gordon Rainey, George Chappell, Howard Ludlow and Fred Handy.

Ringmaster Salloway then made the opening announcements and his style of introduction proved a novelty, bringing down the house on his several appearances.

The opening number was the junior boys marching and flag drill which was cleverly presented. The number was followed by departmental groups who gave fine demonstrations of what the Y has in store for the boys attending the several gym classes.

Novelty numbers interspersed the feature numbers among them being the appearance of the bobbed-haid bandit, the stork, Ichy, the intelligent bird and many others which served to enliven the show.

Without a doubt the headliners senior leaders, proved the biggest attraction on the programme. Their parallel bar work, executed in perfect time was equal to the best Norwich has seen in recent years. With this feature they gave demonstrations of calisthenics, tiger leaping, an act of diving over a bar 6 feet from the floor landing head first on the buck, and the last and one of the best, they gave a showing of parallel bar elephant diving, a new novelty stunt for the Y circus and one that gave credit to every man participating.

All in all the circus was bigger and better than last year, every participant showing in his work the benefit of an added year of training.

The program and order of appearance of the participants was as follows:

1. Grand entry led by Ringmaster John Salloway.
2. Junior boys marching and flag drill.

Slide for life, John Hill.

3. Leaders Club Parallel Bar exercises and pyramids Harvey Lacomb, Dewitt Parsons, Frank Hargreaves, Fred Handy, Howard Ludlow, John Boynton, Robert Shaw, Theodore Kundig, Ben Covey, Danny Grieco, Rofland Harris, Al Rosch, Oscar Mossessian.

Clowns, Henshel and Tempesta, cartoonists; bobbed hair bandit, and home brew stunts.

4. Employed boys elephant gymnastics, Robert Otis, Ralph Sceck, Louis Grover, Harry McGlone, Arthur Armstrong, Frank D'Atri, William Wilbur, Martin Rozycki, Fred Plant, Richard Oat, Otis Fellows, James Falcone, George Pechwlys, William Krohn.

5. Junior and senior tumbling teams, juniors, Frank Hill, Robert Otis, Frank D'Atri, Polly Grieco, Nunsi Grieco, Ernest Stevens, William Wilson, John Johnson, Harry Oguinick, Frank Barber, Herbert Harkness, Albert Krohn, Winfield McDonald, Demosthenes Angelopolis. Seniors, Rolland Harris, DeWitt Parsons, Robert Shaw, Harvey Lacomb, Al Rosch.

Clown Antics—Don't be afraid, Charlie, stunts with ball on string brought laughs, Catching bird and baby cart other stunts.

6. Fire Club swinging by Emery Davis.

BRADFORD'S NEW FABRIC NAMED BY WESTERLY MAN

At the staff lunch of the Bradford (Westerly) Dyeing association, presentation was made to Paul F. Estey of Elm street, Westerly for his winning selection of the trade name to be used on a new artificial silk cloth. The first piece to be dyed in this country was done at Bradford by an expert from Lyons, France, Fred Kenyon, and was a wonderful three colored effect of blue, gold and black. Until this recent discovery it was only possible to produce a similar result by weaving with colored yarns.

The fabric, mill officials believe, will quickly become a leader and result in greatly increased business for the plant at Bradford, calling for further additions and employment of considerable help.

Mr. Estey's winning word is a clever combination of the word Bradford and the name of the maker of the new artificial silk. The prizes were presented Mr. Estey by Archie Ewing, an executive director of the Bradford Dyeing association, England, and included a cabinet of cigars and a large pie, which when opened, was found to contain a dainty selection of the new cloth dyed in many attractive shades.

Mr. Estey acknowledged the compliments paid him after which several papers were read. Mr. Pawson gave an interesting talk on Dichorics. Mr. Holdsworth's subject was Keeping the Plant Clean. Mark Pearson enlivened the proceeding with a witty talk on episodes in connection with the building and establishment of the plant as seen from the engineering department. The concluding paper was by W. H. Clapham, who gave some interesting figures on cost accounting. A vote of thanks to the chairman, Wilfred Ward, was proposed by W. A. Broadfoot.

OFFICIALS VISIT HARTFORD TO LOOK AT BOOTHS

Mayor Milo R. Waters, First Selectman William G. Murray, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook and Registrars of Voters Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes were in Hartford Tuesday looking over types of voting booths which the town and city are considering using in Norwich.

The town and city have been without proper voting booths in several of the districts for many years, especially the West Side and Greeneville districts, which have no permanent voting locations, and the city and town have been considering the purchase of portable voting booths to take care of three districts. The booths are so constructed as to make the work of erecting them easy and they can be set up at any location that might be selected by the city or town.

VETERAN THREAD MAKER DIES AT HOLYOKE

George Mason Prentice, 76, a pioneer in the thread industry and associated with the Merrick Thread company in Holyoke, until its absorption by the American Thread company several years ago, died Monday afternoon at his home, 53 Laurel street, Holyoke. He had been a resident of that city for the past 49 years and most of that time with the Merrick Thread company as overseer of their winding department.

Mr. Prentice was born in Willimantic, Conn., in May, 1847, the son of Henry and Martha Mason Prentice. He received his early education in that place and following preparatory work entered the employ of the Willimantic Linen company. He remained with them a short time and after Timothy Merrick had established the Merrick Thread company of this city a few years, he came to Holyoke as overseer. He resigned from active work several years ago.

Mr. Prentice was a member of the First Methodist church. He is survived by three sons, George Mason, Jr., and Frederick W., of Holyoke, and Louis H., of New Haven; two daughters, Mrs. James H. Nodien of Great Barrington and Mrs. Stephen H. Sill of Derby, Conn.

Mrs. Jeannette G. Teft.

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of Mrs. Jeannette G. Teft was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her home, No. 1 Wightman avenue, Norwich Town. The service was conducted by Rev. J. B. Aldrich, pastor of the Norwich Town M. E. church. Lead, Kindly Light and I Shall Know Him were sung by Mrs. Frederick Bushnell.

The bearers were Velo Sharkey, Herbert Sharkey, Everett Sharkey, Hugh Sharkey, William Sharkey and Francis McLaughlin. Burial took place in Maplewood cemetery and a committal service was read at the grave by Rev. Mr. Aldrich.

Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. James McCoy.

Tuesday morning at 8.15 o'clock the funeral of Mrs. James McCoy of Jewett City was held from the undertaking rooms of George G. Grant in Taftville. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn high requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church with Rev. John J. McCabe of Jewett City celebrant, Rev. William A. Keefe as deacon and Rev. F. M. Coholan as sub-deacon. Henry LaFontaine presided at the organ and as a waiting hymn Edward T. Connelly sang Lead, Kindly Light.

The bearers were Cornelius Cary, Arthur Johnson, John Nolan, Peter Flynn, Jr., and John McGill. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were many beautiful flowers.

SUPERIOR COURT HELD SESSION IN AFTERNOON

In respect to the memory of JuJge James H. Webb, who was buried from his home in Hamden Tuesday morning, there was no session of the civil superior court in New London in the morning. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, who is presiding at the session, and Judge Christopher L. Avery, bench associates of Judge Webb, attended the funeral of Judge Webb.

In the afternoon Judge Marvin opened court at 3 o'clock and began the trial of the suit of Robert W. Perkins, receiver, vs. Louis I. Levingon and others.

The jury which had been excused till Wednesday was excused till Thursday morning.

NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSION HAS MANY PROBLEMS FOR SETTLEMENT

New York, April 23. — Challenged for the junior lightweight crown of Johnny Dundee stormed the state athletic commission today to post forfeit money to bind a title match with the champion but the commission turned a deaf ear to all proposals. Dundee defended his title in December and now the rules bar him six months in order to preserve his crown before he could jeopardize it.

Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, and his manager, "Doc" Hirsch, and Eddie Fitzgerald of Philadelphia, and his manager, Max Hoff, appeared to post money for a Dundee match.

Jack Delaney, Bridgeport middleweight, and his manager, Manny Lenny, appeared before the commission to seek official aid to compel Manny Leon, middleweight champion, to fulfill an alleged contract which Lenny asserted was signed prior to Greb's match with Wilson in which the former won the middleweight title.

Lenny displayed a photographic copy of the alleged contract containing Tex Rickard's signature as manager of Greb with that of his own in which Greb agreed to give Delaney the first crack at the middleweight title in the event Greb won from Wilson. The commission refused to pass on the validity of the contract inasmuch as it never was officially filed with that body and notified the principals and their managers that it was a matter for the court to decide.

Frank Flournoy and Harold Dibles, promoters of the Olympic fund boxing exhibition, were summoned before the commission for violating a rule of the board which stipulates that boxers appearing in the main event must work on a percentage and not on a guarantee. The commission held that the money being paid by the promoters to the boxers who are to appear in a so-called Olympic benefit was excessive and not commensurate with the charitable aspect of the exhibition.

However, due to the progress made on the card the commission hesitated to act but warned the promoters that a second violation of this nature would bring prompt punishment.

Leo P. Flynn, manager of Dave Shade, Pacific coast welterweight, posted a forfeit check of $2,500 with his commission to bind a title match with Mickey Walker, welterweight champion.

The commission also announced that it had sanctioned the milk fund show to be held at the Yankee stadium on June 27.

Dan Carnevalli, Indianapolis flyweight, was granted permission to break his contract with his manager, Frank Daugherty, since the latter also agreed to a cancellation.

Buck Jeanjba, New York bantamweight, was suspended for 30 days for refusing to meet Eddie "Cannonball" Martin in a 12-round bout at the Pioneer A. C., tonight. Jeanjba complained of an injured hand but an examination failed to disclose any injury.

EASTERN LEAGUE SEASON WILL OPEN THIS AFTERNOON

Springfield, Mass., April 22. — The Eastern league opens its ninth baseball season tomorrow. Springfield plays at Albany; Pittsfield at Waterbury; Hartford at Bridgeport, and Worcester at New Haven. President Dan O'Neil in a statement tonight declared that he believed all the teams have been strengthened and the league should have one of its most successful seasons.

There are five new managers: Jack O'Hara at Bridgeport; Clyde Milan at New Haven; Billy Gilbert at Pittsfield; "Kitty" Bransfield at Waterbury, and Gene McCann at Springfield. Paddy O'Connor of the Hartford champions of 1923, Bill Rodgers at Albany, and Jess Burkett of Worcester are holdover leaders.

OLYMPIC WRESTLING TRYOUTS SLATED FOR NEXT MONTH

New York, April 22. — Sectional Olympic catch-as-catch-can wrestling tryouts will be held May 9 and 10 under the auspices of the New York Athletic club.

The competition will be open to bantam, welter, middle and heavyweight classes within the districts covered by the Adirondack, Connecticut and metropolitan associations of the Amateur Athletic union; first and second place men will be eligible for the final tryouts at Madison Square Garden on May 27, 28, and 29.

RICKARD RENEWS EFFORTS TO MATCH WILLS AND FIRPO

New York, April 22.—(By The A. P.)—Tex Rickard today renewed his efforts to influence Luis Angel Firpo of Argentine his present determination to retire from the ring and match the Argentine with Harry Wills, in an elimination test in June or July to determine a challenger for Jack Dempsey in a title bout next September.

Rickard announced upon his return from a several weeks' vacation that he had cabled Juan Home, his agent in Buenos Aires, additional instructions with regard to fight proposals being carried to Firpo from this country. The promoter did not reveal the steps he had taken but intimated further inducements would be placed before Firpo, who recently refused to listen to Rickard's latest advances.

"I am still confident Firpo will abandon his idea about retiring and make another effort to hit the heavyweight title," said Rickard. "I have sent further instructions to my agent, Juan Home, in Buenos Aires, and expect some definite developments in a day or two. He advised me, however, that Firpo so far had refused to consider any proposition and seemed inclined upon quitting the ring.

However, should Firpo give up another campaign here, I have Quintin Brooks, the Chilean heavyweight, as well as Erninio Spalla, as an alternative opponent for Wills in a bout which I plan to stage in Boyle's Thirty Acres, either last of June or first week in July. Romero impresses me as an especially good prospect."

Rickard was in a gathering of several hundred boxing fans who saw Romero work out this afternoon at Madison Square Garden. The Chilean displayed noticeable improvement in his ring tactics in a three round sparring session with John Lester Johnson, veteran negro, who volunteered the comment afterward that "Romero hit him harder than did Firpo a year ago."

Romero is slated to make his American debut May 9 at Madison Square Garden, probably with Floyd Johnson as an opponent.

ACADEMY PLAYS LYMAN HIGH AT CAMPUS TODAY

The second game on the Norwich Free academy baseball schedule will be played this afternoon at the campus when the local high team will clash with the Lyman Memorial High team. The Academy team has been handicapped this week owing to the bad weather and very little practice has been held. However, the local wearers of the Red and White feel capable of tackling the Lebanon team this afternoon.

Coach Brigham will start either Segal or Steinman in the box. Hollander will do the catching with Burke at first, Tambart at second, McGowan at short and McNamara at third. In the outfield will be Hinrichs, Busch, Kilroy and Strickland.

On Saturday the Academy team will meet the Putnam High team when real opposition will be expected. The game Saturday will be the first real test against the high school teams of the eastern part of the state.

IMPORTANT BULKELEY INTERCLASS GAME TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, April 23.—The four cornered tie that now exists in the Bulkeley interclass standing will be broken Wednesday morning, when the seniors and the sophomores meet on Morgan Park at 10 o'clock. This game should turn out to be the best yet to be played in the inter class series. Both teams are about equally matched in hitting and fielding. The only position that the sophs have it over the fourth year men is in the pitcher's department. Phillian who has done the twirling for the second year men, has speed together with a few curves, that makes him a twirler to be feared.

Murphy will draw the pitching assignment for the seniors. He has occupied the mound for the past two games that the class of 1924 has played and has had an even break, gaining one victory and losing one contest. McDonald, who caught the first game for the varsity against Plainfield High on Saturday, will receive Murphy's curves. The seniors strength lies in its infield, which is one of the best of the entire four classes. Several of the seniors wield a destructive club and once they get after Phillian in earnest that bids fair to make him retire. The dope has been upset in the past two games and teams have been winning that were predicted of having little or no chance of winning the contest. When the seniors won from the freshmen by a 4 to 0 score recently and the freshmen triumphed over the sophs, it looked as though the yearlings would have an easy time in taking the seniors into camp, but such was not the case and the seniors gained a victory over the first year men giving them a tie for first place. The dope was again upset when the juniors dropped their game to the sophomores last week by a 7 to 2 score. Judging from these past performances a sure winner is hard to pick.

CHAPMAN TECH-ESSEX GAME IS POSTPONED

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, April 22.—Due to the inclemency of the weather, the Chapman Tech-Pratt High game scheduled for this afternoon at Essex had to be cancelled until later in the season. The weather this morning did not favor a baseball game, but later in the day it looked as though the sun would come out and the scheduled contest would take place after all. However about noon time a telephone call from the Pratt High management called off the game.

Chapman Tech's next game is with Stonington High at Stonington on Saturday afternoon. It is the first scheduled game of the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league.

The calling off of the game with Pratt High scheduled to be played this afternoon, will give Coach E. Stanley Taylor of the Red and Black outfit a chance to get a better line on his material and to save his best twirler for the opening game of the Interscholastic league. After all coming out on top in this league is the objective of the Tech nine, although the other games that are to be played with teams that are not a member of the Eastern Connecticut league would also look good on the winning side of the Chapman Tech ledger book.

Coach Taylor had intentions of starting Cruise this afternoon and as he is the only hurler on the Tech squad that can be relied upon to give a good account of himself, he would have also been started against Stonington on Saturday. If Cruise attempted to pitch two games within five days and win them both he would be doing well. The strain would tell on him in a short time and he probably would be lost to the team when it needed his services in the worst manner.

ENTRIES FOR OPEN GOLF TOURNEY MUST BE FILED SOON

New York, April 22.—Entries for the 1924 open golf championship must be filed with the United States Golf association here by May 14, it was announced today by the U. S. G. A. in disclosing regulations governing the title contest.

The sectional qualifying tests, to be played at Worcester, Mass., and Oak Park, Ill., May 27 and 28, will be on a basis of 36 holes, 18 to be played each day. Eighty players and ties for eightieth place will qualify for the championship round of 72 holes, scheduled June 5 and 6, at the Oakland Hills Country club, Detroit. The number of qualifiers allotted each section will be pro-rated according to the number of entries.

Should the entries in either section exceed 200, the Professional Golfers' association will alter the qualifying conditions to meet the situation.

Money prizes will be awarded for the low qualifying rounds at both sectional tournaments, the first four being fixed at $100, $150, $125 and $100. First money in the championship will amount to $500, in addition to the championship cup and a gold medal. A total of $1,245 will be distributed among the next eleven finishers.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Fred Hutt

A fast base runner is on first. None are out. A left hand hitter is at the bat.

What player should take the throw at second base from the catcher in case of an attempted steal?

The tendency of most left hand batters is the hit fast balls to left field and curves and slow balls to right field. Naturally, on curves and slow balls the short stop should cover second for the throw down, whereas on fast balls, the second baseman should do so.

In big league ball, so closely are batters studied that we find all of them do not follow the above general rules in hitting, so we have to vary such a play according to the individual tendency of the batter up. Sandlotters, amateurs and college players do not have the time or opportunity to study their opponents as closely as major leaguers, so they can go pretty much according to the above rules when facing the above conditions. Just remember that if the batter hits toward right field, you must have your second baseman there to handle the ball and your shortstop then cover second in case he fails to connect and the runner attempts the steal. The opposite is true when the batter is inclined to hit toward left field. Skilled major league batters attempt to hit to right field with a runner on first so he'll be pretty sure to make third on the play. He couldn't do that on a hit to left field, as anyone can readily see.

FILLMORE CLASHES WITH TONY BARBER TONIGHT

Roy Fillmore, local bowling ace, will clash with Tony Barber of Danielson, at the Aetna alleys this evening in the first leg of their $400 match. Barber is the younger brother of Frankie Barber of Danielson and is no mean bowler, although not the equal of his brother, Frank.

In a match recently Fillmore easily defeated the Danielson boy by a large margin and expects to duplicate the feat in the match this spring. Fillmore will roll Barber at Danielson on Friday evening.

WELL KNOWN JOCKEY IS GRANTED LICENSE

New York, April 23.—After his application had been held up for ten days, Clarence Turner, well known jockey, was granted a license today by the stewards of the jockey club.

The rider's application had been tabled previously and although no explanation of its action was given, it was understood investigation of reports concerning Turner had satisfied the stewards there was no ground for withholding his 1924 permit.

Boxing Bouts at Westerly.

The boxing card which is scheduled for Friday evening, April 25th, under the auspices of the Westerly Italian Athletic club at their clubhouse on Rose avenue, is as follows:

Main bout, 8 rounds—Ted Russell, Norwich vs. Sailor O'Brien, New London Sub Base.

Preliminary, 4 rounds—Kid Debartolo, Westerly vs. Sam Sabastian, Westerly.

Preliminary, 4 rounds—Young Reta, Westerly vs. Young Panciera, Bradford.

These boxing bouts are held under the sanction of the Westerly town council with Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and another patrolman of the Westerly police force present. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon is the examining physician, the timer being Joseph Salemano.

Tilden Will Defend Title.

St. Louis, April 22.—William T. Tilden II., of Philadelphia, telegraphed today he would defend his title as national clay court tennis champion in the tournament here the week of July 7. He will play in the doubles with "Sandy" Weiner, Philadelphia, also entered in the singles.

Martin Wins from Pettingill

New York, April 23.—Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, 119 pounds, of New York, won from Al Pettingill, 133 pounds, of New Orleans, in the fourth round of a 12-round bout tonight when Pettingill's second threw in the towel.

Will Play Thursday Afternoon.

The Broadway sixth grade baseball team and the Hobart avenue school team were scheduled to play on Monday afternoon but the Hobart school team failed to put in an appearance. The Broadway team would like to play on Thursday afternoon.

Syracuse Releases Two.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 23.—The Syracuse Stars today announced the outright release of Pitcher Jay Rickson and the release on option of Catcher Jack Schmitt, to the Harrisburg club of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

HORNSBY GETS TWO HOMERS BUT PIRATES BEAT CARDS

St. Louis, April 23.—A triple with the bases filled, a double and a homer gave Pittsburgh six runs in the second inning today and the Pirates defeated the Cardinals, 10 to 7, in the final game of the series. Dyer was forced from the mound in the fourth with an injured wrist. Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman, got two homers with no one on either time.

SMITH'S SINGLE IN TENTH WINS FOR CLEVELAND

Chicago, April 23.—Edward Smith smashed one of Walter Johnson's slow pitches to center for a single after two men were out in the tenth inning and gave Cleveland a 7 to 6 victory over Chicago. The Indians batted Blackenship hard in the eighth inning and took a commanding lead, but the locals playing an uphill battle drove Cleveland off the hill and tied the count in the ninth. Score:

MYRICK IS SURPRISED AT TILDEN FOR QUITTING THE OLYMPIC TENNIS TEAM

New York, April 22.—Surprise that William T. Tilden, national tennis champion had "any doubt whatsoever" as to his eligibility to play on America's Davis cup or Olympic teams was expressed tonight by Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis cup committee. Mr. Myrick made public his reply to Tilden's letter of resignation from the Davis cup and Olympic teams because he believed his status as an amateur had been questioned by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Mr. Myrick's letter follows:

"I was very much surprised to receive your letter of the 21st, in which you state that you desire to withdraw from the Olympic and Davis cup squads to relieve the association of embarrassment.

"Inasmuch as you have been invited to the recent meetings of the Davis cup committee, and have been present at one of them, it is difficult for me to conceive your having any doubt whatsoever with regard to your eligibility, or any doubt as to the committee's view in this regard.

"You have been invited to play for your country as American champion, and, as American champion, it never crossed the minds of the committee that you would refuse or even to hesitate to accept when called upon. You are eligible to represent this country in the contests mentioned.

"Inasmuch as there is to be a meeting of the Davis cup committee next Friday night to discuss several other matters, I would suggest that as you were unable to be present at the last meeting, it might be well if you could come over and join us for dinner.

"Hoping to have the pleasure of seeing you then, I am

"JULIAN S. MYICK."

In his letter of resignation Tilden said his action was due to the report of the amateur rule committee of the Tennis association in which, he declared, he was referred to as an "evil influence" because of his status as a player-writer. He said he did not regard himself as violating either the spirit or the letter of the amateur rule and did not regard himself an "evil influence."

New London Sport Comment

Johnny Dwyer has turned in his second victory out of three starts for Fordham by sending the strong Dartmouth nine back to New Hampshire with a 6 to 4 defeat tacked on to them. The game was played in New York Monday afternoon and was featured by good twirling of the New London boy. This game is the fourth Dwyer has pitched for the Fordham nine. In Monday's game against Dartmouth he allowed the hard hitting Green team but seven hits and four runs, one run less than Carroll of Holy Cross allowed Dartmouth on Saturday. Carroll is considered the best twirler in the collegiate ranks and if Dwyer can give an exhibition that equals the Worcester boy's he is doing good for the first year. When Dwyer scores a victory he has to work hard every minute of the game. He can not depend upon his team mates as much as Carroll of Holy Cross can. The Forham team is a much weaker team on both the offense and defense than the team that won the Jesuit title last season in baseball. It may be that both Dwyer and Carroll will yet oppose each other when their respective teams meet. Both teams are entered for Jesuit title this year and as Dwyer is considered squad and Carroll of the Holy Cross the ace of the Fordham pitching nine is the best that Jack Barry has.

John Hallisey the premier pin knocking the pins over at the Fearless alleys bowling with the Cadillac team of the Knights of Columbus smasher of New London, is sure league. Hallisey holds both the single and the high three string record in this league and in last nights bowling he bowled consistently. His three strings were as follows 122-123-116 for a total of 355. This is good bowling and it is regretted by his friends and admires that he did not enter in the Eastern Connecticut tournament.

Bulkeley is without a game for this week so far as could be learned from the management. The games pending with two high schools in New York state fell through for the present at least and although Coach Robert T. Aldrich is in Springfield, Mass., attempting to arrange a home series with Springfield Tech, no word has been received from him saying whether he was successful in arranging a series between these teams or not. Coach Aldrich is desirous of booking a game for the Bulkeley team to be played this week, so that the team will not be without a game.

Who is going to be the first team in the Dungaree league at the Submarine Base to inflict a defeat upon the First Lieutenants. This team has won four straight to date and all by small margins. Two of the games were by one run margins—but then no matter whether its one run or twenty at the end of the game it means a victory. Some good games are being played in this league and the teams will improve in their play as the season draws to a close.

The Ranger Soccer team will have to strengthen its lineup considerably if it expects to defeat Westerly in the next meeting of these teams which is expected to take place a week this Sunday. If the Westerly eleven win this game it will mean that the Norwich Bulletin cup will go to them. On the other hand a victory for the locals will mean that another game will have to be played to decide which team will receive the cup. The New London Rangers are entered in the state meet but will not begin play until some time in May.

WESTERLY

In Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox Tuesday morning, William Schaffer, Jr., of 14 Northwest street, Stonington borough, was presented by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on a reckless driving charge. Clerk A. G. Martin of the town court read the complaint in which it was alleged that the defendant on Sunday, April 20th between 7 and 7.30 p. m., operated an automobile on the Stonington road at a speed without due regard to the width of the highway, traffic, intersection of highways and the condition of the road. Schaffer pleaded guilty. Defendant operated a Ford car on the state highway coming from behind and shooting ahead of an automobile operated by State Policeman R. W. Kenyerson. The officer followed the automobile for a way and the serving of the summons to appear in the town court followed. Judge Wilcox found the accused guilty and fined him $25 and costs of $3.52, amounting to $28.52 which was to be paid.

A special meeting of Westerly Town council was held Tuesday, there being present Councilmen Campbell, Elder, Rossi, Nichols and Smith. The following vote was taken: "Resolved that the sale of $350,000 of the school bonds, issued pursuant to the Act of 1922, Chapter 2360, as amended by the Act of 1923, Chapter 2423, to Estabrook & Co. for the price of $350,550 be ratified, approved and confirmed."

The hearing on the Building Restrictions, proposed to be written into the new town ordinances which are to be published shortly, is reported as fixed for Tuesday, May 5th at 9.30 a. m., the time for the regular May meeting of the Westerly town council.

Samuel G. Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad, Philadelphia, stopped over in Westerly Tuesday, en route from New York to Boston, and visited Watch Hill in company with Westerly contractors, interviewing builders, plumbers and electricians before his departure.

Miss E. W. Dunton, who has been the guest for the past few days of Rev. W. F. Williams, rector of Calvary Episcopal church in Stonington, formerly of Westerly, returned to her home in Philadelphia Tuesday morning.

The civics class of the Women's Community club of Westerly met on Tuesday evening in the assembly hall of Westerly Memorial and Public Library building.

Westerly radio fans had their slumbers disturbed early Tuesday morning in a way different from listening to "signals" from the more distant stations. Almost without exception radio sets in which the lightning switch was not thrown out were more than successful in getting the thunder storm with lightning and thunder accompaniment which came up so unexpectedly Tuesday morning. Arguments were started in several households as to which should get out of bed and "pull the switch."

The Lorraine Community association is to celebrate Thursday night the termination of the bowling season, this being the second annual frolic of the Lorraine Bowling league. Supper to be served at the new Lorraine Mills Community house on Mechanic street will be followed by entertainment and dancing.

At the annual meeting of the Masonic Past Masters' Association of Rhode Island, which has members in Westerly to be held in Providence Friday, dinner will be served at 6 o'clock and the business of the association will be so arranged as to permit the members to accept the invitation of Providence chapter, Order of the De Molay to witness the working of two degrees by them that evening. Wilbur A. Scott is the president of the association and Abel Reynolds, the secretary.

At a special meeting of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International union, No. 7, held in the Central Labor Union rooms Monday evening action was taken in regard to daylight saving time. With the union president John Palazollo presiding, Muscanti Nardone moved and it was seconded by M. Desimone that when the new time became operative the union members would not go to work on the hours of the new time, the vote was unanimously adopted.

This week the union signs the old bill of prices which expired April 1st for another year at the same rate as the old bill, which is an 8-hour day at $1.12 1-2 an hour, which bill will expire April 1, 1925. Master contractors to sign include Samuel Nardone & Co., E. A. Smith, Frank Iacono & Co., Angelo J. Cappuccio, Eastern Construction Co., Louis Leone & Co. and Angelo Norote, in all some ten or a dozen contractors.

By deed on file in the Westerly town clerk's office Samuel Richmond and Harriet C. Richmond of South Manchester have conveyed to James Collins a tract or parcel of land on the west side of Crandall avenue at Pleasant View Beach.

On April 21st the following was conveyed by Fred Perry to Mabel A. Saunders and on the same day from Mabel A. Saunders to Frank Perre:

Four tracts of land, Lots No. 81, 82, 83 and 84, Washington Park tract.

At their home, 27 Highland avenue, Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Clarke entertained sixteen guests in celebration of their wedding anniversary. April 22, 1915, Miss Dorothy Burdick was united in marriage with Henry Marsh Clarke, by Rev. William F. Williams, at that time rector of Christ Episcopal church. With them to assist in the anniversary celebration besides the guests were three children, Henry Marsh Clarke, Jr., Miss Dorothy Clarke and Robert Means Clarke. An elaborate anniversary dinner was enjoyed. Cards, mah jongg and radio music were among the entertainment features of the evening. Mr. Clarke is one of the active business men of Westerly. Mrs. Clarke is prominent in many social interests.

George McRea, alias Frank Anderson, member of the alleged wire-tapping gang, which operated at the "mysterious white house" in Wakefield during the summer of 1922, appeared before Justice Edward W. Blodgett in the Washington County Superior court Monday morning, retracted a plea of not guilty to three indictments and pleaded nolo to each.

The indictments alleged larceny of $14,000 from Dr. Edwin Carman of Freeport, L. I., of $8000 from Calix Blaceine of Maine and with Louis Silverman, alias Woods, conspiring to obtain money by fraudulent means from Dr. Carman. To all of the indictments he pleaded not guilty when arraigned in February, 1923.

Upon recommendation of Assistant Attorney General John P. Hartigan a deferred sentence was imposed on each count. Personal recognizance of $5000 was set for each indictment.

At present the defendant is serving a sentence of two years and three months for the alleged larceny of $16,000 from Edward Meixner of Newark, N. J., in a horse racing scheme at the "mysterious white house." McRea was sentenced on July 7, 1923, by Justice Antonio A. Capotosto.

In asking for deferred sentences Mr. Hartigan stated that the defendant had been in jail for six months before receiving sentence. He also wanted it strictly understood as part of the deferred punishment that when McRea was released from imprisonment he would get out of the state and stay out.

Benjamin Fain of Westerly appeared before the court on an appeal from the Third District court at Westerly, where he was charged with reckless driving of an automobile on the Walk Hill road last summer. He pleaded nolle and upon recommendation of Mr. Hartigan was fined $25 and costs.

The motion calendar and the assignment docket were called. The Assistant Attorney General assigned all criminal appeals to Wednesday, April 23.

Thomas Caswell and Albert W. Corkum were indicted for breaking, entering and larceny of goods, valued at $28, from the home of Nathaniel Smith of Providence, on the Post Road near Matunuck, February 24, 1924. Caswell pleaded not guilty. He was unable to furnish bail of $2,000 and was recommitted to the Washington County Jail. His trial was set for Wednesday.

Corkum pleaded guilty and sentence was withheld until after Caswell was tried. He could not furnish bail of $2,000 and was recommitted to the Washington County jail.

Nicholas Datolo, 18, of Westerly, indicted for driving off the automobile of Louis Alberts without the latter's consent, pleaded guilty and the state recommended a deferred sentence upon payment of costs. The costs were paid. Mr. Hartigan stated that the boy took Albert's machine and went to New London, but later returned the car.

Louis P. Horton of North Kingstown charged with misconduct, pleaded not guilty and bail was fixed at $3,000.

Joseph Laudone of Westerly was indicted for misconduct.

Easter was observed in the local churches. A part of the flowers in the Baptist church, including Easter lillies, tulips and hyacinths were given in memory of George Thompson and Frank A. Thompson, by their respective families, and by Mrs. Edwin Brown, in memory of her nephew, Frank Carrol Peabody.

Rev. and Mrs. O. D. Fisher left on Monday afternoon for Ohio. They were to be guests at dinner Monday evening of Mrs. H. M. Pendleton, in New London, going thence by steamer to New York, where Tuesday morning they would take the train for Cleveland.

H. C. Eccleston, who has been ill for several weeks, suffering a series of slight shocks has so much improved as to be able to walk across the room without assistance.

A large number atended the auction at the residence of Lewis Pollack, Monday. The farm was not sold, as was expected.

An Easter concert was given by the Baptist Sunday school at the Sunday school hour. The juvenile members of the school acquitted themselves with ability.

NOANK

Noank Black Tigers started their season Saturday with a victory over Midway, 25 to 14. It was more like a day for football than baseball but quite a crowd braved the wind to see the battle. Noank scored 8 runs in the first inning. Deveau started to pitch for Noank but he was taken out in the 5th inning for a pinch hitter. Palmer went in. It was his first game. He held them well until the last inning when the other team got 5 runs when 2 was out.

The battery for Noank was Deveau Palmer pitch and McDonald catch; for Midway, Haggerty pitch, Johnson catch. Umpire L. Lamb. Score by innings:

Noank 8, 0, 0, 7, 2, 1, 3, 4 0. 25 runs 22 hits and 4 errors.
Midway 4, 0, 0, 1, 4, 0, 0, 0 5. 14 runs 13 hits and 6 errors.

Carl Ebbetts of New York spent the week end with his family.

Mrs. Etta Main was a caller in Saybrook this week.

The new road from Noank to Groton Long Point has been started. Quite a force of men is working on it.

William Crowell and Raymond Rathbun were callers in Colchester Saturday.

CANTERBURY

Dick Merrifield, a former resident of Westminster, has left the New York World, where he was employed as puzzle editor, and is now a syndicate manager for service for authors in New York. Several years ago he won a Bible for reciting the Apostles' Creed, the twenty-third psalm and the Ten Commandments.

Mrs. Lewis H. Greenman has been visiting in New York and attended the wedding of her brother.

Miss Laura Bennett spent Easter with her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Robbins.

Nearly one-third of all the imports and exports of the united kingdom passes through the port of London.

MOHEGAN

The Easter concert of the Sunday school was held Sunday morning. There were decorations of Easter lilies and other beautiful plants. Recitations and singing were given by the school. There was a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Anson Dolbeare of Boston spent Easter Sunday at the Mathews' home.

WOMAN TIPS NEW LONDON COUNCIL OF BUILDING LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 22.—Charles M. Taylor, local druggist, who has been involved in trouble with the state pharmacy board, was to have appeared in the police court today to answer for violation of the prohibition law, in keeping and exposing for sale Jamaica ginger. Federal Officers Kilpatrick and Avery are the complainants in the case. Taylor's counsel asked for a postponement of the case today and it was granted, going over to next Monday.

Joseph Patti was fined $7 because he didn't register a dog he owns. That was expensive neglect but it was occasioned because Patti acted upon the advice of the fellow from whom he obtained the dog—that he need not register the animal till the first of May.

Mrs. Bertha S. Bartlett, whose husband is in the naval service, was fined $25 for recklessness in the operation of her car, which was in collision on Broad street yesterday with the car of Harry Stenger of Clark lane, Waterford. The Bartlett car was driven from Connecticut avenue just as the Stenger car passed along Broad street. A truck shut the cars out from vision and the crash resulted. The cars were not damaged much, but Policeman Harry A. Hick ordered the parties into court.

George DiMarco, an employe at the submarine base was charged with having collided with the car of Benjamin Ackrod and was alleged to have refused to give Ackrod his name and address when it was demanded of him. DiMarco said he was not guilty and produced a witness who substantiated what he said, which was to the effect that Ackrod did not demand the name and address. DiMarco and Nelson Ord, the latter in the car with DiMarco, said that Ackrod asked for the registration of the DiMarco car and it was given to him by telling him to look at the number plates. Both men denied that Ackrod asked for the name and address of the man with whose car he was in collision. DiMarco was adjudged not guilty.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine J. Lynch, wife of John Lynch, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by many mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. The bearers were John Ahearn, William Bodge, Walter Brennan, Patrick Devine, Charles Walsh and Fred Finnegan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Greeneville.

Miss Margaret Oliphant Stearns, 20, daughter of Rev. John Hunter and the late Elizabeth K. Stearns, died last night at the parsonage of the Baptist church at Montville, after an illness of but a few days with pneumonia. Miss Stearns was a student at Northfield seminary. The body will be forwarded to Miss Stearns' former home in Hinsdale, Ill., for burial.

Patrolman John Foley found a bicycle beside the curb in front of the Union Bank & Trust company, State street, early this morning. The cycle was taken to the police station.

Tryon Smith, 20 Squire street, reported to the police this morning that while his automobile was parked at the corner of Washington and Methodist streets last night a spare tire, 32x4, and mounted, was stolen from the rear of the car.

Mary W. Farley, of Englewood, N. J., today sold two parcels of land on Pequot avenue to Ernest E. Rogers.

One of the newly constructed granolithic sidewalks on Orchard street has become damaged because of recent driving of a team over the walk. The walk is located in front of the property at No. 80 and was discovered damaged last night by Patrolman Frank Philopena, who reported the matter at the police station. An endeavor will be made to ascertain the driver of the team which caused the damage.

Mrs. Hoyle, 70 Williams street, visited Ocean beach last night and during her travels there lost her purse containing a $5 bill and a check in the sum of $75. The check was drawn on the South Side State bank of Chicago, in favor of Virginia Oliver. Mrs. Hoyle reported her loss to the police.

Late this afternoon Patrolman George Perkins, on duty at the beach ascertained that a woman who resides in New York and who is visiting at Mystic, visited a telephone booth used by Mrs. Hoyle a short time after the latter engaged and found the purse. The woman was located and admitted finding the property, also stated that a name card in the purse revealed the owner of it. The woman added that Mrs. Hoyle had been communicated with in an endeavor to arrange for the return of the purse and its contents.

There is no material change today in the condition of Simon L. Ewald of the firm of Lyon & Ewald, who suffered a shock at his home, 320 Mohegan avenue, Saturday night. It was stated at the Ewald home this afternoon that the patient had a restful night and that his condition today was as comforable as could be expected. Mr. Ewald's left side is affected and the physician has made it mandatory that the patient be kept absolutely quiet.

Theodore Dixon of Waterford, arrested late yesterday afternoon charged with reckless driving following his automobile, which was operated by Thurston Howard, a minor, also of Waterford, being in collision with a public service automobile, owned and operated by James L. Gard, of 33 Golden street, was not prosecuted in the police court this morning being discharged without being presented before Judge Victor Prince. Dixon, who possessed an operator's license, was permitting Howard to operate the machine, which was headed southward on Bank street. At the corner of Pearl street the machine was grunded to the left of a machine traveling in the same direction and as Dixon's car was speeded up to pass the car ahead of it, the machine crashed against the public service car, which was headed in the opposite direction in which the Dixon car was traveling. Both automobiles were damaged.

Monday evening, Councilor Whiton called to the attention of the body that on the 31st of March Louis Eisenbein made application to the council for permission to "inclose a veranda" on his property on Hempstead street. The permission was granted. Now it turns out that a garage has been erected there without any regard to building lines, though the section is particularly a residential section of the city and the garage has been lined up with the sidewalk—out beyond any structure on the street. Mr. Whiton asked for information as to how the application for the erection of that garage "got up" the council. He intimated that the council had been deceived and that the garage had been erected without any authority. Then it was explained by the city manager that the application had been approved by the inspector of buildings and that he gave it his sanction on that account. He said the building inspector was aware that a garage was to be put up within the veranda and the inspector claimed that the applicant was within his rights in so doing. Mayor Scott chimed in that the veranda had not only been enclosed but that a portion of it had been cut off and the garage erected when the work was carried on. That being the case Mr. Whiton held that the council had been deceived in the matter, and that the case was, as he expressed it, a "bold and bald deception."

He declared his intention of seeking the dismissal of the building inspector if the facts turned out as represented. The matter was referred to the city manager and the director of law for further investigation and a report back to the council. Attorney McGuire, the city's law officer was consulted then and there and he expressed a desire to see the original application before he would pass on the matter. He said however, that the permission to "inclose the veranda" should be revoked, and that action was taken. He also expressed the opinion that an injunction could restrain the work of erecting the garage if it had not been completed, and intimated that the prosecuting attorney should be asked to proceed in the matter if things were as they seemed to be.

The case, it is understood, was called to the attention of the council by Mrs. Emily Spairs, a member of the planning board, after the matter had been called to her attention as an open defiance of the attempt of the planning board to secure something like building lines in the residential sections of the city. The garage extends beyond the established lines on Hempstead street and is regarded as most offensive by adjoining property owners. It is indeed hinted that the garage was erected to force adjoining owners to buy the property of which the garage is a part. People of wealth own the adjoining property and for that reason the surmised purpose is hinted at.

Another bungalow is being staked out on what is known as the circus plot of eastern Willetts avenue, where some half dozen bungalows have been put up since last fall.

The city council is considering the advisability of relaying the water main on Ocean avenue with 16-inch pipe, to replace the 6-inch main there now. This work will, it is estimated, cost the city $105,000. That means a bond issue to care for the expense, so the council will go slow to be sure that, like Davy Crockett, it is going right. Councilor Whiton called a halt to a move for the beginning of the work at once, as proposed at the last meeting of the council. He is of the opinion that a 12-inch main will answer all the purposes of the city and supply the water pressure that is needed as far south as Ocean Beach. He pointed out that the laying of a 12-inch main would cost $28,000 less than the laying of a main of 16-inch pipe, and said that the 12-inch main would give the city a volume of water five times what it now has in the 6-inch pipe. The matter is held in abeyance that it may be farther considered. Mr. Whiton declared that the water works now yield but 6 per cent. return on the immense investment, the city has in the utility and gave his opinion that an increase in water rates was coming and that it should be made at once. Water service is cheap in New London, but it cannot remain so and a 16-inch main be laid on Ocean avenue.

The police are investigating a fire that occurred last night at the store of the Liliberal Loan company, 113 Bank street, owned by Samuel Brenner. The state police, who are deputized fire marshals, according to Chief Charles Rose, have refused to conduct an investigation and as a result of this alleged action, Chief Rose stated the local authorities have taken a hand in the matter. The investigation is being conducted by Sergeants Nelson S. Smith and Frank Howard.

When the fire was discovered by a pedestrian the store was locked and the fire was blazing briskly in the center of the building. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters, causing the Niagara Engine company, Konomoc Hose company and Allen Hook and Ladder company to respond. When the firemen arrived the blaze had increased to an extent that it was believed that a call alarm would be necessary. The entrance to the store was smashed and lines of chemical were stretched to the place and their contents deposited upon the fire. After a half hour's work the blaze was extinguished and it was then that Deputy Chief Shilgman believed that the circumstances attending the fire should have the attention of the authorities. The state police responded and did conduct a partial investigation, but discontinued their efforts later, according to Chief Rose. Inquiry as to the reason for the abandonment of the investigation at the Groton barracks was fruitless because Sergeant Gorgas, who is in charge there, was not to be reached.

Following the fire, Brenner stated that he left an auctioneer in the store and that a quantity of excelsior that had been unloaded from stock, had been placed in the stove and much of the inflammable material had been deposited on the floor temporarily. After Brenner left the store the auctioneer started a fire in the stove and then decided to leave the place for a short time. Before the auctioneer returned the excelsior and wood in the stove caused such a raging fire that the inflammable articles on the floor became ignited and spread until the blaze was discovered by pedestrians and an alarm given.

Mrs. Stella Spaulding, 330 State St., late this afternoon complained to the police that since she left her home earlier in the day a section of the fence in front of her property had been destroyed. Patrolman William Manuce discovered that the fence, which was somewhat decayed where it entered the ground, had undoubtedly been razed by a heavy, but blunt object striking it. Construction work is in progress on the Mercer property directly opposite the Spaulding residence and blasting has been going on there today. It is possible that a flying stone from a blast struck the fence and smashed it, or that workmen engaged there knocked over the fence. The destruction of the fence will be investigated tomorrow when the foreman of the construction work is interviewed.

ASSOCIATION OF CREEDS TO COMBAT BIGOTRY

Jersey City, N. J., April 22.— The three creed association organized for the purpose of combatting bigotry was formed by the election of officers from the Protestant, Jewish and Catholic faiths at a luncheon here today. The association hopes to become a nation-wide movement to counteract the Ku Klux Klan and promote better feeling among the three religious faiths.

CHESTNUT HILL

Easter morning came with beautiful sunshine but before noon April showers were falling.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murdock and son John of Hartford were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Dimon on Fast Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Peckham of Manchester and Mrs. Ella Foster of Lebanon were callers at A. S. Peckham's Tuesday last.

W. W. Palmer was in Hartford one day last week.

Mrs. Anna James of Willimantic was calling on former neighbors and friends in this place Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tate and Charles Merritt of Boston, motored here Friday, remaining for the week-end with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Peckham and sons Roland and Homer, of Willimantic, spent Fast day with Mr. Peckham's parents.

A. A. Boothby of Lebanon was calling on friends here recently.

Three portable sawmills are in wood lots within a half mile distance of Chestnut Hill railroad station at present.

Letters received from Kenneth Peckham, a former Lebanon boy now living on a farm among the Green mountains in northern Vermont, tells of the April snowstorm there, the ground being covered with a soft snow between three and four feet deep. As it was in the maple sugar making season it made the gathering of sap somewhat difficult. Nine thousand five hundred trees had been tapped in the sugar orchard and at the time of writing 1000 gallons of syrup had been made besides some maple sugar. They considered at that time that the season was about half spent. It has been a good year for sugar making. Products sent to relatives here are of an excellent quality.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

Bernice Leavitt returned to Hartford Sunday.

The Men's social Thursday evening was a decided success, an oyster supper was served. The program given by the North and East Woodstock orchestra was of a high order and much enjoyed.

The Village school opened Monday, after the Easter vacation.

Mr. Cross has sold his farm on the Southbridge road to parties from the west. The Twin cottage, so called, in North Woodstock village, has been purchased by Charles Thayer of Southbridge. Other real estate deals are reported as being under consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hibbard, also Mrs. Lucy Hibbard, were Eastford visitors Sunday.

A full house greeted the students of Bethel Bible school who gave a very fine Easter service in the Congregational church here Sunday evening.

NORTH STERLING

Titus school is closed for one week for Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Deloss Wood were in Providence the past week.

Trout fishermen are meeting many disappointments owing to the water overflowing the banks of the brooks.

Friends of Stephen A. Douglas, who has been at Day Kimball hospital the past three weeks, are glad to learn that he is improving as rapidly as can be expected.

George C. Spooner was in Sterling Wednesday.

Gardens will be late this season owing to cold, wet weather. Some have a few peas planted.

Miss Elsa Johnson, teacher at Titus school, spent the Easter vacation at her home in Woodstock.

Mrs. Edith Pierce and Miss Gertrude Brooks were in Providence attending the funeral of a friend on Tuesday of last week.

Raymond Wood and family have moved from Elmville to their farm here.

Luke Adams, negro, was lynched near Norway, S. C., after having been charged with attacking a white woman.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL MAKE TIME CHANGE

Announcement was made Tuesday by Edward J. Graham, superintendent of the public schools, that the schools will conform to the daylight saving schedule by opening and closing one hour earlier beginning Monday morning, April 28. The morning session will open at 8 o'clock, standard time instead of 9 o'clock and close for the noon recess at 11, standard time. The afternoon session will open at 12.15 o'clock, standard time, and will close at 3.30. The Norwich Free Academy will also go on a daylight schedule, opening at 7.30 o'clock, standard time, and closing at 12.30, standard [illegible] that hearing is as good as seeing.

HOME—

How much will you pay for safety, for permanence, for comfort?

Portland Cement, the material making this possible, is the cheapest of all products undergoing a complete process of manufacture.

A permanent, fire-safe home can be built for from 2% to 5% more than one of impermanent materials. The protection of your investment, the safety of your loved ones, can be assured for a ridiculously small outlay. And such a home is warmer in winter, cooler in summer, and more sanitary the year 'round.

Ask your building material dealer for facts and figures on such construction. Your contractor will also tell you that it is more rapid, as well as safer, than a temporary building.

POETRY

IN EARLIEST SPRING

Tossing his mane of snows in the wildest eddies and tangles,
Lionlike, March cometh, in, hoarse with tempestuous breath,
Through all the moaning chimneys, and thwart all the hollows and angles
Round the shuddering house, threatning of winter and death.

But in my heart I feel the life of the wood and the meadow
Tarilling the pulses that own kindred with fibres that lift
But and blade to the sunward, within the inscrutable shadow,
Deep in the oak's chill core, under the gathering drift.

Nay, to earth's life in mine some prescience, or dream, or desire
(How shall I name it aright?) comes for, a moment and goes—
Rapture of life, ineffable, perfect—as if in the brier,
Leafless there by my door, trembled a sense of the rose.

— William Dean Howels.

CEDARS AT NIGHT

I have seen my cedar trees
At night against a starry sky,
Like gothic spires whose melodies
Of singing bells take wings and fly.

I have known songs of bells go far
Out over seas on windy wings,
But my silent cedars are
Ghostly towers where nothing sings.

Below my hill the valley lies
With little lights to mark the way,
Beyond the sister hills arise,
Watching the east for break of day.

The cedars know the moon that rises
To tides that answer faithfully
The moon shines on the little creeks
And makes a path on the great sea.

I saw them there in the star light
I stood and watched them, listening,
And thought of bells rung in the night
To morning stars that hear and sing.

—By Louise Driscoll, in the Lyric.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S ADDRESS AT ASSOCIATED PRESS ANNUAL LUNCHEON

New York, April 22.—Following is the text of President Coolidge's address before the annual luncheon of The Associated Press in this city today:

Associated Press Never Slumbers

The gathering and publication of news has a deeper significance than is sometimes realized. No large enterprise can exist for itself alone. It ministers to some great need. It performs some great service, not for itself, but for others; or, failing therein, it ceases to be profitable and ceases to exist. This is the case with the Associated Press. It is one of the eyes of mankind which never slumbers. Without ceasing, it assembles each day the events of each part of the world, and transmits them to every other part. The fundamental reason for this lies in the fact that it is felt to be of vital importance to each man, and each community, to know what other men and other communities are doing. The news is printed and read, not for the mere purpose of entertainment and recreation, but almost entirely for the practical knowledge of what others are doing a course may be laid out of accurate people in the ... ability to form sound judgments, when once the facts have been presented to them clearly and without prejudice. It is this educational work, national in its scope, that the Associated Press performs, and upon its integrity and fairness depends in large measure the course of public opinion in the United States. This work is done without any tinge of personal or political opinion. A very practical need exists, and it is met by a very practical service. It is individual in its nature. It is a personal service for each of us, making its appeal entirely to the intelligence of the individual and recognizing fully the American ideal of intellectual independence.

This conception is not exactly at variance with, but certainly supplementary to, the long cherished American ideal of the independence of the individual and independence of the Nation. Granted that the largest possible independence is a desirable goal, the consideration at once arises as to how such independence can best be secured. The work of the Associated Press, both necessary and logical, indicates that the true method would appear to lie in recognizing the broad principle of our individual and national dependence, calculating the requirements which flow from that condition, and governing ourselves accordingly. Complete independence means complete coordination and cooperation. From this principle arises the cooperative law of service—we can help ourselves only as we help others. A knowledge and an understanding of others become absolutely necessary, in order to make our ideals practical. One of the preeminent requirements of our country at the present time is to establish and emphasize in the public mind this law of service. The danger to America is not in the direction of the failure to maintain its economic position, but in the direction of the failure to maintain its ideals.

The principle of service is not to be confronted with a weak and impractical sentimentalism. It does not mean that either the individual or the Nation is to assume the burdens which ought to be borne by others. It is warranted in considerating self to the extent of recognizing that it is justifiable to accumulate and hold the resources which must necessarily be used to serve ourselves, our own household, and our own nation. But it does not stop there. It recognizes also the necessity of serving others, and when the need arises for meeting a moral requirement, of making individual and national sacrifices sufficient to maintain the cause of righteousness.

Must Cure Extravagance

Some of the recent developments in Washington have revealed the dangers to which I refer in a very dramatic way. Beginning nearly 10 years ago our country entered a period when conditions were altogether artificial and abnormal, culminating in the strained and lurid events of our participation in the war. The old standards of action were either suspended or entirely cast aside. Altogether too many of those in a position to do so began to take advantage of the necessities of the situation for their own profit. Finally nearly all of those in responsible positions throughout the entire civilized world had but one main object in view, which was the winning of the war. They began to make almost every consideration and motive subsidiary to that great effort. Totally inconceivable amounts of money were raised and expended with a lavishness which a few months before would have been believed impossible, and which now seems like some wild nightmare. Notwithstanding the great wave of patriotic fervor which swept over the land; notwithstanding the tremendous sacrifices which the people in every walk of life made, and stood ready to make; almost unconsciously these conditions developed, which I mention not for any purpose now to criticize, where the least scrupulous became the greatest gainers and a considerable part of our population was thrown into a morbid financial state of mind, which even the best intentioned did not wholly escape. The desire for profits and more profits kept on increasing, and the quest for easy money became well-nigh universal. All of this meant an attempt to appropriate the belongings of others without rendering a corresponding service.

This condition began to subside nearly four years ago, but it left ... its course a trail of vicious and criminal selfishness which in diminishing degree has ever since been attempting to gratify an appetite grown all the sharper through indulgence, and a general credulity to rumors of large sums of money demanded and paid on account of every conceivable motive and action.

Return to Normal Methods

From all of this nothing ... the affairs of government, of course, ... suffered. In some of it a few public officers were guilty participants. But the wonder is not that this was so much or so many, rather that it has been so little and so few. The encouraging thing at present is the evidence of a well-nigh complete return to normal methods of action, and a sane public opinion. The gravity of guilt of this kind is fully realized and publicly reprehended. There is an exceedingly healthy disposition to uproot it altogether, and administer punishment wherever competent evidence of guilt can be produced. That I am doing and propose to continue.

Another phase of lingering extravagance, from which the country has ... recovered, is revealed by the consideration of the bills which are pending before the congress, calling for an expenditure of public money. Exceedingly great efforts have been put forth to reduce the cost of government. Hundreds of thousands of public employees have been released, and every department has been thoroughly deflated and placed under most competent financial supervision. The country as a whole is demanding with great vigor every possible relief from the burden of every unnecessary public expenditure. Yet notwithstanding this, minority groups of one kind or another, and organizations, sometimes almost nation-wide in their ramifications, are making the most determined assaults upon the public treasury. I am advised by the Director of the Bureau of Budget that careful computation discloses that there are bills pending that are seriously pressed for passage, not including the bonus, which would increase the expenditures of the federal government for next year by about $3,500,000,000. This would mean that outside of the post office department, which is practically self-sustaining, the present rate of expenditure would be more than doubled. Each one of these items taken by itself is not large, and its supporters argue that certainly the government can afford to make this small addition at payment. But taken in the aggregate they make the stupendous sum I have mentioned, and their assumption by the government would mean nothing less than financial disaster to the Nation. The law of service must be applied to this situation. Our country is very rich, but were its possessions increased manyfold, it would not be warranted in paying out money except for value received. Value received on the part of the government is estimated by a general consideration of all the attending conditions. At present our country does not need a greater outlay of expense, but a greater application of constructive economy.

Sound Method of Taxation

The same state of mind is revealed again in the determined resistance which is made to the adoption of a sound method of taxation. The main arguments of the opposition can all be reduced to the supposition that the general public can be relieved of taxation and a greater proportion of taxes laid on the rich. I shall not examine the soundness of this proposal, the economic injury which it would inflict, or its impossibility as a working principle. I mention it as another example of an attempt to minister to a supposed desire to evade the law of service. It seems as though the public is assumed to desire to have the advantages of a government without paying its part of the cost of maintaining it. Besides being convinced that such a result is utterly impossible of accomplishment, I am even more firmly of the belief that it misrepresents the general attitude of the public mind. Moreover, the success of the government does not lie in wringing all the revenue it can from the people but in making their burden as light and fairly distributed as possible, consistent with the proper maintenance of the necessary public functions. The government itself in order to be successful, and all of those connected with it, must put all of their energy upon what they can do for the people, not upon what they can get out of them.

These are some of the reasons which reveal to us why, in our domestic affairs, we must be possessed of accurate information of the doings and needs of others, in order that we may best serve ourselves by serving them through appropriate action. We are all a part of one common country. To be in a healthy and successful condition economically, means a free interplay of competition in service, based upon that mutual faith in each other which we term public confidence. Notwithstanding the enormous pressure for the passage of legislation which would greatly increase the cost of maintaining the government of the United States, notwithstanding the failure of a majority of the congress up to the present time accurately to comprehend and expeditiously to minister to the need of taxation reform, I believe that the requirements of economy and reduced taxes will be met in a way not inconsistent with the great resources of our country.

Must Maintain Ideals

While I have thought it desirable to point our dangerous tendencies, I know that with a few exceptions the management of our government was been and is in honest and competent hands, that its finances are sound and well managed, and that the business interests of the nation, including the owners, managers and employees, are representative of honorable and patriotic motives, and that the present economic condition warrants a continuation of confidence and prosperity. Fundamentally, America is sound. It has both the power and disposition to maintain itself in a healthy economic and moral condition. But it can not do this by turning all its thoughts in on itself, or by making its material prosperity its supreme choice. Selfishness is only another name for suicide. A nation that is morally dead will soon be financially dead. The progress of the world rests on courage, honor and faith. If America wishes to maintain its prosperity it must maintain its ideals.

When we turn to our foreign relations, we see the working out of the same laws. If there is one ideal of national existence to which America has adhered more consistently than any other, it has been that of peace. Whatever other faults may be charged to our country, it has never been quarrelsome, belligerent, or bent on military aggrandisement. After all, the main support of peace is understanding. It is a matter of accurate information by one government and one people about other governments and other peoples. There is likewise involved the same law of service.

If our country is to stand for anything in the world, it is in order to represent any forward movement in human progress, these achievements will be measured in no small degree by what it is able to do for others. Up to a little more than twenty-five years ago, America gave almost its entire attention to self-development. In that it achieved an unequaled success. The service which it rendered to others was to a considerable degree one of example. It revealed the ability of the people to take charge of their own affairs. It demonstrated the soundness and strength of self-government under free institutions, while affording a refuge for the oppressed of other lands. The great influence which the mere existence of American institutions exercised upon the rest of the world would be difficult to overestimate. At the end of a long period of steady accomplishments of this nature came the war with Spain, which left our country a world power with world responsibilities. It is not too much to say that in meeting and bringing to a successful conclusion that conflict our country performed a world service.

Industrial Development

This was followed by a period of most remarkable industrial development. There were great consolidations of properties, enormous investments of capital, and a stupendous increase of production, all accompanied by a growth of population reaching many millions. This was our condition at the outbreak of the World war. For a long time we sought to avoid this conflict, on the assumption that it did not concern us. On that subject we were lacking in accurate information. We found, at last, that while it was also the grave concern of others, it did concern us intimately and perilously. We took our part in the war at length, in the defense of free institutions. We believe, while acknowledging that we were only one of the contributing elements, that our participation was a decisive factor. The result was a demonstration of the strength of self-governing peoples, and a victory for free institutions. Our action at this time was distinctly a world service. America made its sacrifice for what it believed was the cause of righteousness.

The sacrifices made on these occasions, which resulted in a benefit to others, resulted likewise in a benefit to ourselves. Even the evil effects which always arise from war and its aftermath have only tempered, not obliterated, these results. A flow of material resources set in toward our country, which is still going on. The general standards of living were raised. In the resulting plenty many of the old hardships of existence were removed. Our country came into a position where it had greatly increased opportunity for world leadership. In moral power it took a higher rank.

Our Foreign Policy

There can be little doubt that our presence at the treaty table softened the terms and diminished the exactions of the victorious nations, where joint covenants of defensive alliance were in part substituted for the usual territorial transfers. Our country refused to adhere to the covenant of the League of Nations with a decisive reaction which I regard as final. Following this came a continuing effort to collect reparations, which the economic chaos of Germany after a time caused to be suspended. This resulted in the French seizure of the Ruhr, with allied conferences, plans and discussions for renewing payment of reparations under some settled method of permanent adjustment. Although indirectly interested by reason of our commerce, and more especially because of the debts due to us, in having a European settlement, our government felt that the fundamental questions involved in all these discussions were the direct political concern of Europe. Our policy relative to the debts due to us from European countries was well known, and we refused to submit them to these discussions. This never meant that America was not willing to lend its assistance in the solution of the European problem in any way that did not involve us in their purely political controversies, whenever opportunity presented a plan that promised to be just and effective. But we realized that all effort was useless until all parties came to a state of mind where they saw the need to make concessions and accept friendly counsel.

In December of the year of 1922 our secretary of state, Mr. Hughes, set out the American proposal in an address which he delivered at New Haven. That proposal has now become historic. He recognized that settlement of the reparations question was probably impossible if approached after the method of a political problem. It was not so much a question to be dealt with by public officers or diplomatic agencies, which must necessarily reflect to a very marked degree the political state of mind of the various countries, but was represented as one which could be solved by the application of pure business talent and unprejudiced private enterprise. To such an effort of business men, unhampered by every unnecessary political consideration, Mr. Hughes expressed the belief that competent American citizens in private life would be ready to lend their assistance. This position was consistently maintained. Its correctness was finally demonstrated when Mr. Dawes, Mr. Young and Mr. Robinson were invited by the Reparation Commission for that purpose, and consented to serve.

The Dawes Report

The finding of the experts, which is known as the Dawes Report, has recently been made and published. It shows a great deal of research and investigation, and a broad comprehension of the requirements of the situation. It has been favorably received by the Reparation Commission. It is gratifying to understand that the allies are looking upon it with full sympathy, and Germany has expressed a willingness to cooperate in the execution of the plan. There appears to be every reason to hope that the report offers a basis for a practical solution of the reparations problem. I trust that it may commend itself to all the European governments interested as a method by which, through mutual concessions, they can arrive at a stable adjustment of the intricate and vexatious problem of reparations, and that such an outcome will provide for the restoration of Germany and the largest possible payments to the other countries.

If this result is secured, the credit which will be due to the Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, to President Harding for adopting it and supporting it, and to the three Americans and their assistants, by whose wisdom and discretion it was formulated and rendered so acceptable, will be sufficient to warrant the lasting approbation of two continents. A situation at once both intricate and difficult has been met in a most masterful way. Our countrymen are justified in looking at the result with great pride. Nothing of more importance to Europe has occurred since the Armistice.

Favors Loan for Germany

Part of the plan contemplates that a considerable loan should at once be made to Germany for immediate pressing needs, including the financing of a bank. I trust that private American capital will be willing to participate in advancing this loan. Sound business reasons exist why we should participate in the financing of works of peace in Europe, though we have repeatedly asserted that we were not in favor of advancing funds for any military purpose. It would benefit our trade and commerce, and we especially hope that it will provide a larger market for our agricultural production. It is notorious that foreign gold has been flowing into our country in great abundance. It is altogether probable that some of it can be used more to our financial advantage in Europe than it can be in the United States. Besides this, there is the humanitarian requirement, which carries such a strong appeal, and the knowledge that out of our abundance it is our duty to help where help will be used for meeting just requirements and the promotion of a peaceful purpose. We have determined to maintain our own political independence, but our economic independence will be strengthened and increased when the economic stability of Europe is restored.

Further Disarmament

We hope further that such a condition will be the beginning of a secure and enduring peace. Certainly it would remove many of the present sources of disagreement and misunderstanding among the European nations. When this adjustment is finally made, and has had sufficient time of operation to become a settled European policy, it would lay the foundation for a further effort at disarmament in accordance with the theory of the Washington Conference. Although that gathering was able to limit capital battleships, it had to leave the question of submarines, air craft, and land forces unsolved. The main reason for this was the unsettled and almost threatening condition that still existed in Europe. A final adjustment for the liquidation of reparations ought to be the beginning of a new era of peace and good will.

In the event that such a condition develops, it becomes pertinent to examine what can be done by our own country, in cooperation with others, further rid ourselves and the rest of the world of the menace and burden of competitive armaments and more effectively insure the settlement of differences between nations, not by a recourse to arms, but by a recourse to reason; not by action leading to war but by action leading to justice. Our past experience should warn us not to be overconfident in the face of so many failures, but it also justifies the hope that something may be done where already there has been some success, and at least we can demonstrate that we have done all that we can.

As a result of American initiative there is already in existence The Hague Tribunal which is equipped to function wherever arbitration seems desirable, and based in part on that, and in part on the League, there is the International Court of Justice, which is already functioning. A proposal was sent to the last senate by President Harding for our adherence to the covenant establishing this court, which I submitted to the favorable consideration of the present senate in my annual message. Other than for a World Court have been broached, but up to the present time this has seemed to me the most practical one. But these proposals for action and courts are not put forward by those who are well informed with the idea that they could be relied upon as an adequate means for entirely preventing war. They are rather a method of securing adjustment of claims and differences, and for the enforcement of treaties, when the usual channels of diplomatic negotiation fail to resolve the difficulty.

International Law

Proposals have also been made for the codification of international law. Undoubtedly something might be accomplished in this direction, although a very large body of such law consists in undertaking to establish rules of warfare and determining the rights of neutrals. One of the difficulties to be encountered would be the necessity of securing the consent of all the nations, but no doubt the agreement of the major powers would go very far in producing that result.

I do not claim to be able to announce any formula that will guarantee the peace of the world. There are certain definite things however that I believe can be done, which certainly ought to be tried, that might relieve the people of the earth of much of the burden of military armaments and diminish the probability of military operations. I believe that among these are frequent international conferences suited to particular needs. The Washington Conference did a great deal to restore harmony and good will among the nations. Another purpose of a conference is the further limitation of competitive armaments. Much remains to be accomplished in that direction. It would appear to be impractical to attempt action under present conditions, but with a certain and definite settlement of German reparations firmly established, I should favor the calling of a similar conference to achieve such limitations or armaments and initiate plans for a codification of international law, should preliminary inquiries disclose that such a proposal would meet with a sympathetic response. But the main hope of success lies in first securing a composed state of the public mind in Europe.

It is my firm belief that America is in a position to take the lead in this direction. It is undoubtedly too much to suppose that we hold very much of the affectionate regard of other nations. At the same time we do hold their respect. Our position is such that we are trusted and our business institutions and government considered to be worthy of confidence. If there is disappointment in some directions that we do not enter alliances with them, it is more than overbalanced by the knowledge that there is no danger that we shall enter alliances against them. It must be known to every people that we are seeking no acquisition of territory, and maintaining no military establishment with unfriendly and hostile intent. Like our political institutions all of this is a powerful example throughout the world. Very many of the nations have been the recipients of our favor, and have had the advantage of our help in some time of extremity. We have come to a position of great power and great responsibility.

Must Maintain American Standards

Our first duty is to ourselves. American standards must be maintained, American institutions must be preserved. The freedom of the people politically, economically, intellectually, morally and spiritually, must continue to be advanced. This is not a matter of a day or a year. It may be of generations, it may be of an era. It is for us here and now to keep in the right direction to remain constant to the rights ideals. We need a faith that is broad enough to let the people make their own mistakes. Let them come unto knowledge and understanding by their own experience. Little progress can be made by merely attempting to repress what is evil, our great hope lies in developing what is good. One newspaper is better than many criminal laws. One schoolmaster is better than a legion of bailiffs. One clergyman is better than an army with banners. These are our guarantees of internal peace and progress.

Spirit of Freedom Paramount

On what nations are at home depends what they will be abroad. If the spirit of freedom rules in their domestic affairs, it will rule in their foreign affairs. The world knows that we do not seek to rule by force of arms, our strength is in our moral power. We increase the desire for peace everywhere by being peaceful. We maintain a military force for our defense, but our offensive lies in the justice of our cause. We are against war because it is destructive. We are for peace because it is constructive. We seek concord with all nations through mutual understanding. We believe in treaties and covenants and international law as a permanent record for a reliable determination of action. All these are evidences of a right intention. But something more than these is required, to maintain the peace of the world, in its final determination, it must come from the heart of the people. Unless it abide there, we can not build for it any artificial lodging place. If the will of the world be evil, there is no artifice by which we can protect the nations from evil results. Governments can do much for the betterment of the world. They are instruments through which humanity acts in international relations because they can not do everything, they must not neglect to do what they can. But the final establishment of peace, the homely maintenance of good will toward men, will be found only in the righteousness of the people of the earth. War will cease when they will that they shall cease. Peace will reign when they will that it shall reign.

Rev. Truman Childs gave his hearers a very inspiring Easter sermon on Sunday morning.

Miss Mary Childs is spending the Easter recess with her father at the parsonage.

Mrs. Minnie Hall is home, after spending several weeks in Sterling. She made a trip to Norwich Saturday.

Edwin S. Gallup and family motored to Norwich Friday.

School opened Monday after a week's vacation.

Harmon Frink and helpers have been working on the roads which are in much better condition.

Miss Florence Gallup is in the office of Mr. Leon Frink of Plainfield as bookkeeper.

Charles Tanner of Sterling assisted his father Saturday with his farm work.

Several from here attended the Six Church Conference in Central Village Tuesday.

A very pleasing Easter concert was given in Sterling Hill church Sunday morning when the following program was carried out: Prayer, Edward Freeman; Hymn, Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today; recitations, Darkness, Howard Sayles; Joy Has Come, Russell Gallup; From Dawn to Perfect Day, Mildred Fillmore; Scripture reading by all; song, Jennie Walker; recitations, Hope Has Come, Franklyn Sayles; Victory Has Come, Stanton Gallup; exercise, At Easter Time Laura Gallup, Bernice Gallup and Rita Fillmore; recitation, The Call for Prayer, Edward Sherman; song, the children; recitation, The Call For Life, Donald Gallup; exercise, An Easter Carol, by six children; recitations, Christ in Every Land, Carolyn Hilliard; The Call for Gifts, Willis Sherman; Easter offering.

Former Representative in Congress

GALES FERRY

The order of the Easter Sunday morning service in the Methodist Episcopal church at 10.45 o'clock was as follows: Organ prelude, Ex-Beaucet from Mozart's 1st Mass, Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine, organist; hymn, Resurrection, quartette and congregation; Apostles' Creed; duet, Blest Morning, D. R. Povey, tenor; C. H. Colver, baritone; prayer, Rev. D. W. Woodward, pastor; duet, Thou Soft Flowing Kedron, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main; lesson from Old Testament; Gloria; solo, In a Garden Lone, Tudor, C. H. Colver; New Testament lesson; solo, The Lord is Risen, Eloise Smith, D. R. Povey; offertory duet, Worthy the Lamb, Harper, Mrs. Chapman, D. R. Povey.

The receiving by Rev. Mr. Woodward of four into membership with the church followed—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jennings, Mrs. Jennings by letter from the M. E. church of Troy, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davison, all from the Allyn's Point section of the parish.

Rev. Mr. Woodward's text was John 11:25, "I Am the Resurrection and the Life." Then followed the hymn, Welcome and Happy Morning and postlude, Scotson Clark. The music was under the direction of Mrs. LaFontaine. Quartette, Miss Chapman, Mrs. Main, C. H. Colver and D. R. Povey.

The decorations were flowering plants, ferns, daffodils and jonquils, arranged attractively by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Charles Hoyt and Miss Alice Satterlee. There was a large attendance.

The Sunday school at noon was well attended. Whether to use daylight saving time for the services this summer was discussed and was left to be voted on next Sunday, the 27th. This service to be standard as usual.

At the Easter Sunday evening Epworth League service with Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt leader, the topic was The Heart of Our Faith—The Living Christ. The service opened with singing Easter hymns, Miss Jennie G. Perkins, organist. Followed by responsive readings on Easter, by the leader and congregation. Special music was a solo by Mrs. Robert Townsend of Uncasville, who sang My Redeemer and My Lord, Dudley Buck. Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt was at the organ. A group of girls sang Fair Lilies, each bearing a lily. The solo, in a Garden, Lone, was repeated by request, by C. E. Colver. Mr. Colver gave a sketch of Japan, the second five minute talk that has been given in introducing the World Service work of the M. E. church, following the one given on China last Sunday by John Harold. Following this the Rev. Mr. Woodward spoke on the topic of the evening, closing the service with singing by the congregation of the doxology, and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Woodward.

Mrs. Edwin W. Jones of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and her son, Vincent Jones, of New Haven arrived last week at the home of Miss Caroline B. Freeman for a few days, and to do preliminary work at their cottage on the Bluffs before the season opens. Mr. Jones returned Sunday to New Haven, Mrs. Jones remains a few days longer.

Eddie Simmons of the Bon Ton Girls company, musical comedy, who has spent the past week with Mrs. Simmons at their home at Gales Ferdy, left Sunday night to join the company in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Rose Chambers and son, John Chambers, of Tom's River, N. J., who have been guests of Mrs. Chamber's sister, Mrs. Charles Hoyt, the past week, returned home Saturday.

Members of the Juniors of the Village Improvement association, under the direction of Mrs. Lulu B. Hempstead, planted sweet fern on the lawn terrace in the rear of the railroad station last week, the first of the proposed plan of native shrubs and flowers to be planted there.

Telephone poles have been set the past week from the Military Highway west, to the home of Peter Hoffman, on the cove, north of the Ferry, for telephone service.

Station Agent A. O. Faford and Mrs. Faford and son, Stanley, spent Easter Sunday at Onsett, Mass.

Miss Ethel Woodward of Storrs Agricultural college, spent Good Friday and the week end with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward at the M. E. parsonage.

WINDHAM

There was a large congregation at the Easter Sunday morning service at the Congregational church. A special sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Clifford. The choir was assisted by Bertram Smith of Storrs college, who sang two tenor solos which were much enjoyed. The decorations on the platform, arranged by Mrs. H. C. Lathrop included Easter lilies, hyacinths, daffodils, tulips and other flowering plants. A basket of pink and white tulips was given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Harvey in memory of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Harvey. Some of the hyacinths were raised from the bulbs by Mrs. Harvey. After the service the flowers were distributed among the sick and shut-ins.

Holy communion was celebrated at 7 a. m., Easter Sunday. At 3 p. m. Rev. F. C. Williams conducted evening prayer and preached an Easter sermon. Easter lilies were on the altar and the windows were banked with daffodils and white geraniums. The church school was omitted and the children attended the service. Each child was given a white geranium. Service next Sunday will be at 3.30 p. m.

The Easter C. E. meeting at the Congregational church was led by Clarence Beckwith and there were about 30 present. The singing was led by piano and mandolin and Eden Cook and Mr. Beckwith sang a duet.

The treasurer of the Congregational church, H. C. Lathrop, has issued the following report:

Hair Glory

One minute a day gave it to me

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My hair is my greatest glory. It grows finer every year. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. Mine is a grandmother's age, yet countless girls who see me on the stage and elsewhere, envy my luxuriant hair.

So with mother. She died at the age of 67 with hair like mine today. So with many friends who use my method. They have beautiful hair, and it does not lose its color.

I am convinced that millions in my way can multiply the beauty of their hair. And I have arranged to bring that method to them.

A French formula

My mother and I, many years ago found this formula in France. It had been developed by experts whose whole lives had been devoted to hair study.

One factor in it combats baldness oil and dandruff, the great enemies of hair. They stifle the hair roots, check hair growth, choke the supply of pigment which gives hair its color.

Other factors stimulate and fertilize the scalp. Hair thrives on such a scalp, as flowers will thrive in a clean and well-kept garden.

One minute a day

I call this formula my Hair Youth. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. Just enough to dampen the scalp. It takes but a moment, and this method does not muss the hair.

You have never known anything so effective, yet it is harmless. It does not affect the hair's color, natural or artificial. Its whole effect is on the scalp and the roots which it thrills. Hair Youth is sold under guarantee. If the first bottle fails to delight you, your dealer will return its price. So I ask you to try it at my risk. Learn what it does for your hair. Let it do what it did for me and mine, and you will reap rich rewards.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 with eye dropper. Also my Youth Cream, with two fruits in it. My Facial Youth as my famous liquid cleaner. And my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. My Beauty Book comes with each.

My Hair Youth will lead you to want my other helps, I think. And they are all now at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, 516 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

meeting to act on resignation of the pastor.

North Weymouth, Mass., where Rev. A. W. Clifford has accepted a call to the Congregational church is a town of about 2,000 inhabitants. The church has over 160 members, with a large chorus choir, a Sunday school between 100 and 200 members, and a men's class of between 20 and 30. As a curious coincidence the town is next to Braintree where another former Windham pastor, Rev. H. C. Gaines, is located.

MANSFIELD CENTER

The Easter morning service was attended by about 150. The sermon, The Meaning of Easter, was delivered by Rev. T. W. H. Jones. Mrs. Jones, who had earlier in the day preached at Spring Hill, assisted in the service. Several anthems were well rendered by the choir. The decorations were of ferns, Easter lilies, tulips, hyacinths, begonias and bougainvillea. At the close of the service baptism was administered by Rev. Mrs. Jones to the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Homer, Porter Wyman, and to the two children of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Plebout, William Byers and Dorothy Wilcox.

The Easter Christian Endeavor service was led by Mrs. Harold G. James. There was a large attendance and the special music was a vocal duet by Mrs. Willis Homer and Charles Hall.

Work was begun last week in preparing the foundation for the house to be erected by H. C. Hawkins for Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Jacobson.

Wilfred Young has left the employ of E. J. Dunham to work as a carpenter for H. C. Hawkins. Bradford Cole succeeds Mr. Young.

Among Easter visitors in town were G. C. Jenner of Rochester, N. Y., H. L. Buck of Hartford, Alan Eaton of Brown University, Miss Dresser of New Haven, Miss Olive Wildes of Hartford and Miss Lillian Dunham, Paul Janeon of Putnam and Mr. and Mrs. Tiebout of New York. Mrs. M. B. Cole is also entertaining two daughters and children from Boston.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. George Slater entertained Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Pierce and child, of Saugw Rocks, Wednesday.

Henry Leonard and John Mann of Valley Falls were visitors last week with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bailey.

A party of local people spent Easter at the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young and Truman Young, of Terryville, have been visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Charies Young.

William Ducat is driving team for A. E. Ball.

Stephen Douglass continues to improve at Day Kimball hospital. It is expected that he will be able to return home soon.

A Chevrolet car became stalled on Spaulding hill Friday afternoon, when the driver's brain refused to function after too frequent draughts of booze. The car was finally turned around with the help of other autoists and coasted back to a level where it stood until state police investigated. The men were taken in tow by the police and a garage man was sent out after the car.

Mrs. Fred Gowe was in Danielson Saturday.

ONECO

Mr. and Mrs. William Reed of Hoxton were guests Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Horace Burdick's.

Earl Holt of Providence was in town Sunday.

Herbert Kennedy is visiting his aunt, Mrs. E. E. Wells.

Mrs. Williamson, of New London has been the guest of local relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fosterson and Miss Elller Marriott, of Providence were visitors at J. H. Marriott's on Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Green of Providence was a Sunday caller at B. B. Marriott's.

The Ladies' Aid society met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Von Beck.

Worth in proper names, as in Wentworth, signifies that the place stands on a tongue of land.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, April 22.—Reactionary price movements again predominated in today's stock market as bear traders successfully uncovered weak spots in various sections of the list. Fifty-two stocks established new low prices for the year including Studebaker at 81 1-2, Baldwin at 103 and American Woolen at 62 3-8, but many of them made good recoveries from their low prices of the day.

Short covering operations which were under way just before the close, particularly in the steel shares, apparently were inspired by the constructive interpretation placed by many traders on President Coolidge's address before the members of the Associated Press and the failure of short interests to bring about heavy forced liquidation.

Marked strength of British and French currencies, which touched new high levels for the year, attracted considerable interest in the financial community. Reopening of the European markets after the prolonged Easter holidays witnessed a sharp rise in exchange rates abroad which was immediately reflected here. Demand sterling moved up two cents to above $4.39 and French francs soared more than forty points to around 6 3-4 cents. Japanese yen broke below 40 cents to a new low and Dutch guilders dropped about 15 points, other changes being of little importance.

Copper shares held relatively firm throughout the session in further reflection of speculative belief that an increased foreign demand for the red metal will materialize in the near future as a result of the rapid progress being made toward a settlement of the reparations problem. Steel shares showed good recuperative powers after an early period of heaviness.

Weakness of a number of the oil shares which resulted in Mariand and Standard Oil of California touching new 1924 lows was attributed in some quarters to reports that efforts were being made to bring about a downward readjustment of crude prices in an effort to discourage extensive drilling operations now in progress.

Textile shares were freely sold on reports of further curtailment of production in some of the New England mills. American Woolen was hammered down to 62 3-8 but it rallied later to 63 1-4, where it was off 2 points on the day.

Some of the stocks which made good recovery from recent heaviness were Coca Cola, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Cuban-American Sugar, Wilson and company, and Van Raalte preferred.

With the exception of Baltimore and Ohio which recorded another new low for the year at 52 1-8, most of the active rails displayed a firm tone. Gains of a point or more were recorded by Canadian Pacific, "Nickel Plate" and "Soo" preferred.

Call money held at four per cent. all day. Time money rates were unchanged with loans up to 90 days commanding 4 1-2 per cent. and lenders asking 4 3-4 for the longer maturities. The commercial paper market was fairly active with prime names available at 4 1-2 per cent., but the bulk of the business being transacted at 4 3-4.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 22.—Despite the predominance of reactionary tendencies in today's bond market, new top prices for the year were established by a variety of French and U. S. government issues. The continued decline in stock prices discouraged buying of all but high grade investment liens and diverted additional funds into Liberty bonds, enabling the first and fourth 4 1-2s to attain new high ground above par.

Improvement in French bonds followed a forty point rally in francs to 6 3-4 cents, the highest quotation since May, 1922. Reports that danger of disagreement over certain features of the Dawes plan had been removed stimulated steady accumulation of both governmental and municipal issues.

Renewed liquidation of Wilson and company liens and various sugar, rubber and chemical issues developed with the weakness of stocks. Although bankers reported satisfactory progress in the plans to extend the Wilson bank loans for six months, they asserted that no active efforts were being made to support the company's securities, leaving hem open to attack. The convertible 7 -2s broke 8 points today and the first 6s yielded 1 5-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 22. — Wheat eased down in price today, largely owing to Washington reports which many traders took to mean ultimate defeat of proposed legislation to change the present export system. There was an unsettled close for wheat at 1-3c to 5-8 @ 8-4c net decline, May 1.03 1-2 and July 1.05 1-4 to 1.05 1-4 @ 3-8, with corn unchanged to 3-8 lower, oats varying from 3-8c drop to 1-8 advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Throughout the greater part of the day sellers of wheat were in a majority, and were in numerous cases giving voice to an opinion that for at least the present session of congress no definite final step was to be expected as to proposed farm enactments of a sweeping character. The only decided rally in wheat prices came as a result of the fact that for a while the corn market showed strength and that vessel room was reported to have been engaged for large shipments of wheat from Canada. A new dip in wheat values, however, took place toward the end of the day when pressure to sell became again rather evident.

Although at first corn and oats showed a tendency to sag in sympathy with wheat, offerings of corn grew scarce, and the corn market made a sudden upturn aided by gossip that eastern shipping call for corn had enlarged somewhat. Besides, arrivals of corn here today amounted to only 26 cars. On the other hand, attempts to realize profits created by the upturn brought about a quick setback at the last.

Oats, like corn, were relatively firm much of the time, owing to signs of better shipping demand.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 22. — The main price tendency continued downward in today's curb market although independent strength was shown by a number of issues in each group. Trading was largely of a professional character.

Movements in the oil group were mixed, losses of a point or more by Standard Oil of Nebraska, Prairie Oil and Gass, Imperial of Canada and Chesebrough Manufacturing were counteracted by gains of 1 to 5 points in Humble, Vacuum, Magnolia, Solar Refining, Swan and Finch and Standard Oil of Ohio.

High priced industrials were heavy, American Power and Light dropped 13 points to 235 on one sale and Gillette Safety Razor, Armour preferred, New Jersey Zinc and Woodward iron selling 2 to 6 points lower. Better support appeared for Yellow Taxi which touched 21 7-8 and then fell back to 20 3-4, up 3-4. Hudson company preferred dropped more than a point.

COTTON.

MYSTIC

Some time between midnight and 6.30 Tuesday morning when the break was discovered the Mystic pharmacy on East Main street, owned by E. W. Gaswell was entered by burglars or by a burglar and various articles and some money were taken. Mr. Gaskell was at the store later than usual Monday evening, not leaving until after 12 o'clock. When his clerk opened the store Tuesday morning he immediately discovered a broken window in the rear of the store where entrance was effected. Upon investigation it was found that some loose change had been taken from the cash drawer, which was not locked, and some cigars and candy taken, and outside on the scales of the Holmes Coal company nearby in the rear of the store were found some lunch boxes and fountain pens which had evidently been dropped, it being supposed that the thief must have been frightened away before he had finished his plundering. The state police are investigating the matter. As the floor was covered with footprints, it would appear as if the break might have been made after or during the severe thunder and rain storm about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Another break occurred Sunday night at the home of Wilfred E. Lamb in West Mystic. Mrs. Lamb was awakened by their infant son being restless and upon arising smelled kerosene. She woke Mr. Lamb who upon going downstairs found things all stirred up. The back door was open, also the cellar door. As Mr. Lamb entered the room a man disappeared through the door and made a quick getaway in a machine standing outside. Nothing of value was taken but evidently the intruder had made a thorough search up to the time he was discovered.

Mystic was visited by an unusually severe thunder storm Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock, which lasted in varying degrees of intensity for about an hour. The lightning was very vivid and the thunder heavy and it was accompanied by a downpour of rain and occasional showers of hailstones.

Broadway Theatre.

The last half of this week will see a great big vaudeville show and photoplay at the Broadway theatre.

Jean La Costa and her Boys make up a company of five who offer a comedy minstrel act.

Georgia Howard is a dancing violinist.

Walter Laddie and Rose Garden appear in a comedy skit, "The Chauffeur and the Maid."

Morgret and Morrell in "The Tourists," offer a story with comedy, song and dance.

Waco Comedy Four complete the vaudeville programme.

After you see "A Society Scandal," you are quite ready to announce to the world that Gloria Swanson is not only the most beautiful woman on the screen and the most gorgeously gowned, but also that she compares favorably with the finest emotional actresses who ever lived.

Miss Swanson wears fourteen different gowns in this picture, which opens a three day run at the Broadway theatre Thursday.

Rod La Rocque, one of the most engaging leading men now extant, is the hero, and Ricardo Cortez and Allan Simpson are also in the cast.

Sells Broad Street House.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran sold to Elwood H. Towler of North Adams, Mass., the beautiful eleven-room home located at 120 Broad street. The home was formerly occupied by C. Y. James and is considered one of the choicest properties in Norwich, being located as it is and having such beautiful grounds surrounding it. The house is modern in every respect. Mr. Towler will make his home in Norwich after a few alterations are made.

ROCKVILLE

During the hard rain of Friday night a considerable damage was done to the Centerville mill property, a portion of the wall of the trench leading from the pond to the mill being washed out by the high water, which damage will take several days to repair.

Mrs. Eric G. Barber, Wilfred Barber and Florence Barber called on relatives at Wakefield Saturday.

Mrs. Emory C. Kenyon had a beautiful display of Easter flowers at the Seventh Day Baptist church services Saturday morning.

Mrs. J. P. Greene who has been seriously ill seems somewhat improved.

Lloyd Woodmansee and Leslie Kenyon were at Lord's Point Sunday.

George H. Maxson of Quonochontaug Beach was calling on relatives and friends here Thursday.

Charles O. Crandall is working for Mrs. Martha Crandall, at Quonochontaug.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield Douglass and sons Carl and Allen were callers in Westerly Friday.

Miss Olivia Chester who had a very ill turn Friday night is reported as more comfortable.

The engagement of James R. Edwards to Miss Ada M. Woodmansee has been announced.

Charles Brightman and Henry Brightman of Quonochontaug were recent caller in this place.

SOUTH LYME

The Mission circle met with Mrs. J. C. Gavin last Thursday afternoon with a large attendance. Miss Marion Stark gave details of missionary work and customs in Korea which were very interesting. Lunch was served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent.

Charles and Hamilton Jewett, of Old Lyme, visited Edward and Robert Strong several days last week.

Miss Marian Stark returned to her school in Medford, Mass the first of the week.

Mrs. Oscar Fehrer and daughters of New York, are spending the Eastern vacation at their summer home here.

The children of the Sunday school gave a very pleasing service of exercises, recitations and song Sunday afternoon.

J. Giconia and family of Longmeadow, Mass., were visitors at J. W. Stark's Sunday.

The leasing of the unallotted mineral lands in the Kaw reservation in Oklahoma is provided for in a bill passed yesterday by the [illegible] and sent to the president.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Billy Allen's Minstrels Prove Entertaining

The second Billy Allen show, Minstrels of 1924, played to a good size audience at the Palace theatre last night—an audience appreciative of good dancing. The setting last night were many and unusually pretty while the various wardrobe changes were very attractive. Billy Allen as usual was the joy of the party, one can never get tired of watching the inimitable Billy Allen, the more you see and hear him, the more you want to see this clever comedian in a class by himself, he as a Al Johnson, Frank Tinney and Eddie Cantor rolled into one. Baby Josephine again proved that she is the most wonderful child entertainer ever seen on this or any other stage. Her specialty last night proved as one of the best hits of the show, and the large audience could not get enough from this child wonder. Miss Gladys Briggs more than proved that she is a past master when it comes to dancing. Miss Briggs is an excellent terpsichorean and a ready favorite. Miss Luella Pullen pleased with her songs, also Jean Lowery in The Cane Dance and other numbers, was very delightful. The Bachelor Four rendered some very good selections, while J. Warren Lawler and Bob Fisher were more than pleasing in their "solo" specialties. The musical numbers were good and Billy Allen deserves a lot of credit for staging such fine shows. The chorus sang and danced to perfection, and the whole show was one of the best seen here in a long while. "Around the Map" a musical revue in 2 acts and 20 scenes is the show on the boards for todays matinee and tonight. Mr. Allen announced that this show is one of the best of the entire repertoire which means it is going to be "some" show.

BREED THEATRE

Something About Scaramouche

1. Rex Ingram's Scaramouche has been nationally acclaimed by press and public as the greatest of motion picture triumphs.

2. It broke New York records showing at $2.20 admission basis, and triumphed at legitimate theatre prices in its pre-release runs in leading cities throughout the country.

3. It was based on Rafael Sabatini's romantic novel of the French Revolution, Scaramouche, the most popular book in years.

4. In the thirty principal players, led by Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone and Alice Terry, and in the mob scenes 10,000 players take part.

5. The production staff included 34 assistant directors, 8 research experts, 27 cameramen, 65 electricians, and 99 costumers and wig makers. Over 1,500 tons of cobblestones, sand and gravel, and plaster were used in the construction of sets, and 726,264 feet of lumber. Cloth and lace used in making costumes announced amounted to 70,000 yards.

6. Scaramouche is showing at the Breed theatre all this week. Twice daily at 2:30 and 7:30. Popular prices.

Strand Theatre.

Admirers of Richard Dix will share his enthusiasm for the role he plays in "Quicksands," the Howard Hawks picture which comes to the Strand theatre tomorrow. Besides the popular leading man, the cast is further enhanced by Helene Chadwick, Alan Hale, Noah Beery, J. Farrell McDonald, George Cooper, Walter Long, Edwin Stevens, Frank Campeau, Jean Hershott, Dick Sutherland and others equally distinguished for strong acting.

In many pictures Richard Dix and Helene Chadwick have been cast to play opposite roles. So often indeed thatthey are looked upon as one of the ideal screen combinations. Their youth, contrasting types and their skill in portraying emotion and, best of all, their ability to make any situation or picture interesting—these qualifications have everything to do with the popularity now theirs. But to go back to the part played by Richard Dix in the new picture.

He is first lieutenant of a military post near the Mexican border and is in love with the right girl. On one of his visits of inspection to a "cantina" across the boundary in Mexico—a resort frequented by drug smugglers—he sees a Mexican belle mingling with the sinister crowd and is struck by her beauty and her resemblance to the girl who has promised to marry him.

Norwich Electric Demonstration.

At the Norwich State Armory, April 23, 24, 25 and 26, the Norwich Electric Co. is demonstrating the Westinghouse full automatic range. Miss Jane Filmore, who has charge of the demonstration is an expert sent by the Westinghouse Co., and who has given a number of lectures on domestic science and unusually well posted on this apparatus. Miss Filmore has stated that she would be glad to explain any of the details in regard to the operation of the range and other Westinghouse appliances.

TAFTVILLE

The annual meeting of the Taftville Athletic association was held Monday evening in Ponemah Hall. The following officers were elected for the coming year, President, R. Tracy Clark; vice president, William Brown; secretary, Fred Knowles; treasurer, George Weller; assistant treasurer, Andrew Frohmader; directors, James Troland, Roderick Molleur, George Coleman, Michael M. Murphy, Christopher Troeger, James White, William Donahue, Joseph Gaucher, Conrad Ducharme, Michael Tierney, Hymie Schwartz and Archie Molleur.

H. M. Winslow of New London was a business caller in the village Tuesday.

The Standing Committee of the Taftville Congregational church met Tuesday evening at the church with Chairman George J. Meyer presiding.

Mass meeting Taftville Textile Operatives' Union, Parish hall, Thursday, 7.30 p. m. Everybody invited.—adv.

It is believed that tennis will be a popular sport in the village this season. Some years ago this game enjoyed great popularity, but for the past few years it has disappeared from the sports calendar. There is now a movement on foot to again popularize this game, by organizing a club or association to sponsor the proposition in town. Courts will be built, and beginners instructed in the fine points of the game, if present plans materialize. A meeting of those interested has been set for Friday evening at Ponemah Hall, where the club will be organized. A temporary membership committee is already hard at work on the matter, and with proper support, the game should become very popular.

The Children's Dancing Class met Tuesday afternoon in Ponemah Hall.

TWO TIED AT 8,765 FOR HIGH PINOCHLE SCORE

In the play of the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club Tuesday evening at the offices of Dr. Marie Boynton, on Main street, high score was taken by Dr. Boynton and Mrs. Kromer with 8,765 each. Mrs. Kromer retained her lead in the series being 780 points ahead of Dr. Boynton.

The scores of last evening follow: Dr. Boynton, 8,765, Mrs. Kromer, 8,765; Mrs. L. Maples, 7,640; Miss A. Maples, 7,180; Mrs. Standish, 7,105; Miss McNaught, 7,045; Mrs. Risley, 7,035; Mrs. Crowell, 6,915; Mrs. Higgins, 6,835; Mrs. Stevens, 6,800; Mrs Washburn, 6,720; Miss Crumb, 6,575.

The standings are as follows: Mrs. Kromer, 117,540; Dr. Boynton, 116,810; Mrs. Higgins, 113,655; Mrs. Stevens, 113,425; Mrs. L. Maples, 113,285; Mrs. Standish, 112,255; Mrs. Washburn 111,090; Mrs. Risley, 111,155; Mrs. Crowell, 110,820; Miss McNaught, 110,515; Miss Crumb, 109,875; Miss A. Maples, 107,150.

WILL ARRANGE FOR CRIMINAL COURT BUSINESS

Warren B. Burrows, Esq., is to be at the clerk's office in the court house at Norwich on Saturday, April 26, at 10.30 a. m., for the purpose of arranging for the business of the May criminal term, which will open at New London on Tuesday, May 6, at 11 a. m., Hon. John P. Kellogg, judge.

NORTH MAIN STREET PRODUCES TWO AUTOMOBILE CASES IN ONE NIGHT

North Main street produced two automobile collisions Tuesday night, each resulting in a case for the city court.

About 7.30 as Deputy Chief H. R. Taft was coming towards the city and was near the corner of Ninth street, his motor vehicle was hit by a motor truck driven by Speron Bekris 21, of 16 Golden street, who was passing the deputy chief's car from behind. Bekris is to appear in the city court on the charge of attempting to evade responsibility, his mother having furnished bonds of $300.

According to the report made by Deputy Taft, the Bekris car hooked into the left rear mudguard and hub cap of the fireman's car and did not stop after hitting him but continued on and turned into Eighth street where it came to a stop in a dark spot. He followed after and got the driver's name. The deputy chief charged that the truck had no headlights showing when it hit his car. Four persons, two men and two women, were riding in it and all were sitting in the front seat.

Crash Near Car Barn.

Two big touring cars driven by Peter Anderson of Church street and Frank Joubert of Jewett City collided on North Main street opposite the end of Twelfth street about 10.30 as they were traveling in opposite directions. The Anderson car which was coming towards the city, had its left forward axle bent and the other machine had its left running board stripped off. When Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters found that Joubert was operating a public service car without carrying insurance he summoned him to appear in the city court. In the Joubert car at the time of the accident were a man and five women besides the driver and Anderson had a man with him.

Sergt. Thomas Murphy, Officers Riley and P. Murphy made an investigation of the accident.

PARK CHURCH PREPARING TO CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Park Congregational church is preparing to observe its half century anniversary with a special service next Sunday evening and a reception Monday evening. In the 50 years of its history the church has had but three pastors over forty years of the time having been under its present beloved leader, Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Howe.

For the first four years after the organization of the church, 1874 to 1878, Rev. Malcolm Mc G. Dana, filled the pulpit. He was succeeded by Rev. Leonard Woolsey Bacon from 1878 to 1882 and Dr. Howe came to Norwich in the fall of 1883.

The usual morning services will be conducted at the church on Sunday but in the evening at 8 o'clock an anniversary service will be held in which all the pastors of other Congregational churches of the city, Rev. A. H. Abbott, Rev. E. G. Crowdis and Rev. G. H. Bailey, will participate, and the address of the evening will be by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London. The music will be by the united choirs of Park church and the United Congregational church. The congregations of all churches in the city are invited to the anniversary service.

Monday evening there will be a reception at which there will be a special musical programme and a historical sketch will be read by Miss Amy L. Cogswell. The musical part of the programme is under the direction of Eben Learned, chorister and the general arrangements are under the direction of a committee of which F. W. Cary is chairman.

STOREHOUSE FIRE IN THAMESVILLE PAPER MILL

Box 136, private box at the Uncas Paper Board Co., mill in Thamesville, called out the fire department at 11.30 o'clock Tuesday night for a small fire in the company's new storehouse. When the firemen arrived at the plant several hose lines were quickly run into the brick-walled storehouse which was filled with dense smoke. One of the water lines was operated from the paper company's mill pump and the others were hooked up to hydrants in the mill yard.

The storehouse was well filled with bales of paper and it was difficult to locate the seat of the smouldering fire. The skylights on the storehouse were knocked in to allow a vent for the smoke. The recall was sounded at 12.25 o'clock.

Visitors From New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Pierce of New Haven were Easter guests of Mrs. Pierce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Miner of Division street. Their son Kenneth was christened at Trinity Methodist church Sunday.

ELLIOTT B. BARBER PRAISED FOR AMERICANIZATION WORK

The Danbury News of recent date said:

"The Americanization class of the evening school held its closing exercises last evening in the assembly hall of the High school. They marked the completion of the night school term, which opened October 8 last. The other departments of the school also closed last evening, but took no part in the program.

R. W. Rand, principal of the evening school, presided at the exercises, which were in charge of Elliott B. Barber, Americanization director. During the evening Mr. Barber presented certificates to the ninety-one pupils who completed the course, and announced the names of the honor students.

Supt. F. K. Watson congratulated the teachers on their work and informed the members of the class that they had one of the best staffs in the state. Mr. Watson said that for faithfulness, genuine interest and ability there is not an Americanization director in the state who surpasses Mr. Barber.

Speaking of his work, Mr. Barber said later:

"The teaching of English to the foreign born is a necessity for their welfare and for the general good. With the language barrier against them, the people who come to this country can make little progress and are subject to all sorts of handicaps and often fall victim to nefarious plots and schemes.

"This year there were 202 registered in the Americanization department, about forty women and one hundred and sixty-two men. There is a very genuine interest among the pupils. They come to learn and get the most out of the opportunity."

Mr. Barber, a former Universalist minister of Danbury, is a native of Norwich, brother of M. A. Barber of Laurel Hill avenue.

AMERICAN LEGION COUNTY CAMPAIGN TO START

Webster D. Copp, chairman of the New London County American Legion membership campaign to be held next month, has issued a call for a meeting of all campaign leaders of the county to be held at the Wauregan house on Friday evening at 7 o'clock. A supper is to be served after which the detailed plans for the campaign will be discussed. The campaign is statewide and according to the plan the state has been divided into three brigades, consisting of seven counties. The counties are then divided into regiments, each county organization representing a regiment. The New London county organization is known as the Third Regiment, First Brigade, with Mr. Copp of this city as colonel. The complete staff of the New London county organization is as follows:

First Brigade, Third regiment—Col. W. D. Copp, commanding; chief of staff, Lieut.-Col. William A. Anderson, Norwich; regimental adjutant, Maj. H. W. House, Norwich.

First Battalion—Battalion commander, Maj. Jonathan L. Johnson, Norwich; battalion adjutant, Capt. F. J. Davis, Yantic; Norwich, Captain Clifford C. Oat; Jewett City, Captain G. H. Jennings; Baltic, Captain Adelart Lemieux; Colchester, Captain George Cutler.

Second Battalion—Battalion commander, Maj. Henry S. Dorsey, New London; battalion adjutant, Capt. O. Rheaum, New London; New London, Captain Edward J. Bailey; Stonington, Captain Frank Mathews; Mystic, Captain Theodore F. Anderson; Old Lyme, Captain L. E. Carter.

SPOKE TO MEN AT NORWICH BELT PLANT

Winning A Victory, was the topic upon which Rev. E. C. Dunbar spoke Tuesday at the noon meeting at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co., under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

In part he spoke as follows:

We remember those dark days of the world war when Germany was pushing her men nearer and nearer Paris. Those were moments when it seemed that might was to win over right. Victory for the allied armies seemed impossible. In October of 1918 the whole situation changed. News came that the Hindenburg line had been broken, and from then on victory was assured. Some two thousand years before a man was seated in a room with a group of his followers. His followers loved their leader and believed in him. As Jesus talked to them he told them he was to leave them and go away. He was to be killed he said. This was darkness and dispair for the men sitting around him. To them it seemed utter defeat. The master replied, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Those words only added to the puzzle. Those men were looking into the future, but as we look back over the past we see that Jesus is overcoming the world.

Jesus is overcoming the world by the strength of his character. Man's first battle must be fought within himself if he is to overcome the forces about him. David learned the lesson. Alexander the Great realized it, coming to the throne at the age of twenty he swept everything before him yet was unable to control self and died at the age of thirty-three a sensualist. Napoleon came, conquered many, only to be defeated by his own egotism. What these failed to do Jesus accomplished, he controlled self and is teaching us how to do it today.

Jesus is overcoming the world by the power of his love. Drummond calls love the greatest thing in the world. What force and power has been unable to do love has done. Where threats and pleadings have failed, love has succeeded. In Jesus we see this power raised to its highest degree. In Him it was generous, sacrificial and constructive. The world needs more of it.

Jesus is overcoming the world by his power of service. This power was God-given. Miracles are happening all about us today. The inventor with his machines, the surgeon with his knife, medicine with its healing power in the hands of the physician all cause us to pause and wonder. Jesus accomplished even more with none of these agencies. He performed operations without the knife, he cured the sick and raised the dead with no visible medicine. He fed a large company of people with the lunch sufficient for a small boy. This power was not his own, but came from God. Its power is being felt in the world today. Jesus is winning the victory.

New State Police Sergeant.

State Policeman Walter A. Lynehan of Meriden, has been appointed a sergeant by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley. He has been a member of the state police force since its reorganization in 1921, joining it through the amalgamation of the motor vehicle department inspectors with the then existing state police department. He was appointed a motor vehicle inspector in 1920. He is a native of Hartford but has been a resident of Meriden for the past four years. His appointment becomes effective May 1. It will increase the number of sergeants in the department to nine, the number permitted by law.

NO WOMEN TO SERVE ON JURIES UNTIL 1925

Women will not be seen on federal court juries in Connecticut until the September, 1925, term, despite the recent ruling of the United States circuit court of appeal in New York that women are competent to serve on the grand, petit and trial juries, Charles E. Pickett, clerk of the United States court, district of Connecticut, said Monday.

Mr. Pickett, who, with Jury Commissioner William Wakely, selects the names from which the juries are picked, declared that while there is a possibility that some women may be named, present indications are that they will not be considered for at least a year. Jury boxes, which contain from 300 to 400 names from which the jury panels are taken, will be filled in July. This list furnishes the jurors from September, 1924, to September, 1925.

While the United States circuit court of appeals' decision allows women to serve on federal juries, by Connecticut statutes only men can serve on juries in state courts. The Connecticut League of Women Voters and the National Woman's Party were unsuccessful in attempts to get an "equal rights" bill as to jury service through the last session of the general assembly.

Sponsors of the bills said yesterday that the federal court decision would cause renewed efforts to allow women to serve on juries in the state courts. They declared that they expected to take their fight to the legislature next January.

GOES TO JAIL FOR BEATING A WITNESS

There were only two cases before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning. Tryon Whitford, colored, accused of striking William Anderson (colored) on the West Side, was given a 30-day jail sentence. The charge against him was breach of the peace. Whitford accused Anderson of giving the police information which led to the arrest of Frank Wilbur, colored, on a liquor selling charge, and a jail sentence for Wilbur. Whitford met Anderson Sunday night and attacked Anderson after some words. Taking into consideration the facts in the case, Judge Libby imposed the 30-day jail sentence as a warning to others not to meddle in matters of this kind. Anderson gave testimony at Wilbur's trial that a bottle of "white mule" which was produced in court as evidence was the bottle which he had bought at the Wilbur place.

Kostic Sepka was given a 10-day jail sentence on a charge of breach of the peace and the jail sentence was suspended for six months. He was arrested Monday night on complaint of his wife and son when he caused trouble in his home.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLES' BANQUET AND SOCIAL

The first of three young people's rallies at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church was held Tuesday evening with a banquet at 6.30 for which covers were laid for forty and an attractive menu was served by Mrs. Alvin H. Lewis, Mrs. W. R. Denison, Mrs J. I. Phillips, Mrs. Swift and Mrs. George W. Greenlaw. The tables were set in colors to represent Yale, Brown, Harvard and Wesleyan colleges.

Sterrill Chase was toastmaster and the welcome was expressed by Miss Isabel Sherer, Rev. W. H. Bath, district superintendent, spoke upon the place of young life in American Protestantism, and Rev. Frank Gay of Rockville, a conference Epworth League official, gave an entertaining talk and the pastor, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, closed his part of the evening in brief and interesting remarks.

Games and contests between the college groups were pleasantly carried out for the remainder of the evening.

LOYALTY CLASS REPORTS AT ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of Loyalty class of the First Baptist church Sunday school, held Tuesday evening in the parlors of the church the reports of the secretary, Mrs. George Rathbun, and treasurer, Mrs. Minnie Amburn, were read, showing the class to be in a good condition, financially as well as numerically. In the absence of Mrs. Rathbun, the report was given by Mrs. Walter M. Cowan.

The officers elected for the ensuing year follow: President, Mrs. Walter M. Cowan; vice president, Mrs. John J. Parsons; secretary, Mrs. Lena Perkins; treasurer, Mrs. Minnie Amburn. Plans for the year were discussed after which ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

ARRAIGNMENT OF SENATE BY FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL

Harry M. Daugherty Tells Friends and Neighbors That He Resigned Rather Than "Contribute to a Treasonable Cause"—Maintains That Pilgrimages to Moscow of Senators Was Arranged by Communist Authorities After Their Efforts to Capture American Labor Organizations Had Failed—Declares That the Senate "Was Swept Off It's Feet."

Columbus, Ohio, April 23—Harry M. Daugherty told an audience of friends and neighbors here tonight that he had given up his cabinet post rather than "contribute to a treasonable cause."

Files of the department of justice, he said, contained "abundant proof of the plans, purposes and hellish designs of the communist international."

"Bear in mind," he added, "that the files which I refused to deliver to the Wheeler investigating committee at the time my resignation was requested, were demanded by Brookhart and Wheeler, two United States senators who spent last summer in Russia with their soviet friends—those same soviet and communist leaders who preach destruction of constitutional government, destruction of human life.

"I preferred to permit my integrity to be questioned and my honor to hang in the balance, for the time being, rather than surrender the files in the keeping of the department of justice. I gladly gave up a post of honor rather than contribute to a reasonable cause."

Mr. Daugherty charged that "pilgrimages to Moscow by United States senators" had been arranged for by the communist authorities after their efforts to capture American labor organizations had failed.

"There (in Russia) no doubt, new inspirations were advanced," he continued, "as to what steps should be taken to cripple the government of the United States and crumble the columns that support it."

"It may fairly be inferred that one step in this direction was to enrapture, by deceit and design, as many members of the senate of the United States as possible and to spread in Washington and in the cloakrooms of congress a poison-gas as deadly as that which sapped and destroyed the brave soldiers in the late war.

"Time will not permit me to give on this occasion the details of the various plans and efforts undertaken to influence the senate as a body and individual members thereof. When the country is willing to hear and in condition to comprehend it, the whole story will be made known. For protection of innocent persons much of it must now be withheld."

Mr. Daugherty said that department of justice records showed that a communist movement began in the United States three years ago to destroy confidence "in our form of government."

"To this end," he continued, "confidence in men of both political parties had to be destroyed, when they could not be dominated by the directors of the movement. At any cost, by any conceivable method, cruel, criminal, or murderous, the character of men in authority had of necessity to be assissinated."

The former attorney general declared that official government records, obtained from official Russian sources, "contribute indisputable proof" of the assertions he made. He referred then to what he described as "the connection between the communists and those members of the United States senate and other individuals, who seemingly embrace the ideals of this strange and dangerous doctrine, especially as it may be applicable to the 'investigative mania'" at Washington.

"The senate was swept off its feet," Mr. Daugherty continued. "Precedent was cast to the winds. The protection of individual and official rights has been ignored. Under senatorial immunity falsehoods were reeled off by slanderous tongues of conscienceless senators. Groundless charges were made against those who had stood for the enforcement of law and for orderly processes."

The former attorney general then paid his respects to the Daugherty committee. He declared it was well known that a majority of this committee "would make an adverse report without charges and without evidence."

"I have been advised," he added, "that a resolution condemning the attorney general was prepared even before the hearings by the investigating committee commenced."

Declaring that had there been any indication that the committee investigation of the department of justice would be conducted with fairness and along proper lines, Mr. Daugherty said it had been his intention to "make public the private business transactions of my life."

"I would not have consented to do this," he said, "except for the fact that while I held office I did not want any man to feel that there was anything in my private or official life that I was disposed to conceal from a curious public. I did not abandon my intention to declare my private business transactions even when the unfair methods of the majority of the Wheeler committee became plain.

"But now, having withstood the tempest until forced off my official feet, I deny the right of the committee to investigate my private life or scrutinize my personal business transactions, though I am willing and anxious that my official acts while attorney general of the United States shall be investigated and scrutinized by the public.

"When banks are attacked, houses burglarized, graves opened, liars encouraged, individuals shadowed by spies and the Wheeler committee pursues an unlawful inquisition against a private American citizen I propose to stand my ground and deny its authority over me and advise other private citizens to do the same."

Mr. Daugherty devoted a large portion of his address to a defense of his administration as attorney general, saying that on the day when "President Coolidge was forced, through misrepresentations, to request my resignation" the department was functioning more efficiently "than at any time in the history of the government."

He declared that reports proving last the efficiency and effectiveness with which the government's business had been transacted "sleep untouched in the files of the Wheeler committee because the publication of the facts therein stated would show the insincerity and break up the game of these public purifiers."

57TH ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT OF CONNECTICUT G. A. R.

Waterbury, April 23.—With the state armory here crowded to capacity, the 57th annual encampment was opened tonight by the Department of Connecticut G. A. R. Members from every section of the state attended the campfire and were welcomed to the city by Governor Charles A. Templeton and Mayor Francis P. Guilfoile. During the day, the veterans were taken on an auto tour of the city under the auspices of the chamber of commerce and banqueted at a local hotel.

The treasury of the state department will be swelled by over $1,000 in contributions from the state department of the Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans' auxiliary and the Waterbury Daughters of Veterans. On behalf of the relief corps, Department President Eva E. Ruoff presented Commander John L. Saxe with a check for $987, while Miss Emma Fisher, of the local Daughters of Veterans turned over a check for $100. This afternoon, Mrs. Jennie Stoddard, of New Britain, division president of the State Sons of Veterans auxiliary, presented Commander Saxe with a check for $50.

In reply to these contributions, Commander Saxe expressed the appreciation of the veterans and declared that there is now enough money in the treasury to defray expenses for the ensuing year.

BANDIT FIRED WHEN GROCER THREW CANS

Philadelphia, April 23—Robert Kelly, manager of a chain grocery store was shot and seriously wounded today by a bandit when he hurled cans of tomatoes at the hold-up man.

George Lesly was captured a few minutes after the hold-up at a hospital where he had gone for treatment for a scalp wound. He was charged with highway robbery.

Kelly was reported tonight as having only a slight chance for recovery. He was shot through the abdomen.

FAY BAINTER INJURED AT MATINEE PERFORMANCE

New Haven, April 23—Fay Bainter, received injuries to her ankle at the matinee performance in a theatre here today which necessitated cancelling the evening show and may result in Miss Bainter being unable to appear tomorrow, her physician said tonight.

The injury was received when a sword at the side of an actor got in the way just as she was about to kick. The point cut a small vein, inflicting a painful gash.

COLLISION OF ZURICH AND MILAN EXPRESSES

Berne, April 23—(By the A. P.)—As far as can be learned, it appears improbable that any Americans were killed in the collision between the Zurich and Milan express trains near Bellinzona this morning. No reports of deaths or injuries have been reported from the sleeper in which four Americans were traveling and it is believed that they escaped.

DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST EVELYN NESBIT RESTORED

New York, April 23—Suit for divorce brought by Jack Clifford, dancer against Evelyn Nesbit, formerly wife of Harry K. Thaw, was restored to the trial calendar of the supreme court today. Clifford had moved originally to have the case stricken from the calendar, but was said to have changed his mind.

OBITUARY

Nathaniel E. Bartlett.

Boston, April 23.—Nathaniel E. Bartlett, for thirty years connected with the firm of N. J. Bartlett and company, Cornhill book sellers, founded by his father, died today at his home in Andover. He was born in 1866 in the house where he died, and was graduated from Harvard in 1889.

Nelson P. Jessup.

Stamford, Conn., April 23.—Nelson P. Jessup, president of the American Tarift Check corporation and former postmaster of this city, died at the Stamford hospital today from acute heart trouble. He was stricken while at his desk at his New York office on Monday.

Mr. Jessup was born in Greenwich 66 years ago, and was a descendant of the founders of Stamford and great-grandson of General Edward Jessup, of Revolutionary war days. He came here at the age of 8, and as a boy entered the postal service rising to assistant postmaster. He was postmaster for several years prior to 1913. After leaving the postal service he organized the National Thrift society.

Mr. Jessup is survived by a wife, two sons, a daughter and two sisters.

Replying to recent criticism by Former Attorney General Daugherty of the senate investigation, Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee, declared in a statement that "the evidence thus far adduced before the committee is but a drop in the bucket, and therefore it will be impossible to avoid unintentional omissions.

Because of this I am going to ask the organizations that do not receive invitations, and that are embraced in the above outlined category, to write at once to my chairman, Colonel Roosevelt, in regard to their representation.

"In general some of the topics which will be discussed and upon which it is hoped conclusions may be reached and constructive suggestions formulated, are:

"Encouragement of outdoor recreation as a federal function constitutional or legal authority for federal participation; the bearing of outdoor recreation on mental, physical, social and moral development; outdoor recreation as an influence in child welfare; the wild-life (game and fur-bearing animals—birds, fish and plants), resources of the United States; the scenic resources of the United States, and major possibilities of national cooperaiton in promotion of recreation.

"Under the last named topic the following questions will be especially considered:

"Formation of advisory councils on outdoor recreation; closer correlation of work of units of government organization; closer correlation of agencies other than federal, and their correlation with federal agencies; formulation of an educational program for outdoor recreation; promotion and coordination of game preservation and survey and classification of recreation resources.

"This is not an effort to federalize recreation at the expense of state, municipal, local or private interest therein. Individual effort should at all times be encouraged. Many of these interests, however, though working generally toward the same end, do not attain the maximum results because there is no coordination.

"It will be the object of this conference, therefore, to assist in forming a national policy which will coordinate all these activities. The prime objective for which I feel we should strive is to endeavor to make available to the average American, outdoor recreation with all that it implies, and to preserve our facilities for outdoor recreation for our children and our children's children."

Chilean Cabinet Resigns.

Santiago, Chile, April 23 (By the A. P.)—The Chilean cabinet resigned today after a vote of lack of confidence in the senate, a majority opposing President Alessandi. The resignation will be held in abeyance until June 1, when the new parliament assembles, giving a majority to the government.

Huge Japanese Mass Meeting.

Osaka, JaJpan, April 23.—Resolutions calling on the American people, as the "friends of humanity" to seek reconsideration of the action of the United States congress in adopting the Japanese exclusion clause of the immigration bill, were passed unanimously at a huge mass meeting held here today under the auspices of the newspapers Mainichi, Asahi, Jiji and Kansainitto and the Federation of Trade association.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The senate passed the soldier bonus bill.

The senate oil committee heard testimony as to the effect of drainage on naval oil reserves.

President Coolidge transmitted to the senate correspondence with foreign governments concerning oil concessions.

The department was advised that a peace conference had been arranged between the contending forces in Honduras.

A group of Lutherans opposed the Streinig-Reed bill for a department of education before the house education committee.

A call for a national conference on outdoor recreation was issued by President Coolidge to meet in Washington May 22 to 24.

Arguments were concluded in the District of Columbia court of appeals in the effort to set aside the packers' consent decree

A sustained assault on the Ford bid was made by witnesses who appeared before the senate agriculture committee considering the Muscle Shoals question.

The senate committee investigating the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, questioned J. V. Beaulieu, a western attorney about Wheelers law practices.

Vice Chairman Plumme of the shipping board, was questioned by a house investigation committee about the activities of Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, as unofficial referee in a claims case.

FINDS BRIDGEPORT TAX METHODS INEFFICIENT

Bridgeport, April 23—Thomas J. Linder, New Britain tax expert, called into consultation with the republican administration here as the result of the outcry against the inflation of the grand list and the subsequent investigation of State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, which is still under way, stated today that from his knowledge of the situation he could not see how accurate assessing is possible under present methods.

However, he said, conditions are as good here as those existing in the average city. Lack of necessary data was one of the reasons ascribed for the condition. "It is no ta case of being incurably sick," he said. "I believe the condition can be straightened out, but it must be done honestly, thoroughly and accurately, else the result will be a situation but little better than that at present." Experts are needed to supervise the work of revision, he said.

SOLDIERS ARE DOING STRIKE DUTY IN HAVANA

Havana, April 23—(By the A. P.)—In order to prevent possible disorders arising from the general strike now in progress, the government today ordered soldiers and national police to guard water mains, the electric light plant and large privately owned gasoline tanks in the city. President Zayas during the day issued a manifesto promising to maintain public order and urging the people to give no credence to alarmist reports in circulation.

Gervasio Sierra, one of the leaders of the striking dock workers, was arreste dtoday charged with intimidating men who desired to return to their jobs. He was ordered held without bail pending an investigation of an allegation that he killed another workman while firing at a policeman near the docks. It was alleged also that Sierra was fermenting a plot to destroy the water works.

DENIED CITIZENSHIP BECAUSE OF TRACE OF CHINESE BLOOD

Hartford, April 23—A slight trace of Chinese blood in his veins today cost Abel W. J. Bahr, of Greenwich, an art collector with a place of business in New York, his right to citizenship in this country, when his application was passed upon in the United States court by Judge Edwin S. Thomas.

Bahr's grandfather, it developed at the hearing, an English missionary in China, wed a Chinese woman and the denial of citizenship papers is based on this fact.

WARNING TO BEWARE OF WILD CAT INVESTMENTS

New York, April 23.—A fifty per cent. dividend totalling $12,696 was paid today on claims of 26 per sons who proved that they had invested their money with the Sunshine Homes and Concrete Products company for the purchase of poured concrete dwellings which they charged were never delivered.

District Attorney McGeGehan, who made the payments also gave investors secured notes for the balance of their claims, warning them to beware of "wildcat investments."

VOTE TO AMEND THE NATIONAL BANK BILL

Washington, April 23.—The house banking committee considering the McFadden bill to amend the national bank bill today voted against statewide and country-wide branch banking by national banks and in favor of confining such branch banking to the corporate limits of a municipality where state banks and trust companies have branches.

Soldier Bonus Bill Passed by Sen[ate]

Cash For Veterans Entitled to More Than $50—20-year Endowment Policies to Others.

Washington, April 23—The senate, following in the footsteps of the house passed the soldiers bonus insurance bill today by a majority sufficient to carry it over a presidential veto. The vote was 67 to 17.

President Coolidge has declared against a bonus, but proponents of this particular kind of adjusted compensation legislation are hopeful that it will meet with his approval. Before the bill reaches him, however, it must go to conference for adjustment of minor differences with the house.

Assured by republican leaders that they would vote to override a veto of the bill, but would support a veto of a cash bonus measure, the senate resisted all efforts to add a cash option.

The test on this question came with the rejection, 47 to 38, of an amendment by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, which would have left with the former service men the choice of full cash payments or the insurance certificates provided for in both the senate and house bills.

Many democratic senators who voted for the measure in its present form denounced it as a "miserable makeshift," and a "gold brick" and formal notice was given that at some future time efforts would be made to amend it so as to enable the veterans to get cash.

On the final vote on the bill, nine democrats and eight republicans opposed it, while 33 republicans, 32 democrats and the two farmer-labor senators supported it. The roll call follows:

For the bonus:

Republicans—Brandegee, Brookhart, Burstum, Cameron, Capper, Colt, Cummins, Curtis, Dale Elkins, Fess, Frazier, Gooding, Hale, Howell, Jones of Washington; Keyes, Ladd, Lodge, McCormick, McKinley, McLean, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Oddie, Phipps, Shortridge, Spencer, Stanfield, Sterling, Warren and Willis—33.

Democrats—Adams, Ashurst, Broussard, Caraway, Copeland, Ferris, Fletcher, George, Gerry, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick, McAdler, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Owen, Pittman, Rainton, Ransdell, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Stephens, Stanley, Trammell, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana and Wheeler, Dill.—32.

Farmer-Labor—Johnson of Minnesota and Shipstead.—2.

Total 67.

Against the bonus:

Republicans—Ball, Borah, Edge, Ernst, Fernald, Pepper, Smoot and Wadsworth—8.

Democrats—Bayard, Bruce, Dial, Edwads, Glass, King, Shields, Swanson, and Underwood.—5,

Total 17.

Rail call—Of the twelve senators absent, four were paired for the bill with four against it and four were without pairs. Those paired were:

Lenroot for with Reed of Pennsylvania, against.

Couzens for with Weller against.

Watson for with Greene against.

Johnson of California for with Moses against.

Senators Robinson, Reed of Missouri, and Harreld were announced as in favor of the measure, while no announcement was made as to Senator LaFollette's position.

Six senators who voted against the bill voted in favor of the cash option feature. They were Borah, republican, and Dial, Glass, King, Swanson and Underwood, democrats.

There is no difference between the senate and house on the main features of the bill. Each has approved the major provisions which are:

Cash payments to veterans whose adjusted compensation would not exceed $50.

Twenty year endowment insurance policies based on adjusted service pay at the rate of $1 a day for domestic service and $1.25 a day for overseas service.

Provision is made in the insurance feature under which the veteran, after a period of two years from the date of the issue of his certificate, could obtain loans from banks up to 90 per cent. of the current cash value of the certificate.

The more important amendments written into the house bill by the senate were:

That cash payments be made available immediately instead of after nine months from the date of the enactment of the measure.

That the insurance certificates would issue after July 1, 1925, instead of January 1, 1925.

That veterans should be relieved of paying compound interest to the treasury upon redemption of certificates which had been allowed to lapse as security for bank loans.

Placing entire control of the administration of the act under the direction of the veterans' bureau instead of under the secretary of war and secretary of the navy.

Eliminating employes of the public health service from the benefits of the bill.

Making the legislation applicable to female yeomen of the navy, female marines, the Philippine scouts and Porto Rico regiment of infantry. Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, author of the amendment to defer six months the time of issuing the certificates, explained privately that the purpose was to hold up the certificate until the newly elected congress might have opportunity to amend the measure to include the cash option.

Eight hours of oratory and voting on amendments preceded final passage of the bill. Senators Underwood, of Alabama, and Glass of Virginia, democrats, led the opposition today to any kind of bonus legislation.

After the first hour, senators were limited to addresses of ten minutes on each amendment and several of them availed themselves of the opportunity to speak frequently if briefly.

Towards the last the senate grew impatient there were frequent efforts to shut off senators with cries of "vote," "vote."

At the finish there was general warning that the fight for a "real" bonus had not ended; that no question could be settled until it had been settled right.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking democrat on the finance committee vehemently declared that the service men would find this bill a "goldbrick," just as the farmers had found the republican tariff bill to be a "goldbrick."

"There will be another opportunity for senators to vote on this question," he said, "at a time when senators are not restrained by threats coming from the White House. If the president signs this bill after he had declared against a bonus, he will do so because he does not think it is a bonus."

Endeavoring to Check Advance of the Franc

Rapid Increase in Value is Unfavorable to the French Import and Export Business.

New York, April 23.—French banking interests, which six weeks ago were actively buying francs in a determined effort to check the so-called "foreign offensive against the franc," today were as actively selling the French currency in a desperate effort to stabilize it and check the rapid advance resulting from the panic-stricken retreat of the short interests. From March 10 when they established their record-breaking low of 3.45 cents each, French francs have soared until today they touched 6.84 cents, the highest quotations since the spring of last year. Paris selling sent them back to 6.63 cents in the late afternoon trading.

International bankers reported today that the brisk advance in francs, especially the 60 point jump in the last week, has had an unfavorable effect on French import and export business resulting in a number of cancellations of orders payable in francs for which no hedges had been placed in the foreign exchange market. French manufacturers of perfumery, toilet articles and automobiles are reported to have been the hardest hit by cancellations.

Heavy speculation in French francs, particularly by central European speculators has been under way since the complete collapse of the German paper currency. Emboldened by their early success, these speculators enlarged their operations and the intensity of their attacks until a short interest of unusually huge proportions had been built up, despite artificial attempts of the French to stabilize their currency.

Active retreat of the short interest did not start until after J. P. Morgan & Co., placed at the disposal of the French government a credit of $100,000,000, and more, if necessary to stabilize its currency. Since then francs have mounted steadily upward. French government support was withdrawn some time ago when it became evident that shorts, who were being charged as much as 10 per cent. a month on uncovered contracts, would provide all the buying power necessary.

The rapid progress made in the last fortnight towards a settlement of the reparations plan has brought about such active covering that the London, New York and Amsterdam markets were swamped with buying orders, most of which were traced to Vienna and Berlin.

The recovery in sterling exchange, which has crossed $4.40 to a new high level for the year, has been due, in part, according to local bankers, to the return home of British capital which was invested in American securities when the labor government assumed control htrough feat of a capital levy nad other socialistic doctrines being placed in effect.

NATIONAL BALLOON RACE STARTED IN SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio, Texas, April 23.—(By The A. P.)—Seven giant gas bags took off here late today in the national Elimination Balloon race and tonight, with their two men crews, were drifting northward through the trackless paths of the air seeking new marks of endurance and distance.

The balloons expect to be over Indiana or Ohio tomorrow morning if all goes well.

The balloons got away easily, rising in a gentle breeze that swept Kelly Field, the starting point, from the south.

The pilot balloon rose in the air at 4:43 p. m., andw the race was on. The pilot headed off slight west of north but the air reading indicated the balloons would strike cross currents over Oklahoma or Missouri and that it would then drift northeastward across the Mississippi river. The pilot balloon will remain n the ar long enough to indicate the direction of the current.

Captain H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis, veteran aeronaut, piloting the Kahsas City Co-operative club entry, was the first contestant to get away. His bag rose at 5.1 5o'clock.

At five minute intervals the other contestants gracefully took the air, the baskets swaying gently in the steady breeze.

TAX BILL UNFINISHED BUSINESS IN SENATE

Washington, April 23.—The tax reduction bill was made the unfinished business of the senate today within five minutes after the passage of the soldier bonus measure.

After two hours given over to the consideration of minor measures, the senate will plunge tomorrow into what is destined to be the bitterest legislative battle of the session. The Mellon income tax rates will be the center of the controversy.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, in moving to take up the revenue measure, predicted that a minimum of two weeks would be required for its disposition. Other leaders, however, are less optimistic.

Should the fight be prolonged, Senator Smoot said he would put aside the measure temporarily in order to pass the several appropriation bills now pending or soon to reach the senate from the house.

A whole new income tax schedule has been presented by the democrats and they are prepared to make a determined fight to substitute it for the Mellon plan. They expect to draw support from the republican insurgents and some of the so-called progressives on the majority side.

CONFERENCE ON OUTDOOR RECREATION MAY 22 TO 24

Call Issued by President Coolidge For National Gathering in Washington—Policy Deals With Phases of National, State, Municipal and Private Affairs—Col. Theodore Roosevelt to Act as Executive Chairman.

Washington, April 23—Call was issued today by President Coolidge for a national conference on outdoor recreation to meet May 22 to 24 in Washington.

Announcement of the conference was made at the white house in a formal statement issued by the president after he had conferred with Secretaries Weeks, Work, Wallace and Hoover, and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, whom the chief executive recently designated as members of a committee to draft a national outdoor recreation policy.

The purpose of the conference will be to assist the committee in forming a national program and Secretary Roosevelt, who today was designated as executive chairman of the conference, was instructed to send out invitations for the meeting.

The president's statement said:

"Since the first announcement as to the needs of a national outdoor recreation policy, so many expressions of approval of such a project and so many offers of assistance in furthering it have been received by individual members of my committee, that it is their unanimous opinion that a conference on this important subject should be called to meet in the city of Washington in the near future to assist the committee in forming a national program.

"The proposed policy covers such a range of subjects, touches so many phases of our national life and is the immediate mission of so many existing agencies, national, state, municipal and private, that I feel that federal leadership and support to coordinate this activity are desirable and I therefore heartily concur in the recommendations of my committee. May 22-24 inclusive has been selected as the time for this conference and the new national museum in Washington, D. C., as the place.

"I have appointed Colonel Theodore Roosevelt to act as executive chairman for the conference, and Secretaries Weeks, Work, Wallace and Hoover as honorary chairmen. I have instructed Colonel Roosevelt to communicate with the national civilian organization sinterested in this great subject, and ask them to send delegates to the conference. There is no all-embracing list of these organiza-

COOLIDGE WINS ALL NEW JERSEY DELEGATES

Newark, N. J., April 23.—President Coolidge swept New Jersey in yesterday's presidential preferential primary and cast gloom on the nomination hopes of United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson by winning all of the state's 31 republican convention delegates. President Coolidge polled 106,558 preference votes against the Californian's 12,076, with only a small rural vote missing.

The seven Coolidge delegates at large led their Johnson opponents by over 70,000 votes and 24 district delegates finished with substantial leads in every district, not one Johnson man giving the victors a doubtful count. Neither opposition of the anti-saloon league to two Coolidge delegates at large nor splits within the president's forces served in any case to turn away his supporters.

United States Senator Walter E. Edge and former Governor Edward C. Stokes, whose candidacies for Coolidge delegates at large were opposed by the Anti-Saloon League, received substantial majorities over Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, supported by the league.

Considerable interest was displayed in this phase of the election because of the rumors that Frelinghuysen next fall will contest the republican nomination with the present senior senator.

The entire democratic delegation will support Governor George Silzer for the party's presidential nomination. The New Jersey executive will have 28 district delegates in the convention from this state, and eight delegates at large, the latter with half a vote each, making a total of 32 votes.

THAW IN CONFERENCE WITH HIS LAWYERS

Philadelphia, April 23.—Harry K. Thaw, who was pronounced sane and capable of managing his affairs by a jury in common pleas court last night, spent most of today in conference with his attorney, former Judge John M. Patterson. Motoring from the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases in West Philadelphia, he arrived at Mr. Patterson's office early in the forenoon, and with the exception of a few hours spent with his mother, Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, at her hotel, he was with his lawyer most of the day.

Thaw is still in the custody of the court and will remain so until the question of an appeal by those opposing his freedom has been disposed of and his release is signed by Judge Monaghan. Laywers representing the Thaw estate and Evelyn Nesbit, his divorced wife, announced tonight that they were awaiting word from the trustees of the estate before taking further action regarding the appeal. Arthur G. Dickson, counsel for the estate, said the matter probably would be definitely decided tomorrow. Motoin for a new trial must be filed by Saturday.

Thaw was said by his personal physician, Dr. Elwood R. Kirby, tonight to have under consideration plans to make financial provisions for his divorced wife.

STRASSBURGER LEADING PINCHOT BY 221,355 VOTES

Philadelphia, April 23.—Returns from 6772 election districts out of 8119 show that Ralph Beaver Strassburger is leading Governor Pinchot by 221,355 in the vote cast at yesterday's primary in the contest between these candidates for republican delegate-at-large. The vote was Strassburger 460,601; Pinchot 239,246.

BOBBED-HAIR BANDIT AND HUSBAND PLEADED GUILTY

New York, April 23.—In a dramatic setting which fittingly climaxed their sensational career, Celia Cooney, bobbed-haired bandit, and her husband, Edward, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging first degree robbery before County Judge Martin in Brooklyn today. They were remanded for further hearing Tuesday. Three other indictments were returned against them this morning.

After passing with their charges between two files of curious onlookers who lined the streets from headquarters to the court house, detectives forcibly opened a passage to the courtroom.

Judge Martin asked the couple how they pleaded to the charge. One of their lawyers answered, "Not guilty."

District Attorney Dodd told the judge the defendants had rejected counsel. On confirmation of this fact from the Cooneys the judge dismissed the lawyers. Then, turning to the prisoners, he said sternly, "If you are guilty it will be best for your to make a clean breast of it."

HONDURAN REBEL PLANES DROP EXPLOSIVE BOMBS

San Salvador, April 23 (By the A. P.)—Rebel airplanes have dropped explosive bombs upon Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, killing a number of inhabitants, according to advices received here. It is said none of the soldiers defending the city was killed.

The rebel artillery is bombarding the mountain batteries of the defenders of Tegucigalpa, who have been reinforced by counter-revolutionary tropos driven out of Choluteca when the rebels captured that town.

Despatches received here today say that active negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the situation are under way, due to the intervention of Sumner Welles, who was sent to Honduras by President Coolidge in an endeavor to end the warfare. Mr. Welles is said to have urged the discordant factions to agree upon a compromise candidate for the post of provisional president of the republic and to hold elections.

TREATMENT TO EVENTUALLY EXTERMINATE SCARLET FEVER

Rochester, N. Y., April 23.—Public demonstration of the new Dick toxin, which, it is claimed, will revolutionize treatment of scarlet fever and eventually exterminate it, was given today for the first time by Abraham Zingher, of the research laboratory of New York before the Medical Society of the State of New York in convention here.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
51 Church St. Telephone 1082

A short session of the criminal term of the Windham county superior court was held in this city Wednesday morning. The session lasted but eight minutes. It was preceded by the opening of court for civil business for seven minutes, while Judge John J. Kellogg listened to a short financial report from the receiver of the Manhanset Manufacturing company of Putnam, read by Attorney Rabin S. Russell.

Fred Morin of Plainfield was before the court on a charge of violation of Section 6430 of the General Statutes, for a criminal assault on a demented person. The crime was alleged to have been committed on or about June 9, 1923. Morin was committed from the Plainfield town court to the county jail some two months ago. He was put to plea and through his counsel, County Protector Charles L. Torrey, he admitted his guilt on the second count, charging assault. As Morin had already served two months in jail, Judge Kellogg imposed a sentence of six months which he will serve in addition to the other period.

Preparations were being made to call the case of William H. Horton, formerly of this city, now of Providence, R. I., charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, but it was discovered that the accused was not present in the court room. The case was scheduled to come up last week but a continuance was granted to give Horton's bondsman a chance to have the accused appear. County Protector Charles L. Torrey stated that he had received a telephone message from Horton on Monday night, in which the latter said that he would be on hand Wednesday. His bondsman, Arthur J. Dubreuil of this city, said that Horton had telephoned him Tuesday evening and promised to appear here Wednesday. Mr. Dubreuil got in touch with Horton's employer in Providence and was notified that the accused was ill at his rooming place. After a conference between the court officials, the case was continued to Monday, May 26, with orders that it must be disposed of at that time. Horton wrecked an automobile on Church street here, July 10, 1923.

States Attorney Searls informed the court that about all of the criminal cases on the docket that were ready for hearing had been disposed of. Judge Kellogg then adjourned court to Monday, May 26.

A Columbia Model E roadster with a six-cylinder motor, was stolen between 8 and 10 o'clock Wednesday forenoon, from Moulton's court, near Milk street, where it had been parked by the owner, Francis H. Sherman, of 83 Turner street. When Mr. Sherman discovered his loss he notified the police department and Chief MacArthur and Officer A. Hurley started an investigation but were not successful in securing any clues as to the identity of the thieves or thief. A general call was then sent to various cities in eastern Connecticut, asking the police to watch for the machine. The car bore the Connecticut registry number 787, had a maroon body with black running gear and top, disk wheels and spare tire mounted flat on the back of the machine. The roadster was the only one of its type in this city. Mr. Sherman is connected with the S. C. S. box shop located on Moulton's court.

Charles E. Leonard, acting through his attorney, Thomas J. Kelley, has brought foreclosure proceedings against John L. Leonard, Fannie M. Leonard and Maurice S. Leonard. The proceedings will be heard before the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in May.

According to the process served by Deputy Sheriff Addison J. Greenslit, it is alleged that on May 29, 1920, the plaintiff took up a mortgage of $8,000 on several promissory notes from the defendants jointly, on the property used as an automobile repair and storage place, bounded by Meadow street on the south Walnut street on the west, Valley street on the north and private property on the east.

Payment on the mortgage was due the plaintiff it is alleged, one year from date with interest of 6 per cent payable semi-annually. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants are still in possession of the property mentioned and that the notes are still owed to the plaintiff and wholly unpaid. He now seeks foreclosure and possession of the property in question.

Nation-wide fame as an entomologist has been gained by Frederick A. Fenton, son of Frank D. Fenton and brother of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, a native son of Windham. Mr. Fenton is rated as one of the leading experts in the country as an investigator in research in the extermination of the corn borer and the cotton boll weevil, according to publications of the United States Department of Agriculture. Mr. Fenton has addressed many gatherings of agriculturists, farm bureau and other organizations and had directed demonstrations in the work of eradicating the corn borer and other vegetable pests in the middle west. The cotton boll weevil has also been a source of study and research to Mr. Fenton. Mr. Fenton was recently appointed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to take charge of the work in the south, with headquarters at Florence, South Carolina. The government also furnished him with a home to which he and his family moved from Ames, Iowa.

Mr. Fenton attended grammar school in this city and was graduated from Windham High school in the class of 1912 and later from Clark University at Worcester, Mass. He has received degrees from the Ohio and Wisconsin University. During the World war he enlisted in the U. S. army and served in the Seventy-sixth Infantry at Camp Devens. He became identified with the Iowa State University after being mustered out of the army.

General interest centers in the opening of the American Thread Athletic association carnival. There is an added appeal in the fact that the proceeds will go toward securing a first class baseball team to represent Willimantic in the Connecticut State league during the coming season. The engagement will be opened with a street parade and an address of welcome by Mayor Hormisdas Dion. Parade Chairman John P. McQuillan will be assisted by Aides Thomas Moran, Alfred Mathewson, Lester French and John J. Farrell. The general committee in charge includes: Joseph Meikle, Joseph Vinzelette, Andrew Ogazalek, A. Lord, Burt Moriarty, John P. McQuillan, Charles W. Hill, Samuel Baron, John J. Farrell, Thomas Moran, Alfred Mathewson, T. J. Connelly, Lester French, William Champlin, Florence Woodworth, Mary Benoit, Ada Howlett, Marion McCarthy, Margaret Ronan, Mollie Parent, Mildred Pickett, Marion Bernard, Florence Coutu and May Haggerty. Thomas O'Brien is the chairman.

Director Joseph F. Gaudreau and some twenty-five members of St. Mary's choir boys, will observe the annual choir day today (Thursday). Mass will be attended at 8 o'clock and this will be followed by a baseball engagement at Recreation Park at 9.30 with St. Joseph's school team. Various athletic events will follow. Luncheon will then be enjoyed and the party will motor to Norwich where they will enjoy a tour of the Norwich Bulletin plant, through the courtesy of the management. The boys will witness the presentation of a musical comedy at a Norwich theatre as the guests of Archille Gaudreau. The delegation will also call on Rev. U. O. Bellerose of Taftville, on the return trip.

The East Hampton Bank and Trust company has brought civil suit against L. Cohen of Colchester, claiming damages of $3,500, through Attorney T. C. Flood of Portland. The plaintiffs seek to recover on a note for the above amount which Cohen endorsed. Deputy Sheriff A. J. Greenslit of this city garnisheed money in the Willimantic Trust company to the amount of $185 deposited there in the name of Cohen. An attachment has also been placed on the Cohen home in Colchester by Sheriff Greenslit.

Among awards handed down by Compensation Commissioner George E. Chandler, at Hartford, this week, was one of local interest: Hiram G. Williams of this city was awarded commuted compensation of $307.86 for permanent partial incapacity of the right foot resulting from injuries said to have been received while in the employ of the American Railway Express company. Additional compensation was allowed for the total incapacity for thirty-one days, amounting to $60.

Pauline Marino, 11-year-old daughter of Frank Marino of New York city is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from a fractured left forearm. The little girl, who is visiting at the home of Mrs. Josephine Marino, in the Flanders district, town of Coventry, sustained the injury from a fall while at play Tuesday.

Antonio Delude, who was reported as having been sentenced to the state reformatory from the session of superior court held in Rockville last Wednesday is still at large and states that the case against him was nolled.

Orlando P. Smith of the Willimantic postoffice, secretary of the local branch of the civil service commission, was in charge of a competitive examination called for by the department Wednesday forenoon in which two young women graduates of the Connecticut Agricultural college took the examinations for junior homs economics instructors and three young men of the college, the examinations for junior entomologists. The examinations were conducted in the common council chamber.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance recently entertained Alderman Joseph Coyle of New Haven.

Mrs. Alice Barrows, Mrs. Alice Easterbrooks, Mrs. Helen French, Mrs. Maud Deming, Mrs. Carrie Hall and Mrs. Margaret McArthur of this city were in Waterbury Wednesday as delegates to the state convention of the Woman's Relief Corps held there yesterday and today (Thursday) in connection with the state encampment of the G. A. R.

George W. Thompson of Walnut street and George Thompson of Pleasant street and Mrs. B. H. Farley of New Haven attended the funeral of their relative, George N. Prentice of Holyoke, Mass., Wednesday.

Thomas A. Southward, who died at his home, 360 Pleasant street, Tuesday night at 11.45 o'clock, was born November 22, 1859, in St. John's, New Brunswick, a son of George E. and Francis Carpenter Southward. Besides his wife, Mrs. Florence A. Southward, he leaves his mother, Mrs. Francis Southward of Cambridge, Mass., a sister, Mrs. Charlotte P. Davis of Cambridge, two sons, Harvey L. Southward of Swampscott, Mass., and Elliott B. Southward of Willimantic, also a daughter, Janice A. Southward, also of this city.

Mr. Southward resided in Boston for many years and came to this city about a quarter of a century ago. He built and conducted greenhouses on Pleasant street, now owned by W. A. Dawson. He was a member of the Congregational church. He was a 32nd degree Mason, being affiliated with Amicable Blue lodge and both the chapter and commandery of Cambridge, Mass., Alleppo Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Boston, the National Lancers of Boston, the Knights of Pythias of this city and he was a charter member of Willimantic lodge, No. 1300, B. P. O. E.

At Eagleville Sunday afternoon there was a service at 3 o'clock in a hall. Rev. Charles G. Johnson of South Coventry has been holding services there for a little over two years with a view of stimulating religious interest among the Protestants of that place and organizing a Community or Union church. In spite of the rain the meeting place was filled with those who had come out to join in the service which consisted of solos by Edward Slater and Mrs. Samuel Alguire and addresses by Rev. William Carpenter of Mansfield Depot and Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center. After Rev. Mr. [illegible] had administered baptism he addressed those who were to unite with the church in words of welcome. Thirty-one persons then joined with the church 16 on confession of faith and 15 by letter as associate members from the Baptist, Methodist and Congregational churches.

After each member received a certificate of church membership the service closed with the administering of the Lord's supper. In appreciation for Mr. Johnson's good work among the people of Eagleville an offering was presented to him.

Following are those who united with the church: Estella Adams, Hazel McKenney, Arthur Boden, Walter Adams, Paul Hamer, George Tootell, and George Tootell, Jr., Gertrude Tootell, Margaret Tootell, Amy Tootell, Ruth Bradley, Howard Reynolds, Wilbur Rivers, Edward Slater and Edward Slater Jr., May Bradley, Christopher Vogel, Etta Swift, Annie Vinton, Sarah Marsh, Phoebe Adams, Nettie Reynolds, Matilda Landen, Rosa Hamer, Julia Grindel, Addie Hopkins, Mrs. Amy Tootell, Matilda McCall, Lydia Harris, Emil Landen and Lyman E. Marsh.

MARRIED TWELVE YEARS BEFORE BABY CAME

Gladly Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Louisville, Nebraska.—"I was married twelve years before my boy was born. I had a lot of female troubles and had been treated by a physician for them but they continued much the same. Then I read your advertisement in the newspapers and thought I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a good trial, for if it had helped others, why not me? I have taken 36 bottles of the medicine and am never without it in the house. My baby boy is three years old now and I sure am happy since I got relief from my troubles." When any one has troubles like mine, or any ways like mine, I am always glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound so that they will get the right kind of medicine."—Mrs. Joe Bergas, Box 602, Louisville, Neb.

In a recent 20-page wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FOUR MORE LIQUOR RAIDS WITH AMPLE RESULTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, April 23—As an aftermath of the recent series of raids conducted in this city, when about a dozen booze joints were visited by officers, four more sources of illicit liquor in Willimantic were searched on Wednesday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock and the proprietors were placed under arrest. On the strength of actual sales, evidence secured through County Investigator William E. Jackson, search warrants were issued to Chief of Police Allan McArthur by Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey. The raiding crew consisted of County Detective Jackson, Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer William S. Congdon and Chief McArthur, Captain Grady, Lieut. McLean and Officer Bombria, of the local police force.

The first call was made at the home of Stanley Plante, located on the back road to Windham Center, just over Bingham Bridge. At this place a still made of a copper wash boiler, with equipment, was found, along with a gallon of what is commonly known as Dago red liquor and a quart of white mule.

The home of Alfred Plante in the next house was then visited. The house proper appeared free from incriminating evidence, but a trip in the garden some fifty feet away led the officers to unearth a two gallon jug of powerful moonshine.

The raiders returned to the city and stopped at the Arthur Bomford place, 406 Valley street. They were rewarded with a find consisting of a jug partly filled with some home concocted liquor and a bottle of wine.

At 43 Center street a small quantity of alcohol and 12 pint bottles of home brew were seized by the officers. The proprietor Herbert Arsenault is seriously ill with pneumonia so that his case will be continued until he recovers. The two Plantes spent the night at the lockup while Bomford was given his freedom, under a $500 bond.

There is some speculating as to what will be the fate of Stanley and Arthur Plante. The former has nine small children to take care of and Alfred Plante has five children. It is said that Bomford also has four or five. Should the heads of these families be committed to jail as has become customary in the case of liquor law violators the respective families would be in severe circumstances.

All three will be presented in police court Thursday to answer to charges of actual sales and possession of liquor.

There is no place like the home of a young man's best girl.

JEWETT CITY

Mr. and Mrs. George Richleau and Louis Cyr were in Providence Wednesday evening to attend the Atlantic & Pacific Company banquet, in the contest on points, for the largest increase in sales during the year. Mr. Richleau received the second prize, losing the first prize by only $12.

Mrs. Johanna Hackett McCarthy, wife of the late Michael McCarthy, died at her home on Mechanic street, Wednesday morning. Mrs. McCarthy was born in Tipperaly, Ireland, the daughter of James and Mary Hackett. She came to the United States when a young girl and located in Franklin, N. J. Forty-eight years ago she moved to Jewett City. She was the mother of twelve children, four of whom are living, Joseph, Michael, Johanna and Jennie of Jewett City; Luke of Sterling and Myles of Waterbury. There are ten grand children and one great grandchild. She is the last of her immediate family, two sisters and herself going home within a year's time. Mrs. McCarthy has received the most devoted care from her children, and she was in turn devoted to her family all through her long life, and one of the best neighbors. The older residents of the town feel a sense of loss when one who has lived here so many years is taken away.

The Pachaug Community club is to meet tonight (Thursday.)

Faith chapter O. E. S., is holding a dance for the members and their guests.

Mrs. Althea Comager who reaches her 90th year Saturday has lived most of her life in Jewett City.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox is spending today (Thursday) in Colchester with her cousins, Miss Abby G. Willard of Colchester and Miss Abby Barrows, of South Weymouth, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harvey and son of Holyoke, Mass., were recent guests at F. E Robinson's

Mrs. Harry Carlock of New York was an Easter guest of her father, Curtis Hull.

The mills in town will operate on daylight saving time, beginning next Monday.

Robert Olsen is at home from spending the winter in the south as assistant manager at West Coast Inn, St. Petersburg. He goes May 11 to Bethlehem, N. H., as manager of the same proprietor's hotel there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson have had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor of Bridgewater, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Anderson and Mrs. Elizabeth Morris of Norwich.

JEWETT CITY FIRE THRILL WHEN CHIEF RESCUES BABY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, April 23.—A still alarm and then a whistle alarm called the Hose company to a bad fire in the house owned by Jerry Downing on North Main street, about 5.30 Wednesday morning. Within ten minutes Leslie Hyde had the truck at the fire and two lines of hose were laid.

In the house were two families—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Liberty and seven children, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blanchard with four children. They were awakened by an explosion, probably a five gallon oil can that stood in a wood box near the chimney. It is supposed that fire in the chimney caused sparks to fly into the wood box. The house was full of flames and smoke and it was with difficulty that the frightened parents got all their children out.

Just as Chief Wakeley arrived, there were screams of horror for one baby was missing. The chief ran upstairs and found the infant in a crib, and covering her in his rubber coat, made a dash through the flames, falling on the doorstep as he went through the open door.

With scarcely anything on but their night clothes, the families went to the home of Mrs. Gobiel and Officer Henry Viegard. The firemen worked with a will and the house was saved, but the kitchen and bedroom on one side were badly burned, and water and smoke ruined the contents.

The Blanchard family lost practically everything. However, Jewett City hearts and hands are never lacking in aid and benevolence. The Blanchard family moved at once into a tenement nearby, and Mrs. Gobiel and Mrs. Viegard insisted on keeping the Liberty family all day, the Jacobs family also offering to take some of the children for a while. All day, from all sides, clothing, food and bedding, and a sum of money came from persons belonging to the Knights of Columbus, King's Daughters, Catholic Women's club and Red Cross, were sent to them. Ashland club will help from its reserve fund. The children are fairly well clothed now, and dishes seem to be the necessities most needed. Mr. Liberty will live in a tenement in the Auclaire house, so-called, on North Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Liberty say they have lived in several places, but never in a town which held such kind-hearted people.

Both Mr. Downing and Mr. Liberty carried insurance.

WEST WOODSTOCK

Misses Bertha and Margaret Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of West Woodstock, were with their fiances, Harold Barrett and Ernest Stevens given a surprise party in anticipation of their marriage in June. The affair took place last Friday evening at the home of Misses Jeanette, Isabelle and Grace Templeman of South street, Southbridge. The guests numbered about 70 and included many from Woodstock. During the evening, Frank C. Munroe read an amusing presentation speech written by William Henry, and then gave the guests of honor two handsome electric lamps. The Misses Smith are employed in Southbridge.

WYOMING

The funeral service for Robert Hinkley Stweet, 45, whose sudden death on Monday, the 14th, resulted from an automobile accident, he having died to death, was held at the home of his brother, William Sweet, in Wyoming at 11 o'clock Friday morning. Rev. O. F. Wedeman officiated. With burial in the Pachaug (Conn.) cemetery, the bearers were Ransom Jeffrey, George L. Barber, Life Andrews and George Maine.

Mr. Sweet was born in Voluntown, Conn., a son of Edwin D., and Hannah S. Bigood Sweet. He is survived by his mother, aged 85 years, his brothers, William and Frank Sweet.

TESTIMONY IN SHIPPING BILL INVESTIGATION

Washington, April 23—Deferment of the operation of section 28 of the merchant marine act, restricting preferential rail rates to shippers using American flag vessels, was advocated today by Vice Chairman Plummer in testimony before the house committee investigating the shipping board.

Representative Davis, Democrat, Tennessee, committee prosecutor, in examining Mr. Plummer, referred to report sthat President Palmer of the fleet corporation intended to withdraw about 70 vessels from service in the face of efforts to enforce section 28, which it is held, will necessitate additional tonnage being placed in operation to meet the needs of shippers.

Mr. Plummer discounted the statements credited to Mr. Palmer and called attention to the latter's report to the board that 300 ships could be put in condition to meet any requirements arising of enforcement of the preferential provisions.

Aside from section 28, another feature of the day's proceedings was the questioning by Representative Connally, democrat, Texas, of the property of former Chairman Lasker of the board in calling in Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, as an unofficial referee on claims against the board by the Atlantic corporation, of Portsmouth, N. H., formed to build ships for the government.

He charged that reference of the claim to the Pennsylvania senator "seemed to be part of a concerted plan to delay action," but in fairness to Lasker he said that the records showed he was in favor of the Atlantic Corporation "coming across."

One of the claims, which totalled more than a million dollars, and which the board rejected, according to the report read by Mr. Connally, was for $3,500, to cover expenses incident to a ship launching luncheon at which Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire was the principal guest. Plummer said the board had rejected this as well as all other claims filed by the corporation and that "Mr. Moses deprecated the proposition" in regard to this phase of the claims.

Senator Pepper's "findings" were dissented from, the witness testified, and the matter is now in the hands of the board's legal department for the presentation to the courts.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In the towns hereabouts daylight saving as a programme appears to be as dead as King Tut. Not a peep is heard on the subject, which was one of more or less animated discussion from the war period, up to last year. Though a change in the running time of passenger trains becomes effective next Sunday, that isn't going to have any effect on time schedules in Killingly or any of the nearby towns. Daylight saving is not even being discussed. If there is any demand for it, it has not been voiced publicly. Apparently, this questionable device has gone for a long, long time, if not forever, in the towns in this part of the county, at least.

Of interest, however, is the schedule of passenger train arrivals in Danielson as effective next Sunday. Under the new arrangement the trains will arrive here approximately an hour earlier than at present. On week days the south-bound trains will arrive here at 9.28 a. m., 2.19 p. m. and (boat train) 6.47. North-bound the morning boat train will arrive here at 5.45. Other north-bound trains are scheduled here for 9.36 a. m. and 3.09 p. m. On Sundays a south-bound train will leave here beginning next Sunday, at 9.28 a. m. and a north-bound train will be due here at 5.01—these trains in addition to the boat train.

This schedule means mighty early rising for the farmers who ship milk to Boston on the boat train. The trains are to run on standard time, so the milk shippers must have their daily consignments here prior to the arrival of the train at twelve minutes of six must be out of bed before the cock crows, for in every case milking must be done and then there is the drive, often of several miles, to the station.

The change in the running time of trains will mean that the mails will close approximately one hour earlier than at present. The hours during which the post office will be open will remain as at present.

When the newly elected borough officials met Tuesday evening for the first time since the election, Frank E. Kennedy presided as warden for the first time. The burgesses organized, as is customary, for the year, making the usual committee apointments. Various matters of interest in borough affairs were discussed.

May 2 has been selected as the date for the annual Ladies' night entertainment of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, made up of representatives of textile corporations in various towns and cities of eastern Connecticut. The affair is to be held at the Community house in Plainfield, and is to be informal. There will be an entertainment and dancing. Lunch is to be served.

For the time being, at least, strange animal stories are barred from this column. They're coming in too fast. People, it appears, have been seeing many kinds of strange beasts. This is an unusual season in many ways, but it is the first within memory when so many kinds of animals are not even mentioned on the passenger list of The Ark have been reported as extant in this territory.

Vina R. Franklin and Benjamin E. Rapp, representing McGregor post, G. A. R., Miss Lillian Bailey, president, Mrs. Nina McGinty, as delegate, and Mrs. E. L. Palmer and Mrs. Mary Bebard, representing McGregor, Woman's relief corps, left Wednesday for Waterbury to attend the state encampment of the G. A. R. and the convention of the W. R. C. The party will return this (Thursday) evening.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the members of Killingly Woman's club will be the guests of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company at the Main street office of the corporation. A cooking demonstration and the use of various electrical appliances has been arranged for the club members.

Most gratifying results have been secured by those who have been soliciting supplies for the Day Kimball hospital. A request is being made that those who have not already finished the work make an effort to complete it this week and report to Mrs. George M. Burroughs.

A very interesting programme has been prepared by Miss Helen M. Kelly, of Dayville, county vice president of the State Federation of Woman's clubs, for the meeting at the Community house in Plainfield, April 30. The meeting has been called for 10.30 a. m. An effort is being made for a large attendance of the members of the Killingly Woman's club. Luncheon, for which those wishing it must make arrangements in advance, is to be served at the Lawton inn.

Wednesday morning the funeral of Mrs. Caroline Cloutier, wife of George Cloutier, was held from their home on the West Side, with services at St. James' church at nine o'clock. Rev. Joseph Descheaux, M. S., Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., were officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Philibert Bernier, Leon Blanchette, Charles Baribeault, Onesime Cloutier, Joseph Bernier and Isaac Baillargeron. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

State officers from the Danielson barracks were engaged in a search Wednesday afternoon for the body of William Henry Boissoneau, a five year old boy drowned in the Quinebaug river at Putnam just before the noon hour. The stream is running so rapidly these days that there was a thtory that the little boy might have been swept down stream. Watch of the river was kept as far south as Goodyear.

At the Bartlett home in East Killingly, Wednesday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Hines Bartlett, wife of Willis Bartlett, were conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams of the Westfield Congregational church. During the service Harry Beeman sang Sun of My Soul, and Abide With Me. Burial was in Grove Street cemetery at Putnam. The bearers were Henry Heath, Louis S. Barstow, Linwood Gordon and Harry Beaman. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. John Downes, of Wauregan, announces the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Jenkins Downes, to Herbert Dean Hoyt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Hoyt, of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jodoin of North Main street are entertaining Mr. Jodoin's cousin, Amie Aubin, of Detroit, and Mrs. George LaCroix and son, Leo, of Baltic. Mr. Aubin is making his first visit east in fifteen years.

This is the night of the special town meeting that will pass on several matters of importance to the taxpayers of Killingly.

Spring appeared to slip backward toward winter again, on Wednesday, when a chill wind out of the northwest blew steadily throughout the day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson are entertaining Mrs. Lucy Patterson and Miss Mildred Kenyon, sisters, of Centerville, R. I.

Dr. F. P. Todd has purchased of Walter A. Musgrave the property at the corner of Main and Winter streets, this property for many years owned by the late Dr. Rienzi Robinson.

Hewis are going up from the automobiles over the condition of the state highway between Danielson and Elmville, a stretch of trunk line that has been in wretched condition at this season for several years past. This road eventually is to be rebuilt in carrying out the state highway department's project of an all cement trunk line from Putnam to New Haven.

PUTNAM

William Henry Boissoneau, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Boissoneau of South Meadow street, lost his life by drowning in the Quinebaug river about 11.30 Wednesday forenoon. The accident happened where the river runs past the Manhasset village and while the little boy was at play with Pauline Cota, a child of about his own age. The children had been hurling stones into the river when the boy ventured too close and fell in. The little girl ran to give the alarm and men in the neighborhood responded and a call for the hook and ladder truck of the fire department was put in.

When the prospective rescuers arrived there was no trace of the boy's body. The river runs so swiftly past the point where the drowning occurred, especially when the water is as high as at present that it is possible that the body was swept down stream. With that theory in mind, telephone messages were sent as far south as Goodyear, that a watch might be kept on the stream. The afternoon were away while searchers and watcher put in futile efforts to locate the body.

Up at the State Trade school the textile department has an order from a New Britain shirt manufacturing concern for some material that will afford the students valuable experience in producing it.

Director H. E. Ellis of the school said Wednesday that the boys will begin work on the order with the raw cotton and carry through every stage of manufacture to the finished product. The material is to have a mercerized filling and blue warp.

Prior to actually getting to work on the manufacturing processes, the boys will be required to take a sample of the cloth that has been furnished by the shirt people, pick it apart, note its method of manufacture, work out the design for reproduction and estimate the amount of material that will be required to fill the order and the cost of production. Thus they will be getting real practical experience. The school will receive the market price for the goods when completed. The order is for 1,000 yards.

Following funeral services at her home in East Killingly, Wednesday afternoon, the body of Mrs. Sarah Hines Bartlett was brought to Putnam for burial in Grove street cemetery, where the members of the Hines family lie at rest.

Mrs. Bartlett was a daughter of John L. Hines, one of the last known cotton manufacturers in Eastern Connecticut a half century ago and builder at East Killingly of the mill now operated by Davis and Brown. Mrs. Bartlett, who died Sunday was the wife of Willis Bartlett. She has been a resident of East Killingly practically all her long life, excepting a few years spent in New York and New Jersey.

Mayor Victor Chapdelaine has issued the following proclamation relative to the Clean-up and Paint-up campaign that opens in Putnam next week:

PROCLAMATION
By HIS HONOR THE MAYOR

It is with pleasure I learn that another Clean-up and Paint-up Campaign is sponsored by the Putnam chamber of commerce. The undertaking has the full approval and the hearty cooperation of the city government, which will lend the facilities of the highway department to make the project a success.

The spring season is a time of the year when all nature throws off its winter mantle and comes to life. Trees and shrubs bud, flowers bloom and lawns become velvety carpets of green. There is life and beauty everywhere with nature.

But what of our front and back yards? Our vacant lots, alleyways and rubbish piles? Surely we ought to clean things up thoroughly, if for no other reason than that nature is setting up an example. But it is civic pride, a duty to ourselves and to our neighbors that should prompt us to make out own premises presentable.

Wherefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor, I hereby proclaim the week of April 28 to May 3 as the opening week of a continuous clean-up and paint-up campaign in Putnam and I respectfully urge all persons in Putnam, men women, boys and girls, everyone, to lend hearty support and active interest in making this event a decided success.

Thus will we make Putnam a more attractive city, a more healthful community and a cleaner, brighter and more cheerful place in which to work and live.

VICTOR CHAPDELAINE,
Mayor.

Dated at Putnam this 22nd day of April, 1924.

NORWICH MAN HURT CRANKING MOTOR TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 23.—Avery Holmes, 26, son of Mrs. Thomas Holmes of John street, Norwich, was injured here this afternoon when he attempted to crank a light truck that had been left in speed. The accident happened at the garage of Putnam Motors, Inc. on Harris street. Holmes was forced up against the side of the building as he turned the crank over, starting the motor. Dr. B. P. Murphy was called and gave Holmes attention, and then ordered him taken to the Day Kimball hospital. It was later stated at the hospital that Holmes had a cut leg, but it was not broken, as at first supposed, and that he was considerably bruised. His injuries are not serious and his stay at the hospital is expected to be brief. Holmes was driver of a truck for W. N. Block.

WOMAN RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF 12-YEAR-OLD GIRL

New York, April 23.—Mrs. Viola Hawkins is held criminally responsible for the death of 12-year-old Dorothy Silverlight, who was fatally injured by an automobile Sunday night, according to the coroner's finding today. The finding states that Mrs. Hawkins was an inexperienced driver and was traveling at a considerable rate of speed, when the child was struck at a cross-walk.

ROTARY WORKING FOR OBEDIENCE OF LAWS

Worcester, Mass., April 22.—A resolution urging the encouragement by word and example of obedience to laws was adopted at the closing session of the convention of the 31st district of Rotary clubs this afternoon. The convention also went on record in favor of giving the military training camp its support. The trophy for the largest attendance was won by the Waterville, Me., club and Salem won the honor of having the largest percentage of its membership in attendance.

Four men and a woman who have died in New Haven since Saturday had indulged in liquor prior to their death the police have found, and unofficial liquor was a contributory cause.

Wamsutta Percale sheets washed 100 times show the finely woven texture unbroken after this thorough test. Under the microscope, the threads are still strong, even and uniform.

For three generations the makers of Wamsutta Percale have been proud of the high quality of their sheets. They are no less proud of their durability. But they realize that their sheets must be washed right in order to keep their lustrous finish and give the good service that women have learned to expect from Wamsutta. Read why this long-established mill recommends Rinso, the new kind of soap.

Makers of Wamsutta Percale Sheets recommend Rinso—

The Rinso suds soak dirt out—with this new soap you have no hard rubbing

"AFTER giving Rinso a severe test as a laundry soap for washing Wamsutta Percale we cordially endorse it as an ideal soap for washing our sheets," say the makers of Wamsutta Sheets.

"Rinso soaks out the dirt so thoroughly that no rubbing is necessary. This saves the sheet from a great deal of wear.

"Not only is the life of the fabric lengthened, but we are also convinced that Rinso because of its superior cleansing and rinsing qualities, actually enhances the smooth and beautiful appearance of Wamsutta Percale Sheets."

Washing sheets used to be one of the hardest tasks of washday. You rubbed soap into the sheet and then you rubbed the big, heavy sheet up and down on the washboard to get it clean.

* * *

TODAY you don't have any more of that back-breaking labor. You let the Rinso soap-suds do this hard work for you.

Always use enough Rinso to get big lasting suds after the clothes are in, for the secret of Rinso's wonderful cleansing power lies in these thick rich suds.

How this new soap works: Rinso dissolves instantly and completely in boiling water. This solution makes the water in your tub soapy all through. It soaks dirt out.

Because it is all dissolved Rinso rinses out thoroughly, leaving clothes snowy white. No bits of soap left sticking to garments when you wash with Rinso!

It is a complete soap in itself—it does the whole wash, whatever your washing methods may be. You need no other soap with it.

Everywhere the progressive American woman is using this labor-saving soap. Already more than a million packages are used every week.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux—the largest soap-makers in the world—to be just as perfect for the family wash as Lux is for fine things.

New York Physician Perfects Harmless Method of Reducing Weight

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise. It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R.

REDUCING CROSSING DISASTERS

In connection with the great loss of life and the large number injured at grade crossings, and the huge expense that is necessary in order to eliminate such crossings, it is interesting to note the effect of the law which has been in operation in the state of North Carolina.

North Carolina was appalled by the great sacrifice of life at crossings and was desirous of placing a check thereon. In looking about for a remedy it hit upon the idea of forcing all drivers of vehicles to come to a stop before crossing a railroad track. It made its appeal and it was enacted into law. That law and the respect or disregard for it has not prevented all crossing fatalities, but it has done so much in the way of overcoming them that it is given credit for reducing crossing accidents at least 75 per cent.

That is an accomplishment that cannot fail to attract more than passing attention. It serves to bear out the claim that crossing accidents are unnecessary if a bit of care is exercised. Those who do not like to be careful, even when it is required by law, may chafe over such a requirement, but it speaks for itself. Most crossing fatalities can be prevented by showing a bit of respect for the danger that is known to exist at such points. Bringing a car to a stop before crossing a railroad track provides time in which to look and listen. It accentuates the hazard that is being negotiated and it shows what can be accomplished when there is the right disposition toward danger.

North Carolina has not ended crossing disasters for there were four persons killed in the last six months of last year and eleven injured in that state. But this represents a decrease from previous periods and it is believed that credit should be given to the operation of the law.

A tremendous reduction in the needless crossing fatalities of the country could be made each year if there was a willingness on the part of vehicle drivers to do a little bit of safety work in behalf of themselves.

BETTER LOOKING STREETS.

There is much to be said in behalf of the effort undertaken in Boston to overcome the habit of throwing refuse of rubbish into the street, but not to be gathered from this that the people of Boston are accustomed to dump their refuse in the street each morning or to clean up the backyards and alleyways by depositing the debris in the highways.

What it is aiming at is that wanton amount of every day litter and it ranges all the way from small bits of paper to tin cans and other unsightly contents which make needless and where it is even being pointed out that much of the expense for street cleaning would be eliminated if the individuals who are responsible for cluttering up the streets would refrain from their heedless practice.

Boston, of course, isn't setting the pace in the direction of better looking streets or reduced street cleaning expenses. It is following the example of others after having been brought to a realization of the existing conditions. Regardless of what others have done it understands that it is time to do something for itself. Whether or not it succeeds, the undertaking is well aimed.

The ambition to keep down the street cleaning expenses is a worthy one, but the value of clean streets cannot be disregarded. There is no justified excuse for considering the gutter the common refuse can, and yet that is the way in which too many regard it if we are to judge by what they do. Pushing store sweepings into the gutter, throwing papers, tin cans and boxes into the street might not be so bad if it was not so generally practiced. It requires but little cooperation on the part of the individual to make a big contribution to better looking streets. The lack of the proper amount of thought is invariably responsible for the too well established habit of throwing away refuse just where the spirit prompts. It is a distressing habit nevertheless and while a campaign of education to overcome it must anticipate an uphill job, it is a grand good thing for any community. Once started it ought never to be abandoned.

THE FORD BID.

It must be regarded as unfortunate that Henry Ford finds it impossible to appear before the senate committee on agriculture for the purpose of giving an explanation of his bid concerning Muscle Shoals.

This is a matter that involves much. It is to be expected that Mr. Ford has relied to a large extent upon the opinion of his experts, one of whom he will send to appear before the committee. Possibly this chief engineer will be able to satisfy the committee. He may be able to tell exactly what Mr. Ford intends to do, how he proposes to handle the big power and fertilizer project and how he proposed to prevent it from being exploited for private ends during the full 100 years which his bid covers.

Mr. Ford doesn't pretend that he is going to be able to safeguard this particular point by personal supervision. He has said that it is his purpose to have it remain in the service of all the people and be operated for their own benefit. Naturally there must be some provision for adhering to that beyond his lifetime and the committee is anxious to get from him his views on that point, and it would likewise have many other questions on which it would prefer to get his own answers.

It has been shown by comparison that other offers would yield more to the government than the Ford offer will and it is natural that the committee should want to learn what the advantages are, if there are any, for giving preference to the Ford bid rather than to another. Perhaps the chief engineers can furnish the desired information but the presence of Mr. Ford would naturally be far more satisfactory to the committee.

ENDORSED BY THE PUBLIC.

"Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, may be waging a one-man fight against violators of the automobile law, as Judge Winn, commanding him in court at Mayonnaise, declared, but he has the public behind him, including the great majority of automobilists."—Boston Globe.

From the manner in which certain of the courts in Massachusetts have been failing to enforce the auto laws the registrar has had reason to feel that he was waging a one-man fight for he seemed to be the one who had the courage to insist upon adherence to the law and to disclose what the courts were failing to do, but when it is declared that he has the public behind him and the great majority of motorists it is pretty good evidence that he is headed in the right direction. While he may have considered that he was only doing his duty, but that he was determined to do that even though he fought alone, it is quite evident that he has succeeded in arousing the state to the deplorable situation that exists there, for over his signature the governor of the Bay state writes: "The citizenship of Massachusetts is thoroughly aroused, and insists that the appalling loss of life must cease. The citizens of Massachusetts demand that the responsibility be brought home to every person guilty of carelessness which results in serious injury or loss of life."

Massachusetts is aroused and it is time. In that state deaths on the highways are occurring at the rate of two a day and every fourth death is that of a child. Does that indicate a situation which calls for leniency on the part of the courts? It has been insisted by the registrar, to the disturbance of some of the judges who are disposed to give more consideration to the drivers who menace the lives of the public than to the prevention of that same public, that it does not, and he has pointedly insisted that the courts were not doing their duty, and has even been criticised for suspending licenses when the courts refused to act.

He has been the means of bringing the people of Massachusetts to realize the growing danger on their highways. Seemingly the impression has been gained that there is no insistence upon the kind of driving that will prevent accidents and deaths. Happily the registrar is not responsible for any such idea and it is greatly to his credit that his stand for strict observance of the laws must with such public endorsement.

PINCHOT REPUDIATED.

Never has there been any question as to whom the republicans of Pennsylvania would favor in the Cleveland convention. Interest in the state's primary, however, was wrestled solely because of the contest between Governor Pinchot and Ralph H. Strassburger for a place on the state's delegation. Ordinarily it would be anticipated that the governor would be named. He has declared that he was for Coolidge, first, last and all the time, but the manner in which he has projected himself into federal affairs and shown his opposition to leadership in his own state brought the issue down to the point as to whether the republicans of Pennsylvania were prepared to endorse him as a state delegate.

Governor Pinchot waged his gubernatorial campaign on a fight against certain conditions within the state and against certain leadership therein. He carried the day at that time, but in certain of his subsequent moves he has met with less success. His entrance into the investigation of the internal revenue bureau, where Secretary Mellon was subjected to unjustified and irritating fire was the act that brought the republicans of Pennsylvania to their feet. There was a chance for a showdown on this matter of being a delegation and by the overwhelming manner in which the governor has been defeated it becomes evident that his moves have been emphatically repudiated.

Governor Pinchot has been a staunch advocate of law enforcement, for which he deserves commendation, but it is quite evident that certain of his acts have made a decidedly poor impression now that Pennsylvania has spoken.

WASTED ADVICE

"You'd better hunt up some rubbers or galoshes," worried the sensible mother, who was hovering about the fair creature about to brave the wintry world. "With those silly slippers on, cut down to the sole, and those ridiculous stockings! Why, if girls 30 years ago had gone out into snowstorms with their feet dressed like that the humane society would have arrested their parents for cruelty and the girls would have died of pneumonia!"

"I don't mind the cold," the fair young thing observed, admiring her suede pumps.

"And just that thin chiffon dress," proceeded the worried mother. "This time of year you should have on a heavy serge gown and underwear that really looks like underwear! My goodness alive."

"I suppose so," the fair young creature agreed amiably and absent-mindedly. Then she departed through the snow in her cutdown slippers, gauze hosiery and airy frock, just as though nothing had been said.

"Restrain yourself," the observant visitor told the worried mother, who gave signs of approaching apoplexy or something trimmed with facial purple. "By the time her daughter is sallying forth in zero weather she won't be wearing even that! Feminity will be so hardened to the elements that they'll be dressing like Greek dancers to go to skating parties, and all the hot-water heater companies will have gone bankrupt because of the unrestrained demand for iced bathtubs and snowbank plunges!

"Every day one sees fresh sights calculated to make him marvel at the inscrutable mystery of woman. The girls will walk the length of Michigan avenue in a blinding, slushy storm which sends strong men mud-covered and sopping wet to shelter—and when the women finish, their paper-clad feet are unspotted by the elements, their rouge is still on and their hair in curl. Don't ask me how they do it.

"You never in the world hear of one of the creatures having pneumonia. They look as though they came out of a Siegrec Ziegfeld box and were correspondingly fragile, but they are in reality as husky as young oxen. With their pipestem ankles and useless-looking hands they could stand lots more than their pioneer ancestors, who did the family laundry work and helped plow. At 40 these ancient ladies were all in, finished, crippled and old in spite of their red flannels, wool hosiery and brogans, whereas these girls at 40 are just catching their breath for a fresh start and still going good.

"All over the land mothers are talking just as you talked. They know that their progeny is going to pay no more attention to their words than did yours; that it is a waste of breath, merely a loud, disagreeable noise in the ears of the younger generation, and yet not one of them has the power to keep still.

"The big idea seems to be that they want their consciences clear, should dire and expected fate slap Gladys in the face. I don't suppose they would admit that they should enjoy saying I told you so as they stuck the mustard plaster onto Gladys' chest, but I have my suspicions.

"No doubt, such being the contrariness of most people, if the worried mothers would sing a little carolson song when they saw their Gladyses going forth into a blizzard dressed as though for August, powder their own noses and hunt for the box of chocolates just as though they had not a care on earth, all the Gladyses would turn indignant and demand to be told why nobody cared whether they died or not and end by guessing that maybe those galoshes are somewhere in the back closet and they'll go look. When they're too old to spank or shut up in the spare room the most peaceful atmosphere is gained by just leaving the young idots alone! There's no sense in bringing on gray hairs without any results! Stop worrying!"

"Well, I do wish Cinnamonia had worn her rubbers!" said the mother addressed, who hadn't really heard much of the speech bestowed upon her. "I guess I'll hunt up the hot-water bottle and the quinine so they'll be ready when she comes in!"—Exchange.

HOOVER, THE ORPHAN BOY.

Living first with one relative, then with another, and finally with a stranger, Herbert C. Hoover, the orphan, ran away to get an education.

His father, an Iowa blacksmith, had left a small income but it soon vanished, and the little fellow was sent to a relative, who was United States Government Agent in Indian territory, and had Indian boys as companions.

Sent back to Iowa, then to Oregon and the Friends' Pacific College, then left with a stranger, his education was neglected—and he ran away.

A boy-of-all-work in a Portland real estate office, he studied at night and at odd hours in a room, cluttered with boxes and bags, he built his bed and table. Trying for the university, he found himself unprepared, so he was coached by a kindly professor.

Earning his way through Leland Stanford University, he then worked underground with pick and shovel became a mine examiner and was sent to take charge of a property in Australia. Not yet 24 years old, he overcame colossal difficulties, and discovered a great mine.

Then to China as the Government director of mines, and he had his wife passed through the Tientsin siege in the Boxer rebellion.

Back in London he was enjoying a pleasant life of affluence when suddenly his firm found itself short $1,000,000, due to defalcations of a member. Hoover assumed full personal responsibility and paid every cent. It took all of his fortune and four grueling years of work, and he had to start over again in Australia.

Next in Russia to take charge of an estate, he found 170,000 people struggling with misery, so reorganized everything, instituted relief measures and made the mine profitable. Then going to Burma, he developed the world's greatest silver-lead mine.

During the war, he was first Commissioner For Relief in Belgium, then Food Administrator for the United States, and later Director General of Relief in Europe. Now he is Secretary of Commerce in President Coolidge's cabinet.

Tomorrow—Pasteur's long wait for recognition.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, who is suggested by Democratic women in New York as a suitable candidate for Vice President of the United States, is a noted business woman who of late years has given much of her attention to politics and public affairs and is now the representative of New York women on the National Democratic Committee. Miss Marbury was a pioneer in a calling unusual for women and which she carried to a high degree of success. For many years she has acted with ability and enterprise as the "middleman" between the best English, French and American playwrights and theatre managers in the United States, negotiating terms, protecting copyright rights, and in other ways making herself serviceable. During the war she was active in welfare work for soldiers, sailors and marines and was the first woman to be sent overseas by the Knights of Columbus to conduct welfare work with the American Army of Occupation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Beer Propaganda

Mr. Editor: I am taking the enclosed clipping from the Associated Press News of your paper today.

Washington, April 21—Another attempt to bring back 4.75 beer by modification of the Volstead act was made today before the house judiciary committee.

Samuel Gompers, president, and other representatives of the American Federation of Labor, vigorously urged legislation that would permit once more the sale of beer with this alcoholic content on the ground that it would give the working man a "good palatable, sparkling drink" that had "warmth" to it.

This effort to defeat the constitutional amendment, sponsored by Mr. Gompers, in the name of the great body of American Mechanics is something worthy of being looked into.

It can be well understood, that what is back of this, is the monied interest, and not that of the wage-earners. Those men who are seeking the return of the beer traffic have capital ready to spend in legislation, and the noble body of united workmen are to be made the passive fulcrum for their crowbars to rip up and reverse the decisions of the supreme court, if need be, and to outrage the civilization that has cost us blood and years to arrive at.

Now, Mr. Editor, while I do not think all our mechanics, nor even a majority of them, are "beer suckers," I want to call attention to our lack of preparedness to oppose, this, or any other attack, sponsored by Gompers or other interested men.

What equipment have we to meet the cohorts of beer?

There was a time in our city when we had "The Sons and Daughters of Temperance." We had the "Good Templars," and in the churches other "juvenile societies."

Now indeed we have a multiplicity of societies, representing almost every fowl that flies, or animal that walks, or crawls, but the only society we can bank on for temperance is the "W. C. T. U."

We have the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. The Boy Scouts and the Campfire Girls, but aside from the Salvation Army and the society above named, I do not know that any of the others have a plank in their constitutions that pledges them to abstain from liquor or narcotics.

I have not noted that any of our "shop-talkers" have warned the workmen against these brain-killing drugs. It would seem that the clergy, who must know that the decisions of science and medicine have condemned alcohol and nicotine as being only brain and nerve-destroyers, would feel it a duty to declare it in the ears of their hearers and warn the young especially against their use in every form.

This should come before the finer and less explainable doctrines of Christian virtue, and manhood, and the formation of such impressions, even in juvenile societies, directed by temperance guides and temperance ideals, would go far to preserve to us clean, sober American homes, and communities, fit to live in.

Isn't it wise for us, if we expect to preserve our civilization, that we sit down and take counsel, whether we are able with ten thousand to go out and meet him that cometh against us with twenty thousand? Or shall we sit idly by and let it be put over us, as we have had the Sunday picture show, and find our evening church services forsaken, and its seats vacant?

THE STAFF OF LIFE IN MANY LANDS

"Though bread may pose as the pancake, the scone, the tortilla, the carta di musica, and the biscuit in various countries, getting the wherewithal to buy it or the preparation of it is of necessity one of the chief interests of man and woman in every clime—even though in the South Sea Islands it grows on trees," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The Arab woman digs a pit in the sand and builds a hot fire in it. Then she rakes away the embers and plasters her dough on the hot sides. When the bread is done, she picks it off with a pair of tongs.

"The deliciously crisp bread which is bought in enormous flat pancake-like sheets sometimes 30 inches long is prepared in a number of ways, but that customarily seen for sale in the capital city of Persia is baked in large ovens in which the dough is spread out on great piles of red-hot pebbles. And in olden days there was no profiteering in the staff of life in the Persian kingdom. A baker who left the straight and narrow path of his just profits was thrust into his own oven and mostly browned.

"In some parts of the Arab kingdom the husband does the household marketing and after having purchased various necessary commodities, he then buys a large sheet of native bread, which is of doughlike pliability, and rolls up his purchases in it.

"The Egyptian baker makes 'puff-balls,' because he wishes to get the largest loaf out of the smallest amount of flour. One writer describes it as a hole wrapped in a crust. The dough is rolled out as thin as pie crust and the edges of two pieces joined all around; the heat does the rest.

"The Ecuadorean woman follows a very interesting old custom. She bakes bread in the shape of people and animals for All Saints day.

"The Sardinian housewife has a big baking day once every week. Flour is needed in large earthenware bowls and rolled very thin on a table that is so low that the cook must kneel before it. Nearly every home has its own flour mill made of black lava and fashioned almost like those unearthed at Pompeii and Herculaneum. The woman performs the whole process of cleaning the wheat, sifting the flour and baking the bread. She uses very little yeast and her baking must be done to a turn because the supply must last for a week. The large thin circular pieces are called 'carta di musica,' meaning paper to write music on.

"The well-known flat-bread of the Norwegian peasant is made by mixing coarse barley meal and water, rolling the dough thin and baking it over a round flat baking-stove under which a fire of fagots is kept burning. Enough of this bread is made at one baking to last a whole winter. Holes are punched in the cakes so that they may be strung on a pole, and placed across the ceiling. It often happens in some of the peasant homes of northern Norway that a man can reach up and tear off a piece of this bread as he wants it.

"In Syria the hearth is often two stones between which fagots are placed and the bread is cooked on an iron plate placed on top.

"Some of the Indian tribes of the Pacific slopes of the United States make a kind of flour from acorns which they soak in boiling water, mould into a flat cake and cook in the sun. The tortilla of the Mexican is almost as much a part of his costume or background as his huge peaked hat. It is a kind of flapjack which it takes a cultivated taste and a gastronomic trick or two to appreciate. It is made from Indian corn which has been parboiled and crushed into a paste and is baked on an iron or stone plate but not enough to make the tortilla brown.

"Cassava root makes one of the principal foods of the people of tropical America. From the coarse meal, somewhat resembling oatmeal, thin round cakes are made.

"In India the natives eat round, flat cakes of unleavened wheat bread called 'chapatties.' The cook shapes them with his hands and bakes them on a griddle on the coals. They resemble to some extent the thin sheets made of wheat and flour and water, called oatmeal, which are eaten in Scotland.

"One of the most interesting of the unleavened breads is the Passover bread which has been used by orthodox Jews since the time of Moses. It is made much like the most primitive bread—a mixture of flour and water baked in round cakes—and resembles the calcined remains of cakes made from coarsely ground grain which have been recovered from the Swiss lake-dwellings of the Stone Age. In days, however, the grains used were barley and a one-grained wheat.

"Egyptologists believe that barley was the first grain used by the ancients in their bread-making, but wheat must have come into use soon after barley. Loaves of bread are represented in sculpture on ancient monuments. There were two quite familiar varieties—a small round loaf somewhat like our muffin and an elongated roll sprinkled on top with seeds like the modern Vienna roll. Incidentally the Vienna roll was introduced into the United States during the Civil war when a war bakery operated in the basement of the U. S. Capitol turned out products to feed the populace of Washington.

"The Egyptians evidently first learned the use of leaven and taught it to the Greeks, Jews and Romans who passed it on through the nations subjected.

"No story on bread would be complete without at least a reference to the black bread of Russia, which has for so long been the staff of life to the masses. The United States has its distinctly typical forms of bread, such as the hoe-cake, the corn-pone and the 'spoon bread' of Dixie, and the rich brown mass that is served with Boston's Saturday night beans."

Stories That Recall Others

A Question of Royalty

There wasn't much royalty left to discuss, but the teacher thought it sufficient to warrant some explanation. So she told the children about the law of succession, and how the first born son always succeeded to the throne.

Suddenly a little fellow waved his hand. "Please teacher," he asked, "if the first one happened to be twins, which one would be king?"

Revenge!

A housekeeper recently bought a carpet sweeper. The salesman was looking for prospects and he begged so hard that she at length gave him the names of two of her friends.

One of the friends found it difficult to make the salesman understand that she did not wish to buy, and he troubled her so often that she determined to get even. She served notice on the friend who had given her name, but she thought the warning was only a pleasantry and forthwith dismissed it from her mind.

Day after day and many times a day automobile salesmen drove up to the curb, some in flivvers, some in more expensive fours, some in light sixes and others in expensive eight cylinder cars. Housework had to be neglected while she answered the bell to tell each salesman that she did not wish a car and could not be persuaded to buy one.

At the end of about a week she recalled the warning of her friend. She called her on the phone and learned that she had given her name to every auto dealer in town as a "hot prospect."

A Raw, Sore Throat
Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Classical Education Best Basis for Industrial Work

Classical studies as the foundations of all development in industrial work are advocated by Sir Arthur Duckmen, a prominent industrialist. Speaking before a recent conference of headmasters of British public schools, Sir Arthur asserted that industry badly needs men capable of taking the lead; that industrialists are always searching for men to control works, controllers and carry on efficiently, but it was with the greatest difficulty that they obtain such men. The openings in industry he said are greater than ever before.

The first thing needed in industry, he added, is a fellow who would do his job; he should also be able to express himself. To that end he believed in a classical education as the foundation of all development in industrial work.—School Life.

Challenge Cups Stimulate Healthy Rivalry.

To stimulate interest of children in health education almost three-fourths of the schools in Yonkers, N. Y., offer health challenge cups to classes which show most improvement in health, according to School Life, a publication of the Bureau of Education. Each school makes its own plans for the contest in which all grades compete, under the supervision of an active and versatile medical director. An average gain in weight of 1 pound each for all children taking advantage of the milk fund was the outstanding report last year from a school where the number of children under weight decreased from 92 to 43 in 9 months. The milk drinkers proved to be the best athletes and they have more physical endurance than those drinking tea and coffee, according to the physical training teacher.

American Students Examine Mexican Pyramids

Prehistoric culture in Mexico will be studied next summer by a group of students led by Dr. Byron Cummings, head of the department of archaeology, University of Arizona, who will visit the City of Mexico to examine the pyramid of Cuicuilco, which is said to be more than 10,000 years old. This pyramid was uncovered through the efforts of Doctor Cummings, with the assistance of the Mexican government.

Colonial Task to Remove Illiteracy in India

The government of Punjab, India, is seriously attacking the colossal problem of illiteracy. Seventy thousand boys were added to the school enrollment in 1921-22 and 154,000 in 1922-23, but it is exceedingly difficult to keep them in school. Three-fifths of them drop out before entering the second class, and fewer than one-fourth continue to the fourth class. Even of those who remain long enough to be classed as literate many soon relapse after leaving school into the mass of illiterates about them.

A beginning has been made in adult education, and adult pupils who show competence and enthusiasm often attain literacy after six months tuition.

If you haven't any enemies to forgive, pardon a few of your friends.

Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Fr. Sroka read a committal service.

Mr. Holecik died last Sunday after a lingering illness. He was born in Czechoslovakia forty-eight years ago and had lived on Roosevelt avenue since coming to this city from New York six years ago. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Rose of New York city, Teresa and Frances, who reside in this city; also three sons, John of New York city, and Paul and Stephen of this city; and one brother, Stephen, of New York city.

SUFFIELD SCHOOL CAMPAIGN WILL REACH NORWICH

The $350,000 endowment fund campaign of Suffield School, formerly the Connecticut Literary Institute, will be launched by more than 2500 alumni of the school at dinners announced for May 2nd and May 3rd in a dozen cities and towns. Plans for raising the endowment and the purposes for which it is sought will be explained at the dinners.

Campaign headquarters at Suffield announce dinners in the following places on May 2nd: Hartford, Waterbury, New York, Philadelphia, Hamilton, Norwalk, Pittsfield, Norwich and New Haven. On May 3rd dinners will be held in Springfield, Boston, Mass., and Simsbury, Conn.

Suffield School was founded in 1833 and has been steadily increasing its service to education. Income from the proposed endowment fund will be used for an annual scholarship fund of $4,000, increased salaries for instructors and new equipment.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS IS REPEATED WITH SUCCESS

Before a crowd that filled the big "Y" gym to capacity the "Y" Barnyard and Balehay" circus put on by the gym members was conducted for the second performance Wednesday. The events were put over with a snap and the big crowd applauded the various acts vigorously. The leaders' group again proved one of the big features of the show, and the clowns met with a much greater response than the previous night and brought many laughs. One of the features also was a group of girls from the Broadway Grammar School who under the supervision of Miss Schaffer and Miss Foley danced several folk dances. At the close of the performance a photograph was taken of the performers.

BOSTON DOCTOR'S CAR CRASHES INTO WALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, April, 23.—When a tire went flat and the rim flew off, the Buick coupe driven by Dr. G. L. Hagen Burger, 324 Commonwealth ave., Boston, plunged into a stone wall on the post road near Matunuck, R. I. tonight about 7:30, moving a two-ton stone, smashing both forward wheels and completely wrecking the front end of the machine.

The doctor, who was on his way home to Boston, was taken in a passing automobile to a Wakefield physician and is believed to have several broken ribs. The damaged machine was towed to Westerly.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS OPEN BIG FAIR AT STATE ARMORY

The four-day Eastern Connecticut Fair being held under the auspices of Norwich Council No. 309, United Commercial Travelers, and the local units of the Connecticut National Guard, was officially opened at the state armory Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. During the evening several hundred people took advantage of inspecting the splendid exhibits of automobiles, lighting and heating systems, auto accessories, motorcycles, office furniture and food products on display at the two score prettily decorated booths. The armory is handsomely decorated in gold, white and blue predominating. Festoons of gold, white and blue run from the center of the ceiling to the corners and sides of the large drill shed. Each exhibitor has an individual booth where the attractively arranged exhibits are shown to advantage.

The fair was officially opened by Herbert R. Branche of the local council, U. C. T., at 8 o'clock. Mr. Branche, speaking from the balcony, said in part: The hour for the opening of this splendid Eastern Connecticut exhibit and trade show has arrived I ask your indulgence for a moment or two that I may thank, in behalf of Norwich Council, No. 309, United Commercial Travelers, our exhibitors for their splendid exhibits. They have come here at considerable expense and time to present their wares to the best advantage for the citizens of eastern Connecticut to inspect.

Just a word concerning the United Commercial Travelers of America. It is an organization that stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Everglades of Florida. There are councils located in every state with a total membership of 110,000 and upwards of traveling salesmen. It is these traveling salesmen that keep the wheels of the railroads, the steamship lines and of industries turning.

Mr. Branche announced that Mayor Milo R. Waters was unavoidably detained and found it impossible, much to his regret, to be able to attend the opening night of the fair. Although Mayor Waters was unable to be present he delegates Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney to act in his stead. Alderman Sweeney was then presented to the audience.

Alderman Sweeney in a brief address took occasion to compliment the exhibitors and the United Commercial Travelers on the splendid exhibits shown and spoke very highly of the U. C. T. and especially of Norwich Council No. 309.

Mr. Branche then introduced P. E. Rockwood, manager of the Hartford Exposition Co., and a member of Hartford Council, No. 210, U. C. T., who spoke briefly. The actual arrangements for the fair and the decorating were carried out under his direction.

Following the speakers, Herb Smith's eight-piece orchestra gave an excellent hour and a half concert programme after which the orchestra furnished music for dancing which was enjoyed in the aisles.

Committee in Charge

The committees in charge of the four day fair comprise the following:

General committee—Charles S. Peckham, chairman, C. W. Way, Alexander Jordan, P. H. Sheridan, Herbert R. Branche, Charles W. Pearson, and E. N. Lyons.

Reception committee—The general committee with Charles D. Tingley.

Floor committee—P. H. Sheridan and Charles D. Tingley.

Tickets—Alexander Jordan in the ticket booth and Charles S. Peckham at the door.

Coat room—Edward Moore.

Executive committee, Herbert R. Branche, chairman, Charles S. Peckham, Nelson T. Crowell, Charles D. Tingley and Charles W. Pearson.

The 37 exhibitors are as follows:

Norwich Savings Society

This booth is an unusually interesting one. The first pass book issued by the Norwich Savings society at the time it was first opened for business 100 years ago is shown in a frame. The pass book was issued July 23, 1824 to Dorcas Mansfield and the first deposit was $300. Below this is shown in a frame the original by-laws of the bank signed by the early depositors. There is also a picture of the old Norwich bank which stood where now stands the Shannon building. For some years the Norwich Savings society did business in a back room of this bank. Guy B. Dolbeare is in charge of the booth.

Chelsea Savings Bank

This well known banking institution has a very attractive booth. The exhibit was planned by Arthur E. Story, assistant treasurer, and Mr. Story received a number of well deserved compliments on the splendid display. Against the light green velvet background appears the date of the bank's incorporation, 1858, on a bronze tablet. Another bronze tablet carries the words, Bank of Community Service. Four hand painted signs bring to the attention of the patrons of the fair the different club services rendered by the bank.

Resting on a table covered with a navy blue velvet is an exact miniature model of the Chelsea Bank building. The model was made by Mr. Laubin of the Norwich Art school. The model rests against a large spray of peach blossoms, signifying that which will bear fruit and hovering above the model are blue birds expressive of happiness. Leading to the bank door is a sanded path called the Path to Prosperity. Display cards on the table bring out the home bank and feature the foreign exchange department. Mr. Story is in personal charge of the booth and Wednesday evening was assisted by Miss Amy Birracree.

O'Neil Electric Company

Here are shown electrical appliances of various kinds. The Savage Washing Machine and Electric Sweeper Vac are also seen. Mr. Russell, Miss Conway and Mr. Kayser are in charge.

Vital Sales Company

K. B. Lathrop and Mr. Thresher are in charge of this booth. The original non-electric vacuum cleaner is demonstrated.

George F. Madden Company

George F. Madden is showing a number of radio sets of different prices. This exhibit is in charge of George F. Madden, James J. Madden, and J. Hellar, of the Pellingwell—Andrews Co., of Boston. Mr. Hellar was formerly connected with the General Electric Co., and was employed at that company's radio laboratory at Schenectady.

The American Thermos Bottle Co.

Here is seen a most attractive display of thermos bottles, and products. In charge are J. Burr, New England representative, and Mr. MacKenzie.

N. S. Gilbert & Sons

This well known Norwich concern has an attractive exhibit of talking machines and furniture. W. F. Enos, William Mitchell and Frederick Cook of the Edison Co., are in charge.

H. H. Allyn Rubber Corp.

Automobile drivers are showing considerable interest in the standard self seal tubes demonstrated here and manufactured in Norwich. The raw material used in the making of the self seal tube are shown and the advantages of the tube are clearly explained. The demonstrators show how small holes and knife cuts are automatically and instantaneously sealed with no loss of air pressure.

The Jordan Auto Co.

The 1924 Dodge special sedan and the 1924 Dodge coupe are shown by the Jordan Auto company, of Willimantic, agents for this popular car. C. E. Coon is in charge of the demonstrating.

E. B. Patterson, Inc.

ROTARY LADIES' NIGHT SETS SUCCESS RECORD

Once again will be spread upon the records of the Norwich Rotary club a brief sentence that will read "Our fourth annual Ladies' Night, Wednesday, April 23, 1924 was a decided success." When the future Rotarians in reading over the records pause at this sentence it may not mean much to them but to those who were present Wednesday evening know what it means. To use the word "Success" is stating it in mild terms, the affair was success raised to the nth power. Rotary Ladies' Night since the inception of the club has been the one big social event of the year, each committee has striven to outdo the committee of the revious years; but it lies with those who attended to decide for themselves if the committee in charge this year is not entitled to the highest praise.

Not even the minutest detail for the pleasure of the 200 Rotarians and their guests was omitted. From the time the guests entered the banquet hall of the Wauregan hotel, where the affair was held, until the last entrancing dance number had been played by Harry Feltcorn's band of real musicians, there was not a break in the round of pleasurable fun and frolic. The real spirit of Rotary fellowship was manifest on every hand, every member of the club striving to do his little bit to make it on enjoyable evening for the ladies for it was the one evening of the year which the Norwich Rotary club devotes solely to the entertainment of the fair sex.
